Chapter 1451

Zachary's eyes settled on Serenity. A moment later, he whispered something in her ear. Serenity could not help but pinch his arm..

Zachary was not angry. Instead, he smiled and said, "Let's go. I'll bring you out and take a look around."

Serenity was delighted.

At the Buchams' courtyard, the couple saw the chairman of Queen Enterprise, Mr Donald, walking into the house with his wife and "sons" under the escort of the Buchams and Soxes.

When Kevin caught sight of the sturdy and cool "man" standing behind Mr Donald, his gaze deepened. He did not know that the Queens from Jensburg would come over

While holding a glass of wine, Elisa walked up to Serenity and said to Zachary, "Zachary, I'd like to have a private conversation with Seren. Please step aside."

Zachary glowered at Elisa with a grim expression.

This woman actually snatched his wife in public.

Elisa enjoyed watching how Zachary looked grim yet he dared not do anything to her "Babe."

Serenity called Zachary sweetly, which made him surrender straight away.

Just as he turned around and walked a few steps away, he heard Elisa say to Serenity, "Seren, that man is very handsome. He's tall, attractive, and slightly cool. I didn't know there could be someone more handsome than Zachary."

Zachary decided not to step aside.

He returned and stood firm beside Serenity. With his sturdy and attractive figure, he wanted to remind Elisa that it was fine to look at handsome guys, but she should not lead Serenity astray!

Serenity turned her eyes to the two sturdy and attractive men behind Mr. Donald. After that, she looked at Zachary and said with a smile, "In my eyes, no one can hold a candle to Zachary."

Elisa turned her gaze to Zachary and laughed. She then said to him playfully, “Mr. Zack, you pricked your ears like a rabbit.”

“What matters is that Seren continues to love me.”

Elisa was at a loss for words.

Zachary covertly placed Serenity’s arm around his and said to Elisa in an indifferent manner, “Are you done? All the guests are here, and the engagement party is about to begin. Seren and I are the matchmakers, so we can’t accompany you to admire handsome guys.”

“Mr Johnson”

Zachary called Remy who was standing nearby.

Remy was the representative of the Johnsons to attend the party tonight.

He was always following behind Elisa, but he kept a distance of three to four meters from her. However, Elisa was unaware of it.

Upon hearing Zachary’s shout, Remy turned around and walked toward the three of them.

“Mr. Zachary.”

After addressing Zachary, Remy greeted Serenity and her cousin gently.

Zachary said, “Mr. Johnson, Ms. Stone admires the young masters of the Queens. You may admire them with Ms. Stone. I need to bring my wife into the house.”

Remy replied with a slight smile, “Alright. I’ll accompany Elisa to admire the handsome guys.” After handing Elisa over to Remy, Zachary dragged his woman away.

Chapter 1452

Only after Zachary and Serenity walked far away did Elisa approach Remy and complain softly.” Zachary is a domineering, narrow-minded person. He was worried my cousin would be obsessed with the twin brothers of the Queens, so he promptly took Seren away

Remy maintained a slight smile. He gave Elisa the impression that he was an elegant gentleman.

“Mr. Zachary pampers his wife. Indeed, the twins of the Queens are brilliant. Although I’m not close to them, I’ve heard about the twin brothers. Hayden Queen is the president of Queen Enterprise. Mr. Donald trusts him fully and has high expectations of him.

“Hugh set up his own business and is unwilling to take over his family business. It’s said that Mr Donald wants to hand Queen Enterprise over to his younger son.”

Elisa instinctively asked, “Why is Mr. Donald so biased? Mr Queen has the ability to take over Queen Enterprise, yet Mr Donald is thinking about handing it to his younger son. Is Mr Donald trying to turn the brothers into enemies when they fight for power? This is most unfavorable to the development of a family business.”

Elisa had two older brothers Her eldest brother had the ability to take over Stone Group As for her second brother, he was not interested in business, so there was no use in training him. In the end, her parents said that her second brother was a good-for-nothing. Nevertheless, her second brother excelled in the field he was fond of Elisa felt that everyone had different strengths.

