

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 1115 -

Chapter 1115 Wailing

“Fool, you must die today. All of you must perish!” Koichi bellowed. Then, he unleashed a frightening aura from his body.

Steam billowed from the top of his head instantly, followed quickly by an ear-splitting shriek.

Koichi’s figure disappeared in the mist. A split second later, he appeared before Kai and swung his fist at the latter.

“Hmph. Puny tricks...”

Kai met Koichi’s incoming punch with his own fist. Golem Body enabled him to ignore Koichi’s attack.

Boom!

The two clenched fists met. Koichi’s intimidating aura vanished instantaneously following the loud bang.

Then, Koichi’s arm bent backward ominously. His bones broke through his skin and became exposed to the surroundings.

Koichi was shocked upon seeing that. He sensed a menacing aura that caused goosebumps to form all over her body the next instant.

“Retreat...”

Koichi hastily leaped backward.

He was the strongest among the five samurais. Yet even with his capabilities nearing the Top Level of Martial Arts Grandmaster, he did not stand a chance against Kai.

“None of you should think of leaving now....”

With that said, Kai darted forward and rapidly thrust his palm.

Dazzling golden lights shone in the sky. Kai’s attack directly encased Koichi.

At that sight, Koichi gritted his teeth and used his other arm to hurl a ball of fearsome energy upwards forcefully.

However, when the ball of energy collided with Kai’s lustrous attack, it swiftly dissipated into nothingness.

Bang!

A gigantic hole was formed on the ground instantly as Koichi was smacked into the crater.

All the other samurais were dumbfounded. They stared at Koichi, who was slammed into the earth, in utter astonishment.

None of them had expected the mission they assumed to be easily accomplishable to turn south.

“Koichi!” The remaining samurais shouted.

“Stop wailing, all of you. He’s not dead. I’m not granting any of you an easy death,” Kai said grimly.

These b*stards did not show mercy even to children. How can I let them die without any suffering?

Right after Kai finished speaking, Koichi slightly raised his head. He was not dead but certainly suffered grave injuries.

Koichi mustered all his remaining energy and said to the other four samurais, “Hurry up and leave, you guys. Go back to our country and inform this incident to our lord...”

Upon hearing that, the four samurais immediately turned around to leave, abandoning Koichi without hesitation.

“Your attempt to escape is futile...”

The golden light around Kai’s body grew brighter. He gestured some hand seals before launching a few arcane arrays underground.

The arcane arrays surrounded the four samurais in no time. They realized they were trapped with nowhere to run.

Sensing the predicament, they had no choice but to jump up and work together to assault Kai.

Bright lights gleamed in the sky as the four samurais withdrew their katanas. They repeatedly swung their sharp katanas at Kai.

“Hmph!”

Kai snorted. Instead of dodging, he merely allowed the slashes to hit his body. Sparks flew following the impacts, but Kai did not sustain any damage.

Those Jetroinian samurais could not shatter Kai's defense. He charged at those samurais with his ridiculously solid body.

Terror filled the samurais' faces when they saw Kai rushing at them. The next moment, all of them emanated waves of mist from their bodies. As the fog filled the area, those samurais' figures disappeared.

"My Lord, be careful. This is a form of Jetroinian Martial Arts," Axton hastily shouted at Kai when he took in the scene.

The Jetroinian Martial Arts from Jetroina was famous. A high-level Jetroinian samurai could rely only on Jetroinian Martial Arts to make themselves vanish from sight and entirely untraceable.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 1116 -

Chapter 1116 Not Getting Away

Kai knew that these people would never be able to get away from his arcane array.

Even though they were nowhere to be seen, he knew that they must be nearby.

With a wave of his hand, Dragonslayer Sword appeared right in his hand.

Kai took the Dragonslayer Sword and performed Nine Shadows. Soon, four identical Kais appeared, and each of them occupied a single corner.

The Dragonslayer Sword came to life, forming a myriad of shadows that exuded formidable sword energy. It was as if it was about to kill everything within the arcane array.

Pfft! Pfft!

Splatters of blood rained down the earth. Soon, a few Jetroinian warriors showed themselves.

Every single one of them was injured. Even though they were fighting for their lives with the katana in their hands, it was to no avail.

Kai looked at Koji with his dark obsidian eyes. They were cold and exuded a murderous glint.

At the thought that Koji had murdered the two children, Kai vowed to make Koji pay.

Whoosh!

Kai swayed the Dragonslayer Sword in his hand.

"Ah!"

Koji let out a chilling wail. One of his arms snapped into half as blood splattered out of it.

