

Captivation: Want Nothing But You Chapter

Rachel was led into a room, where Eva asked her to take a seat and began applying makeup on her face and doing her hair.

When she was done, it was already six o' clock in the evening.

Rachel had no idea what Victor wanted from her. All she could do was sit and wait.

There was a knock on the door and Eva walked over to open it.

Rachel was sitting with Chapter 16

Chapter 16 The Bennet Group' s Fall

The Bennet Group had been falling apart even when the Sullivan Group had bought a considering amount of shares for a larger than expected sum of money. Of course, this wasn' t because they saw great potential for development in the Bennet Group. It was all because of Rachel. The original Rachel.

Her mother, Elisa, had once saved the life of Victor' s grandma and the old lady had been grateful to Elisa and adored her daughter ever since. When she found out that the Bennet Group was in trouble, Victor' s grandma figured out a way to help out, without even waiting for Rachel to ask. She had asked her grandson to do anything in his power to save the Bennet Group.

Back then, Rachel and Victor were engaged to be married, not that the match was one full of love.

Normally, he wouldn't have agreed to lose money over a crumbling company, but he couldn't deny his grandma anything. Everyone thought that once the Bennet Group had been bought by a larger company, it would start flourishing and growing. But the fact remained: the Bennet Group was now under Victor's control.

The Bennet family had worked tirelessly for three generations for their group, so it really meant a lot to Rachel. And that gave Victor the upper hand. He had manipulated Rachel and forced her to sign a prenuptial agreement he had put together, even if it was more than a little unfair towards her. After the original Rachel had caught on to what had happened, she was inconsolable. In the present, Rachel pursed her lips and shook her head to get rid of the memory that didn't even belong to her.

She felt a twinge at her heart, the ghost of the pain that the other Rachel had once endured. The original Rachel had truly loved Victor, more than life itself. But the new Rachel didn't. She didn't really care about the Bennet Group either. It could burn to ashes for all she cared. Only one thing mattered to her. She had to avenge herself.

Chapter 17 9.99 Million Dollars In Debt

Jack was a handsome gentleman, and he was considerate to Elisa during their wedding day. Caroline felt so jealous that she thought she would go insane. She wanted to take him away from Elisa, and the jealousy tortured her day after day. One day, Caroline couldn't stand it anymore. She went to Elisa's house while Elisa was away on a business trip.

That night, when she looked at Jack lying beside her on the bed, her heart was filled with a sense of victory and satisfaction. It had been so long since she had a taste of this pleasure. Once he had started their affair, Jack could no longer stop himself from cheating again. In addition, Caroline was more seductive and more womanly than Elisa.

He was obsessed with her sweetness, so he decided to just go with it. Caroline did her best to please Jack to keep him by her side and render him unable to leave her. Naturally, it boosted her ego to know that he could not get enough of her. But as time went by, she was no longer satisfied with having a secret affair with Jack. She asked him to divorce Elisa, but he refused.

Jack had married into Elisa's family, and he was living in their mansion.

Divorcing Elisa would mean that he would have nothing left. Upon taking that into consideration, Caroline decided to keep her relationship with Jack a secret.

However, her hatred for Elisa grew with every passing day. Finally, Caroline's evil prayers had been answered. Soon after Elisa gave birth to Rachel, she died from a serious illness that caused postpartum complications, adding to the fact that she was always overworking herself. After Elisa's death, Caroline married Jack and successfully moved into the Bennet family's mansion.

Chapter 18 Pleaded With Victor

Upon seeing the hesitant look on Andy's face, Rachel stopped. With a raised eyebrow, she asked, "What's the matter? Is there something else you want to say?" "Miss Bennet, when are you planning to meet with Mr. Sullivan?"

Once the liquidation procedure officially starts, stopping it will be nigh impossible." "I see. I'll talk to him after lunch." Rachel let out a helpless sigh. Andy nodded firmly. "Got it. I'll drive you there, Miss Bennet."

"That's not necessary. I can get there by myself." After saying that, she followed Abby downstairs to have lunch. During the meal, Rachel finished an entire bowl of rice, but neither Andy nor Abby had any appetite to eat. Those who weren't aware of the truth and saw this scene would assume that Andy and Abby were the ones in crippling debt, and Rachel had nothing to do with said debt.