Parents should observe what their children excelled in before they picked the successor In that case, the children would not turn against each other.

After Clive took over the family business, Anthony was doing very well in the field he was fond of Without any conflict of interest, the relationship between her brothers was not affected. Her brothers were on good terms.

On the other hand, the Yorks were well known for their great family style It was very rare to be able to achieve that, regardless of whether it was among wealthy or average families.

Zachary’s cousins were in different fields. Their elders arranged their work according to their preferences and strengths. The most capable person was willing to carry the burden of being the successor.

Therefore, the Yorks were united and prosperous. Their business was always thriving.

The Queens’ status in Jensburg was similar to the Yorks’ in Wiltspoon. As the chairman and father, Mr Donald surely knew who was more capable of taking over Queen Enterprise

“That’s what I heard. It’s not known whether Mr. Donald will eventually change his mind. Personally, I agree with you. Having said that, that’s the Queens’ business. Regarding Mr. Donald’s arrangement, we can’t have a hand in it as we’re merely outsiders.”

Remy too believed that Mr. Donald's decision to hand Queen Enterprise to his younger son was unwise

Mr. Queen was capable and also the eldest son of the family He had been the president of Queen Enterprise for years. He had established a foothold in the company as well as the business. industry in Jensburg If Mr Donald insisted on making Mr. Hayden step aside, it would easily. cause an uproar in Queen Enterprise

Of course, those leaders in Jensburg would probably look forward to seeing the two brothers turn against each other

"That's true Let's wait and see."

Elisa sighed.

Oftentimes, siblings turned against each other mainly due to their parents' bias.

Mr Hugh shared the same mother as Mr. Hayden. Also, he was a twin. Despite his capability, he was not highly looked upon. That would be a source of chaos in the family.

Elisa thought over it. After returning home later, she would mention it to Clive Given that Stone Group had some businesses in Jensburg, they should pay attention to Queen Enterprise's activity. If the Queen brothers turned against each other and caused an uproar in the company, Stone Group might be able to take advantage of the situation.

"Elisa, are you interested in Mr. Hugh?"

With a vague smile, Remy asked her. When Elisa fixed her eyes on him, his handsome face. revealed a look of curiosity.

"No. I simply admire his looks. Now, I have no interest in men who are cold and arrogant."

She had failed terribly in her attempt to win Zachary's heart.

She would only treat those men whose personality was similar to Zachary's as beautiful scenery to appreciate. She would not fall for them.

Only after Elisa got over Zachary did it strike her that men with that kind of personality were unsuitable for her

Remy looked at Elisa smilingly and said, "I too think the Queen brothers don't suit you, but it's nice to appreciate them as beautiful scenery."

Elisa nodded and felt that Remy knew her quite well.

Once all the guests had arrived, the engagement party officially began.

At the sight of Jasmine's blissful look, Elisa said in admiration, "Among my three friends, two of them are in love and blissful. Cece and I are still single. It's really admirable to see how happy Seren and Jasmine are."

Zachary and Josh were people who could be counted on.

They were faithful in relationships.

Those who could win their hearts and become their wives would be greatly pampered forever.

Who would dislike being pampered?

"Your best friend has gotten over her past relationship, hasn't she?" Remy casually asked. Then, he said, "You don't have to worry too much. There's sure to be a suitable man who walks into your life and gives you happiness in the future."

Elisa said, "Even though Cece claimed that it doesn't matter, how can she easily get over the relationship that had lasted for years? It was difficult and agonizing for me to get over my feelings for Zachary as well."

Toward the end of Elisa's sentence, her expression carried a sense of loneliness.

Since Zachary ended up being her cousin's husband, she had no choice but to get over him. Seeing how well Zachary treated Serenity, Elisa acted as though she had gotten over him on the surface. Privately, she would always hide under her blanket because she would toss and turn in agony and have trouble sleeping the whole night.

Ever since Remy became her new neighbor, the number of times she thought about Zachary had reduced probably because she often chatted with Remy. Besides, being involved in investment distracted her.

