It was supposed to be a secret between them.

Back then, when Calvin was taking her with him, the situation got out of hand as Charles had been watching those kids closely.

Calvin ended up getting injured when he rescued the three of them.

Vivian would never forget how afraid and worried she was at that moment, as she forced Calvin to make her a promise.

She wanted him to promise her that he would never let himself get hurt. Only then was she willing to let him go.

But... why is he hurt now? He even spat out so much blood...

With that in mind, Vivian burst into tears.

"Brother Cal... don't be afraid. Even though you didn't keep your promise, Mommy is a doctor. I'll ask her to save you."

She forgave him in a generous gesture while comforting him kindly.

At that moment, Calvin's lips curled into a smile.

He did not know what he was waiting for.

But after he saw Vivian, he finally felt he could let go. He glanced at her while taking out a pink pearl that he had been keeping with him all this time.

"That's the pearl from my hairpin. Brother Cal, did you help me to find it?"

Vivian stretched out her hand and grabbed the pearl from his hand.

Their hands touched each other.

After Calvin felt the warmth of Vivian's hand, the beam of life began fading from his beautiful eyes.

Eventually, his hand fell weakly out of Vivian's hand.

Vivian was stumped at that moment.

She froze on the spot for a long while, grabbing the pink pearl in her hand. Before she could react, she heard her mother crying.

“Calvin...”

Sebastian took a step backward and slumped back into the chair behind.

A few minutes later, Jonathan brought his men and came in. By then, he saw Calvin lying on the floor without a breath.

“Old Mr. Jadeson, it’s suicide. But he had experienced inhuman torture while he was alive. His tongue got cut off, and both his hands were almost disabled. I suppose it was to force the information about Mr. Sebastian out of him.”

The captain of the bodyguards was an experienced man in such a matter.

By judging by Calvin’s look, he could predict all his experiences accurately.

Hugging Vivian in her embrace, Sasha’s breath grew heavier as she heard what the captain said.

But that was not the worst part of what happened to Calvin.

After a round of checking, even the captain could not suppress his rage.

“Old Mr. Jadeson... there’s a chip inside his brain. And, it seems like he got...”

The captain did not dare to finish his sentence.

Jonathan cut a startled look at him.

“Out! All of you get out of my sight now!” Sitting in the chair, Sebastian suddenly burst into a rage right then. He stood up abruptly and started smashing everything in front of him.

Everyone at the scene got petrified, including Jonathan.

But looking at Sebastian’s aggressive look, Jonathan did not dare to face him directly. Eventually, he could only leave with his men.

Sasha also left with the kid.

A chip... and what else? What does the captain mean?

As Sasha carried Vivian out from the place, her mind could not stop thinking about what the captain said. Right then, she could no longer bear to carry Vivian. She immediately put her down while she wandered recklessly to a corner and began vomiting.

She could not imagine what had happened to Calvin.

Such a beautiful boy, not only did he get injected with a chip, he even got... No wonder he chose to end his life.

Sasha bawled her eyes out while vomiting.

At that moment, someone approached her from behind. The man did not interrupt her, watching her silently from her back.

Sasha finally realized there was someone behind her. She was shocked to see the man behind her as she turned around. She choked on her words while trying to hide her emotions. "Karl? Why are you here? You..."

She was aware of Karl's relationship with Calvin.

She heard that Frederick brought Calvin and Channing home while they were still kids. Karl often went back to SteelFort and played with the former during that period.

Of course, he also taught Calvin many things as he was from special military forces.

Hence, everyone in SteelFort knew that Calvin was closest to Karl besides his brother, Channing.

When Sebastian was at odds with Charles, the former had Calvin and Karl by his side.

At that moment, Sasha was thinking of ways to console Karl.

But Karl just froze on the spot, without saying anything. She had never seen such a brutal and scary look on him.

"Was it the Jadesons?"

“What?”

“I’m going kill them!”