After finishing her meal, Rachel put down her chopsticks and looked at Abby and Andy, noticing that they appeared to be absent-minded. To get their attention, she cleared her throat.

Startled, Abby put down her chopsticks and stood in attention.

“Miss Bennet, allow me to get you another bowl of soup.”

Afterwards, she reached for Rachel's bowl, but Rachel stopped her and said, “No, it's okay. I'm full.”

“Ah... I see.” Abby withdrew her hand, lowered her gaze, and soon her mind began to wander once more. “You two...” After a brief pause, Rachel said, “Are you worried that working for a broke woman like me will put you through so much suffering in the future? Look, you don't have to worry about my financial burdens.”

Captivation: Want Nothing But You Chapter 19 by Adolf Dunne

“Mr. Sullivan, I think... Perhaps you should let her in.” Victor's eyes turned frigid. “Are you telling me what to do?” Alice felt her stomach tight. She immediately shook her head and retracted her statement. “No, you misunderstood me. I suggested that because I know my sister all too well. If she’s driven away without seeing you, I’m sure she’ll cause a scene. I remember she has done that several times in the past at the entrance of the company.

What if this time” “If she tries anything, I’ll have a good reason to call the police on her and have her arrested,” Victor sneered Alice’s eyes lit up with malice, but she quickly guised it with innocence when she looked back at Victor. “Mr. Sullivan, Rachel is your ex-wife after all. If something happens, and the police arrest her, she will be immensely humiliated.”

“Do you think I care about that?” Victor said with indifference. “But… Please at least give me a chance to speak to my sister,” Alice pleaded. “Are you sure you can convince her to leave?” Victor looked at her with curiosity. “I’ll try my best, sir. If she doesn’t listen to me, you can hand her over to the police, and I won’t say a word,” said Alice.

Victor stared at her in silence for a while. With every second that passed by, Alice’s heart started beating faster and faster, and her palms started sweating. The way Victor looked at people made them feel like he could see through their minds. “Fine. Go ahead,” he responded.

Alice breathed a sigh of relief when Victor was no longer looking at her. She then swallowed her saliva, cleared her throat, and smiled. “Thank you, Mr. Sullivan.” Afterwards, Alice left the office.

At this time, Rachel was waiting in the lounge on the first floor. She had been staring at her phone all this time, and decided that if no one was coming down to meet with her in five minutes, she would just leave. In all honesty, she never expected to see Victor when she called Ivan to ask for a meeting with Victor.

Chapter 20

Chapter 20 What Doesn’ t Belong To You Will Never Be Yours

Alice’ s eyes glinted with fear. Her left leg took half a step back, preventing her from retreating and forcing her to hold her ground. No matter what, she was not going to show her timidity! Rachel was pathetic. There was nothing for Alice to be scared of. She was certain that Rachel wouldn’ t lay a hand on her here.

Otherwise, she would have a reason to get Rachel arrested, and she would get her revenge. Alice kept trying to embolden herself, staring directly into Rachel’ s eyes. Right now, Rachel stood proudly in front of Alice. As a matter of fact, Alice was half a head taller than her at the moment because she was in high heels, but Rachel looked a lot more daunting than Alice. “You’ re right about one thing, Alice,” Rachel said with a straight face.

Alice's reflection was in her eyes. At the moment, Alice didn't look very impressive. "What?" Alice stammered. "What doesn't belong to you, shall never be yours." Rachel grinned. Before Alice could react, Rachel shoved her away, and stormed out of the Sullivan Group's building. Meanwhile, Alice was left there, dumbfounded for a long time before she came to her senses.

Rachel just satirized her for coveting something that didn't belong to her! • Alice's face turned grim. She was clenching her hands so hard that her manicured nails dug into her palms. She then turned around, watching Rachel walk away from the building. Alice restrained her anger, and shouted, "Rachel, I'd like to see how long you can keep up your stubbornness!"

Changing Victor's mind once he had made a decision was nigh impossible. The Bennet Group's bankruptcy was practically set in stone. Rachel was just wasting her time if she was going to keep on struggling! Alice took a deep breath, took out her phone and dialed a number. Moments later, the call connected.

As she walked towards the elevator, she said, "Mr. Aron, this is Alice. There are still some omissions in Bennet Group's debt list that I gave you before. I'll sort out the latest list and send it to you via email. The total amount of debt the Bennet Group has accumulated is around twenty million dollars."
