

Mistaken Marriage, Unexpected Love

Chapter 105

Chapter 105 Good Daughter

The saleslady nodded and explained, "This is an infinity card. Only those with more than ten billion savings can have it." Most of the people who could afford this set of teapot were very rich. Having worked in the shop for a while, the saleslady had seen rich people before.

So, she knew a little about the world of the rich.

Camila was still in shock.

It was then that she recalled Isaac's words. "You can buy whatever you want." That was what he had said.

It hadn't really meant much at the time he said it, but now, she understood.

There was one problem though..

She couldn't accept so much money from Isaac.

After the saleslady packed the gift, Glenda took the gift box.

"Your card." The saleslady handed the card back to Camila with both hands to show some respect.

Camila took it with a curt nod. It was only a card, but it suddenly felt so heavy.

Isaac said he liked her, but she thought he was just playing with her. 2

This however, changed things. He wouldn't give her so much money if he was lying, would he?

Camila smiled as she realized that indeed, money could touch the hearts of women. 2

Her included. Of course she was touched by this sweet act

It wasn't necessarily because of the money, but because of what it proved-- his sincerity. 4

If someone had ten thousand and chose to give you all of it, how could you doubt his sincerity? 4

Glenda glanced at Camila who was seemingly lost in thought and asked in a low voice, "Mrs. Johnston, what's on your mind? Do you need to buy something else?"

Camila sighed and shook her head. "No. Let's go."

Glenda glanced at her and asked, "Don't you feel Mr. Johnston's love for you now?"

Camila heard her question, but she didn't respond

She knew in her heart that he loved her

Sadly, she couldn't admit it

She wouldn't admit it

She and Isaac couldn't become a real couple because she already had a child that was not his. @

Isaac wouldn't raise another man's child. He wouldn't accept to be a stepfather

The man she knew would never agree to that. It was literally impossible

She was sure of that, so she saw no reason to give into her feelings and get hurt in the end. 7

Also, she was going to return the card. She couldn't accept it Camila shook her head. This was not the time to think about it

She glanced again at Glenda and said, "Let's go."

In the car, she gave the address to the driver. Finally, they pulled up at the surgeon's house

Luckily, the surgeon was at home, so their trip wasn't a wasted one

The man looked at Camila and went straight to the point.

"How can I help you?"

The man was in his fifties. He had grey hair, but he looked very energetic "Actually, my father has brain cancer. I came to ask if you could be his attending doctor."

The surgeon had been admiring Camila's working skills

The fact that she came here today to save her father, meant that she was a loyal child. He could not refuse "Okay. I'll do it."

"Oh god... Thank you." Camila was really grateful. She felt like a weight had been taken off her shoulders. "I heard that you like tea. I brought this for you. Please accept it." Camila placed the packed set on the table

The surgeon was already shaking his head. "No... I can't accept it."

"Please, you have to. I know you are an honest and upright man. You agreed even before I gave you the gift. I know you have principles. I am your junior and I respect you very much. Please, just accept this as my gratitude for the help you gave me before." 2 Camila tried to convince him to take it

The man sighed. He liked tea, so why not? "Thank you. I will do my best to help you."

"Thank you," Camila said with a smile

Now that that was settled, both of them started talking on medical topics

He specialized in a particular field

Besides, he had been a doctor for a long time, so, he was really experienced

Camila learned a lot from her chat with him

They chatted together until it was noon

The surgeon asked her to stay for lunch, but Camila didn't have the nerve to have lunch with him, and in his home at that She turned down the offer politely. "I'm sorry, I have something to attend to

"Okay. I'll go to the hospital this afternoon and have a look at him," the man said

"Thank you very much." Camila smiled gratefully

"You're welcome."