“Koji?” Kochiyu Kawashima called out after witnessing his second brother Koji’s arm being brutally cut off. Then, he cried out, “We have to unite and stop Kai from getting near us!”

A shadow fleeted across everyone’s eyes right then. Kai appeared right in front of Kochiyu in a matter of seconds.

“Do you think I am not going to be able to get near you just because you say so?” Kai snorted.

Kochiyu was startled and instinctively threw a punch in Kai’s direction. Kai reached out and grabbed his hand.

Crack!

With a loud crack, Kochiyu’s arm was snapped.

Out of the five Jetroinian samurais, there were only two left with all their limbs intact. Koji, Koichi, and Kochiyu all had one of their arms broken by Kai.

“Use the Golden Net...”

Right then, Koichi, who was on his last breath, threw out an object.

Koji suppressed the numbing pain in his arms and caught hold of the object that Koichi threw out before hurling it in Kai’s direction.

A giant net that sprawled for at least ten square meters appeared in the sky. The net was gleaming with a golden light as waves of restriction aura emanated from it.

It was the final trick up their sleeves. The Watanabe family had spent a fortune to get their hands on the Golden Net in the Epea region. It was made of exceptionally hardy material, and it was impossible for one to escape it once entrapped.

The Golden Net entrapped Kai in the blink of an eye. Then, it started to constrict, immobilizing Kai like a cocoon.

The Jetroinian samurais heaved a sigh of relief after confirming that Kai was entrapped by the Golden Net. They were beyond glad to see that Kai could finally have a taste of his own medicine.

“He’s immobilized now! What are you guys waiting for?” Koichi warned them aloud.

Soon, the two Jetroinian samurais left standing slashed their katanas in Kai’s direction.

Clang! Clang! Clang!

However, no matter how hard they tried, they could not get past Kai's defense.

"Koji, Kochiyu, please help them out..."

Koichi could only ask Koji and Kochiyu, both of whom had lost one of their arms each, to help out.

The four samurais worked together and sent waves of martial energy hitting the Golden Net, making the Golden Net's glimmer even brighter than before. Kai felt an unprecedented overbearing pressure weighing down on him. The Golden Net was also constricting by the second as it crushed his body.

Soon, Kai's body was compressed into a ball, distorted in an inhuman way.

"Okay, now he's not going to be able to get away. Hurry up and help me up..."

Koichi heaved a sigh of relief, for he knew that it was impossible for Kai to free himself now, no matter how hard he struggled.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 1117 -

Chapter 1117 Breaking The Net

The other samurais were beyond relieved as well, as Kai's capabilities were beyond what they had imagined.

If not for the Golden Net entrapping Kai, they would have died on the spot.

Even though they still could not break Kai's Golem Body, they had managed to restrict his movements.

As long as they had him under control, they need not worry about the others.

Axton and Lizbeth grew apprehensive when they saw that Kai was immobilized by the Golden Net.

"Kai..."

Lizbeth wanted to save Kai as soon as she saw him trapped within the Golden Net.

"Don't come over..."

Kai stopped Lizbeth in her tracks immediately. Given her strength, she would have died anyway.

It would have been a futile attempt.

Lizbeth looked blankly at Kai as tears streamed down her cheeks.

"Take Kai away," Koichi ordered when he noticed that Lizbeth was about to dash forward to save the man.

Among the five samurais, three were injured, and only two had all their limbs intact.

If those from Medicine God Sect had stepped up at the same time, Koichi knew it would be difficult to deal with them all at once.

Hence, he decided it was best to take Kai away first.

Bang!

Just when the samurais were about to strike and take Kai away, a loud bang ensued.

The others traced the direction of the sound and noticed that one of the many threads that was holding the Golden Net together had snapped!

Bang!

Then, another one snapped.

Kai's muscles exuded a golden gleam as they continued to expand, resisting the Golden Net that was restraining him.

Koichi and the others were flabbergasted at the sight.

The Golden Net was considered a sacred item. Even though it had seen better days, and was quite worn out, it was still a sacred item. Hence, it was not likely that Kai could just break it.

"Koichi..."

Koji's eyes widened in surprise as he looked at the threads that were holding the Golden Net together unravel.

"Don't worry. Golden Net is practically indestructible. It's not going to break apart just from that," Koichi reassured him.

However, Koichi was not even sure he was convinced by his own words.

The fact that the threads of the Golden Net kept snapping was baffling him too.

However, as soon as he said that, he noticed there was already an opening on the Golden Net.

He felt a formidable wave of spiritual energy coming his way right then. The two samurais that were standing nearby the Golden Net, hoping to restrain Kai, were flung off into the distance by the energy.