Spitting out a sentence, Karl turned to leave.

A second later, Sasha realized what he meant. Forgetting about Vivian, who was still beside her, she rushed toward Karl and hugged him tightly. “Karl, what’re you doing? Stop!”

“Let go of me! I’m going to kill all of them! They have to pay for this!”

His bloodshot eyes filled with utter hatred.

There was no way Sasha would allow him to do that.

Calvin was already gone. If something were to happen to Karl, there would be no one left with Sebastian.

Sasha grabbed onto him tightly. “No, Karl. You can’t do this. Calvin’s gone now. Do you want Mr. Hayes to lose all of you?”

Karl was rendered speechless upon hearing that.

Sasha continued to say, “I know you’re pissed and sad. We all are. But this is no time to act harshly. If you want to get revenge for Calvin, we’ll need a careful plan. And Sebastian needs you now!”

Sasha choked on her words toward the end, at the verge of crying.

Finally, Karl calmed down.

He stared into the space while his body kept trembling; his eyes were filled with deep agony.

Eventually, he stopped struggling.

Two hours later, when Calvin’s body got brought out, Karl carried it on his back and left the scene two hours later.

By then, Sabrina had arrived with a black car. While Karl came out with Calvin, she opened the car door. With that, they drove off with the body.

Sasha stared at the disappearing car and then went back into Oceanic Estate.

“Old Mr. Jadeson, will Mr. Sebastian blame you again for what happened to Calvin?”

The moment she walked past the garden, she overheard the conversation between the bodyguard captain and Jonathan.

She halted in her steps and cast a side glance toward them.

“I wouldn’t be bothered with that. It’s not the first time he’s mad at me!” Jonathan sounded utterly frustrated, as though he had gotten tired of Sebastian.

Sasha displayed a cold look upon hearing what Jonathan had said.

Soon, the captain spoke again, “How could you be like this? If this thing had nothing to do with the Jadesons, you must not admit it. It was obvious that someone wanted to force Mr. Sebastian’s information out of Calvin. And who in the family would dare to go to this extent? Old Mr. Jadeson, the biggest secret that Calvin possessed was the whereabouts of the three kids. Do you think anyone in the Jadesons will want that piece of information? What for? Do they want to use the kids to trade for the position of the heir? Or do they want to kill the kids? Do they really think they could get what they want like this?”

The bodyguard captain sounded utterly provocative toward the end of his sentence.

Sasha felt a blow to her heart as her mind went blank upon hearing that.

She had never thought of it like that.

When Calvin wrote something on Sebastian’s palm, she could not understand it.

Hence, she assumed Charles was the one who captured Calvin and tortured him terribly to retaliate against Sebastian.

But the whole matter seemed to be more complicated based on the captain’s analysis.

What does he mean? Was the person who tortured Calvin not only after Sebastian but also Jonathan?

Sasha was stunned momentarily as her mind was at a loss with this sudden discovery.

This abyss seems to be getting deeper and deeper.

Two days later at Oceanic Estate.

Sasha came to the third floor after receiving a tombstone photo from Sabrina.

“Mr. Hayes, may I come in? Ms. Hayes just sent me a picture. I want to show you,” She uttered gently, knocking at the door that was closed for two days.

Still, there was no response. She had been knocking on this door for two days, but no one ever came to answer it.

Feeling helpless, she eventually sent the picture to Sebastian through WhatsApp.

When she was coming down from the third floor, she ran into Jonathan, who was on his way up.

“Old Mr. Jadeson...”

“Did he answer the door yet?” Jonathan seems utterly despondent as well these two days.

Sasha shook her head slightly.

Upon that, Jonathan’s eyes lit with wrath. As his patience had reached its limit, he intended to barge in Sebastian’s room recklessly.

But right then, Sasha’s phone suddenly vibrated.

Sebastian texted: Go and find Sabrina. Ask her for the whereabouts of the three kids and bring them to Oceanic Estate.

