

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1639 –

Chapter 1639

As soon as the crowd heard that the law enforcers were here, they immediately gave way.

David followed the voice and looked over.

He saw three men in black uniforms with the word 'central' printed on their chests walking over.

The three men were not very old. They looked only about thirty years old.

"What's going on?" asked the man walking in front.

"My Lord, we came to collect our property, but we were stopped by this family of three who threatened to hack us to death if we went in. You have to help us!" The leading member of Black Water said aggrievedly.

He did not dare to show the slightest arrogance in front of the law enforcers of the Central Sacred Continent.

The leading law enforcer glanced at the other party and ignored him.

Instead, he looked at the family of three standing at the entrance of the tavern and asked, "Is there anything we can do for you?"

Obviously, they also knew that Black Water did not have the best characters.

"My Lord, these guys suddenly came to us with a contract of unknown authenticity. They claimed that my father has already mortgaged the tavern to them and that if we didn't pay back the money today, they will take away our tavern. Please help us, my Lord," the young man said respectfully.

The leader of the law enforcers looked at the leader of Black Water again and asked, "Where is the contract?"

"My Lord, this is the contract signed between Black Water and the owner of this tavern, Mosi Allen. Please have a look."

After the other party finished speaking, he handed over the contract in his hand.

The law enforcer took it and looked at it seriously.

The contract was fine.

It all depended on whether it was signed and stamped by Mosi himself.

If so, the Allen family might lose this tavern.

As law enforcers, they would only follow the rules.

Even if they knew that Black Water was wicked, they could not do anything without evidence.

“Who is Mosi Allen to you?” The law enforcer asked.

“My lord, he’s my father,” the young man replied.

“Where is he?”

“I don’t know. He hasn’t come home for many days.”

“Look at this, is this contract signed by your father Mosi?”

The law enforcer handed the contract to the young man. The other party took a look.

It was indeed his father’s signature, but he could not admit it.

If he did, the tavern would go to Black Water if he could not pay up today.

Then the three of them would sleep on the streets tonight.

He said, “My Lord, the signature is a bit similar. As for whether it is true or not, I don’t dare to confirm it. I can only ask my father after he comes home.”

“Your plan is pretty good, kid. If your father doesn’t come home, doesn’t it mean that we will never be able to get this tavern?” Asked the leader of Black Water.

“Then what can we do? You can’t just come up with a contract and force us to trust you, right? There are too many people who can imitate handwriting.”

The three law enforcers also frowned.

The person involved was not here, so it was really hard to decide.

In reality, they also know that this contract had a high probability of being genuine.

After all, they had never encountered such a situation where someone barged into the other party's door with a fake contract to demand the arrears.

Contract fraud was a serious crime in the Central Sacred Continent.

This was the trading center of the entire Star Kingdom, and countless transactions were conducted here every day.

If everyone was lying, how could they manage the situation?

Therefore, contract management was very strict on the Central Sacred Continent and no one would dare forge contracts.

"Since the person involved was not here, then all of you should go back with me. We can just find Mosi's information and compare the fingerprints," the law enforcer said.

'Oh no!'

The hearts of the family of three sank.

'If they compare the fingerprint, we get an answer immediately.

'If the law enforcers decide that this contract is genuine, wouldn't it mean that Black Water will take over the tavern?'

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1640 –

Chapter 1640

"My Lord, don't bother. I have a video of Mosi borrowing money here. It can prove that the contract is genuine."

The leader of Black Water took out a box as he spoke.

After opening it, a screen appeared in the space above.

The middle-aged man on the screen was Mosi.

Then, his voice came out.

“Today is July 21st, year 513784296 in the Star Calendar. I, Mosi Allen, the owner of the Allen Tavern, hereby borrow 10 million Star Dollars from Black Water. If I can't pay it back in a month, the Allen Tavern will belong to Black Water.”

After Mosi finished speaking on the screen, he signed his name on the contract and stamped his fingerprint.

And today was August 21st, year 513784296 in the Star Calendar.

It was exactly one month after Mosi borrowed the money on the screen.

