Chapter 511 I'm Chasing Savanna

"What does he want to do? Push me over."

As soon as Finn finished speaking, Gerald pushed the wheelchair and took Finn over.

Savanna heard the footsteps behind her. She was in a panic. She gasped for breath and kept looking back.

When she turned around, she saw two people in front of her in astonishment. Her feet went weak, and she almost pounced on the person sitting in the wheelchair.

Fortunately, the person reached out and helped her stand firm, asking, "Are you alright?"

"Sorry, I almost bumped into you."

After Savanna managed to keep her feet, she recognized the person and asked, "Mr. Orwell, what are you doing here?"

Before the latter could reply, Daryl came up with Savanna out of breath. "Ms. Thompson, why are you running? I won't hurt you."

"Daryl, what the hell are you doing?" Finn controlled the wheelchair to stop in front of Savanna. He shot daggers at Daryl.

"Finn? What brings you here? It's rare to see you.

Although Finn was Daryl's cousin, Daryl didn't pay any respect to him. Daryl gave a mocking smile and greeted Finn with a disdainful expression.

"Didn't you hear me? What are you doing?" Finn raised his voice, and his face turned gloomy.

Daryl sneered and shrugged indifferently. "Can't you see? I'm chasing Savanna."

Finn frowned and felt ashamed for being Daryl's family. "Don't you know her relationship with Brandon?"

Daryl laughed. "Well, I know. Don't get me wrong. I don't like her. I just wanted to catch her up."

Finn rolled his eyes at Daryl. "Let's cut to the chase, you'd better stay away from Savanna. Otherwise, you will regret it."

Daryl laughed crazily. "I don't think so. I'm not like you. I do whatever I wish to do. No one can stop me." risking your neck." Finn

"I'm with Mr. Finn Orwell," said Savanna.

It was true.

“Savanna, don’t be afraid. I’ll come to see you right away.”

Brandon’s voice was a little loud. Finn was sitting next to Savanna and heard it clearly.

“Mr. Cassel, you don’t think that I’m Daryl’s accomplice, do you?” Finn sneered. His voice was full of contempt.

“Isn’t that so? You are cousins. Who knows if you are plotting something again?” Brandon said fiercely. “The Orwell family never gave us peace!”

“Humph.” Finn laughed with disdain. “Don’t forget that you are related to the Orwell family too.”

Brandon didn’t bother to argue with him. He hung up the phone and walked to the service center.

Fortunately, the service center was not far from where he was, and he had long legs. He soon saw two people at the door of the service center.

To be precise, one was standing, and the other was sitting.

They were talking.

Savanna was extremely worried about the child. She had her arms crossed and paced around. Her face was full of anxiety.

“Ms. Thompson, don’t worry. The child will be fine.” Finn comforted Savanna. “According to my knowledge of Daryl, he is a bad person, but he won’t kill a child.”

“My child is different. He had autism before, and it hasn’t been long since his condition has improved. I’m afraid that...”

Savanna couldn’t continue speaking. She reached her fingers to her mouth and nibbled her nails unconsciously.

When Brandon came over, the tips of Savanna’s nails were almost bitten off.

“Brandon, how is it? What exactly happened?”

Savanna rushed over and grabbed the corner of Brandon’s clothes as soon as she saw him. She looked extremely nervous.

Savanna asked, "Brandon, how long has Tye been missing? Was he taken away by Daryl?"

On the way home, Savanna was sitting uneasily in the passenger seat. She was extremely worried about her son.

The family of three went out together, but now there were only Savanna and Brandon.

She was really afraid that something would happen to Tye.

“Don’t worry. I’ve arranged for people to look for him. Our son will be fine.”

After Brandon comforted his wife, he immediately called his assistant, Jim. Brandon asked, “How is the investigation? Any clues?”

“Mr. Finn, Mr. Daryl has indeed returned to the house in the south of the city.”

At the same time, Gerald also began to search for Tye under the command of Finn.

Daryl was Finn’s cousin, so Finn was more familiar with him. It was helpful to the investigation.

“Where is the child? Is he also in that house?”

Gerald was not sure, so he could only probe deeper.

About ten minutes ago, a blue Maserati came from the other side of the road like an arrow released from a bow.

When it got close to a villa complex, the car suddenly turned and rushed directly toward the gate.

Just as the car was about to hit the gate, a security guard rushed out of the sentry booth and quickly pressed the open button.

The gate immediately opened and the sports car rushed in, perfectly avoiding a collision.

“Mr. Daryl.”

The security guard recognized the sports car and greeted Daryl respectfully. Daryl had driven away. When he heard the security guard’s voice, he came back. The car roof was retracted and revealed Daryl’s face with a sinister smile on it.

Daryl slapped him quite hard.

Tye was instantly slapped to the ground and didn’t move for a long time.

Daryl complained, “Is he a pup? Shit! He almost bit my fingers off! It hurts!”

Seeing that Tye had not moved for a long time, the bodyguard walked over to check his breath.

“Fortunately, he is still alive.”

“You tell me! Would I kill him!” Daryl rolled his eyes at the bodyguard, speechless.

