

Chapter 211

Laura's head seemed to have been struck by lightning; she froze as she looked at the man who had just turned around.

William!

This man was William!

Why was he here?

"Why don't you take a seat?" William asked as he sat down casually on the sofa in front of her.

Laura shuddered and flipped out, "You are so f*cking bold! How dare you break into the director's office? No wonder you are not at your post these days. It turns out that you have sneaked here to goof off! I will escalate this issue and get someone to fire you immediately!"

William looked at Laura, amused. He served her a cup of tea and asked, "Why can't I be the director? Have you never considered this possibility?"

William's reply, like a heavy hammer, smashed Laura's heart.

All the things that happened before flooded into her mind.

William was the director, huh?

What? William was the director!

D*mn it!

This dude was really the director of the company!

Otherwise, how could he get in and out of the company as he liked? How could he show up in the director's office as though he owned the place?

This also explained why Janet knew him!

That must be also the reason Darren was vanquished under his hands!

Now she knew why the sponsorship rights would be given to the Bai family for no apparent reason!

All this happened because William was the director of Lunanica Media!

This realization stunned Laura instantly.

She stared at William's face blankly, feeling miserable.

Another realization had just dawned on her.

If William was the director, then all the remarks she made about him previously... In an instant, her face flushed red.

When she saw him for the first time in the elevator with Linda, she said that she would seduce the new director right in front of him...

Then when she was at home, she told her grandfather in front of him that she would make the new director fall head over heels for her...

Besides, she had referred to him as the idiotic director several times...

A while ago, she even said to William arrogantly that he should never have a second thought about her and that she never wanted to see him again.

Little did she know that she had just made herself a fool and a laughing stock!

This was so embarrassing!

A flush crept up her face.

This was even more shameful than when William treated her for the first time.

She looked at William but could not say a word.

Just then, William teased, "Say something. Didn't you say you would never meet me again? Not over your dead body?"

When Laura heard this, her head throbbed!

Sure enough, this cynical b*stard was going to turn her own words against her!

Her heart was in chaos.

What should she say at this moment?

More precisely, what could she say now that things had turned out this way?

Her resentment grew inside her like a tumor!

Laura looked at William with a ghastly expression and asked, "Do you think it's fun to fool me like this?"

William answered, "When did I fool you? Has it ever crossed your mind to ask me who I was?"

Nearly suffocating on her fury, Laura beat on her chest.

Yeah, he was right. She never asked him who he was, not even once.

Instead, she assumed that he was but a security guard of Lunanica Media.

All this information about William was from Linda!

D*mn it!

"Linda, you b*tch, you've ruined me!"

Laura wanted to hang Linda up to give her a good beating so badly!

"Drink a cup of tea and calm yourself down."

William pointed at the cup of tea in front of her with his chin.

Laura's hands were shaking as she held the tea.

Such superb Sakura Tea tasted exceedingly bitter in her mouth.

She was too ashamed.

"Sorry. Please don't take what I've said before to heart," Laura finally apologized sincerely.

She did not want this brat to use her words against her or to ridicule her.

William nodded. "If I did, I wouldn't have treated you."

Laura finally breathed a sigh of relief.

That was right. She knew that this guy was a heartless j*rk at first glance.

Huh?!

No, something fishy was going on here!

Laura immediately asked with a rather depressing tone, "Director Lu, if you did not take my words seriously, why didn't you give me the female lead role of the new movie?"

Laura thought that William was holding a grudge and was taking revenge on her.

William snickered and answered, "I never said that I will not let you take the role."

Huh?

Laura was dumbstruck. "But, Linda told me..."

"That must have been some miscommunication. What I said was to postpone the nomination for the lead role. Never did I say that you are not going to have this role," William explained.

Laura was positively irate at this moment; she could wait to find Linda and beat her into a pulp! What a piece of trash! She couldn't even get the correct information!

Otherwise, Laura would not have embarrassed herself in front of this b*stard!

