Chapter 55

Francine snorted and sized Renee from head to toe before mockingly saying, “Stefan won’t even touch her, so how can she be pregnant? She’s just a waste of our money.”

Francine’s words were so cruel that Renee instantly clenched her fist when she heard them. Just as she was about to say something, Leia stepped forward and insulted Francine.

“Hahaha! You’re not that capable, either. One of your sons died, and the other had an affair. If I were you, I would reflect on why my sons are useless. Aren’t you afraid your grandchildren will get karma because of your nasty remarks?”

Before Renee had a divorce, Leia kept quiet and didn’t interfere in their family matter. But now that Renee was getting a divorce, she wouldn’t stay silent anymore.

Francine was furious when she heard that, and she turned pale with anger as she pointed a finger at Leia. “You…”

When Briar saw this, she felt that this was an opportunity for her to get on Francine’s good side. She instantly stood between Francine and Leia, then acted like a pitiful victim as she said, “Miss Osborne, you can’t say that to your elder. Even if you’re not satisfied, you can’t be unreasonable.”

Leia felt rage course through her at Briar’s words.

She didn’t want to be aggressive before this but couldn’t hold it anymore. She grabbed Briar and hit her across the face. Slap!

A crisp noise rang out clearly, causing Briar and Francine to be stunned instantly. Francine hadn’t thought that a softie like Renee would have such a fierce friend that was not one to mess with.

She looked at Renee and demanded, “Why are you standing there? Tell your friend to apologize now, or else I won’t drop this matter so easily!”

Renee stood where she was and calmly said, “You should apologize instead. I am afraid her face might be too thick from how shameless she is that it hurt my friend’s hand.”

“What?!”

When Francine realized that Renee didn’t care, she decided to take matters into her own hands.

She raised her hand, intending to slap Leia, but Renee grabbed her wrist instantly and coldly said, “Miss Francine, it’s bad to sneak up on someone else.”

Francine was stunned to see the sharp look in Renee’s eyes, as it was the complete opposite of how Renee used to be. Suddenly, Briar sat on the floor with a thud and screamed, “Oh, my stomach!”

“What are you doing?” Stefan appeared, and his handsome face was dark as he asked solemnly. When Francine saw Stefan, she became even more arrogant.

“Stefan, you’re finally here. If you didn’t come in time, Renee and her violent friend were about to beat us up! You have to teach these two a lesson today!”

Stefan didn’t care about Francine but rushed to help Briar and asked, “Are you okay? Do you need to see the doctor?”

Briar had pretended to be hurt, so naturally, she didn’t need or want to go to the hospital. She said weakly, “I’m fine. It’s just that I got slapped, but it didn’t hurt my stomach. I’ll be fine after some rest.”

When Stefan saw the mark on her face, his cold face grew even more frigid.

He stared coldly at Renee and asked with a hint of steel in his voice. “Shouldn’t you explain what’s going on?”

Chapter 56

Thinking that an explanation was unnecessary, Renee returned the man’s cold stare with a calm one and said, “She was slapped. There’s more to say about it.”

It didn’t matter if he considered her unreasonable or disgraceful. There was nothing to explain, and it wasn’t necessary.

Everything about the Hunts was nothing important to her from the moment she decided to divorce

Stefan. What’s more, it was just a mistress and a shrew. (D)

Francine, with a shaking voice and an arrogant look, said, “Look, she admitted it. What are you still standing here for, son? Make her get down on her knees and beg for forgiveness!”

Having stood by the side watching, Leia started to get irritated again and shouted, “Fuck your forgiveness! I wouldn’t have slapped her if your mother and this bitch didn’t call Ren a parasite and a barren!”

Stefan furrowed his brows deeply when he heard her and turned to look at his mother and Briar. “Is that true?”

Briar, feeling guilty, choked on her words.

As for Francine, rather than feel guilty, she was harrumphed and said righteously, “It’s just a fact! She’s indeed barren. She’s the one who couldn’t conceive, so what’s the fuss about fearing what the people say?”

Leia was speechless, almost reaching the brink of exploding as she exclaimed, “Why do you think Ren is infertile?” Leia pulled Renee impulsively and announced proudly, “Let me just tell you straight. Ren has been pregnant for almost a month. And one more thing, she is having fraternal twins!”

Her words were like the most powerful nuclear weapon in the world. Everyone was stunned.

And Renee was the most confused one.

‘What’s happening here? I remembered clearly that I had not spoken a word to Leia about my pregnancy. How did she come to know about it?’ t

Francine stared at Renee’s belly with mixed feelings, and said doubtfully, “Son, didn’t you have no feelings for her? Why is she get pregnant?”

Stefan pursed his thin lips, and his cold eyes landed on Renee’s belly. The expression on his face was rather unpleasant. He and Renee hadn’t been intimate, so how could she be pregnant?

Leia was delighted with their reactions and continued bluffing with a serious face, “Hmph! Stop dreaming. Who said that Ren’s pregnant with your son’s children? Since your son shamelessly cheated on my friend, of course she could. give him a payback. It’s only fair this way!”

Renee was always in sync with Leia, so she immediately got her point. Her best friend was clearly trying to stand up for her and making things up on purpose!

Stefan’s handsome face turned extremely gloomy, and he questioned bitterly, “Whose baby is it?”

“I told you already that Ren is having fraternal twins. Isn’t this obvious enough? They are Liam’s, of course!” said 1/2

Leia proudly, “We, the Osbornes, inherit a strong genetic trait of getting twins, you know?” Renee struggled to hold back her laughter and nearly failed, and a snort almost left her lips.

‘Oh my God, how could Leia be so full of shit? When I really give birth to twins, it’ll be impossible for me to explain this!’

Stefan stared at Renee with eyes that could almost tear her into pieces. “Is she telling the truth?” “Um…” Renee didn’t know how to answer that for a moment.

“Of course, it’s true!” Leia chimed in as she cast a sympathetic look at Stefan. “What a pity! My best friend is one hundred percent sure who the father of her children is, but I won’t be sure if Master Hunt is the father of this bitch’s child!””

“Ahem!” Renee cleared her throat, signaling Leia to stop and not to go too overboard.

Stefan was a difficult man to deal with. If he were really pissed, the Osbornes would be in trouble. “Let’s go, Lei. Mr. Hunt is still busy picking out clothes for his baby!”

After dropping this sinister remark, Renee held Leia and walked away, her head held high and ignoring Stefan’s cold gaze. If looks could kill, she would certainly have dropped dead with how hard the man was staring at her!

Stefan watched her retreating back indifferently, hesitating to withdraw his gaze.

Francine said indignantly, “Hmph! I knew that bitch was no good. It’s not a surprise that she would cheat on you. You are getting divorced soon anyway, so let her fool around if she wants!”

Stefan slowly turned and said slowly, “Impossible.”

“What’s impossible?”

“It’s impossible that she would cheat on me, moreover, get pregnant.” His gaze turned sharp as he said, “She doesn’t have the guts to do that!”

Briar did not expect Stefan to defend Renee even though he was about to divorce her, which alarmed her. To get rid of Renee, a prickly thorn in her heart, an evil plan started to form in her mind secretly…
