

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2189

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2189-“Master David, please follow me!”

Thor said before taking the lead in choosing one of the passages and walking in.

David and the others had no choice but to keep up.

It did not take long before they encountered another passage.

After passing through several such forks in a row, they finally came to the end of the passage.

There was no way ahead. However, what they were faced with was not a wall but a door.

As Thor fumbled to open the door, David reached out and touched it.

He did not know what material the door was made of, but it was very strong and smooth.

Sole's underground trade fair was so mysterious.

It was unknown who the organizer was.

It would take a lot of manpower and material resources to build these underground passages.

In addition to connecting to Treasure Pavilion, it might have also connected to many other places.

“Don't all businessmen seek to pursue profit?”

“What are they making it so complicated?”

Soon the door opened a crack, and a loud sound filled their ears.

When the door opened, it revealed another passage ahead, but this one was smaller.

The sound came from the small passage, and it looked like they were getting close to their destination.

After continuing to walking dozens of meters, the noise became louder and louder.

When they were about to walk out of the passage, they saw two masked men standing guard.

Thor handed over the two invitations in his hand to the other party.

After that, the two let them through.

After exiting the passage, a plaza-like place appeared in front of them.

Many people were walking back and forth inside.

Everyone was wearing masks, so they could not see their faces.

Maybe it was the fear of being recognized, so the lights here were a little dim.

David looked at the scene in front of him speechlessly.

“Isn't this a party similar to those f*cking parties on Earth that wander in the gray area?”

“Dim lighting.”

“Noisy scene.”

“Everyone wears a mask, and no one knows who the other is.”

“Everyone can have as much fun as possible to let go of the stress in their hearts.”

“Mr. Rivers, are you sure this is a trade fair and not a place for everyone to release their suppressed emotions?” David could not help asking.

“Master David, you have such good eyes. The insider's trade fair does have such a purpose, but don't worry, the main function is still the trade fair. Those are just side programs. During the day, everyone comes to release their stress and vent their emotions while the real trade fair will begin at night, so that's why I asked you to come at night yesterday. We're a little early and the fair hasn't started yet,” Thor explained with a smile.

“Then why didn't you say it sooner? You could just tell me! I just want to participate in the trade fair, not release stress. I have no stress to release.”

“Master David, forgive me! Master David, forgive me! It's all my fault! It's all my fault! I didn't explain it clearly to you! Forgive me! Please forgive me!” Thor quickly apologized to David humbly.

He decided to place all the blame on himself.

He could not say that he told David to come later, but the latter insisted on coming earlier, so David was to blame for this, right?

He would not dare to do this even if he had balls of steel.

The scene of David displaying his energy last time was still vivid in his memory.

The feeling of falling into an ice cave was still fresh in his mind.

Thor dared not offend David.

He badly wanted to please David now.

If you had a good relationship with a big shot like David, his life would be more carefree.

Even if he did not need David, he would at least have one more layer security and he would feel safer, right?