

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 75

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna
Chapter 75
Ch 75 Figuring Stuff Out

When they arrived back at New Dawn, Alpha Ulric called Thea and the triplets into his office. The very serious-looking man from Delta team was in there with him. i “That’s Liam, right?” Thea thought.

“Yes. He’s the head of Delta team,” Kai thought to her.

“Do you think he’s upset that I used the Alpha tone on him on accident?”

“Surprised, maybe. That’s all.”

“How are you doing, Thea?” Alpha Ulric said.

“Better. It’s been less intense since Xavier’s wolf died,” Thea said.

“I told Liam about what your wolf told you,” Alpha Ulric said. “He has thoughts.” He turned to Liam.

“We didn’t notice anyone following Thea to or in Seattle this past weekend,” Liam said. “There still aren’t any new nests on pack lands. It looks like her wolf was right about the threat being gone for now.”

“That sounds like a good thing,” Conri said.

“Yes. It’s only a matter of time until it starts back up, though,” Alpha Ulric said. “Goddess gifts are difficult to hide.”

“What are they talking about?” Thea thought to Kai.

“Remember all those dangers we mentioned? People have been after you for a while,” Kai thought to her.

“We need to look into anti-witch measures,” Alaric said. “That seems to be our greatest weakness.”

Invisible werewolves sneaking onto our land. Witches that can separate Thea from Delta team and her mates. I think that's where we need to focus our attention."

"Agreed," Liam said.

"Witches are real?" Thea thought to Kai.

"Yes, darling," Kai thought back. "They are one of our biggest enemies."

"I guess that makes sense. What with the matebond and the goddess gift, that means magic exists. Why wouldn't witches?" she thought.

"I know there's a lot to catch up on," Kai thought, i

"How many people are on the Delta team?" she thought.

"Twenty-two," Kai thought.

"All those people to protect me? You guys are putting all your eggs in this goddess gift basket, huh?"

"We love you, darling," Kai thought.

"Thea, do you want to tell us about what happened with Xavier?" Alaric said, pulling her out of her thoughts.

"Yeah. I used the goddess gift," Thea said out loud.

Alpha Ulric and Liam leaned forward, interested.

"Xavier's brain didn't feel right. I had Alaric sit next to him to compare. Alaric's brain felt good, whole, like a well-oiled machine. All of it had electricity running through it. I could tell everything worked right in it. Xavier's had dark spots, dead zones. I wanted to know why, and the feeling I got was that there were twins when he was in the womb. The other died in the womb, but Xavier didn't get enough resources. Parts of his brain never developed.

Probably the parts that have empathy. He told me he's been killing people and eating them."

"As if raping she-wolves wasn't enough," Conri said.

"Yeah," Thea said. "I imagined his brain being fully developed, and I felt something build inside me. I pushed it out to him. I think I fixed his brain. It felt more like Alaric's. Then Xavier showed remorse for the things he did."

“He did,” Alaric said. “He was a blubbering mess when we left.”

“That is interesting,” Alpha Ulric said.

“Anyone else freaked out about the fact that we could’ve turned out like Xavier if it weren’t for Thea?” Kai said.

Conri and Alaric looked off into space for a moment.

“You’re not like Xavier, sons, because you did have Thea. You’re perfect, so don’t worry about it,” Alpha Ulric said.

“My wolf wants me to practice my gift,” Thea said.

“What do you need?” Alpha Ulric said.

“Zoe?” Thea thought.

“You need to practice sensing and reading different life forms,” Zoe said. “Manipulating energy. For now, you can just do it with the people around you. See what you sense in the pack house, go out in the woods and see what you sense there.”

“Nothing yet,” Thea said out loud. “I just need to spend time sensing things, get familiar with manipulating energy.”

“Okay,” Alpha Ulric said. “We’re done here for today. Get at it.”

The triplets and Thea left.

“I want to practice using my gift a little,” Thea said.

“Where do you want to do it?” Alaric said.