When she saw Zachary and Serenity being lovey-dovey, all she felt for them was admiration. There was not a tinge of jealousy.

She had really gotten over Zachary.

Even so, not everyone could get over their relationships as Elisa did.

“Cece is also here tonight. I saw her just now and greeted her, but her mom soon called her away.”

Elisa’s eyes swept the crowd as she wanted to search for her best friend. With so many guests, she had no idea where all of them were seated. She did not spot her best friend.

Remy looked at Elisa and wanted to ask her what she thought of him.

However, he bit his tongue.

It was not the right timing yet.

Currently, Elisa had really gotten over Zachary. Nevertheless, the Stones still guarded against Remy as if he were a thief. Every time he shamelessly visited the Stones or sponged food off them, Mrs. Stone’s face would be grave.

The Stones looked down on him for not being a Wiltspoon local.

He was in no rush to get together with Elisa.

If Elisa fell in love with her, he would stand a great chance of succeeding.

“Elisa, you’re bold in expressing your love and hatred. I admire girls like you.”

Elisa laughed and replied, “Thank you. I know I have quite a good personality. I think those who dislike and badmouth me are simply jealous of me.”

“That’s right. They’re jealous of you.”

Elisa possessed enviable qualities.

It was now time for a toast to the engaged couples on stage.

As their matchmakers, Zachary and his wife returned to their seats.

Coincidentally, Zachary was seated with the four members of the Queens. Besides, the head of the Buchams and Kevin were at the same table.

Kevin was called over by Zachary to sit here.

Kevin knew full well that his brother and sister-in-law had perceived Hayden as his woman ever since his nana chose Hayden for him. Given that it was rare for Hayden to make a trip to Wiltspoon, his brother would definitely arrange for him to get along with Hayden.

At the moment, Kevin was seated right beside Hayden.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

Chapter 1454

The minute Kevin sat down, he greeted Hayden. All Hayden did was nod at him in acknowledgment.

Those seated there had high social standing. They had a joyful talk with one another.

Serenity secretly observed Hayden.

Hayden and her twin brother were exactly the same in appearance. Both of them were wearing business suits. Anyone could easily tell that they were siblings.

Deep down, Serenity admired Grandma May's fantastic taste.

She could actually pay attention to Hayden who was in Jensburg. She even concealed Hayden's identity for over 20 years and matched her with Kevin.

As soon as Hayden felt Serenity's eyes on her, she turned her gaze to Serenity.

Serenity was caught looking at Hayden.

Serenity did not dodge it. Instead, she openly met Hayden's deep gaze.

"Mr. Queen."

Serenity took the initiative to greet Hayden with a smile.

"Mrs. York."

Hayden greeted Serenity back with a deep voice. However, the deep voice was a pretense. Serenity wondered if Hayden was tired of faking a deep voice.

"Mrs. York, are you staring at me because I look untidy? I hope you can let me know."

Serenity smiled and said, "No. It's just rare to see a pair of twins who are so identical, so I can't help but stare at you. I'm sorry, Mr. Queen."

"It's fine. Whenever my brother and I show up together, everyone will look at us this way."

Mrs. Queen chuckled and said, "A lot of people can't distinguish them. Sometimes, their father. can't differentiate them as well."

Whenever Mr. Donald mistook his son for another, Mrs. Queen would criticize him for raising their daughter as a son. Mrs. Queen gave birth to a pair of fraternal twins, who ended up being raised. as male twins.

Mrs. Queen forbade Hayden from dressing like a man after the latter returned home. She wanted Hayden to dress like a woman, but Hayden disobeyed her.

According to Hayden, she had always dressed like a man as far as she could remember. Mr. Donald introduced Hayden to the public as his son, so she was used to being a son of the family and refused to dress like a woman.

She had never dressed like a woman so far.

Mrs. Queen was exasperated and helpless.

Hayden was not young anymore. She would need to dress like a woman sooner or later, then marry a good man.

Could Hayden want to be a man forever and marry a woman?

