I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1871-“Roald! I’ve given you enough respect. Since you’re still so blind, then you can’t blame me for what happens next.”

After Cosmo finished speaking, his True Saint energy filled the scene again.

While everyone was terrified, they were also extremely excited.

‘Is the True Saint about to make a move?’

‘The collision between the two big families is about to begin.’

‘This is going to be good.’

After Cosmo learned that the Palmore family and the Fellowes family were on the verge of a fallout, he initially did not want any conflict with the Fellowes family at this juncture.

However, after what happened today, he had no choice.

Too many people were gathering here.

The Lightfoot family even dispatched a True Saint like him, so he could not back down.

Otherwise, the news would spread throughout the entire Star Kingdom immediately.

The Lightfoot family had humiliated themselves enough.

Their first and second-in-line heirs died one after another.

It had been so long, and they still had not caught the killer.

If someone added some fuel to the fire, then the Lightfoot family would become Star Kingdom’s biggest joke.

As soon as Cosmo took action, the hearts of Roald and the others immediately rose.

David asked them to stall for as long as possible.

However, once Cosmo made a move, no one could resist him except for Tai, who was also a True Saint.

However, it was impossible that Tai would help the Fellowes family.

Thus, they could only depend on themselves.

When Cosmo unleashed his True Saint energy...

“Wait!”

Roald, Valerio, and Alba yelled at the same time.

After they said that, Koen mocked immediately, “Why? Are you regretting it now? Are you scared? Who was the stubborn one just now that said no one would take David away from Treasure Trove unless he walks out himself?”

He thought that Roald must have thought it through and had agreed to hand over David.

Koen was not the only one who thought so, the onlookers below also thought so.

They thought the show was over.

However, it would be nice to see David, a legend who suddenly appeared.

The purpose of most people coming here was to meet David.

They wanted to see who this kid was.

He was only a thousand years old, but he was able to make the True Saint grandmaster of the Lightfoot family come out in person. This was not something ordinary people could achieve.

All members of the Fellowes family were beaming.

They thought Grandmaster Roald had finally thought this through and was willing to give David to the Lightfoot family to ensure the temporary stability of the Fellowes family.

“Koen, are you not curious why the Fellowes family is doing so much to protect David? He is a young man who is less than a thousand years old, so what qualifications does he have for us to do this?” Roald asked after thinking for a while.

He had to think of something to help David buy time, and it had to be something everyone was interested in.

He believed everyone was curious about David’s identity, including Cosmo.

Thus, he would use this topic to delay for a while!

When Roald asked this question, Koen showed an intrigued expression.

Even Cosmo next to him was the same.

The Fellowes family was so desperate to protect David that they were even willing to go to war with the Lightfoot family. Why was that?

This was what Cosmo had always wondered about.

A family at the level of the Fellowes family would weigh the pros and cons of they did to find the solution that would bring them the most advantages.

The Lightfoot family was no different.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1872-Therefore, it was impossible that the Fellowes family would pay such a high price to help David for no reason.

There must be another factor unknown to outsiders.

Maybe David gave the Fellowes family a reason to go to war with the Lightfoot family.

Or, he gave them some other interest.

In short, the Fellowes family must have a reason to help David.

The crowd watching the fun down below was also curious.

Since Roald asked this question, he should reveal why David was so special soon.

They were all looking forward to it!

“I’m really curious, so tell me, why is your family helping David?” Koen asked.

‘To answer this question, we must start with David’s identity.’ Roald kept them on tenterhooks.

His purpose was to delay time, not to confuse these people.

As long as David came out, the Fellowes family’s mission would be complete.

“David’s identity? As far as I know, David is just a kid who just popped up out of nowhere. What kind of identity can he have? I have checked all the top forces in Star Kingdom and there is no one with the surname Lidell at all.”

“Koen, do you think a brat who popped up out of nowhere can spend eleven trillion Star Dollars at the auction just to piss off Archimedes? That’s real money, how many young people in Star Kingdom can spend so much money?”

This was true.