“The woods, I think,” Thea said.

“Yeah, let’s start there,” Zoe said in her mind.

“Yeah, the woods,” Thea said.

“Okay, let’s go,” Kai said.

They went out to the woods. Thea sat down, cleared her mind, and tried to reach out with her feelings to the surrounding area to see what she could sense. She felt the Earth, the life inside it, worms churning the dirt, bugs crawling, plants growing, trees reaching for sunlight and pushing their roots into the Earth.

Animals moved throughout the woods. Birds sat on the branches. Squirrels climbing everywhere. Rabbits hopping here and there. This land was in harmony. Everything was peaceful.

She felt the triplets and the four Delta team guards. They were also in harmony with their surroundings. She felt out further, and there were patrolmen walking the perimeters. A few pack members were on a run. There was a couple making out deep in the woods.

In the other direction was a large group of people. It must be the pack training. A warrior was leading the group. The participants all felt the same—they were close together, and they all overlapped and blended. One girl stood out. She felt abnormally happy. Like everything was new and beautiful.

“That’s good, Thea,” Zoe said in her mind.

“What is this?” Thea thought to Zoe. “What am I doing?”

“Your gift is Life,” Zoe said. “You’re in tune with it. It’s part of you.”

“Isn’t Life part of anything that’s alive?”

“Not like this,” Zoe said. “You can read it, interact with it, manipulate it, understand it.”

“Understand it?”

“We’ll get there,” Zoe said. “One thing at a time. Earth is alive, and it’s full of energy. See if you can pull energy from the Earth.”

“And do what with it?” Thea thought.

“Depends. For now, pull it into you.”

Thea imagined the energy coming toward her, and soon she felt an influx of that harmonious energy. She felt vitalized. Alert. Powerful.

“Woah,” she thought.

“Yeah. It supercharges you,” Zoe said.

“Can I do this for other people?”

“Yes.” 1

“How long does it last?” Thea thought to her.

“Depends. You can keep pulling from the Earth as long or as often as you need to.”

“Does it hurt the Earth?”

“No. The Earth is massive. It won’t even notice.”

“If I can manipulate energy, can I deplete people of their energy?”

“Yes, but you don’t want to pull a bad person’s energy into you,” Zoe said.

“Where would I send it?”

“Into the Earth. It neutralizes bad energy and recycles it into other life.”

“That makes sense. Plants die and get turned into mulch for other plants. Animals defecate, and nature takes it and turns it into something else. Why not energy too?”

“Exactly,” Zoe said. “Now try feeling into the pack house. There are a lot of people in there. See what you can read.”

Thea located the pack house. It felt different from the surrounding woods. It wasn’t alive. She could feel the individual people inside the building. Each person had a distinct feel. She figured out some of them were sleeping. They gave off a different energy and their brainwaves were different. There were some couples making love. There were some people who were anxious. Other pack members were talking to them, trying to make them feel welcome. Other people were cooking, doing laundry, cleaning, working.

“What are you getting off people?” Zoe said.

Thea told her what she sensed. Zoe asked her questions and gave her pointers. They played around with it for a while longer.

“That’s enough for now,” Zoe said. “Take a break. This stuff can wear you out.”

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 76

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna
Chapter 76
Ch 76 Learning to be Thea

The triplets and Thea went to their room.

“We should check your phone and laptop, see if there’s anything we need to attend to,” Alaric said. He handed her a phone.

She looked at it. "What do I do?"

Alaric took it back and tried to open it. "Do you know your password?"

Thea shook her head.

"Hmm. Let's see if we can crack it." Alaric started trying passwords.

Thea felt something off with Conri. She went to him and hugged him.

"What's this for?" Conri said. He wrapped his arms around her.

"You seem sad," she said. "What's wrong?"

"I'm worried about you. I'm starting to realize you may never be safe. "

She looked up at him. "I feel safe with you," she said. He smiled. "I know I don't remember anything, and I don't understand what's going on, but you make me feel like everything is okay."

