

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence

Chapter 966

"Elliot, can you not slander me?" She tried her best to keep a clear head, and was determined not to be led by his nose, "If I really rejected you thousands of miles away, yesterday's child's birthday banquet would not be at all. I'll let you participate."

Elliot pursed his thin lips into a thin line, trying to say something, but he didn't say it.

"I'll take you back to your room to rest." Elliot pushed her suitcase and walked to the door.

"Do you know my room number?" Avery saw him walking in front and teased, "You really bought my vice president? Elliot, why do you dare to do anything?"

Elliot stood at the door waiting for her, explaining: "It's not what you think Yesterday at the hotel, your vice president asked me for help. His son was really sick. He wanted to refund the application fee here, but it won't be refunded here. So I refunded him. I asked him to help me get you Called here, he disagreed at first, but yesterday he saw that our relationship was very harmonious, so he changed his mind to help me."

"Are you sure?" Avery listened to his explanation, and the fire in her heart subsided half.

"You can call your vice president now. If you don't even trust him at all, how dare you let him be your vice president?" Elliot teased.

"Even if you have a reason, it won't change the fact that you're a b*stard." Avery raised her lips and mocked, "President of Sterling Group, do you rely on such unprofessional methods to chase women?"

Elliot saw her feigning anger, and the corners of his mouth curled slightly. "Then how do you want me to chase? I can do it."

Avery strode up to him and snatched her suitcase, "I'll go back to my room by myself and I don't ask you to send it!"

Elliot followed behind her, not hurriedly.

Avery took out her room card and checked her room number.

Elliot calmly said, "Your room is next to mine. I'll take you there."

After that, he took her suitcase into his hand again.

"Avery, if I'm really so incompetent, I'll have to conquer you. As for sharing a room with you now?" He pushed her luggage and walked to the elevator door, "I'm afraid you haven't seen any bad news. you the man, blame me. I Usually too indulgent to you."

Avery was speechless.

People are shameless and invincible.

There was a sudden hunger in her stomach, and she hadn't eaten dinner yet. Hunger stopped her from arguing with him.

Elliot sent her to the door of the room, and then pointed to the room next to him: "Next to me is my room. You are welcome to drop by at any time."

Avery brushed the door open and said coldly, "No, don't come to me either."

She entered the room and closed the door!

The two were separated by a door, and it seemed that they could still hear each other's breathing.

Avery was entangled in her heart, and just kept him out of the door. Isn't she a little heartless?

Anyway, Elliot helped her carry the box.

But on second thought, if it wasn't for his gift, she wouldn't have to rush here at all.

She took a deep breath, forced herself to calm down, and carried the suitcase to the bed.

She was very hungry. In addition, she felt an unpleasant smell on her body. She planned to take a bath first and then went out to eat.

She opened the suitcase, took out the daily necessities one by one, then took out a set of clothes and walked towards the bathroom.

After about 20 minutes, she came out of the shower.

Her hungry stomach began to cramp slightly, so she didn't care about drying her wet hair, she took the phone and the room key and walked directly to the door.

She opened the door, took two steps out, and accidentally saw a slender woman standing at the door of the next room.

When Avery looked at the woman, the woman also looked at her.

The two looked at each other. The expression on Avery's face was a little surprised, but the woman had a charming and playful smile.

She seemed to be saying to Avery, I'm going to go in and conquer the man inside!