The only young people who could spend eleven trillion Star Dollars at once without blinking an eye might only be the Star Kingdom Six.

It was not that others did not have the money, they had to weigh the pros and cons and see if it was worth it.

“But I checked, this kid has never appeared before and there is no one known as David Lidell among the major forces in Star Kingdom. Maybe he is lucky and found a relic, so that’s why he has money.”

There was some possibility to Koen’s statement, but the chances of this were low.

Was it that easy to find a ruin?

Even if he was lucky enough to find it, how many people could come out alive with the treasure after entering?

Besides, David was only about a thousand years old.

Presumably, he would not be very strong at this age.

Considering these various factors, this seemed even more unlikely.

“Koen, you’re a Saint but you are so short-sighted. Can your findings represent everything?” Roald mocked.

“You mean…” Koen was about to say what was on his mind.

However, he was stopped by a look from Cosmo.

This involved Star Kingdom’s secrets.

One was only qualified to know about this when one was a Saint.

So, they could not let those people below know.

Koen also realized this and immediately shut his mouth, not continuing to speak.

His sudden silence made the people down below feel uncomfortable.

Cosmo waved, separating the sky from the ground.

The people below could only see them, but could not hear them speak.

Then, he asked, "Roald, stop rambling, who is David? Where did he come from? Who did he learn from? Tell me everything you know. If I am happy with that, my family will stop pursuing this."

Tai and Anders, who were standing on the other side, were also interested and cast curious glances at the same time.

They were waiting for Roald's answer.

However, even though they were curious, they did not care.

The Lightfoot family had some scruples, fearing that there might be a powerful person behind David hiding in the dark of Star Kingdom.

However, the Palmore family was not scared.

A Sacred Saint was Star Kingdom's strongest combat power.

Moreover, the Palmore family already had a Sacred Saint and was already invincible.

As long as they did not do anything that would betray humans and arouse the anger of both humans and gods, the Palmore family would sit firmly as one of the top forces in Star Kingdom.

No matter how the situation changed, it would not affect the Palmore family in the slightest.

This was the deterrent power of a Sacred Saint.

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1873

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1873-Roald was wondering incessantly how he could stop Cosmo and prevent him from making a move.

He could not tell the truth without David's consent.

However, Cosmo had run out of patience, so he had to say something.

The only thing he could do was indirectly and vaguely imply this to make Cosmo hesitate.

That way, he would not act so quickly.

Roald recomposed his thoughts and said, "I don't dare to tell you David's identity without his consent. I can only tell you that his background is far beyond your imagination, Cosmo, if you dare to take action against him, the Lightfoot family will be in big trouble soon! That's all I can say. It's up to you whether you believe me or not."

"Are you trying to scare me?" Cosmo asked coldly.

"I am telling the truth."

"Roald, do you think that if you're vague, I will be hesitant and not dare to make a move? You underestimate me. Even if David has a great background, the Lightfoot family has no fear. I'll give you another chance. I want David's specific information. Where did he come from? Who is his master? Are you going to tell me?"

"I dare not say," Roald replied bravely.

"Then I'll help you!"

After Cosmo finished speaking, two space cracks appeared in front of him.

He quickly put his hand straight in.

The next moment, two hands appeared from behind Valerio and Alba. Before they could react, the hands grabbed their necks and dragged them into the space crack. After that, they were dragged out from the crack in front of Cosmo.

A True Saint was very fast, and he did all that almost instantly.

Even Roald, who was a Pre-Saint, did not have time to react, let alone Valerio and Alba who were not Saints yet.

In just a split second, Valerio and Alba switched positions and were now being held by Cosmo.

As they felt the power of the hand on their necks, they both had looks of horror in their eyes.

It was very easy for a True Saint to kill them.

Furthermore, Cosmo dared to do it.

The two of them had already helped David complete the task, and now David was already contacting his master.

At this time, neither Valerio nor Alba wanted to die because they were finally seeing a ray of hope.

Both of them were praying in their hearts for David to show up quickly.