He leaned down and kissed her.

"Let's get some work done while we can," Alaric said.

"Your password is our birthday."

Conri broke the kiss and inhaled her scent for a moment. He turned her around and pushed her to Alaric.

Alaric handed her the unlocked phone. She took it then jumped on Alaric, wrapping her legs around his waist and her arms around his neck.

"Are you trying to distract me?" Alaric said.

"Maybe. Is it working?" Thea said.

"No," he said.

She kissed his cheek and worked her way to his ear. She felt like he was too serious. He needed someone to be playful with him from time to time.

"What about Axel?" she whispered. She kissed down to his marking spot. "I haven't met him properly yet. Zoe's been telling me about him."

Alaric's hands slid up her legs under her dress and squeezed her buttocks. Thea pulled back and looked into Alaric's now black eyes.

"Hi, Axel." She smiled in triumph, and he kissed her. She moaned. He kissed differently than Alaric. "Caleb? Damon?" she thought.

Within seconds, Caleb and Damon were kissing their marks on her neck and roaming their hands over her body. Caleb started to take her dress off, and Axel set her down. As soon as her feet hit the floor, she ducked between Axel and Damon and jumped on her bed.

"I need help with this phone thing," she said. She swiped through different screens.

Three low growls sounded. She looked up at them innocently, knowing she incited the chase in their beasts. They all jumped on the bed and surrounded her, eyes black. Damon pushed her onto her back.

Caleb ran a hand up her leg under her dress. Axel went to his mark and started nibbling on it.

"I thought we needed to get some work done," Thea said. Sparks were erupting everywhere.

Damon leaned in. His hand slid over to her breast.

Thea put her hand on his chest and pushed him away. A low growl rumbled against her hand. She couldn't help but smile.

"Are you trying to rile him up?" Kai thought to Thea.

"Maybe we can save this energy for later," Thea said out loud. The triplets froze, and their eyes turned back to blue. They were breathing hard. She bit her lip. "That's really hot."

"They'll be coming for you later," Kai said, i

"Good," she said.

Kai pulled her up to a sitting position.

"Alright," Alaric said. He sat next to her. "Let me see." He took the phone from her and opened her email app. She had emails from Jane, looking for approval on a few more ideas for the bar.

"I'm opening a bar?" Thea said. "Aren't we kind of young? We're in high school."

"It's not a concern for werewolves," Conri said.

"You hired a manager to take care of running it," Alaric said.

"What do I need to do?" Thea said.

"Approve or reject these ideas for decor," Alaric said.

"I don't know what I was going for."

"You were liking everything Jane sent over before," Kai said. "It's probably safe to okay these. You could also schedule a meeting with her to go over everything, have her explain what your plans were."

She bit her lip. "Why was I doing this?" Thea said.

Alaric explained the whole thing.

"Oh," Thea said. "I don't want to mess this up. If I chose someone to manage the bar, I must have trusted him, right? Maybe I should turn it over to him?"

"Whatever you want, babe," Conri said.

"You don't have to make any decisions right now," Alaric said.

"Does the manager or this interior designer know I lost my memory?"

"I doubt it, now that I think of it," Alaric said. "It only happened yesterday."

"Maybe I should schedule a meeting with them and let them know," Thea said.

"That's a good idea. There's another businessman you were working with on this. Davie. He should know by now. He's in our pack. Let's reach out to him," Alaric said.

"The manager and interior designer aren't in our pack?" Thea said.

"No," Alaric said. He drafted and sent an email requesting the meeting between everyone. "Okay, that's done. You have a lot of texts to go through."

"Will you help me?" Thea said.

"Of course." He started going through them. "None of these are important, but these from unknown numbers are using the code words."

"Huh?"

“You know how Xavier did all those bad things?” Kai said. “You offered to help anyone who was being hurt by him or anyone else. ‘Let’s go to the bar’ is the code for ‘I need help.’ You told people to use that to get around an Alpha command to keep silent.”

