

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1495

Chapter 1495

After Celeste took a few steps, Nova stopped her from behind and said, "Elder Red, the reputable elders have stated that they are going into seclusions to teach Lorraine now, and they won't come out until the ceremony three months later. They asked us not to bother them if there's nothing important."

Celeste stopped in her tracks.

No matter how stupid she was, she knew that this was directed at her.

The only ones in the Iridescent Sect who were qualified to go to the location of the four reputable elders' seclusion were Celeste and the head, Nova.

It seemed that even if Eira said she did not mind, in her heart, she still blamed Celeste for ruining her alluring body, causing her painstaking efforts for so many years to go to waste.

At this moment, Celeste felt as if all the strength in her body had disappeared.

She did not want to disappoint her teacher.

She really wanted to go and tell her teacher immediately that although her alluring body was activated, she would not become an ordinary person because she found a way to quickly increase her mind power.

As long as she reached peak Eternal Realm, her mind power would soon catch up.

At that time, she would be able to get to partial Saint Realm.

However, Celeste thought about it and held back.

Doing so would put David in a disadvantageous position.

After controlling her emotions, Celeste said calmly, "I understand, Lady Dream. Don't worry, I won't bother Master anymore, but I won't explain myself to Nek either. I'm going back into seclusion, so please take good care of Celia and the others for me. I hope you can do what you say, and don't let them suffer any grievances in the Iridescent Sect. As long as you treat them well, you will thank me in the future."

Celeste left the hall after speaking.

Nova looked at Celeste's back and sighed silently in her heart.

It was tragic that the days of this peerless genius in the Iridescent Sect had come to an end.

She knew Celeste must have understood her true meaning.

Nova was afraid that the relationship between Celeste and Eira would never return to its previous state.

This was the stark reality.

From the moment Celeste's alluring body was activated, she had no value for cultivation.

The reputable elders immediately turned their heads and focused on Lorraine so that they could train Lorraine to be the leader of this generation and take Celeste's place.

Not just Celeste, even Nova herself was the same.

Although she was the head of the Iridescent Sect and she needed to overlook all matters large and small in the sect, the entire Iridescent Sect was still in the hands of the four reputable elders.

Nova was nothing more than the ostensible master of the Iridescent Sect.

To put it nicely, she was the spokesperson of the four reputable elders, but to put it bluntly, she was just a puppet.

If she were two realms weaker, her position would change hands immediately.

Of course, she had no say in this.

This was the way of Star Kingdom. The strong would be respected while the weak were prey to the strong.

Not only in Star Kingdom, but that statement was also applicable to the entire universe.

If one wanted to be free and not be controlled, one had to surpass Eternal Realm and become a Saint.

Shortly after Celeste left, Nova also got up and left the hall.

She was going to the VIP area to find Nek, the Saint, to clarify the matter.

Since Celeste did not want to go, as the head, Nova had to go.

However, her appearance would not be as effective as Celeste's.

'I don't know if Nek will believe me but I can only give it a try.'

Not long after David sat in the VIP area of the VIP room, seven beautiful, slender, curvy beauties entered the room slowly.

'They should be the seven fairies.'

David thought silently in his heart.

They were indeed pleasing to the eye.

Their appearances and figures were all top-notch.

Among the people he knew, only Selena, Mia, Astrid, and Lorraine could compete with the seven fairies.

However, one could not just look at a woman's appearance, her temperament was also very important. The temperament of the seven fairies was obviously much inferior to that of Selena and the others.

If the two sides came together to compete with each other, David could even see the inferiority complex in their eyes.

They were so beautiful, yet so self-abased.

Perhaps it was because they were not talented enough,

In Star Kingdom, it did not matter how good-looking you were, you could only be respected if you were talented and strong.

The seven women stood in a row in front of David.

David felt as if he had returned to when he went to a club on Earth for the first time.

At that time, there was also a row of women standing in front of him.

However, both batches of women were miles apart in terms of looks.

At that time David had not obtained the system yet and he was not the one spending money.

Of course, he could not afford it either.

It was Patrick, his rich roommate, who insisted on taking them to experience this for his birthday.

David was forced to follow.

When David was reminiscing, the woman in the lead said respectfully, "The seven fairies greet you, Master."

"The legendary seven fairies of the Iridescent Sect are indeed well-deserved of their reputation. Knowing you by your reputation can't compare to meeting you in person," David praised without hesitation.

"Thank you for your compliment!"

The seven spoke at the same time.

When they were notified, they thought they were coming to perform for Lord Simmons again.

After all, they had performed for Lord Simmons many times during this period.

Unexpectedly, as soon as they entered the hall, they saw a strange young man sitting inside.

They were overjoyed.

If this man could become a VIP of the Iridescent Sect at such a young age, he definitely had the support of super-powerful forces behind him.

The seven fairies loved people at this age.

Compared to middle-aged men like Nek, young men were more attractive to them.

In addition, young men were more likely to choose them without consideration.

On the contrary, middle-aged men would carefully consider the pros and cons.

More than one of the seven fairies were once favored by direct descendants of powerful forces who came to the Iridescent Sect as guests. Then, after the other party paid a huge price, they took the fairies away to make them concubines.

Some of them had even broken through to Eternal Realm.

It was not easy to take away one of the seven fairies in the Iridescent Sect.

It was only possible with the consent of the Iridescent Sect and after paying a sufficient price. 1

In addition, the men also had to promise the Iridescent Sect that they would not abuse the fairies or give them to other people.

Otherwise, once discovered, not only would they be held accountable by the Iridescent Sect, but they would also be permanently blacklisted.

Therefore, not many of the fairies were taken away even after cycling through so many batches.

Those who could break through Eternal Realm with the support of these big shots were even rarer. However, rare did not mean nonexistent.

This was also what the seven fairies in the past worked hard for.

Becoming an Eternal and having a lifespan lasting an era was their ultimate goal.

Due to the low talent of the seven fairies, they could not keep progressing, so they had limited lifespan. They depended on their youth a lot.

If they were not picked by some big shot in their prime of life, they could only leave the scene sadly.