“Cosmo, stop!” Roald shouted immediately.

At the same time, he felt a strong sense of powerlessness in his heart.

Such was the strength of True Saints.

As a Pre-Saint, Roald did not even have the qualifications to resist.

He could only watch helplessly as the two important descendants of the Fellowes family were captured by Cosmo right in front of him.

“Roald, are you going to tell me more about David? If you don’t, I’ll send the two descendants of the Fellowes family to hell to be buried with the two heirs of the Lightfoot family. Don’t think I won’t dare, or you’ll regret it.”

After Cosmo finished speaking, he tightened his grip.

Pained expressions appeared on Valerio’s and Alba’s faces immediately.

It Cosmo had no scruples about doing this at all.

The purpose of catching these two was to extract real information about David from Roald.

If Cosmo did not dare, why would he do this?

He could just capture David.

Obviously what Roald said just now had a certain impact on him.

With his status and strength, he naturally knew that more than one Sacred Saint was hiding in Star Kingdom to recuperate in secret.

Cosmo was also afraid of offending such a person.

Even an injured Sacred Saint was too much for the Lightfoot family.

It was better to be safe than sorry.

Cosmo might lose the entire game if he took the wrong step.

As one of the two highest-ranking True Saint grandmasters of the Lightfoot family, Cosmo also had to proceed with caution.

When the Fellowes family on the ground saw Cosmo holding Valerio and Alba in his hands, they all screamed.

Meanwhile, the others acted as if this had nothing to do with them as they enjoyed the show.

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1874

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1874-Some did not want Alba killed.

After all, she was such a devastatingly beautiful woman.

There were also people with sinister intentions that figured it would be better for her to die since they could not get her.

If they could not get her, no one else should.

The people with conflicting opinions began to discuss in low voices again, i

“Where are the True Saints of the Fellowes family? Why don’t they send one out? If things go on like this, it would be a pity for a beautiful woman like Miss Fellowes to be killed.”

‘What’s so pitiful about that? No matter how beautiful Miss Fellowes is, we can’t get our hands on her anyway. Everyone here can only look at her from a distance. In the end, she will still end up with Master Anders and become his exclusive property.’

“Why are you so evil? Do you want to destroy her just because you can’t get her? How terrible!”

“Am I? Can you accept your goddess becoming a plaything of other men?”

“I...”

“See? You can’t! Everyone is the same, so no one is better than the other!”

David sat on the bed and opened his eyes suddenly.

A light visible to the naked eye flashed across his eyes.

His Body had broken through.

Right now, he was a True Saint.

His body had improved further, and his strength increased substantially.

However, this was not enough.

Time was of the essence, and he did not know what was going on outside.

He also did not know how long Roald could delay the Lightfoot family.

Before he could examine his body, David opened the system panel.

He knew he had to quickly improve his strength.

The True Saint of the Lightfoot family would start attacking at anytime.

His Body had reached True Saint level 1 and he had 1715348 lavish points left.

Now, he needed to upgrade his mind power.

He could only continue upgrading and get to late True Saint Rank after his Body and Mind were upgraded.

David then clicked on the plus sign behind Mind.

A window popped up.

[This breakthrough will cost one million lavish points. After the breakthrough, the host's mind power will go from PreSaint level 10 to True Saint level 1. Please confirm to proceed.]

There were still two choices.

Yes and No.

David chose Yes.

The system disappeared and then, David's brain started to feel pain.

As time went on, the pain became increasingly intense.

Since he had experience, he knew this was caused by the rapid increase of his mind power.

This would be more excruciating than a breakthrough of his body.

One was physical pain while the other was mental pain.

If he had to pick, David would much rather be tormented physically.

He had to work hard to stay awake and not pass out.

If he could not handle this and passed out, he would not know how things would develop.

He might never wake up again.

Mind power had another name- soul power.

This was a very important power in the human body.

If something went wrong, the host would become an idiot if the consequences were minor. However, if they were severe, the host would become a living dead.

David did not dare to be careless, so he could only endure this debilitating mental torture.
