I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1687—"Master David, from today onwards, we can be considered to be on the same boat. We will rise and fall together, so please take good care of me in the future."

"Of course! As long as Miss Fellowes can help me complete the tasks assigned by my master, then I am fine with everything else."

As the two were talking, the merchant ship started again and quickly headed to the destination of this trip, the super-large trade zone in the West End of the Central Sacred Continent.

Meanwhile, in the East End of the Central Sacred Continent, the Lightfoot family also sprung into action.

The second-in-line heir died suddenly. This was no small matter.

The Lightfoot family controlled Splendor, one of the top five trading companies.

They were a family with prestige and could command respect even in the entire Star Kingdom, let alone in the Central Sacred Continent

Compared with losing a second-in-line heir, they valued their prestige and the family's honor more.

To put it bluntly, a direct descendant like Cornelius would appear again in a very short time.

However, if they did not find the murderer and exterminate their entire bloodline, the damage to the Lightfoot family's reputation might not be undone so easily.

Countless people would gossip about the incompetence of the Lightfoot family in private.

The second-in-line heir was dead, and they could not even find the murderer.

Then, the Lightfoot family would become the laughingstock of Star Kingdom.

The entire East End of the Central Sacred Continent would be in turmoil.

If Cornelius' murderer was not found, it would soon spread to the other four ends of the Central Sacred Continent.

However, this turmoil would not affect the people living at the bottom too much.

If the murderer could kill the two beginner Sovereign Rankers next to Cornelius, they must be very powerful.

This was not something a normal person could do.

Therefore, the Lightfoot family started to eliminate their target starting from the place where Cornelius would often go when he was alive. Their target would be mid-Sovereign Rankers or above.

However, in order to ensure that no one knew about his plan so he could finish it without anyone noticing, Cornelius spent a lot of effort covering all his tracks.

In the end, he unknowingly helped the enemy.

Not only did he die, but he also caused a lot of trouble for his family.

They could not even find his murderer to avenge him.

Chapter 68

Cornelius did not know he would die.

Now, the Lightfoot family searched all of the East End and did not find any clues.

Hence, they could only continue with the other four ends.

Cornelius' death also spread within some major forces.

Everyone knew the second-in-line heir of the Lightfoot family died so the family was enraged. Therefore, they could only close one eye toward the Lightfoot family's extensive search.

If anyone dared to provoke the Lightfoot family now, the Lightfoot family would assume they were guilty.

If the Lightfoot family decided to pursue it, then it would be troublesome.

At this moment, the first-in-line heir of the family, Archimedes, took action.

He did not care about Cornelius' death.

However, he had to think about the family's prestige.

This was also a challenge the seniors of his family gave him. At the same time, they wanted to train him.

If Archimedes could find Cornelius' murderer and protect the prestige of the family, he would be at the height of his powers.

From then on, he would take over the family and become the head smoothly.

Even if he failed, it would be good training for him.

That was why Archimedes attached a lot of importance to this operation.

The area he was responsible for was the West End controlled by the Fellowes family.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1688—A lot of major forces knew of the current situation of the Fellowes family.

Archimedes was responsible for the West End, which was relatively less difficult.

The ones responsible for the South End, North End, and Central were all elders of the Lightfoot family, and they were at least late Sovereign Rankers.

This was also the intention of the elders of the family.

Everyone knew that the family was taking this opportunity to hone Archimedes' leadership skills.

If he wanted to become a qualified head, only knowing how to practice was not enough.

The big picture was also very important.

Only in this way could he lead the family to glory.

When Archimedes led a fleet of the Lightfoot family to set off from the East End, entered the wormhole, and headed for the West End, the merchant ship that David and Alba were on was already approaching the super-large trade zone of the West End.

The five super-large trade zones on the Central Sacred Continent were all connected by wormholes, making it very convenient to travel around,

Archimedes traveled from the wormhole and would soon reach the West End.

As one of the five super-large trade zones of the Central Sacred Continent, the cargo throughput here occupied almost half of the entire West End of the Central Sacred Continent. Of course, the occupied area was also quite terrifying, and it was considered the best location in the West End.

The closer one got, the more merchant ships could be seen, almost all of which were large merchant ships weighing 10 thousand tons.