As she left his house, Camila went back directly to the villa
She was on the sofa, deep in her thoughts
She didn't know if it would be a good idea to tell Rowena about it or not After all, Rowena and Marvin had lived together for more than twenty years
Rowena had the right to know he was sick
She took out her phone and was about to call Rowena when her phone vibrated
Rowena sent her a video and two messages Camila opened the video with a smile. Joe wore blue baby clothes. His black hair was slick and his eyes, as always, were all over the place. He looked so cute that Camila almost squealed The messages read, "Joe is one month old. He has gained some weight, and is almost 3.5 kg. Can you see it?" "Oh, look at the little cute guy. Do you think he looks like you?" Rowena knew that Camila had escaped from Jaylen, but was now caught in Isaac's web. @
So, she knew that Camila couldn't come to see both her and the baby Camila reassured Rowena that she was fine and pleaded with her to take good care of Joe Rowena gave her all the reassurance she needed. That way Camila wouldn't worry about her baby Camila watched the video again and typed with a smile, "Of course my baby looks like me! Who else would he look like?" She hesitated for a while and finally made her decision

"I heard that my father is sick. And from the look of things, it's very serious."

After a long while, Rowena finally replied, "It will be better if he just died." Camila stared at the screen, not really surprised

However, she had to wonder if Rowena said this out of anger, or if she really meant it

"Mrs. Johnston, have some fruits please." Glenda came to her with a plate of fruits. She put down her phone and picked up a piece of cantaloupe

In the hospital

Marvin lay on the bed with sunken eyes and a sallow face. He had gotten seriously thin in just a short amount of time His attending doctor brought many experts to evaluate his condition, but even after all the examinations they did, they all had the same diagnosis -- there was no need operating. He would live longer if they didn't operate

Doing surgery was a lot of risk taking, and it would also have a lot of negative side effects

The best solution was to keep him comfortable and try to keep him alive

a little longer

In the afternoon, the surgeon Camila had visited was introduced to Marvin. "This is an expert in this field. He personally came to see you."

Marvin knew that he was seriously ill, but he wasn't ready to die. Not yet. He looked at the expert gratefully and said, "Thank you, doctor. Do you think I still have some hope?"

Yes, he still had hope. That was all he could hang onto at the moment

The expert replied, "If you cooperate with the doctors, we will try our best to save you, and I think you will recover."

The doctor preferred to give the patient hope first.

Whether or not the patient's condition was good

Marvin's eyes lit up. "Really?"

"Really." He nodded and added, "You have to relax and try not to think about your illness or the fact that you may be dying. Many people whose cases have been worse than yours received treatment and exceeded the outcome we had expected.

The most important thing is that they have a good mindset. That's what you need."

Marvin understood and nodded

"I have read your medical file and I am now familiar with your condition

I will team up with your attending doctor to treat you. You just have to be confident." The expert made his instructions very clear

Marvin nodded vigorously and answered, "I will."

Then, he squinted his eyes and asked, "Doctor, why did you come to see me? How did you hear of my case?" He was actually confused because he already had an attending doctor, and he hadn't specifically gone looking for this expert

"Your daughter asked for my help. She is very filial," the expert answered

Marvin was surprised. "Mila..." he murmured His daughter still cared about him

If not, she wouldn't have gone to the trouble of calling on an expert for him

"She is also a good doctor," the expert praised. "You have raised a good daughter."

Marvin had never been with the idea of Camila being a doctor

In this moment, he was actually very proud that his daughter was a doctor

Before, he used to put his interests first without thinking of others

But now, he finally understood how great doctors were

"She is really good."

Marvin had an incredible urge to see Camila now

As soon as the doctor left, he called his son in. "Ask your sister to come here."

"I already went to see her, but she was ruthless and drove me out. She doesn't care about you. Why do you want to see her?" Aldrin was still angry with how Camila treated him that day

Marvin frowned at his son and snapped, "She is your sister!"

"Sister? She doesn't treat me like her brother. Apparently, when I was sent to jail, she could ask Isaac for help, but she didn't. It's obvious that I mean nothing to her." Dressing in sportswear, Aldrin sat on the chair with his head down Marvis looked at his son and said patiently, "You have to be sensible and obedient. Now, please help me find her. I have something to tell her." "I said she won't come!" Aldrin shouted and ran out

In his haste and anger, he bumped into someone at the door

When he looked up at the person, his eyes went wide