Sasha’s jaw dropped for a long while as she stared at the phone screen.

She could not believe that Sebastian mentioned the kids even before returning to his primary personality.

He even wanted to bring them to Oceanic Estate.

What happened to him all of a sudden? I thought he had not recovered yet. If he has no memories of the kids, how will he face them? Plus, Calvin's death proves someone is targeting the kids. Isn't he afraid the kids might get into trouble if they come here?

Sasha kept staring at the text while her mind was filled with befuddlement.

"Who is it? Is that him?" Judging from Sasha's look, Jonathan knew who sent the message right away.

After hesitating for a long while, Sasha eventually showed Jonathan the text message.

"He says that Ms. Hayes knows where the three kids are. He asks you to arrange for the kids to come here."

As unexpected, Jonathan's eyes widened with shock upon seeing that message.

But his shock only lasted for a few seconds, as it got immediately replaced by joy.

Of course, he would be delighted as he would meet his great-grandchildren shortly.

With that, Jonathan immediately went downstairs and made a call to Sabrina.

Sabrina got left in total awe. "Did My brother ask you to find me? How did he..."

She wanted to ask how Sebastian found out that she knew about the kids' whereabouts, as she had denied it entirely throughout the time in Oceanic Estate.

Jonathan sneered, "He's forgetful, but not dumb!"

Sabrina was rendered speechless upon hearing that.

In the end, she obediently revealed the whereabouts of the two kids.

After finding out, Jonathan brought his men and went to Miralaea personally.

He comprehended the bodyguard captain's analysis fully.

Thus, he did not dare to leave this matter in others' hands. He wanted to make sure of the safety of the kids.

Sasha had mixed feelings when she saw Jonathan go to find the kids personally.

She had never forgiven him all this while.

After all, the whole family ended up like this because of him.

Hence, there was no way she would accept him so quickly.

But now that she saw how he acted personally to protect the kids' safety, she did not know how to react to it.

"Mr. Hayes, why do you want to bring the kids here suddenly? Aren't you afraid that they might get into danger?"

After Jonathan left, the room door on the third floor finally opened.

Sasha would come up to send food or to check up on his body. In all, she would come up more than seven times in a day.

And this question had been sticking in her throat for a long while.

At that moment, Sebastian was standing by the window, staring at the scenery outside.

Since he opened his room's door two days ago, he had been utterly quiet. Sometimes, he would stand by the window for hours. It made Sasha somehow uneasy.

After hearing Sasha's question, he raised his brows slightly and answered, "It's because I'm here."

Sasha was lost for words.

Her worries faded instantly upon hearing Sebastian's reply.

That's right. If he's here, he'll protect them well. Whether or not he remembers, the bond of a father will be there.

After coming out of the room, Sasha started to worry about her daughter's situation.

Sasha texted: Sabrina, what did you say when you mentioned Vivi to Jonathan?

Sabrina texted back: What else could I say? I said what you told me to, that she was sick and got sent to another place by my brother.

Sasha was rendered speechless.

This is so awkward... but I can't think of another excuse... Vivian is, in fact, here in this place.

Putting down the phone, Sasha did not further think about this matter. On the other hand, she began worrying about her two sons. Will they be obedient if they meet Jonathan suddenly?

Little did she know that Vivian had already informed the two boys in Miralaea about what happened around here.

Vivian texted: Brother Cal is dead. I'm really sad.

Meanwhile, Matteo was sitting on the villa staircase, filled with worries. He had not received any news from Vivian for over two days.

On the other hand, Ian was also overwhelmed with sorrow.

As he grew up in the Hayes Residence, Calvin's death was a big blow to him.

So who exactly caused his death?

"I want to avenge him!" He clenched his fists in profound exasperation.

Matteo cast a glance at him and reminded, "How do you want to do it? We don't even know who killed him."

They witnessed Calvin's death through Vivian's hairpin, but they could not see what he wrote on Sebastian's palm before his last breath.