If other merchant ships wanted to enter this place, they needed to register at the pier.

However, David and Alba were on the merchant ship of the Fellowes family, so they could skip this process and enter directly.

After entering the super-large trade zone, the merchant ship went directly to the headquarters of Treasure Trove.

An auction would be held there shortly.

After a while, the merchant ship descended urgently. In the end, it stopped at an empty lot.

This was the exclusive parking lot at Treasure Trove's headquarters.

There were dense merchant ships packed tightly in the venue.

Some of them were leaving while some were descending.

Alba came to David's room and knocked on the door.

Knock knock knock!

David opened his eyes upon hearing the knocks. Then, he woke up from his meditation.

"Who is it?" David asked.

"Master David, we're at the headquarters of Treasure Trove. Please get off the ship with me," Alba said.

"Give me a moment, Miss Fellowes, I'll come right out."

David got up and put his sword sheath on his back. Then, he opened the door with a small wine jar.

“Miss Fellowes, sorry for the long wait.”

Alba looked at the wine jar in David’s hands and said, “I see you like drinking, Master David. We have a lot of wine made with precious materials. I’ll take you to have a taste of them later.” “You misunderstood, Miss Fellowes. I don’t like to drink. My master gave this to me before I left. He didn’t tell me what it’s for, so I just took it with me,” David explained.

“I see. Please come with me.”

The two walked out of the merchant ship one after another.

People from Treasure Trove were already there to welcome them.

“Welcome back, Miss Alba,” an old man came forward and said modestly.

The old man’s name was Mick Fellowes. He was a collateral relative of the Fellowes family and also an attendant of Treasure Trove’s headquarters.

“Grandpa Mick, this is my good friend, David. He came here for the auction. Please prepare a special room and an invitation card to the auction for him later,” Alba instructed.

“Alright, don’t worry, Miss Alba. I got it,” Mick answered.

“David, let’s go. I’ll take you to visit the headquarters of Treasure Trove,” Alba said to David. “Thank you, Miss Fellowes.”

Mick stood in place and stared at the two with a frown on his face.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1689–Chapter 1689

After David and Alba left, Mick contemplated for a while before immediately reporting the two to the seniors of the family.

It was not that he sensed something wrong with David, but as the third young mistress of the Fellowes family, Alba was engaged.

Plus, her fiancé had a very high status. Not only was he born into the Palmore family, the number one family among the six top forces in Star Kingdom, but he was also the first-born and first-in-line heir of his family.

Alba was now so close to another man. If someone else spread gossip about this and reached the ears of the Palmore family, how would the Palmore family, a family that was so powerful and prestigious in Star Kingdom, accept this news?

Wouldn't the Fellowes family suffer if the Palmore family got enraged?

Wasn't this causing trouble for the Fellowes family?

This would be bad even if Alba and David did not do anything.

Alba had a very sensitive status now, so she had to keep a distance from all of the men.

It was said that the eldest son of the Palmore family was about to come out.

To avoid trouble, the seniors of the Fellowes family agreed not long ago to change all of the protectors around Alba to female protectors.

It was obvious how much importance the Fellowes family attached to this matter.

Once the family got Mick's report, they asked him to stop what he was doing and keep a close eye on the two. It would be better if he could constantly stay next to David to prevent him from being alone with Alba.

After Mick got the orders, he took action quickly. Then, he sprinted in the direction David and Alba left.

On the other side, Alba was bringing David around Treasure Trove's headquarters.

Even though David was not interested, Alba was too passionate. As a guest, it would not be good for him to reject, so he just followed along.

As the headquarters of Treasure Trove, this place was luxurious. It could even outdo ancient palaces on Earth. Not to mention, it was much bigger too.

The smell of money was everywhere.

David was dazzled by everything he saw.

However, he was not envious. Instead, he was wondering how much money it would take to build a headquarters like this.

How many lavish points would he get if he built one just like this?

Was it enough for him to get into Saint Realm?

These things were money to other people, but for David, they represented countless lavish points.

Not long after the two starting walking around, a figure quickly came over.

It was the old man Mick who had welcomed Alva not long ago.

He could not waste any time since the seniors of the family asked him to follow David.

“Miss Alba, Master Val is asking for you, so you should go see him. Leave Master David to me. I’ll bring him around,” Mick said.