“Oh my goddess, we need to help these people,” Thea said. “What should we do?”

“We could have them meet us by your locker after sixth period starts tomorrow,” Conri said.

“What if they don’t go to our school?” Kai said.

“Let’s respond to the texts, see what we can find out about who they are,” Alaric said.

Alaric started replying to texts, and responses rolled in. Some were students at their school. They’d meet them tomorrow and go home with them. Most of the texts were from people who no longer went to their school. They had graduated already and were omegas in their packs. Some also knew slaves in their packs who wanted out but didn’t have a phone. Alaric asked them if they could get themselves over to New Dawn’s gates. Some said they could, and Alaric told them to come whenever they could. Some were too far. They’d be seen by other packs as rogues before they made it to New Dawn.

“Can we pick them up?” Thea said.

“If they can get out of their pack lands, to a road, yeah,” Alaric said. “We just need to figure out the best place and schedule a time to meet.”

“We’ll need to get Delta team in on this,” Kai said. “ We’ll need backup and several vehicles.”

“Do we have cars?” Thea said

“The pack has vehicles, ” Conri said.

“Do I know how to drive?” Thea said.

“Yes, but we’ll have Delta team do the driving,” Conri said.

“I wouldn’t know where to go anyway,” Thea said. “ Do we have maps, or does everyone know where these packs are?”

“Delta will be familiar with all the surrounding areas,” Alaric said.

“You should schedule it so you’re with everyone when they’re picked up,” Zoe said in Thea’s head. “You’ll want to use your gift to sense if the people you’re picking up are good or bad and if there are bad people nearby who might ambush you.”

“Zoe wants me to use my gift to sense if the people are good or bad, and also to sense if there are bad guys around,” Thea said.

“So we plan each pick up separately, not simultaneously?” Alaric said.

“Yeah. I don’t want any of us getting ambushed,” Thea said.

“Thea, can you call Delta team in for a meeting?” Alaric said.

“How?”

“Mind link Liam, the guy that was in the Alpha’s office with us. Tell him to get all of Delta team together in the room where we did the oath ceremony as soon as possible.”

“Why me?” Thea said.

“Delta team is yours,” Conri said.

“Mine, like my guards?”

“They guard you, but they’re also your strike force,” Kai said, his fingers trailing up and down her arm.

Thea looked at him with her eyebrows scrunched together.

“You don’t remember this, but they swore an oath to protect and serve you,” Alaric said.

“Like my own private police force?” Thea closed her eyes and sighed. “How am I supposed to be whoever I was before? The person who knew what to do with a strike force?”

“You are who you were before this,” Kai said. “Whenever you learn a new thing, you respond the same way you did before. It’s just going to take some time to relearn everything.”

She opened her eyes and looked at him.

“Okay. Liam, right?” He nodded. She got the guy in her head and opened her mind to him. “Liam?”

“Yes, Luna?”

“Can you get all of Delta team together for a meeting in the room where we did the oath ceremony as soon as possible?”

“Yes, Luna,” Liam mind linked her. “We’ll be there in fifteen minutes.”

“Fifteen minutes,” Thea said out loud. “What’s with calling me Luna?”

“You’re the future Luna of the pack,” Conri said.

“But I’m not the Luna yet, so why is he calling me that?”

“I guess you could think of it like they’re calling you princess. Maybe you’re not the acting queen yet, but you’re still royalty. You still have authority. We don’t have another word for it,” Alaric said.

“In many ways, they already see you as their Luna. They swore their oath to you. They answer to you,” Kai said.

“Just like people call us Alpha,” Conri said. “Our father is the acting Alpha right now, but everyone still calls us Alpha.”

“I don’t know what to do with this information,” Thea said. “I’ll think about it later. Right now, we need Delta team to execute this operation, right? Wait. Should I be addressing you guys as Alpha?”

The triplets smiled at her.

“What?” Thea said.

“You’re our Luna. You call us whatever you want,” Kai said.