Of course, even if they saw it, they might not be able to understand it too.

So who exactly is behind his death? How are we going to get revenge for him?

"Isn't that old man coming to fetch us? If we keep an eye on him, we should be able to find out the real culprit!"

Right then, Ian spat out a sentence.

That old man? Does he mean the old man from the Jadesons?

Matteo's eyes lit up. "That's right. That family is full of bad people. They even went after Daddy before. Let's keep an eye on him after we go over there. I'm sure we'll discover something."

It turned out that the two of them had never liked their father's new home too.

With that, both of them came to an agreement.

When Jonathan arrived, the two of them had gotten ready and were waiting for him the following day.

"Is that them?"

When Jonathan first saw the twins, his hands trembled incessantly with excitement as the twins resembled their father perfectly.

"Yes. He is the elder one, Mr. Ian. And that is the younger of the twins, Mr. Matteo,"

The bodyguard from Hayes explained to Jonathan after realizing the latter did not recognize the twins.

Ian? Matteo?

Jonathan's eyes became red with tears after hearing those two names.

He did not mind them keeping their family names. When he got Sebastian back, he also did not request him to change his Hayes family name.

Of course, he would not want the kids to do so too.

He could not suppress the joy in his heart and wanted to touch them, but Ian immediately avoided him with a look full of hatred.

Jonathan was rendered speechless by that gesture.

"Mr. Ian, this is your Great-grandpa. He won't hurt you."

Upon seeing that, the bodyguard immediately explained it to Ian.

However, Ian did not seem to comply, as he turned abruptly and left. He showed no respect for Jonathan, his look utterly cold like his father.

Fortunately, there was still Matteo.

Just then, Matteo approached Jonathan with a smile on his face.
“Great-grandpa, my brother doesn’t like to talk. You can talk to me instead.”

The next second, he walked over and stood below Jonathan’s hand that initially wanted to touch Ian.

At the instant, Jonathan felt like he had gotten struck by lightning.

The tiny head felt so soft and rare to him, as his hands were used to grabbing weapons in battles.

He felt like he might break it accidentally if he used too much force.

With that, Jonathan’s hand trembled, utterly cautious with his touch.

“Okay, okay. I’ll talk to you... Can I go in to sit for a while?”

“Of course. Come, I’ll bring you inside.”

Matteo reached out his hand and generously grabbed onto Jonathan’s stout fingers.

Ian is such a fool. To let this old man off his guard, we’ll need to build a close relationship with him from the start. Then he won’t suspect us in the future.

As such, Matteo brought Jonathan into the room.

Then, he told the latter he would pour him a glass of juice. But in fact, he went to the kitchen and popped an instant juice pill into the glass.

“Great-grandpa, this is for you.”

“Okay...”

Jonathan’s eyes brimmed with tears again.

He would not mind the details, as his great-grandson's obedience and cuteness had melted his heart thoroughly.

With that, he emptied that glass of "juice".

"Is it nice?"

"Yes, it's delicious."

So he seems like a foolish old man.

Some moment later, Matteo went to find his brother.

After half an hour, the twins finally finished packing and were ready to depart.

"Why are there only two of them? Where's the girl?" Jonathan could not suppress his curiosity.

"Ms. Vivian is not here. We just received the twins from Calvin. I suppose Ms. Vivian fell sick and was sent to another place by Mr. Hayes. But we have no idea," The bodyguards explained apologetically.

Jonathan became speechless; he was downright disappointed.

His heart did not feel complete as his great-granddaughter was yet to be found.

However, as he turned around and saw the twins, his lips curled into a genuine smile once again.

"Then let's bring you two back first. I'm taking you home." He reached out both his hands, hoping to grab their hand one at a time.

But once again, Ian rejected his goodwill and went into the car himself.

Only Matteo hold onto his hand good-naturedly.

What a pair of twins...

Shortly later, Jonathan with the twins left the place for good.

