

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 476

Natasha showed a foreign marriage certificate. That country allowed same-sex marriage, underage marriage, and even marriages between close relatives, so everyone in the world would choose to get married there.

On the marriage certificate, there were lots of languages, including English, with the names Taylor Murray and Natasha Mitchell.

If I want to pull this off, I must make it as real as possible. As long as I have the money, I can do anything. The marriage certificate is real, and even the ID number is real. The photo on the certificate is photoshopped to perfection, so there won't be any flaws if the authorities decided to inspect it.

At the end, she yelled righteously, "Taylor is my husband. We are a legally married couple, so I won't allow anyone to destroy his reputation!"

Old Madam Murray and Olivia were also at the scene, so they were pleased to hear these words.

What's done is done. Natasha is now the daughter-in-law of the Murray Family!

Therefore, they also claimed that Taylor and Natasha had been married for many years.

The moment the press conference started, everything has been set in stone, and Taylor now has no way to defend himself. If he still doesn't want to marry Natasha, his reputation will be destroyed!

In Stanley's company, everyone was working overtime except for Stanley himself, who had two televisions turned on to watch the live broadcast. On one of the screens, there was Michael live feeding a panda, while the other live broadcast showed Natasha and her marriage certificate with Taylor.

Then, Sean ran into Stanley's office hurriedly to hand him some paperwork before the latter dragged him along so that they could watch together.

"Hahaha... You Mitchells are so so brilliant! Incredibly brilliant! She's even produced a marriage certificate. Looks like Natasha has been plotting this for a long time. Hahaha..."

At the same time, Sean was also focused on Natasha's press conference. When he saw her taking out a marriage certificate with 'Taylor Murray' listed as her husband, he felt extremely ashamed.

Stanley said to him, "I've already called the old man back at home to join the fun. Hahaha! This is such a f*cking joke!"

At the end, Sean smiled and continued his work, which was using his special skills to delete all news on the internet reporting Taylor's panda feeding.

One of the reasons was because they were about to broadcast Taylor and the panda live, so they wanted to be as exclusive as possible. Secondly... the drama with Natasha was now brewing, so it wasn't wise of him to mess with it.

Looking at the righteous Natasha in the live broadcast, there was a tinge of ruthlessness on Sean's feminine face—a look he shouldn't have at his age...

Natasha's press conference was still broadcasting when someone spoke, "This is major news! But where is Mr. Murray now?"

She answered, "My husband, Taylor, just received a promotional task from the crew of 'Doctor Invincible', so he is now attending a live broadcast to promote the upcoming movie. This marriage is something between the two of us, so my husband doesn't wish for his private life to become the center of attention. I hope that everyone can focus their attention on my husband's new movie, 'Doctor Invincible'."

Finally, the press conference ended successfully.

Old Madam Murray held Natasha's hand excitedly. "Natasha, thank you for this. You really are Taylor's savior!"

Natasha was also delighted. "Grandma, you don't need to be so polite. After all, I'm also part of the Murray Family. Now, we just need to find Mrs. Murray and have a proper talk with her. If she exposes me, I'll be in big trouble."

"Hmph, why won't that horrible woman show up after such a big incident? When Taylor comes back, I'll ask him to divorce her immediately so that you two can get married as soon as possible!"

Just when Natasha was feeling excited and wanted to say something, her phone suddenly vibrated. Looks like someone has just sent an important message in the group chat of the Mitchell Family.

'All elders shall return to the headquarters of the Mitchell Family for a meeting!'

It seemed to be an urgent meeting, because after the message was sent in the group chat, she immediately received a call to inform her of the news.

Therefore, she hurriedly said her goodbyes to the Murrays before rushing back to the Mitchell residence to understand the situation.

When she rushed back to the Mitchell residence, she seemed to have missed something big, because news about 'Taylor's live panda feeding' suddenly blew up on the Internet.

This was because Stanley had his technical staff rushing overtime to finish the segway and banner so that they could push the story immediately to the Internet!

Within an hour, news about 'Taylor's live panda feeding' suppressed all the earlier news and quickly became a hot topic.

At that moment, everyone finally realized that he had been feeding pandas for a whole afternoon, and the live broadcast had started from 8.00AM.

He even brought his wife? Is his wife that famous rich fan of his, Eddie Fletcher? Then who is that Natasha Mitchell who swore that she was Taylor's wife at the hotel?

Nobody could wrap their heads around the plot.

At the end, a huge wave of reporters poured into the Panda Foundation, requesting to interview Michael, who was still feeding the pandas.

However, the foundation only selected a few to enter.

When the reporters went in, they instantly saw the award-winning actor, Taylor Murray, cleaning up the panda's pen.

Today, Michael came here to experience everything, from feeding baby pandas milk to feeding adult pandas snacks. He even experienced what it was like to clean up panda droppings and make snacks using milk powder.

Wearing a mask and long boots, he was focused on removing the droppings as he answered the reporters' questions.

One reporter was quick to ask, "Mr. Taylor Murray, what's your comment on Miss Natasha admitting that she is your hidden wife?"

Michael kept on removing the droppings with his head down, not looking at the reporter. "It's a load of nonsense."

Those simple words were enough to ruthlessly deny Natasha's act; they were enough to shred all the reputation left of Natasha, the Young Lady of the Mitchell Family.

The reporter asked again, "Is your wife the person next to you... Eddie Fletcher?"

Sophia was now dressed in a fully-covered suit as she was removing the droppings at another pen. Michael prevented the reporters from interviewing her, but she now had her ears pricked up to listen to his interview.

After shovelling a pile of panda droppings and throwing it into the garbage cart, Michael wiped his sweat and took the chance to answer, "That's an unnecessary question."

Even though it was a short answer, it still packed quite a punch.

He's already confirmed that Eddie Fletcher is his real wife! Then who is that Natasha?

However, the reporter continued speaking, "But Miss Natasha holds your marriage certificate with her. The authorities have verified that the certificate is completely legitimate, and all procedures were legal. In the court of law, Miss Natasha and you are already a legal couple. Can you please—"

"My surname is not Murray," Michael calmly cut off the reporter's rambling using five words.

For a moment, the reporter was startled as he gaped his mouth because he had nothing else to say.

Suddenly, he remembered the bright name, Taylor Murray, on the marriage certificate, along with Taylor's faint words—my surname is not Murray!

Taylor Murray is just a stage name! Who uses a stage name on their marriage certificate?

In the meantime, Michael had already shovelled the panda droppings into the cart, so he left silently with the panda droppings.

At the moment, the impatient Harry quickly tweeted after seeing Michael's live broadcast.

'Hahahaha, this is the first time I saw someone getting married with a stage name! Taylor Murray, you are so awesome!'

Immediately, some fans also followed up to his tweet.

'Hahaha, this is crazy. 8 years ago, Miss Taylor mentioned that 'Taylor Murray' was his stage name given to him by his mother! This is not even his real name!'

'They brilliantly used his stage name on a marriage certificate. Hahaha!'

Fans of Taylor and Harry quickly pushed his tweet into trending.

'Stage name on marriage certificate' became the most trending topic today.