

The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 3699

In the hangar at this time, Olivia, who was wearing a Chanel dress and beautifully dressed, was holding the arm of a white young man, watching the Concorde airliner approaching.

This white young man is the eldest son of Rothschild's collateral family, William Rothschild.

William's family is rooted in Denmark, across the sea from the four northern European countries.

Over the years, William's family has been hoping to be in the second tier of the Rothschild family, so it has been keeping a low profile and trying its best.

Within the Rothschild family, the overall structure is similar to that of the Wade Family, but the actual implementation is much more cumbersome than the Wade Family.

The Rothschild family is a veteran capital family. They started out as a financial banker, so the allocation of internal resources is extremely strict.

The lifeblood of the Rothschild family is in the hands of the core family in the United States, and the core family divides the resources of different families by scoring other families.

The resources that a second-tier family can get from the core family each year are two or three times higher than those of the third-tier family. Therefore, every second-tier or third-tier family has sharpened their heads and wants to climb up. A ladder family must do everything possible to stabilize its position and cannot be compared to other families.

Therefore, this kind of strong internal competition makes the Rothschild family's internal barriers as a whole very strong, and it is no easy task to achieve internal ladder leaps.

In recent years, William's family has been doing everything possible to increase its rating weight.

Recently, through their own channels, they learned the news that the Queen of Northern Europe was critically ill.

Realizing that the young Olivia would soon become the youngest queen in Northern Europe and even the entire Europe, they immediately negotiated with the Northern European royal family, hoping to reach a marriage.

But Olivia has long been up for sale.

Many rich people in Europe actually realize that she is about to become a queen, so many people hope to marry Olivia.

The whole of Europe itself has strong thoughts of power and feudalism. Almost everyone thinks that the royal family is superior to the nobles. Those rich people who do not have aristocratic titles, if they can marry the queen, they will immediately be canonized as princes and duke at the same time. The class leap was completed in an instant.

William was able to stand out among many competitors because his family decided to invest 2 billion euros with 1 billion euros in cash as a bride price, which suppressed other competitors.

William's family hopes to increase their influence throughout Europe through the blessing of the royal family, so that they can get more weight in Rothschild's next internal rating and move to the second ladder.

At this time, Olivia looked at the Concorde airliner that looked like a white swan, and said with an annoyed expression: "The Wade Family is really not easy, even this kind of supersonic airliner can get it."

William nodded and said with a envious expression on his face: "As the world's fastest passenger plane, the Concorde was sold out by the top families as soon as it was retired. This kind of aircraft can continue to be used after it is retired. There are less than ten in total. The Rothschild family has three in total, all of which are in the hands of the core family. We never had the opportunity to experience it. We did not expect that the Wade Family also had one..."

Olivia said with a black face: "I haven't been on this supersonic airliner."

William smacked his lips and said angrily: "I have never sat down. I heard that the Wade Family suffered a heavy loss this time. I don't know if they are willing to sell the plane at a low price. If they want, I will buy it! "

At this time, the plane had slowly entered the hangar, and then the hatch opened, and Helena, accompanied by Charlie, walked down the spiral staircase.

Down the spiral staircase, Olivia looked at Helena with a sneer on her face. Seeing that the whole plane only walked off her and Charlie, Olivia frowned and asked: "Helena, where are your two entourages?" Why didn't you come back with you?"

Two of Helena's followers are Olivia's.