In Jensburg, many young women of the elite wanted to marry Hayden, who was the ideal son-in-law for their mothers.

Serenity laughed and said, "Both of you are really alike. Mr. Queen and Mr. Hugh have the same aura."

Many twins might look very alike, but they had different personalities.

The Queen twins had similar personalities in that they were considered cold and domineering.

Hayden darted a glance at her twin brother.

In fact, this was not how her brother typically behaved. He faked it so that he could match her.

Everyone was not close, but they soon had a common topic since they were in the business industry.

Kevin had a glib tongue. Seated beside Hayden, he could talk to her the entire night. His talk was so fruitful that Hayden did not find him garrulous.

Serenity secretly said to her husband, "I admire Nana the most."

Nana had such fantastic taste!

Zachary chuckled. "Nana has us in her clutches."

Chapter 1455

Serenity smiled. Zachary's nana was the best grandmother she had ever met.

Her grandmom was worlds apart from his nana.

"You should treasure Nana. Having a dozen of your nana is never enough for me."

Zachary was closest to Nana. He said, "Elders are treasures."

After Serenity fell quiet for a moment, she said, "It depends. Some elders like to kick up a fuss and bring chaos to the younger generation. In that case, those elders aren't treasures."

Zachary held her hand.

"Mr. Bucham and Jasmine are coming for a toast.

Serenity refused to talk further about the unhappy things. She immediately changed the topic.

Josh and Jasmine went to each table to drink a toast. When they reached Zachary's table, Zachary mocked his buddy playfully. "Josh, you're grinning from ear to ear tonight. Your cheeks are as red as a tomato. Is it because you've drunk or laughed too much?"

Josh burst into laughter before he responded, "Both."

He and Jasmine raised their glasses to Mr. Donald and his wife.

Mr. Donald and his wife were the oldest at the table.

The rest were from the same generation as Josh.

Seeing his beaming cousin, the head of the Buchams was happy for Josh. He had a different perspective on relationships. Perhaps being in love and getting married was not as terrifying as it seemed.

“Mr. Bucham and Ms. Sox are really well-matched.

When Mr. Donald expressed his wishes, he cast a glance at his children.

Hayden drank her wine nonchalantly.

Mr. Hugh pretended as though he was unaware of his father’s profound glance.

Hayden was not close with Josh. She raised her glass, clinked glasses with Josh and Jasmine, and conveyed a generic greeting to them.

Josh soon headed to another table with Jasmine for a toast.

Although the two of them kept toasting to the guests, they did not drink much.

Even so, Josh was worried that Jasmine would get drunk. He softly reminded Jasmine many times, saying, “Jas, just do it for show. Don’t drink too much, or you’ll be drunk.”

“I’m just drinking one sip every time. I won’t get drunk.”

Jasmine’s eyes swept around before she whispered, “You too don’t drink too much.”

“Don’t worry. I know my limits.”

Josh held Jasmine’s hand and beamed with pleasure. “Jasmine, we’ll get married tomorrow. We’ll officially become a married couple.”

As their wedding date was near, they would begin to prepare for their wedding once they got their marriage license.

Josh wanted to prepare a grand wedding for Jasmine, so he put a lot of effort into the preparation.

Josh knew that Zachary hired the best international bridal designer to tailor a dress for Serenity. Given that his wedding was drawing near, he could only hire the best local designer to create a dress for Jasmine, which was a shame for him.

The best international bridal designer was too busy to accept his request at such short notice.

It was unlike Zachary and Serenity's wedding, which would be taking place in the fall. They had ample time to prepare as their wedding was several months away.

"Are we going to get married tomorrow? I'm afraid you'll be too drunk to wake up tomorrow." Josh replied, "I'll stay sober... I won't get drunk so that I can get married to you tomorrow."

Jasmine grinned. "It's okay, as long as I'm sober. I can drive you to City Hall after I kidnap you while you're half-conscious. Once we receive our marriage license, you'll be mine and can't run away anymore."

Josh said, "I won't run away, I'm willing to be bound to you for life. I'll be your lifelong support and provide you shelter. All the money I earn will be for you to spend."