"Does this mean that you would let me take the female lead role? But, why postpone it?" Laura asked eagerly.

"Because I was waiting for you to look for me," William replied.

Laura could not wrap her mind around it.

This dude was indeed astounding.

Why did he keep beating around the bush? What was he trying to say?

Laura did not dare to get angry momentarily. She had no choice but to ask, "Why were you waiting for me to look for you?"

"Of course, it's to blackmail you," William answered flatly.

Laura's jaw dropped open immediately.

To blackmail her?

Was he after my beauty?

Laura, who had been in the entertainment industry long enough, was more than familiar with what was happening.

Was this not the common tactic directors and producers used?

And those shameless celebrities would rush over to offer their bodies to their directors...

D*mn it!

She did not expect this dude was such a disgusting beast!

What an as*hole!

Laura pulled a long face instantly.

William added, amused, "Look at you! You must be thinking of something filthy. I told you that my wife is much more beautiful than you, and I am not interested in you."

Laura was rendered speechless.

F*ck! She knew very well that Felicity was gorgeous and everyone liked her!

But did he have to talk her down with it every single time?

"Well, since you're here, let's talk business. The reason I was waiting for you to come to me was that I have a condition that requires you to agree to," William explained.

"What condition?" Laura asked bitterly.

As long as it did not require her to sleep with him, she was willing to be at his command and service.

She would not let all the humiliations that she had experienced while being treated by him go down the drain.

Otherwise, all the frustrations she had suffered for so many days would have been in vain too.

William said, "You can have the lead role, but you have to promise me to endure every hardship and circumstance you will face later on."

Laura was confused at what she was hearing.

By the looks of things, William was serious.
He did not seem to be joking.

She could not help but wonder, "He seems to be serious. What does it mean to endure hardship and circumstances..."

"Am I going to die?"

She felt a flicker of irritation and immediately demanded, "You better explain it to me clearly."

Chapter 212

Why would William explain himself? He tittered. "Don't worry. I won't put your life in danger. I can guarantee that."

Laura looked at William suspiciously. She thought, "Although this guy is very mean sometimes, he seems quite convincing."

Well, since he had promised so...

She should just forget it. Anyway, what could be more frustrating and humiliating than letting him see her naked?

After going through three rounds of treatments with William, Laura felt that she had become much more perseverant.

She found herself looking at the world in a new light.

"Okay, I promise!" said Laura, gritting her teeth.

This was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. She would regret it if she let it slip away.

William nodded and raised the teacup. "May we work together well then."

Laura clinked the teacup gently and finished the tea in one sip.

This matter was finally settled.

However, Laura could not help feeling extremely uncomfortable. She was going to work under this little b*stard.

He should just be a security guard. Why must he be the director? What was wrong with him?

Laura got up and was ready to leave.

William also rose from his seat and saw her out.

Just then, someone opened the door.

Laura was taken aback by the person who was coming in.

It was Linda whose face was unusually anxious.

Linda was almost scared out of her wits when she heard on the phone that Laura was going to challenge the new director.

No words could describe how afraid she was. Why if Laura caused trouble? Hence, she rushed over here immediately. She did not even bother to ask for permissions before she barged into the director's office.

When she opened the door, she saw Laura with a man.

When she got a good look at the man, her face fell instantly.

Linda rushed to William, grabbed him by the collar, and cursed at him!

"Have I been too nice to you? How dare you harass Sister Koo again?! Who do you think you are? You are no match for Sister Koo! It was but an accident when Sister Koo spent her time with you in her office. Don't ruin her bright future! She's not the person who you, the idler, can be with!"

Linda was positively irate.

Laura was a celebrity. How could she fool around with a small security guard? Didn't she know that she would get herself in trouble?

Besides, this was the second time that it happened!

Linda had bumped into them, TWICE.

Linda could not help wondering if they had met up secretly without her knowledge. Maybe they had met more than twice!