Master Val was the direct descendant of the Fellowes family. At the same time, he was also the brother of the current head, and his name was Valerio Fellowes.

He was also the person in charge of the headquarters of Treasure Trove.

He had a very high status. Even if Alba, the third young mistress of the family, would have to respectfully call him Grandpa Val.

“Grandpa Val is asking for me? I got it. Grandpa Mick, I’ll leave Master David to you. You should take him to rest when he gets tired of looking around.”

After Alba said that, she pondered and added, “Master David is my guest, and he will soon be the family’s guest. So, you can’t neglect him, Grandpa Mick.”

“Don’t worry, Miss Alba. I will make Master David happy,” Mick answered.

“I’ll go to Grandpa Val now, Master David. Just go to Grandpa Mick if you need anything. He’ll help you,” Alba turned to say to David.

“Alright, go now. I don’t need anything. I just want to go to the auction,” David replied.

“Don’t worry, Master David. I’ll send you the invitation card to the auction soon. You can surely enter when the time comes,” Mick said.

“Thank you, Old Sir,” David thanked.

The reason he came here was for the auction. He wanted to buy a few treasures so he could get lavish points and increase his strength.

Mid-Sovereign Rank was too weak in Star Kingdom.

Even the old man in front of him was a beginner Sovereign Ranker.

Moreover, David even killed Cornelius, the second-in-line heir of the Lightfoot family.

The Lightfoot family was a big family with five Saints.

Even though David killed everyone Cornelius brought, the people around Alba were still alive and they saw what happened that day.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1690—Even though Alba promised him that no one would leak what happened that day, David did not believe him.

He had to be prepared.

If he could completely trust Alba, how could Cornelius know about her whereabouts?

A lot of these major forces would infiltrate each other.

No one could guarantee that there were no spies around Alba.

Even if they were not from the Lightfoot family, they might have been from other forces.

If this got leaked and the Lightfoot family learned that David killed Cornelius, it would be bad. for David if he did not have time to increase his strength.

David did not believe that the Fellowes family would help him.

From what Alaba said, the Fellowes family was in hot waters themselves. So, how would they dare to become enemies with a family like the Lightfoot family for the sake of an outsider?

Furthermore, David did not like to depend on others.

So, he had to be prepared.

His first step was to get enough lavish points during the auction. Then, he would raise his strength to partial Saint Realm.

That way, he would have the capital to continue living in Star Kingdom.

“You’re too kind, Master David. You are Miss Alba’s guest, so naturally, you’re also the family’s guest. Please forgive me if there’s anything I don’t do well enough,” Mick answered courteously.

“You should chat. I’ll go see what Grandpa Val needs.”

“Miss Alba, go ahead.”

“Miss Alba, bye.”

Alba turned around to leave.

After Alba left, Mick said, “Master David, where do you want to go next? I’ll show you the way.”

“Old Sir, I’m a little tired so I won’t go anywhere else. Please take me to rest,” David said.

He was initially already not interested.

Alba insisted on taking him around the headquarters.

Now that Alba was not here, he had no reason to stay here anymore.

“Do you not want to look around anymore, Master David? There are a lot of places in the headquarters that are worth visiting.”

“Thank you, Old Sir. I don’t really want to. Next time,” David rejected indirectly.

“Come with me then. I’ll take you to your room.”

Mick did not continue urging David and he walked ahead of David.

David followed.

However, Mick’s eyebrows were tightly furrowed in front of David.

David was smiling and chatting happily when he was with Miss Alba. He was having a lot of fun.

After Miss Alba left, he did not want to continue.

Who would believe him if he said there was nothing between them?

Mick knew Miss Alba's charm.

Back then, she did not wear a veil and was a famous talented woman in Star Kingdom.

Since getting engaged to the eldest son of the Palmore family, the Palmore family requested for her to wear one.

One could tell how attractive she was.

Thus, it was normal for a youngster like David to be attracted to Miss Alba.

However, Mick did not understand why Miss Alba was so close to David even when she knew she was engaged.

'Is she not worried about being found out?

'Won't she suffer once she married into the Palmore family?

"No!

'I have to tell the seniors of the family.

'If this develops, not only Miss Alba will suffer, the entire family will also be implicated.'