"Mr. Bucham, you're proposing a toast but keep exchanging sweet words with each other. You should consider the feelings of bachelors like us."

Callum smiled and joked when he heard the sweet talk between Jasmine and Josh.

Josh clinked glasses with him and responded with a smile, "You're not far behind."

He looked at Camryn, who was sitting quietly beside Callum.

Camryn could not see Josh but could feel his gaze. While facing Josh and Jasmine, she felt around to find her glass and raised it to them.

"Mr. Bucham, Jasmine, I wish you a long life together."

Jasmine smiled and clinked glasses with her. "Camryn, thank you."

Camryn beamed.

She did not want to come with Callum but was convinced by him.

When she came, not only could she feel the strange gazes of many people looking at her, but she could also occasionally hear some whispers around.

Camryn came here with Callum. Those people who whispered about her punishing her family because justice demanded it even made sarcastic remarks behind her back about why she was so righteous. They said it was because she found a backer and had climbed to the top.

Even so, Camryn faced them calmly.

She did not think what she did was wrong.

Her mom and uncle conspired to kill her dad. Should she not sue them?

Did her dad deserve to be killed?

Not only did they harm her dad, but her mother also wanted to kill her.

Camryn did not feel torn about it at all; perhaps she was deeply hurt by her mom and uncle for the past two decades or so. She did not have any love for them, so when she sued them for killing her dad, she was not swayed by the kinship between them.

The lively engagement party ended late at night.

Josh arranged for the guests who traveled far to stay at Wiltspoon Hotel and that he would settle all expenses.

After Josh and his driver sent the Soxes home, they went upstairs to rest. Only Jasmine stayed to accompany him. He said he had too much to drink and was too thirsty, so he wanted some water.

As such, Jasmine poured him some warm water. He had one glass after another and did not seem to have the intention to leave.

Jasmine dozed off several times and urged him, "Josh, how many more glasses of water do you want to drink? It's past midnight, so you should hurry back to rest. Didn't you say we'll go get our marriage license tomorrow? We can only get up early if we turn in early. I'll see you at the entrance of City Hall at 9:10 am tomorrow. If you're late, I'll delay the matter indefinitely."

"Jas, we're engaged now. Everyone in Wiltspoon knows we're engaged."

Josh looked deeply at Jasmine, who understood the meaning behind his gaze.

Jasmine helped him fill his glass with water again then put it down hard in front of him. She sat next to him and reached out to twist his ear. "Don't think about it. Wait until our wedding night."

Josh hugged her and said, "Jasmine, Jazzy, Dear, I'll just hug you to sleep and won't cross the line. I'm an old man and am not used to having a woman around. Let me practice and get used to it so that I won't be shy on our wedding night."

Jasmine said amusingly, "You're the last person who would be shy. You talk a lot when normally give Mr. York love advice—you're very experienced."

Josh hugged her tightly and then let her go. Since he loved her, he would respect her. She might seem cheeky, but she was very conservative.

"I was just teasing you."

Josh dotingly and lightly pinched her pretty face. He stood up and said with reluctance, "I'm leaving. You should get some rest soon. Good night."

Jasmine walked Josh out.

His driver was waiting for him outside.

"You don't need to send me further. Go back to sleep," Josh turned his head and said to Jasmine.

"I need to close the gates."

Jasmine lightly patted the dog that came over to rub against her. It shook its head and wagged its tail.

Soon, it went back to the corner and lay down.

Josh looked at the dog and chuckled. "Your dog is very obedient and doesn't bark. Zachary was scared half to death by it last time."

Jasmine hummed. "It doesn't bark sometimes, but it is good at guarding our house. Since we had it, no one dared climb over the wall at night anymore. Thieves used to spoil the surveillance camera above my fence and climb over the wall to get in."

Her parents were light sleepers and heard the movements outside. As a result, those thieves managed to get in but rushed to escape without even being able to pick the lock on their front door.

Since they had the dog, their surveillance camera stayed intact.