Was a lowly security guard worthy of Laura? The answer was obvious.

No matter what happened, she needed to help Laura do some damage control. Otherwise, the consequences would be disastrous if the two of them were discovered.

Just then, Linda felt a whiff of wind by her ear.

Slap!

She felt a loud slap on her face.

Her face flushed red instantly.

She covered her face and looked at Laura in disbelief.

Laura had actually slapped her!

For such a lowly person!

"Sister Koo! W-w-what are you doing?! I'm doing this for you! He is just a meek little security guard. Do you know that if this matter gets out of hand, it will be detrimental to your career!" Linda couldn't help saying.

Laura glared at Linda with red fury in her eyes.

Linda!

It was all because of this stupid, little b*tch!

Besides giving her wrong information, she even embarrassed her in front of him.

Last time, she picked a vicious necklace when Laura asked her to choose a gift.

Fortunately, William did not blame her for it. Otherwise, she would definitely have to take responsibility!

All these were caused by Linda, this little b*tch!"

Laura could not believe that Linda had the audacity to speak down to William at this moment!

Linda must be trying to sabotage her again from getting the lead role that she tried so desperately to get.

Thinking of this, Laura could not help but slap

Linda another three times. She was going to vent all her anger and humiliation on Linda.

Linda thought Laura must've been bewitched by this peasant and had no idea what she was doing!

Laura had actually slapped her for a security guard!

Linda's face turned sullen. She yelled, "Sister Koo, if you don't give me an explanation today, I will never let this go! Everything I did was for your own good!"

Laura sneered at Linda, disgusted by her shabby acting skills. "You want an explanation from me, huh? Sure! You'd better listen up. This man, the lowly security guard you've mentioned is the director of Lunanica Media! Are you satisfied with this explanation?"

Linda thought Laura was going to make up some random excuses for William. However, after listening to these words, all the background noises seemed to have faded out dramatically; her head was going to explode!

Her legs were shaking.

This security guard was the director of Lunanica Media!

She looked at William in disbelief.

Right there and then, she realized that she was in the director's office!

When she came in earlier and saw William, she was so frustrated that she forgot where she was.

Thinking about it now, she felt a chill running through her from the soles of her feet.

She suddenly realized what treacherous mistake she had just committed!

An unforgivable one!

How many times had she humiliated William?

It was probably countless!

She had ended every encounter with him with ridicule.

William must be a very gracious and magnanimous person to endure it for so long.

However, she had shown zero ounces of gratitude for his forgiveness. On top of that, her sarcasm and ridicule towards him only became more and more sinister each time!

Now that the truth was finally revealed...

Linda knew she was finished!

She was completely doomed!

She looked at Laura instinctively and was about to apologize.

Right then, Laura said indifferently, "Go away! I don't need you as my assistant anymore."

These words were like a heavy punch through her heart, crushing her.

Laura said she was no longer needed.

She was fired.

She was fired for making such a terrible mistake.

However, dissatisfaction began to brew within her at once. She looked at Laura sternly and shouted, "Sister Koo, I have served you faithfully for five years! Can't you show some grace towards me? Never did I once complain about the workload that you'd given me! You can't be so merciless to me!"

If Linda would be more humble, Laura might have spared her for her good work in the last five years.

But Linda was too arrogant!

Her words pierced into Laura's heart like a needle. Instantly, Laura screamed, "Go! Get out of here! Right now!"

"Very well then! I will never forget your ruthlessness! Just you wait and see!" Linda warned, her eyes red and sparkling with a hint of evil.

William saw the sinister look in Linda's eyes.

He then took out his phone and fiddled with it. Without anyone noticing it, he sent a text message.

Linda glared at both of them and stormed out of the room.

Anger continued to rise in her like a tide as she thought about it. She could not help but turn back and glance at them.

Her gaze was definitely murderous and cold.

This shameless couple was hugging each other!

She fished out her phone rapidly and took a photo of them hugging together instantly!