Right at that moment, in a secret room where relationships trees got plastered on four sides of the walls, stood a man.

He flipped the table all of a sudden.

Bang!

The next moment, his subordinate dropped down on one knee on the other side of the curtain.

The man in the house said, "It took me so long to come this far, yet Magnus destroyed everything!"

"It's my fault. I'm willing to receive any punishment!"

The next moment, blood spilled all over the curtain, and two fingers fell off and jittered on the floor.

Surprisingly, the subordinate maintained his posture by kneeling on one knee.

Seconds later, the whole place reeked of fresh blood.

The man inside the house seemed to have calmed down a little as he said, "Has Jonathan found the kids?"

"Yes."

"You're all garbage! You can't even get rid of a nobody after so many months! Why should I keep you all around?"

The man furiously flung a dart as soon as he finished.

Ding!

The dart hit Jonathan's photo at the center of the wall.

If one were to observe the room closely, a family tree with photos, which depicted the relationships between all Jadesons in detail, was put on all four walls, including Jonathan, Jared, and all branch families.

The family tree reflected that the Jadesons were powerful, so much so that the head of state would be astounded by it.

However, the family tree became smaller as one continued reading it from top to bottom, as though the Jadesons had been slowly eliminated by unknown enemies.

"Sir, what would you like me to do? Do you want the kids dead? Rest assured that I'll bring their heads to you at all costs once you instruct me to do it."

Since the room fell silent for a while, the subordinate, who kneeled on the other side of the curtain, proposed it to redeem himself.

However, the man inside the basement sneered, "Jonathan picked them up by himself. Do you think you're capable of taking their heads?"

He paused for a while and scolded, "Stop making trouble! Now that the killer is dead, Jonathan knows that danger is near. So, don't do anything at this moment to avoid unnecessary trouble."

With that, the subordinate dared not utter a word.

As if a thought flashed through his mind, the man in the room asked, "No. 3 used to report to me about Jasmine's niece. Is the news true?"

"Yes. She was the one who leaked the news to Jonathan."

"In that case, we should start from her. Fan the flames between the Jadesons' current successor and Jonathan's grandson, who showed up all of a sudden. When the Jadesons are in turmoil, we stand to benefit from it," He said viciously while pointing at Devin and Sebastian's photo that he had just put up.

This is indeed a wicked ploy!

Although Devin might not be bothered, his parents will never allow someone to replace their son as the Jadesons' successor.

As such, the family will never be peaceful once the confrontation occurs.

After Devin returned to Oceanic Estate, he was informed that Jonathan had brought the twins home.

He left Jadeborough for three days to investigate Calvin and only came home now.

Upon hearing the news, Devin was shocked. "Did you say Sebastian allowed you to bring them here? Did he not know where the kids were? Why did he suddenly ask you to pick them up?"

Jasmine snickered and added, "This proves that he had always been lying and wasn't suffering multiple personality disorder at all. I tell you what, everything that he does now is to ensure that he can gain a foothold in the Jadesons."

"That's right, Devin. You have to be on the alert for his tricks. After all, I can't even read his mind now."

Surprisingly, Stephen chose to stand by Jasmine's side now.

Devin couldn't help but frown upon hearing it.

"Dad, what are you saying? I mean, he only brought the kids home. What kind of tricks can he play? He knows he had three kids after what happened to Calvin. So, isn't it logical for him to bring them back to Oceanic Estate?"

Jasmine was furious as Devin still supported Sebastian.

"Are you silly? How will you stay as the Jadesons' successor after he brings the three kids home? In case you forgot, Sebastian is the son of the late Shin. Now that Sebastian has three kids, how can you compete with him?"

"That's right, Devin. I'm sorry that I didn't tell you this before—When I served some tea to Granduncle Jonathan, I happened to overhear his conversation with the butler. He said he had to train Ian to become a qualified successor." At that time, even Kira chimed in.
