

Chapter 86

As Hazel read the news, she felt her heart gradually turned cold in fear.

The first part of the news reported the glorious achievements of the Wilkinson family and the Collins family; it also mentioned that the "true Young Lady" of the Wilkinson family, Scarlett had held a grand wedding with Julian not long ago. However, despite the impressive description of the background of the two families, the second part contrastively revealed their "tragic state".

The news was telling the current situation of the two families in a speculation and ridicule tone.

The Wilkinson family, which was originally considered the biggest family in the city, suffered a financial crisis after Scarlett's wedding. This was the beginning of their downfall. It was then revealed that the vice president of the Collins family, who was also Julian's uncle, had been colluding with other companies and making a lot of profits through the use of loopholes. However, due to the low-quality of materials, the Collins family had urgently called off the recently promising estate of Rosehill Garden. In fact, most of the money was invested in this project, but it was destined to end abruptly now.

At that time, the head of the family, Jonah Collins, was so angry that he was admitted in the hospital.

At that time, the head of the family, Jonah Collins, was so angry that he was admitted in the hospital.

The excitement continued on. After Collins Group was bought by a mysterious man, Julian, the former president, was directly kicked out of the game, followed by the remaining Collins family members. In other words, all the blood effort that the Collins had gloriously made for several generations was snatched away overnight.

However, this had yet to be the most despairing issue. After the fall of the Collins Group, more than a dozen of companies had seemingly allied to sue Collins for the loopholes in their contract. Unfortunately, the Collins seemed to be out of luck as they had lost in every trial and were sentenced to compensate up to a billion dollars.

Even if the Collins could afford the amount of compensation, it also meant that the family's finances were completely hollowed out.

However, there was something strange in this matter. Although the Collins wanted to gather the money in a hurry, no one was willing to buy their lands, mansions, or even their markets! Despite how the Collins kept lowering the sale price, no one would buy one of their properties. The Collins family could only helplessly watch all their assets being mortgaged and auctioned by the bank—in the lowest price nonetheless!

In short, this was obviously a trap set for the Collins family!

It was said that old Jonah, who was unable to bear the fatal blow, had been seriously ill for several times. Speaking of the Wilkinson family, which famously rose from being a nouveau riche, had shared the Collins' bad luck after the marriage.

Although the Wilkinson family's company had also suffered the same financial crisis overnight, the last straw that overwhelmed the Wilkinsons was when Blake foolishly decided to borrow the funding money from the loan shark.

However, no matter how much money he had borrowed, it was never enough to save the company. On the contrary, the interest rates of his debts gradually increased and practically reached hundreds of millions!

Thanks to their downfall, no one dared to make contact with the Collins or the Wilkinson families and avoided them as if they were a plague.

Especially since there was a rumor that whoever dared to help the two families would definitely end up in the same boat as them.

Therefore, everyone decided to just stand back and watch the drama.

The latest situation of the Wilkinson family was written at the end of the news article. Blake, who was already in despair, chose to commit suicide, but he was fortunately discovered and sent to the hospital for treatment. Currently, the Wilkinson family had stopped living in their luxurious villa and moved to a humid and old residential area. There were no longer traces of the family's glory.

After Hazel finished reading, her mind went blank and her fingers were trembling.

How could this be?

All these happened after the wedding?

To Hazel, it was hard for her to not think that everything was connected to her relationship with Regan.

Indeed, he had the power and ability to destroy the two families in such a short time. However, there could also be others who would deal with them, so was it necessary for Regan to take action?

During this period of time, Hazel had learned that it was pointless to figure out his character. This man didn't even need a logical reason to decide on a person's fate.

Because he had the power!

But why?

Why did Regan do this?

Even though she had been wronged at the wedding that day, it had nothing to do with the Collins family. In fact, it was the stranger who caused the stir with some fake photos!

Even if she was sad that her father broke his ties with her, she had stopped wishing to be close to her family.

From that day onwards, she decided to walk on her own path. She didn't hope to say a word to them, only regarding them as some unfamiliar relatives.

However, she was still a daughter of the Wilkinson, so of course she would still send some money to support them if she could. However, she wouldn't show up in front of them nor disturb their lives anymore.

But that didn't mean that she wanted to see the Collins and Wilkinsons suffer such serious consequences!

Was it all because of her?

.....

At the same time, Abigail and Penelope were rushing to the glass room from the kitchen.

Just a few minutes ago, Penelope heard Abigail had casually told her that she lent her MP4 to Hazel to judge for the song she was listening to.

When she heard this, Penelope's face changed instantly and she really wanted to slap Abigail to death.

"You fool! Didn't you know that your MP4 has an online function? If Miss Wilkinson was interested, she could've searched for news regarding her family! Have you forgotten the order given to us? We can't let Miss Wilkinson know anything about the Wilkinson family and the Collins family, so we usually never allow Miss Wilkinson to have contact with the TV, the Internet, or even the cell phone! But you... how could you foolishly give the gadget to the Miss?"

"Let me tell you this. If Miss Wilkinson knows about her family's matter, the consequences will be unimaginable! Even Mr. Simpson will not forgive us!" Penelope scolded sternly.

At this moment, Abigail finally realized the serious consequences of her unintentional acts.