The bodyguard did not dare to retort, even though Daryl did seem to want to kill Tye just now.

After all, Daryl was a black sheep in his family, who was famous for being unprincipled and cruel. He had beaten someone to death before. But in the end, his family would always come out to settle every trouble he caused.

“Damn kid! I was planning to take him upstairs to give him some food and video games. Ungrateful son of a bitch! He’d better stay in the basement for good!”

Daryl cursed. He turned around, and before he left, he slammed the door of the room shut.

After leaving, Daryl passed through the long corridor in the basement and climbed upstairs.

“Where’s the doctor? Get me a doctor!”

Daryl slumped on the sofa in the living room, raising his finger, which was red and swollen, but not bleeding. There was also a row of tiny teeth marks on it.

“He really is a pup!” The more Daryl looked at his finger, the angrier he became. He vented his anger at the bodyguard and said, “I told you to get me a doctor! Are you deaf!”

“I have contacted the doctor, Mr. Orwell. He should be on the way now,” the bodyguard replied.

In less than two minutes, the sound of a car came from the door.

Daryl held a glass of red wine in his hand and leaned on the sofa. He sighed comfortably, “He is fast.”

"Tye! Mom is here!"

Savanna saw Tye in the back seat and ran over excitedly.

On the other hand, Brandon strode toward the wheelchair aggressively.

He questioned Finn sternly, "Didn't you say that you didn't have Tye? What is this then?"

Finn's face was pale and haggard. He twitched the corner of his mouth and smiled contemptuously, "Mr. Cassel, you are so ungrateful."

Brandon frowned. "What do you mean? Don't pretend that you are a good person. You think I don't know that you are working with Daryl!"

Brandon believed that Daryl kidnapped Tye and Finn came here to meet Daryl. They were going to take Tye as a hostage to force him to compromise.

Seeing that Finn was misunderstood, Gerald quickly explained, "Mr. Cassel, you misunderstood. Mr. Finn and Mr. Daryl are different. Mr. Finn is here to save this boy."

"I won't believe you. All your Orwell family are bastards!"

Brandon hated the Orwell family so much. Nothing good had happened ever since he met them.

"Brandon, don't be a jerk! I did it for your own good!"

Anyone who was wronged like this would be irritated. Finn looked up and grabbed the wheelchair. If it weren't for the fact that he was weak, he would have already stood up and punched Brandon.

"For my own good? It's more like you want to scheme against me!"

Brandon clenched his fists, his knuckles cracking.

He raised his arm as if he was going to hit Finn the next second.

"Wonderful!"

At this time, Daryl clapped his hands and walked out of the villa.

Daryl mocked with an evil smile, "You've done so much for nothing, Finn. They won't appreciate you at all. You are making yourself a fool!"

"Be careful!"

Seeing her tilt, Brandon quickly held her shoulder. "Honey, are you alright?"

At the same time, a pair of hands grabbed Savanna's arms. "Savanna, are you alright?"

It was the person who collided with Savanna. It was also a man's voice. Brandon and he almost spoke simultaneously.

"I'm fine."

Savanna calmed herself down, only to find that the person she bumped into was an acquaintance. "Dr. Barton, why are you here?"

She clearly remembered that Rex did not work at this hospital.

“I came here to study and communicate. The meeting has been going on until now. I changed into my plain clothes and planned to eat out.”

Rex let go of his hands and looked down at the child in Savanna’s arms. “What’s going on? What happened to Tye?”

“He has a fever, and his body is extremely hot.” Savanna looked at the child in her arms and seemed to be about to shed tears in the next second.

Rex reached out and checked the child’s forehead temperature. At the same time, his eyebrows wrinkled.

“Why is it so hot? Come with me.”

Saving lives was more important. Rex reached out to take the child, but Tye was in a daze and kept hiding in Savanna’s arms. Savanna had held the child for so long, and she was already exhausted.

“Give me the child.” At this time, Brandon reached out his hand.

Miraculously, Tye also cooperated as if he heard his father’s voice and obediently stretched his limbs.

“Where are you taking him?” Brandon easily carried the child over and put him in his arms.

Rex led the way, and the couple followed. They took the elevator upstairs and passed through a corridor, arriving at the children’s clinic.

Rex pushed open the door of an office. “Professor Sawyer, check this child. His body is extremely hot.”

"Are you threatening me? Finn, do you really think I am a pushover?"

Brandon directly grabbed Finn's collar and lifted his thin body from the wheelchair.

"Mr. Cassel, let go of me!"

When Gerald saw this, he quickly went over to help. He tried to break off Brandon's hands, trying to save Finn in vain.

Brandon's fingers were like steel as he tightly gripped Finn's collar. His head was slightly lowered as he stared coldly into Finn's eyes and warned.

"I advise you not to do these little tricks behind my back. I will not tolerate you again and again!"

Finn was strangled to the point of having difficulty breathing, but he still refused to surrender.

“Brandon, you are too naive. Whether you agree or not, we are already in the same boat.”

“Who the fuck is on the same boat with you!”

Thinking of the various changes that Finn had brought him, Brandon felt his blood boil.

