Chapter 1221

When everyone saw this scene, they were even more stunned.

Those who had wanted to watch Crystal humiliate herself were all in a daze now.

They thought Crystal was just bluffing, and they had already thought of what to say to make fun of her.

Now, they finally knew that Crystal wasn't bluffing at all, and that what she said was all true.

The cars that came to pick her up were indeed much better than the cars that Xander rented! The girl who had the most to say just now widened her eyes, and she murmured to herself, "H-How is this possible? How is this possible? Where did they rent so many luxury cars from? None of the car rental companies have so many luxury cars!"

Xander stared straight at the young man who delivered the flowers, and his expression suddenly changed as he hurriedly whispered, "These cars aren't rented!"

The girl couldn't hold back her surprise.

"They're not rented? Then...where did these cars come from? Don't tell me all these cars belong to them!"

Glancing at her, Xander said solemnly, "Do you know who that person is? Let me tell you—he's Mason Arnold, Ambrose's adopted son. They're the leading family in Woodside! If he wants to drive luxury cars, does he need to rent them?"

The girl's eyes widened.

"Is that true?"

Xander nodded.

The girl was just jealous of Crystal and deliberately wanted to ridicule and slander her. To her surprise, she ended up angering Xander.

Seeing the fierce look on Xander's face, the girl trembled with fright and couldn't say a word.

Fortunately, they were standing quite far away, so Crystal didn't hear the girl's remarks.

Crystal cast them a disdainful glance.

"Hey, do you still want me to ride in your lousy car?"

Xander and the others smiled in embarrassment, and they dared not say anything more.

In the end, Crystal ignored them and got into the car before leaving.

Xander breathed a long sigh of relief.

He had been so scared that his clothes were almost soaked with sweat.

He glared angrily at the woman next to him and cursed, "B*tch, watch what you say next time! You may

"You haven't heard of it because you're ignorant! Let me tell you. Matthew is Eastcliff's—"

Initially, she wanted to talk about Matthew, but he interrupted her.

"My hometown is not Eastcliff. Mason, don't mind her. Miss Harrison is just joking. We're just friends. I have a wife."

His explanation made Mason breathe a sigh of relief.

However, Crystal didn't care at all and persisted.

"So what if you're married? Me liking you has nothing to do with whether or not you're married! Even if you have someone you love, you can't stop me from loving you!"

For a while, Matthew was speechless, and he couldn't refute.

Mason was enraged when he heard this, and he almost stormed off. He truly couldn't understand why Crystal was treating Matthew, a seemingly mediocre man, like this! In no time, they reached Woodside.

In Woodside's market, Matthew was wandering around. He found many medicinal herbs, but unfortunately, none of them were particularly rare herbs.

"Miss Harrison, are you mistaken? Are there really rare medicinal herbs here?" Matthew asked, feeling puzzled.

While eating grapes, Crystal smiled and replied, "Matthew, when have I ever lied to you? Grandpa personally told me this. I'm definitely not mistaken!"

Matthew said, "But, why aren't there any rare medicinal herbs here? Are we late?"

Crystal grinned cheekily.

"That's not the case. Grandpa said that it'll take those merchants around two days to get here." Matthew nearly spat blood.

"They're not coming today?"

Crystal looked innocently at him.

"I didn't say they would be here today! I just said that Woodside's market is open today"

Matthew's mouth was agape, and he was unable to speak for a long time.

Matthew said coldly, "My name is a gift from my parents.What right do you have to change my name?"

Mason sneered, "A gift from your parents? Huh.Did your parents teach you to deceive others too? Are your parents as ill-mannered and uneducated as you?"

Matthew's expression turned cold.

"Mason, listen closely.No matter what misunderstanding there is, it's between us.You have no right to talk about my parents, let alone insult them!"

Mason tilted his head upward and smiled.

"Heh, you're quite a character! F*ck.Who do you think you are, talking to me about rights? Let me tell you this: I can say whatever I want.What can you do to me? Hmph.So what if I talk about your parents? If they could give birth to garbage like you, then they aren't any better—"

Before he could finish, Matthew suddenly took a step forward and reached out to grab Mason's neck.

"I'll give you a chance to apologize to my parents! Otherwise, don't blame me for not going easy on you!"

Matthew warned through gritted teeth.

At the same time, Ambrose turned to Matthew and said, "Mr. Larson, I'm really sorry. Allow me to apologize if these people have misunderstood you or offended you!"

Matthew nodded calmly, noticing that Ambrose's attitude toward him was much better this time.

