

My Mates 456

Chapter 456-Welcome Back, Mother

Maynard's POV:

Ever since I didn't take Enya's side and relied on my silence, I ruined all my chances with her. She told me she would accept me in a heartbeat, something I have craved like a child craves attention, yet when the time arrived, I f*cked up.

I wish I had looked past all the stuff Christina has told me and her sacrifices and just accepted Enya. Look at me now, I am going crazy thinking Enya will be in bed with that Lycan.

How could I be so dumb?

'I didn't have to sacrifice in order to pay Christina back for all the times she made it seem like she gave up herself for me.' I spoke to May, who had been accusing me of ruining our chances with Enya.

'I wish we had not listened to Christina at all.' He reminded me once again of who had become the problem.

'She told me I could be with Enya, so I did just that. I slept with Enya, only for Christina to say she doesn't want it anymore and my d*mba*s didn't even see the red flags she waved in my face.' I was walking toward our bedroom to have a word with her. It's been days since Theo exposed her, and we haven't talked. I didn't even sleep in the same bedroom as she did.

The thing that bothered me was that when Enya rejected me on my wedding day and slapped me, it didn't hurt my ego. But then Christina found out about it, and she kept telling me how disrespectful Enya was to me. I still didn't think of it, but then she used that excuse in front of Enya and made it seem like I took revenge on her for that slap.

'My only fault was not holding Enya's hand when she needed me the most,' I grumpily muttered while reaching the room. Before I could even barge in, I heard her on the phone.

by surprise because she was mentioning Enya's name. Not only that, about us and spread false news once again, and this time I just myself to stand here and f*ck?" I yelled and slammed the door open. She panicked after watching at her. My heart seemed to be pounding and throbbing in my temples. She looked petrified, truth," After grabbing all the remind you of the truth?" I took a step closer to her, said you would be okay with her being my mate as well. But then you started changing your statements and backing away from your promises. You flooded me with guilt and reminded me of what you had done for me over and over again until I went mute, like a dumb a*shole. You know what I am beginning to think? You are jealous of Enya. You just big tears flowing down her eyes, but they didn't bother me anymore. Christina had become so good at shedding tears that now I could no longer tell when she

"You are." I nodded,

What does she have that I don't have—," she cried, screaming hear that," I scoffed, laughing at me for losing a gem you accept me? Why did you never change yourself for her, but you changed yourself for me?" She stopped crying just

I changed for you?" I asked in a peaceful tone, and her body turned lifeless. She dropped her hands to the side of her body and explained. "I am guilty of dragging you along, but you are not a saint either. I told you many times, even before our mating ceremony, that I was not into you. But you kept telling me it would be fine and that I would forget day. I feel for her and I—," I stopped when she lunged

it," she whispered in