The screen quickly disappeared, and the scene fell into silence.

The faces of the young man's family of three were pale.

They knew it was all over.

The Allen Tavern would go to Black Water today if they did not have the huge sum of 10 million Star

Dollars.

Ten million Star Dollars!

Where would they find so much money?

Even if the father had not stolen the family's savings, they would only have more than three million Star Dollars if they combined all their belongings.

This was the accumulation of the Allen family after many years.

David could not help sighing in his heart as he looked at the family of three who seemed to have their souls drawn out.

Star Kingdom was the same as Earth.

It was difficult for civilians struggling at the bottom to earn any money.

Marlee's ship of raw nuclear magnetic ores was worth 6 billion Star Dollars.

Yet, because of him, Treasure Trove had increased the price to 10 billion Star Dollars.

It was estimated that Treasure Trove faced a daily transaction volume of hundreds of billions of Star Dollars.

However, just 10 million Star Dollars would kill this family here.

In the eyes of these people, Treasure Trove was the sky, an existence that needed to be looked up to for a lifetime.

However, the truth was that the owners of Treasure Trove, the Fellowes family, were also having a hard time.

They also had to rely on marriage to maintain the stability of the family.

David figured that the Fellowes family might need more than just marriage.

They also had to give out huge amounts of wealth every year.

This was the social class.

It was just like a pyramid.

The base was huge, and the number would become smaller as it went up.

Only those guys standing at the top of the pyramid were the real kings.

If David was right, the top of the pyramid of Star Kingdom probably consisted of a few forces with Sacred Saints.

The Iridescent Sect and the Fellowes family were on the next level.

Those kings standing at the top of the pyramid did not need to do anything to have countless wealth and beautiful women delivered to their door.

Most of the top five trading companies of the Central Sacred Continent had a Sacred Saint.

Despite this, it seemed that the Fellowes family wanted to come out and find another backer now.

'What is the reason for this?

'Is it because the other party's appetite is getting bigger and bigger, and they are demanding too much?

'Or are there other factors at play?'

David had no idea about this.

He had only one thought now.

He wanted to climb to the top of the pyramid as quickly as possible.

That way, he could be free to do whatever he wanted.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1641 –

Chapter 1641

The three law enforcers of the Central Sacred Continent saw the video and knew that today's matter was settled.

If the Allen family could not come up with 10 million Star Dollars to pay off the debt, then the Allen Tavern would become the property of Black Water.

Although they knew that Black Water was evil, what Black Water did was in line with the rules.

Mosi borrowed the money and signed the contract himself, and judging by his appearance at the time, it did not look like he was in any danger.

This contract should be officially protected by the Central Sacred Continent.

"There is no problem with the contract and the video. It is only natural to pay back the debt, so you should pay back the money! Otherwise, you can only mortgage the tavern to Black Water. After all, the owner of this tavern is Mosi Allen. He borrowed the money and signed the contract himself, so he has to be responsible for his actions," said the law enforcer.

"Thank you, my Lord, for being just and strict!" The leader of Black Water said happily.

The Allen family of three collapsed directly to the ground.

Since the law enforcer had said that, there was no room for negotiation on this matter.

They could not come up with the money today to pay back the debt they owed Black Water.

Thus, they would surely lose the tavern today.

Even the young man who looked crazy just now stopped being impulsive.

He could do everything he could to protect his tavern in front of those scoundrels from Black Water, but he did not dare to do the same in front of the law enforcers.

Moreover, the young man also knew that the law enforcers did not favor Black Water.

On the contrary, they were somewhat helping the Allen family.

However, Black Water had concrete evidence, so they could not deny it.

“Mag, what should we do? I don’t want to leave. We have lived here since we were born. The tavern is our home. If we leave here, where else can we go?” The young woman cried.

The middle-aged woman could not bear the pressure any longer, so she fell to the ground and passed out. She, the wife, was also responsible for her husband doing this kind of thing behind the family’s back.

She was too weak, and that was why her husband was so unscrupulous.

“Mother! Mother! What happened? Don’t scare me!”