Mason's expression changed, and he said anxiously, "Dad, this is a boy toy who specializes in tricking women! He actually deceived Crystal. Why are you being so polite to someone like him?"

Ambrose shot him a glare.

"Shut up! What do you know? In Eastcliff, even the Ten Greatest Families have to respect him now. You're calling this kind of person a liar?"

Mason was taken aback, and he asked in a confused manner, "Dad, have you been deceived by him too? Do you believe such lies too? Why would the Ten Greatest Families of Eastcliff be respectful to him?"

Furious, Ambrose slapped Mason across the face and chided him, "You idiot! You dare to judge him when you don't know anything? Do you know that half of the Ten Greatest Families of Eastcliff have been replaced? And the members of the new Ten Greatest Families were selected by Mr. Larson"

Next to them, Ambrose frowned, looking a little dissatisfied.

As some people would say, before beating up a dog, one had to consider who the owner was.

Moreover, this was his adopted son! However, Matthew didn't stop and proceeded to kick Mason's chin.

Mason's strength was far from Matthew's.

Faced with Matthew, he had no power to resist.

Seeing that his kick was about to land, Ambrose suddenly made a move to block Matthew's kick.

"Mr. Larson, stop while you're ahead! Although Mason said the wrong thing, he has already apologized to you, and you've taught him a lesson. This matter isn't punishable by death, right?"

Ambrose was smiling vaguely as he spoke, but there was a sharp gleam in his eyes.

Obviously, as long as Matthew was pushing it, he was going to be hostile with him.

If he was honest, he didn't have a good impression of Matthew ever since he learned that Matthew was just a live-in son-in-law.

Although what happened later made him impressed with Matthew, he didn't actually care much about him.

As the saying went, a casual remark could sound significant to an attentive listener.

Matthew immediately said, "Master Arnold, is the Seven-Leafed Lotus real or fake?"

Glancing at Matthew, Ambrose said with a smile, "Mr.Larson, you know about the Seven-Leafed Lotus too?"

Matthew nodded with a slight smile.

Crystal immediately joined in.

"Matthew, what's the Seven-Leafed Lotus?"

Matthew answered lightly, "The Seven-Leafed Lotus is a particularly rare medicinal herb. It blooms once every three hundred years, and its medicinal effect is out of this world. It's not any less capable than the Thousand-Year Snow Lotus or the Thousand-Year Ginseng. Besides, the most important thing is that the Seven-Leafed Lotus has particularly high requirements in terms of the environment it grows in. This kind of lotus loves fire and must live in fiery soil, which is often said to be near volcanic rocks. These volcanic rocks have to maintain high temperatures all year round. Otherwise, the lotus won't be able to survive. Therefore, the rarity of the Seven-Leafed Lotus is much higher than that of the Thousand-Year Snow Lotus and the Thousand-Year Ginseng. This medicinal herb can really be considered priceless!"

Crystal's eyes widened.

"There's actually such a magical medicinal herb?"

Ambrose cast Matthew a profound glance. He didn't expect that Matthew would know about the Seven-Leafed Lotus!

Mason ran into the yard in a huff, grabbed the whip, then whipped Xander and the others without mercy.

Soon, Xander and the others fell to the ground with their skin split open and their flesh exposed, wailing constantly.

Xander kneeled at Mason's feet and pleaded in a trembling voice, "Mr. Mason, Mr. Mason, please spare my life...I-I didn't know that Matthew was so powerful. It was unintentional. Mr. Mason, just treat me like a dog and spare me. I-I can give you money to compensate for your loss..."

This enraged Mason even more, so he grabbed the whip and whipped him without a care.

"F*ck you! Do you think I'm blackmailing you? My family is the authority of Woodside. Do you think I need your money? You're f*cking using money to insult me?"

The more he whipped, the angrier he became.

Then, Mason grabbed a dagger and prepared to stab Xander.

At this moment, a small flying insect suddenly landed on Xander's neck.

The insect bit Xander's neck and went into his head. He was suffering a great deal of pain. He kept struggling, but his struggles were ultimately in vain. In the end, after nearly digging into his entire neck, he fell to the ground covered in Mason peered at Lord Voodoo in surprise.

"Sir, are you looking for me?" Mason asked respectfully.

After all, anyone who could remotely control those flying insects to kill people wouldn't be an ordinary person.

"Sit down!" Mason walked over and sat down, looking highly vigilant.

Glancing at him, Lord Voodoo asked, "Do you want to kill Matthew?"

Mason's heart stirred, and a sharp gleam flashed across his eyes. However, in the end, he held back and didn't say a word. Lord Voodoo sneered, "You won't say anything?"
