Chapter 1717

Archimedes was waiting for Bernard in a secluded corner not far away from the tavern. They did not go far after they left. Instead, Archimedes sent Bernard back to snoop around to see what the people would say.

Archimedes did indeed plan to kill them one by one after this.

He would never rest assured if they did not die. It did not matter how high his achievements were or how powerful he became.

Everyone who saw him wet his pants was like nails bolted into Archimedes' heart.

He would not be able to eat or sleep without worries.

He could only do whatever he wanted to do without worries after he got rid of all those nails. However, the pretext was that he could not let those guys leak what happened today before they died.

He had to make sure they kept their mouths shut and then slowly got rid of them.

Bernard was a late Sovereign Ranker, so no one would notice if he went back quietly.

Even the two mid-Sovereign Rankers did not notice.

Even though they were only a small rank below Bernard, Bernard had mind power while their mind powers were still at the nurturing stage.

Both parties' perception was also miles apart. Archimedes did not wait long before Bernard came back.

"How is it, Uncle Bernard? What did they say?" Archimedes asked.

"Don't worry, Master Archi. The family is powerful, so we're still very intimidating. After we left, they all said they won't speak a word of what happened today and they would keep this a secret forever," Bernard answered.

"That's good. This is just as I expected. They will never dare to expose this even if I give them all the courage in the world. If not, I will wipe out their entire bloodline," Archimedes nodded and answered.

He was happy with this result.

He remembered the faces of everyone at the scene.

Now, he would wait until he went back to use his family's huge network to find out everyone's identity. Then, he would make them disappear from this world in secret.

"But Master Archi, something happened before they left," Bernard continued.

"What is it?" Archimedes asked quickly.

For some reason, he had a bad feeling.

What Uncle Bernard said later might affect his next plan.

"Everyone promised they wouldn't say anything about what happened today, but when they were about to leave, a girl named Angelica Dolce asked them all to exchange contact information so she could contact them.

Everyone agreed and they left only after exchanging contacts."

"What? Those scumbags exchanged contacts?" Archimedes questioned angrily.

"Yes. They wouldn't do that at first, but it's all because of that Angelica brat that they did it in the end," Bernard answered.

He had been with Archimedes for so long and he could say that he raised Archimedes.

Therefore, he knew Archimedes very well.

He would surely want to kill all witnesses so that he could rest assured.

Even if everyone died, Bernard had a feeling that one day in the future, Master Archi would also kill him once his strength surpassed him.

After all, Bernard was also one of the witnesses.

In Bernard's opinion, Archimedes was a very selfish and ruthless person.

He had the potential to be a formidable hero, but he was not a good master.

Of course, this was only Bernard's opinion, and it was not absolute.

For now, Archimedes still respected him.

"This is all Angelica Dolce's fault?" Archimedes asked with gritted teeth.

"Yes. If it weren't for her, they wouldn't have exchanged contacts," Bernard answered affirmatively,