Now, there was no need for Jasmine's family to be afraid of thieves anymore. Everyone knew her fiancé was Josh Bucham. The Buchams kept a low but powerful profile in Wiltspoon. Who would dare steal from Jasmine's family? One could be easily turned upside down by the Buchams in seconds.

As reluctant as Josh was, he still got into the car. Jasmine stood at the entrance and watched the driver start the car. Only then did she close the gates and go back inside..

The night was quiet after that.

As usual, Serenity went to the hospital to visit her sister the next day.

"Seren, I'm fine now, and Mrs. Lane is taking care of me. You don't need to stay here with me. every day. Do what you need to do," Liberty said when Serenity put down the insulated lunch box.

She was already thinking about her business at All You Can Eat.

After Liberty got injured, two of her employees came to see her in the hospital. She trusted them and gave one of them the keys to the store so that they could open the door for business as usual.

She had asked Serenity to go and take a look. There were regulars and returning customers, so the business was alright.

Even so, Liberty was still anxious. She could not wait to recover right away and continue to earn money.

"I'll go back to the store later. Jasmine has gone to get her marriage license today and isn't free.

Our bookstore hasn't been open for a while." Now that her sister was recovering well and was being looked after by Mrs. Lane, Serenity was much more at ease.

If she did not go back to the store soon, everyone would think that she was going to close down. the bookstore and become a missus at home. Mr. Charles would probably lose his money in the bet with his friends.

He won a handful last time.

"Sonny went to the gym?"

"Yeah, Jim sent him there."

Serenity took out her phone and said, "I'll call Jim and ask him to send Sonny to my store after his class so I'll have a companion."

Sonny was still young, after all. He would be bored if he stayed in the hospital every day.

Liberty hummed.

"Jasmine went to get her marriage license today?" She asked with a smile, "Her engagement party last night must be very lively, right?"

"It was indeed. Many people showed up. Liberty, you have to get better soon. You must attend her wedding. Jasmine also said you must attend and that Sonny will be her flower boy."

Liberty smiled. "Of course. I'll be able to jump and dance by the time her wedding comes."

"Seren, you have to go and open your store. Hurry up and go. Don't worry about me."

Under the repeated urging of her sister, only then could Serenity leave the hospital and drive to Wiltspoon School.

Meanwhile, at York Corporation...

Gu Lingfei: Married at First Sight Novel Chapter 1458

Chapter 1458

Callum followed behind his big brother like a tail.

Zachary could not help but turn his head and ask him, "If you have something to say, say it. Don't stick to me like glue—it's not me you should be sticking to."

Why was Callum sticking to him instead of Camryn?

Callum smiled and said, "Zack, why aren't you going back to your office yet? I have something to say to you."

"You can't say it here?"

Callum grinned.

Zachary glared at him again and figured that what he wanted to say was a personal matter.

Ten minutes later, Zachary sat at his desk and asked Callum, "Spit it out. What is it?"

"I'm a little embarrassed. I always think I know more about love than you do, but I feel a little flustered now. It feels like I'm slapping myself in the face."

Zachary laughed and responded, "Aren't you guys learning from me? One, don't hide your identity. Two, don't ask for trouble. No, you've asked for trouble. You know she can't see, and yet you asked her to send you flowers. Aren't you worried that something will happen to her on the way?"

"If something happens, you'll be the one who's heartbroken."

Callum defended himself. "I wasn't asking for trouble. I know she can move freely in a familiar environment, so I wanted her to be familiar with the route and be comfortable when she comes to find me in the future. I don't know when I can get the genius doctor to treat her eyes. Before she regains her sight, I should let her get used to things related to me."

"I told Camryn that she's the wife candidate Nana picked for me. I convinced her to accompany me to Josh's engagement party last night, but she wasn't in the flower store when I went to find her just now. She has moved into the flower store, but her phone was off when I called her."

"I keep feeling that she's avoiding me. It was time to come to work and I didn't have enough time, so I could only come to the office first and ask you for some advice. Zack, how do you coax Serenity when a conflict happens?"

