

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2502

Married at First Sight Chapter 2502-In a certain rental house, Camryn's two aunts were sitting on an old wooden sofa, while Carrie was sitting on a chair.

On the old wooden coffee table in front of them were several rotten apples.

Brenda said to her niece in embarrassment, "Carrie, this is the environment that we live in now. Don't dislike it. Now, through connections, we work as a cleaner in a hotel, and the salary is better than working in a factory. Cleaners cost a little more, but they only make a few thousand dollars a month.

I'm very happy that you can come out early, but I can't help you financially. Please forgive me."

Amy also looked embarrassed and said, "Carrie, I have always loved you the most, and you know that, but we were harmed like this by Camryn. We even lost our house, and our whole family was... We can only rent a house to live in, and we have to work as cleaners when we are old to earn some living expenses. I want to help you, but I am really powerless."

When the conversation changed, she cursed Camryn bitterly: "It's because of that blind woman who is cruel and cruel. He relies on the power of the York family to suppress and retaliate against us unscrupulously."

At first, the two families joined forces to kidnap Camryn, but Camryn found out and was sabotaged by Serenity, causing their plot to fail. Later, they were suppressed and retaliated against by Callum, which caused the two companies' businesses to boom. The land was defeated and still in debt.

Only by selling cars, houses, and luxury goods could all debts be paid off.

Then, the two families could only rent an old house in the most remote old town of Wiltspoon to live temporarily.

Even if they rented here, the rent, water, and electricity bills would be more than $1,000 a month.

In the past, $1,000 was not money to them, but now more than $1,000 is their wages for several days.

Even the cheapest houses like this couldn't be rented for a long time. The houses in the old city would soon be demolished and rebuilt. By then, Wiltspoon would no longer have this old city, and everything would be prosperous and new.

The rent here would also rise with the tide, and they didn't know what to do with the future of their two families.

The two families rented next to each other. Both the young and the old were now looking for jobs outside.

They didn't dare go to big companies for fear of losing face. After all, they were all young masters from wealthy families, so Camryn's cousins went to work in small companies.

The benefits and salaries of small companies are mediocre, so they could only endure.

In fact, the two families should be thankful that Camryn did not kill them all and allowed them to still find jobs. However, without money and power, they could not make trouble.

If they still dared to harm Camryn, they would end up like Mrs. Newman.

The two families also knew that even if they hated Camryn, they would not dare harm her again. At most, they would go to Newman's house and cry, but they could not make Camryn soften her heart.

"Aunt Brenda, aunt Amy, I'm not asking you to give me money." Carrie said, "I came to see how you are doing."

Brenda said, "That blind woman is so cruel. We never thought she could be powerful before. We usually see her as unknown, and she can only earn some pocket money by opening a flower shop. We don't take her seriously, and we never thought that she would have colluded with Dalton a long time ago. Dalton gave us a fatal blow.

We all made a mistake. Carrie, did you go back after you came out? Camryn didn't let you in. How do you think she is doing now? I heard that Callum went to Annenburg to invite a doctor named Lilian Carden. She helped her treat her eyes, but I don't know what the effect will be."

Lilian Carden, the fourth young mistress of the Johnson family, is a legendary miraculous doctor. I heard that she is a master of medicine and poison. She looks very powerful. I wonder if she can help a blind woman heal her eyes.”