He also became agitated, and his grip on his collar tightened in anger. His eyes were red as if he was going to tear Finn apart.

“Stop! What are you doing?” Noticing the chaotic scene, Savanna wanted to run over to stop them.

Afraid that she would be accidentally injured, Brandon quickly waved his hand to stop her.

“Savanna, don’t come over!”

“We are in the ward. What are you doing?” Savanna looked at the two men who were grappling with each other and then turned to look at the sleeping child on the bed and became more anxious.

"Savanna asked me to come out to see if you guys are fighting or not."

Seeing that he was noticed, Rex greeted the nurse and then walked over generously.

He behaved naturally as if he had been standing by the wall and taking a nap and had not heard anything.

"When did you come out?" Brandon went straight to the point.

They were all brothers, and Rex did not hide anything. "I heard everything, but as long as you don't do anything to hurt Savanna, I will keep this secret to myself forever."

Everyone present was smart. Since he made such a promise, everyone understood.

Brandon patted Rex on the shoulder. "Thank you, bro. Thank you for keeping my secret."

"Don't be fooled by him." Rex glanced at the sickly man sitting in the wheelchair, his eyes full of distrust.

"Don't worry, I won't," Brandon replied.

Finn coughed timely and smiled bitterly, "You are a doctor. You should be able to see that my will soon come to an end. The time of a terminally ill patient is the most precious. I don't have time to tease him."

Every doctor was kind. Rex was not familiar with him, but he still advised, "You should lie on the bed to rest. Running around like this will make you die quickly."

"Thank you. Unfortunately, I don't have time."

Finn still wanted to continue to talk about the matter but was interrupted by Rex.

“Brandon, Savanna has been waiting in the ward for a long time. If you don’t want her to worry, hurry back quickly.”

At the mention of Savanna, Brandon’s eyes turned cold, and he strode over to the ward.

Seeing his hurried back, Gerald asked helplessly, “Mr. Orwell, Mr. Cassel has left. What about us?”

“Let’s go back. I am also tired.” Finn was really tired and could not take it anymore. He closed his eyes and leaned against the wheelchair, letting his assistant push him away.

"Don't be ridiculous. Since when did I like Savanna?"

Rex retorted upon the nurse.

Rex did like Savanna, but because of their special relationship, he did not dare to tell her about his love, afraid of causing unnecessary trouble.

But the nurse ignored Rex and said in surprise, "So she's called Savanna. She is beautiful, and her name is good."

Hearing this, Rex warned seriously, "Don't tell her. I don't want her to know."

"So she doesn't know your feelings for her. Poor you." The nurse showed a sympathetic look.

Rex did not say anything. Seeing Savanna and Brandon were devoted to each other, he knew that she would never be his.

Rex's feelings for Savanna could only be buried deep in the bottom of his heart unless a miracle happened.

"Dr. Barton, is that really impossible? What if... What if something happens and they get divorced?" the nurse asked, her eyes rolling.

"How is that possible?" Rex smiled bitterly.

Rex didn't expect what the nurse said to turn out to be a prophecy.

After the infusion, Tye went to sleep again, but he woke up that night.

The high fever made Tye exhausted. As soon as he woke up, he wanted something to eat.

Brandon rode his bicycle to a nearby restaurant and bought some light yet nourishing food.

The oatmeal had a soft, mild flavor, which was very suitable for people who had just recovered from serious illnesses.

Savanna blew the oatmeal to cool it and fed it to Tye patiently. "Baby, take your time. Eat slowly."

Chapter 520 What Do You Mean?

Upon Finn's reminder, Brandon remembered his makeup.

Brandon asked, "Where's the makeup artist? I'll get her to remove the makeup for me."

"The meeting will start in forty minutes." Finn raised his wrist to look at the time.

It meant that it was too late.

If Brandon wanted to remove his makeup, he definitely wouldn't have time to put on makeup when he came back, and their plan would be ruined.

"If I can't make it back in time, you can handle the meeting for me for a moment."

In Brandon's mind, Savanna would always be put first. Nothing was more important than her. Moreover, this was just an ordinary meeting.

Finn heard this and sneered. "I can handle it. But the fewer you attend these meetings, the more flaws you will have in the future. Those old bastards of the Orwell family can't be trifled with."

Brandon had walked out of the door, but when he heard this, he suddenly stopped.

"What do you mean?"

"You'd better not leave. Just focus on this meeting. It's very important. Everyone only cares about the content. No one will see whether you are real or not," Finn advised.

Brandon thought for a moment and took out his phone from his pocket. "Well, I'll give Savanna a call."

"Mr. Cassel, are you going to tell Savanna all these things?" Finn asked.

Brandon thought that Finn would stop him and then said firmly, "I promised Savanna that I would not keep anything to her."

However, to Brandon's surprise, Finn did not mean to stop him. Instead, Finn said, "Go ahead."

Just as Brandon pressed the call button and made the connection, Finn suddenly opened his mouth in the wheelchair.

Finn said, "Mr. Cassel, I hope you can understand one thing before you make the call. Whoever knows this secret will be put in danger."