Zachary's face darkened.

"Your sister-in-law and I have a good relationship."

"I know you do now, but wasn't there a time when things were a bit tense between you? Nana had to live with you to mediate the situation."

Zachary wanted to send his cousin, who exposed his past, out of his office.

"Ms. Newman is definitely avoiding you. It's not that there's a conflict between you, but she can't accept you. The problem is different, so it can't be solved the same way. None of us can help you with this, so you have to solve it yourself. After all, your pursuit has just begun."

Callum pursed his lips: "I thought she had some feelings for me. I helped her and also took care of her business. She's very happy with me, and she also trusts me. I was the first person she told when she got the recorder."

“Who knew, after I told her everything, I can’t see her anymore. I should’ve learned from how you lied to Serenity in the past and lie to her for a while first.”

Zachary was speechless.

“Zack, what should I do?” Callum asked, feeling restless.

It turned out that wanting to complete the task given to him by his nana and marrying a woman was so troublesome.

Callum had always thought that as long as he wanted to marry a woman, no matter who it was, the other party would marry him in a heartbeat.

He only realized when Camryn avoided him that she did not want to marry him.

It must be because he was not handsome enough

No, it was because she could not see how handsome he was.

“Zack!”

Zachary said with a long face, “All of you say that I’m the one who knows the least about love. What’s the use of asking me? Go and ask Josh when he’s back from his break, or ask your sister-in-law. Seren is a woman, so she should understand how a woman thinks. She’s also the closest with Ms. Newman.”

He was not familiar with Camryn at all, so much so that he did not remember what she looked like. After all, he only needed to remember what Serenity looked like.

Chapter 1459

“Zack.”

Callum flattered Zachary, “Zack, you’re the smartest among us brothers. You didn’t know about love back then, but you and Serenity have been married for half a year now. Your relationship has been good, and you have more or less accumulated some experience.

“Zack, you’re happy now, so you should help your brothers cease their happiness too.

“Zack, tell me what I should do now. What should I do when Camryn doesn’t want to see me and avoids me?”

Zachary responded snappily, “As long as you’re thick–skinned enough, you can do whatever you want. You can’t replicate what happened between me and Seren.”

He and Serenity were mutually attracted, mutually understanding, and mutually trusting.

“Thick–skinned?”

Zachary continued, “If you really want me to teach you a few tricks, I’ll tell you the truth. Pursuing a woman requires you to be thick–skinned. No matter how the woman rejects you, you have to persist. Don’t retreat and ignore her just because she ignores you. If you do that, she’ll only become someone else’s wife.”

Callum asked after some thought, “Is that all?”

“Understand the deeper meaning of it before you act. Ms. Newman hasn’t completely regained her sight, so she somewhat feels inferior about it. Apart from pursuing her, you have to also make her believe that you won’t mind her being blind.

“At the same time, you should keep asking Remy about the genius doctor’s whereabouts and try to get the doctor to treat Ms. Newman’s eyes. I heard from Remy that Dr. Carden is pregnant and won’t be on call in the short term.

“Ms. Camryn might not be able to see the legendary doctor. Usually, Dr. Carden is the one seeing patients. She’s excellent in medicine and poison. As long as she’s willing to see Ms. Camryn, her eyes will have hope of recovering.”

Callum noted, “She said that her blindness was drug–induced.”

“Then she’ll have to wait for Dr. Carden. To put it bluntly, being drug–induced meant that she was poisoned. Dr. Carden is excellent in medicine and poison, so she’ll be able to heal Ms. Camryn’s eyes. In the few months of waiting, you should develop a good relationship with her and overcome the difficulties between you.

“I can help you with other things, but I can’t help you with relationships. In fact, no one can help you, and you have to rely on yourself. In short, sincerity goes both ways.”

Zachary began to shoo his brother after he finished. “Go back to your office and don’t delay my work. I have to hurry up and finish all my work for the next two weeks. I plan to take your sister-in-law to travel to Annenburg when Liberty is discharged from the hospital.”

He had promised Serenity.

Hence, he would definitely do it.