The siblings wanted to help their mother up, but they also did not have any strength.

The middle-aged woman lay on the ground while the younger sister wailed, and the older brother remained silent.

The onlookers all showed sympathy.

‘It’s such a tragedy to have a father and husband like this.’

However, even if they were sympathetic, no one stood up to speak for the family of three.

The law enforcers had made their verdict.

Therefore, if they wanted to solve the family’s problems, they had to take out 10 million Star Dollars to pay back the arrears.

Otherwise, the Allen family would lose their tavern.

Anyone who could casually take out 10 million Star Dollars would not be standing here and enjoying this show.

The leader of Black Water had a sneer on his face.

He had seen this happen many times.

Black Water had ruined a lot of families, and the Allen family was just one of them.

This was what they did for a living.

Otherwise, how would they be able to put food on so many people's tables?

"Get out of the way if you're done crying. This place now belongs to us, and we want to take back our property."

The three law enforcers could not stand it any longer.

One of them said, "That's enough. Stop rushing them. Give the Allen family three more days to raise money. If they still can't make it after three days, then you can ask them to move out."

"My lord, today is the one-month due date, and the boss said that if they can't pay up, we should forcibly take the tavern. Don't make things difficult for us, or we will be punished when we go back," the leader of Black Water said quickly.

"You know very well what you Black Water have done all these years. Don't force me to watch your every move."

"My Lord, we are a legitimate company, and we never do things that hurt anyone."
"Really?" The leading Law enforcer glanced at the other party.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1642 –

Chapter 1642

"O-Of course!"

The leader of Black Water replied with a lack of confidence.

"How about you do this for my sake? Give the Allen family another three days to prepare."

"My Lord, I can't decide this matter, I have to report to the boss."

"Then hurry up!" The law enforcer said impatiently.

“Okay! My Lord, please wait a moment! I’ll report to the boss right away.”

Black Water wandered in the gray area all year round so they naturally feared the law enforcers the most.

They were afraid that the law enforcers would find dirt on them. If they did, then everything they did would be in vain.

The words of the law enforcer gave the siblings a little bit of hope.

The mother could no longer accept the blow and passed out.

If they were driven out tonight, they would not have a place to live tonight, so they could only sleep on the street.

Three days was still too short. They could not raise 10 million Star Dollars in such a short time.

At least they would have time to find a place to live.

David witnessed all of this.

The Central Sacred Continent was indeed the most prosperous place in Star Kingdom.

It facilitated such a large transaction volume every day with so many floating populations.

Despite this, it was still well managed.

David was especially surprised by these law enforcers.

They did not side with the wealthy and powerful Black Water, but instead, they sided with the civilians struggling at the bottom.

This was quite rare.

However, he did not know if all law enforcers were like this, or if it was just a few of them with a strong sense of justice.

If all law enforcers were like this, David also had to admire the people in charge of this place.

There was indeed something unique that was worth learning for all humans.

The leader of Black Water was reporting the situation here to his boss.

David stepped out of the crowd and walked directly to the Allen family.

Then, he bent down and looked at the unconscious middle-aged woman.

The siblings stared blankly at the young man who suddenly appeared, but they did not react for a while. When they came back to their senses and were about to ask questions, David spoke first, "Your mother saw red, which then led to shock. If she's not treated in time, she might face serious consequences." "Then... What should I do then?"

The siblings suddenly panicked.

"Sir, you must have a solution, right? Please save my mother, please!"

The younger sister immediately knelt in front of David and began to kowtow violently.

Her forehead hit the ground, making loud knocking sounds.

With a wave of David's hand, a force stopped her from kowtowing.

"Don't worry! I will save your mother but don't do this again. It will hinder me."

"Okay! Don't worry, Sir. I won't hinder you anymore."

After she finished speaking, she stepped back and stared at David and her mother.

"Sir..."

The young man also wanted to say something but was interrupted by David before he could say anything.

"You should stay away too!"

"Yes, Sir." The young man also stepped aside and stood with his sister.

The siblings looked at the man in front of them.

They were about the same age as him but when he spoke, his voice carried so much authority.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-