“Ah!”

Kai gritted his teeth and exerted more force as he attempted to tear the Golden Net apart, exuding an enormous amount of spiritual energy in the process.

Thump!

A loud bang ensued. The Golden Net had exploded, sending bits and pieces of it flying into the woods. Countless trees snapped and fell as a result.

Kai glowed with a golden light as he descended from the sky, mystifying everyone present.

The five samurais were stumped when they saw that.

In the meantime, Koji seized the opportunity before Kai could make a landing and tried to stab the latter in his neck.

He wanted to cut Kai’s head right off.

Clang!

The sound of metals clashing could be heard. Then, Koji’s hands felt numb as the katana flew right out of his hand.

Kai did not seem to have sustained any injuries, as only a white mark remained on his body.

Koji, who had already lost an arm, was unable to pick up his katana.

Kai slowly turned around and eyed Koji who had tried to ambush him.

The latter shuddered when he met Kai’s gaze.

“Let me deal with you first then,” Kai said.

Then, he reached out to grab at Koji.

Frightened, Koji immediately turned to escape. However, he did not get far before Kai caught up with him and captured him.

Koji struggled to break free from Kai’s grasp.

Crack!

Kai gripped his arm and tugged at it forcefully.

He tore Koji's remaining arm right off.

The Mans Decree Novel Chapter 1118 -

Chapter 1118 Dismemberment

The gruesome scene sent a shiver down everyone's spine, while Koji's agonizing scream reverberated throughout the Medicine God Sect.

After witnessing what happened, the samurais turned pale. None of them dared to move a muscle despite the urge to rescue him.

Crack!

Amidst another tearing sound, Koji's other leg was torn off by Kai.

By then, Koji didn't even have any energy left to manage a scream.

With his blood-splattered body smoldering with murderous intent, Kai looked like the Grim Reaper himself.

Even Lizbeth and Axton were gripped by fear, as Kai looked as if he had gone berserk.

With everyone looking on in horror, Kai tore off all four of Koji's limbs, leaving only the stump of his body.

In spite of that, Koji was still breathing, albeit in tremendous pain.

Kai then flung what was left of Koji at Axton's feet.

"Mr. Knox, find a pot and fill it with medicine. After that, leave this guy in there, and don't let him die," Kai instructed Axton.

"My Lord, this..."

Axton was stumped, as doing so was just too cruel for him.

When he saw Axton frozen in shock, Kai furrowed his brows slightly. "Look at those two dead children in front of you. Do you still think that I'm being cruel?"

Axton turned his attention to the dead children and their mother. Despite the indignance raging in his heart, he still couldn't bring himself to comply.

"Just do as I say. This is an order."

With a darkened expression, Kai raised his voice abruptly.

Shivering briefly, Axton gestured to his men to do Kai's bidding.

Soon, a pot filled with medicine was brought forward. Koji was then placed inside with only his body submerged, keeping him alive for the time being.

The grisly sight struck fear into the hearts of the samurais.

Although they weren't afraid of death, it was still the first time they saw such a scene.

Kai then stared at Koichi with a murderous glint in his eye.

"Soon, you, too, will be stored in the pot. Do you know what this is called?"

As Kai gradually stepped forward, the samurais backpedaled in fear.

"This is called dismemberment. Only citizens of Jetroina can come up with something as brutal as this. Today, I'll let you personally experience something your ancestors have invented," Kai explained, continuing his approach.

"F*ck, the samurais of Jetroina would rather die than be humiliated by you."

Koichi roared, "We are the subordinates of the Watanabe family. If you do this to us, our ambassador will definitely make you pay!"

"F*ck you! Why don't you tell him to try."

Kai put one foot forward and unleashed a powerful punch.

Even though the remaining four samurais resisted with everything they had, they were still no match for him. Hacking him with their swords made no impact at all.

With his hand outstretched, the Dragonslayer Sword appeared, engulfed in a raging inferno. It was then followed by the blinding arc of a slash.

Kai didn't kill them. Instead, he had maimed their limbs with the Dragonslayer Sword.

In slightly more than ten minutes, severed limbs were strewn all over the ground, while the four samurais were howling in excruciating pain.

By then, Kai's body was long drenched in blood, whereas Lizbeth and Axton were already numb from shock.

"Kai..." Lizbeth called out softly, worried that Kai had gone raving mad. She feared that he would go on a killing spree, unable to recognize anyone.

As Kai looked at Lizbeth, a wide smile broke out on his blood-covered face, revealing his pearly-white teeth amidst a sea of red.