“I envy you, Zack.”

Callum stood up and said, “Zack, you should take it easy and don’t work too hard. You might not feel tired, but we’ll be exhausted.”

His brother was efficient at work, but his subordinates might not be able to keep up.

They would need to work overtime if they could not keep up, and that would be tiring.

The most fearful thing about working at York Corporation was Mr. York going crazy all of a sudden and raising his already high work efficiency.

Whenever that happened, everyone would be worn out and feel uneasy.

This was because Mr. York must have had a conflict with Mrs. York to be so engrossed in work.

“When have I not come and left work at normal hours ever since I had your sister-in-law?”

Zachary and Serenity’s relationship became more stable after they married. He rarely worked till late at night anymore.

Callum witnessed his brother’s display of love again.

After coming out of the CEO’s office, Callum returned to his own. He handled some important work before slipping away.

He wanted to secretly make a trip to Spring Blossoms.

Chapter 1460

Camryn would not abandon her flower shop. She would always be there.

It was working hours at the moment. Camryn would think that Callum was busy working in the office and would not go to her shop, so she could show up. Callum could then catch her red-handed.

Callum had not been avoided like this before.

In fact, Camryn had always been in the shop. When Callum went there in the morning, she asked her two assistants to lie to him while she hid in the bathroom.

Her phone was turned off because she changed a new phone and number.

As such, Callum's call did not go through.

After accompanying Callum to attend Josh's engagement party last night, Camryn thought about it all night. She did not know why Old Mrs. York picked her. Did Old Mrs. York not mind that she was blind?

Or did Old Mrs. York already know she was someone who played dumb?

However, even her little aunt did not know she had long arranged for someone to enter Newman Enterprise and meddle in their business.

Old Mrs. York could not have known.

Camryn felt that she was not suitable for Callum. While she had not fallen in love with him, she would withdraw herself and leave. She did not want to have any more interactions with him.

Therefore, she changed her phone and contact number. Her new number was only given to Dalton.

Dalton Mitchell was now the deputy managing director of Newman Enterprise. He was second only to Mr. Newman and was deeply trusted and relied upon.

How Camryn and Dalton met was another story. In any case, Dalton would not betray Camryn.

At this moment, Camryn and a strange man were the only ones in Spring Blossoms. The strange man was Dalton.

Despite that, Dalton had disguised himself, so Mr. Newman would not be able to recognize him even if he was present.

"Dal, you shouldn't come over. You'll be exposed if someone sees you."

Camryn held up a teapot and poured a cup of tea for Dalton.

Dalton looked at her with his dark eyes and said gently, "Given the situation, I won't be at ease if I don't come and see you."

"They can't be aggressive now."

Camryn originally had a plan too, but she met the Yorks because of Serenity, and things did not develop according to her plan. Luckily, the final result was good. It was several times better than the outcome she would have gotten from implementing her plan.

Her plan was only to get back everything that belonged to her and to seek justice for her dad.

Camryn's dad was treated as the successor because he was loved by his parents, and harmed by his brother as a result. As for Camryn's mom, she wanted to be with Camryn's uncle and did not hesitate to kill her then-husband, leaving Camryn fatherless at the age of two.

Camryn understood that her dad was mainly killed for them to gain benefits.

If it was only a matter of feelings, Camryn's mom could have filed for divorce and married the now Mr. Newman instead of killing her husband.

What they wanted was all the Newmans' family fortune.

Hence, they killed Camryn's dad.

After Camryn's dad died, her grandparents soon passed away one after another. Newman Enterprise ended up with the new Mr. Newman and Mrs. Newman.

Camryn admitted that Newman Enterprise prospered and had assets of over a billion dollars after it fell into her uncle's hands. That said, her uncle stepped on her dad's corpse to rise to the top. This was something she could not tolerate and accept.

As such, she arranged for Dalton to enter Newman Enterprise and used him to understand the company's business. She wanted to lay things out bit by bit to reclaim the enterprise.

Camryn planned to let Mr. and Mrs. Newman do the work for her.