“I kind of liked the word coming out of your mouth,” Conri said.

“Maybe in the bedroom, you can play around with it,” Alaric said.

Thea looked at them for a few seconds. “Alpha,” she thought. Their eyes flickered black. “Mmm. Interesting,” she said out loud with a smile.

“Are you figuring out you have us wrapped around your little finger?” Kai thought to her.

She looked into Kai’s eyes. “Do you want to be wrapped around my little finger?” Thea thought to him.

“Yes,” he thought. “We all do.”

She smiled. “What information do we need to give them at this meeting?” Thea said out loud. “We need to coordinate locations, times, vehicles. What are we going to do with the people we pick up? Where will they stay?”

“We already have a section of the pack house set aside for people we take in,” Conri said. “The pack knows we’ll have newcomers and to help them.”

"Is there someone designated to show them around, take them to this area?" Thea said.

"You usually do it," Conri said. "You're the contact person and everything. We help. You had Lizzy and Alessia help too."

"I met Lizzy. Who is Alessia?" Thea said.

"She's the first person you helped," Kai said.

"How did this all start? How did I figure out people needed help?" Thea said.

The triplets thought for a moment.

"We got together romantically a few months ago," Alaric said. "Xavier saw the three of us kissing you at school and took it as a free pass to try to rape you. I don't know exactly what went on in his head. Now that we know his brain wasn't capable of working right, I really can't fathom what his thought process was."

"You fought him off, but he hurt you pretty badly," Conri said. "Gave you a concussion, dislocated your shoulder. We found you in the middle of it and beat him into the ground."

"Xavier went around telling rumors," Kai said. "Told everyone that you liked rough gangbangs, and only he was wolf enough for you to go one on one."

"A group of guys in the junior class jumped you because of the rumors," Alaric said.

"You beat them into the ground easily," Kai said. "I was so proud of you," he thought.

"Lizzy proclaimed you protector of the she-wolves," Conri said. "You announced that you would have the backs of anyone who was having problems with boys."

"Unfortunately," Alaric said, "We found rogues stalking you shortly after, and you were put under house arrest here in the pack house. You didn't go to school for months, so if anyone was going to ask for your help, they couldn't. You only came back to school last week after we were sure your stalkers had stopped."

"The first day you came back," Conri said. "Xavier approached you at lunch. He gave you a fake apology. You told him off. Then he got nasty. You announced to the whole cafeteria that Xavier tried to rape you under an Alpha tone command, but it didn't work because it wasn't strong enough. You said he wasn't a true Alpha." Conri smiled, remembering.

"He attacked you, but we got in his way," Kai said. "After he left, Alessia approached you at our lunch table. You took her outside to talk, and a bunch of other girls followed you two. They had all been abused by Xavier and others. They were under Alpha commands not to talk, so you pieced together what was happening. You told them they could join our pack, that you would protect them, and to spread the word. Anyone who needs help can join our pack. Slaves, omegas, rogues. We don't have omegas or slaves here, but some packs still do. You told them to use, 'Het's go to the bar,' as the code to get around an Alpha command."

"Alessia was the first person to reject her pack and join ours," Alaric said. "Since then, more have joined. That's how this came to be."

Thea nodded, processing the information.

"If we're going to do a lot of pick-ups tonight, one after the other, maybe we should assign someone to be here with the refugees," Thea said.

"Who do you want to do that?" Alaric said.

Thea bit her lip. "Who do you think I would have thought of?"

"Lizzy and Alessia," Alaric said. "And you would ask the other new pack members if they would feel comfortable showing the newcomers the ropes."

"Let's do that then," Thea said.

"You'd probably ask our dad and mom to be around if anything is needed," Conri said.

"Okay," Thea said. "So we'll talk to them after the meeting with Delta team and get that set up. Let's go to that room you had me tell Delta team to meet. I don't want to be late for the meeting I called. Only, I don't know where it is." "Followus, babe," Conri said.