

Chapter 16

Hazel bit her lip. How could he act like this?

He was really overbearing and perverted!

But now she didn't dare to refute him, so she could only continue pretending to be a coward.

Wasn't it just cooking?

"Fine. I'll just treat it as though I'm feeding some animals," Hazel thought to herself.

Of course, she only dared to say such things in her heart. She couldn't let him know.

Later, before Hazel closed her eyes, she took a look at him, who actually personally inserted a needle with IV drip into his body.

"What are you looking at? Go to sleep! Or do you not want to sleep? Then, let's have some fun!" Looking at her, who was peeking at him like a little mouse, he then threatened her in a bad tone.

Hazel closed her eyes in a second.

Chapter 16

100 Lifelong Enemies

1/6

She didn't dare to refute the pervert!

Regan looked at the honest woman in his arms with a satisfied look in his eyes.

In the future, she would have to stay with him like this until he got tired of her.

But at this moment, what Regan did not know was that Hazel was a kind of addiction for him.

As time went by, he would only become more and more addicted to her.

In the end, he would never be able to stop it.

.....

The next day, Hazel only woke up when it was almost noon.

When she did, she saw that the space beside her bed was already empty.

She finally no longer had to see him.

She couldn't help but let out a sigh of relief.

Although she didn't know the reason behind it, according to the contract conditions given by Max, the day belonged to her entirely, and he would not harass her.

After Hazel put on her clothes, she didn't want to stay here any longer.

It felt like a nightmare here.

Now, it was time for her to wake up. All she wanted was to leave this place as soon as possible.

However, just before she went out, Max smiled and said, "Miss Wilkinson, please remember that we will pick you up at 6 o'clock in the evening. In addition, I hope you can understand that you can't get out of this city without the president's permission."

When Hazel heard this sentence, it was like a basin of cold water had been poured down her mood that was getting better. This only made her feel helpless.

Her hand grabbed her skirt, and she said softly, "Okay."

Then, Hazel was sent home by an exclusive driver, but she deliberately asked him to stop about 200 meters away from the gate.

She didn't want to get into unnecessary trouble.

On top of that, she didn't want to go to work today.

She originally planned to travel abroad for a few months and it didn't work out. However, she still had her holidays.

When Hazel entered the living room of her house, she saw her mother, Vanessa, watching TV. However, Vanessa didn't even bother to share her a glance.

She felt bitter in her heart, but she still called out gently, "Mom, I am back..."

Vanessa looked up at her in surprise and did not ignore her as before. She said, "You didn't go abroad?"

Hazel's eyes were full of helplessness, but she couldn't say the real reason. She could only conceal it, "Well... because I still haven't finished my work and my friends abroad have something to do. So I canceled the trip. I will need to rest at home for a few days, and then I will go to work."

Vanessa's eyes lit up. Just right about time...

"Come here. You happen to have time, so you can take advantage of these days to solve your problem," Vanessa suddenly said.

A puzzled look appeared in Hazel's eyes at once. What problem did she have?

Later, she walked to the front of Vanessa, who was sitting on the sofa.

"Mom, what's wrong?"

Vanessa sized Hazel up and down before saying, "You are not young anymore. Your sister will soon marry into a wealthy family. You can't delay anymore. Our family can't support you for the rest of your life. As a woman, you have to find a good home for yourself.

After hearing that, Hazel's face turned pale, and her hands were clenched tightly. "Mom, you are..."

Vanessa's mouth showed a gentle smile, but her eyes were cold. She then said, "At five o'clock in the afternoon, I will arrange a blind date for you. From now on, he will be your fiancé. Don't talk nonsense! If you screw up this matter, you will leave this family and no longer be the daughter of the Wilkinson family."

Anyway, she had already discussed with her husband and he approved it as well. They would just let their daughter marry the old man in his sixties. In this way, their family could gain a little benefit from the business world.

Hazel's heart ached, and she looked at her mother in front of her in disbelief. She, who had been obedient all the time, couldn't help saying, "Mom, do I not have... the right to choose? I will get married, but I want to marry someone I love. I'll not stay at home forever."

However, Vanessa's eyes instantly became colder. She said, "Our family has raised you for more than twenty years. Is it for free? We can't support you for nothing! What right do you have to ask more? The money you spend is all from the family. I'll arrange a good one for you. Do you think I will harm you? Every woman has to marry a rich person. Mr. Brown has good conditions. He's been widowed for many years, and he needs someone who understands him. As for you, he probably won't even want you if Scarlett is single."