

Chapter 81 The Kiss In The Car

Waylen didn't say anything.

However, Aline was stubborn and didn't want to give up this opportunity. She wanted to show off in front of Waylen, so she deliberately said to the principals of the school in a loud voice, "I know the manager of this restaurant, and he agreed to give us a discount."

The principals all praised her and nodded in approval.

Looking at Waylen again, Aline continued, "Mr. Fowler, did you know that this is a six-star hotel? They rarely ever give any discounts, but the manager gave me one because we go way back."

A lot of other guests who overheard her turned to look at her in surprise. Aline smirked, knowing that Waylen would also think that she was a capable woman.

She couldn't help but feel complacent.

After all, aside from in terms of appearance, how could Rena compare with her?

Just then, a man's voice sounded from the door. "Waylen,

She couldn't help but feel complacent.

After all, aside from in terms of appearance, how could Rena compare with her?

Just then, a man's voice sounded from the door. "Waylen, there you are!"

Dudley Williams, the owner of the hotel, walked in with a big smile on his face.

He warmly shook hands with Waylen and said, "My staff just informed me that you were here for dinner. I didn't believe it when they told me, so I came here to see for myself!"

With a reserved smile, Waylen said politely, "Long time no see, Mr. Williams!"

"Hey, don't call me that! We've known each other for years, Waylen!"

Still smiling, Dudley turned to look at Rena, who was standing next to Waylen.

Waylen took the hint and made the necessary introductions.

"This is my girlfriend, Rena. We're here for her school reunion."

Dudley bowed slightly and politely shook hands with Rena.

As a well-seasoned businessman, he did have a way with people. "I have to say, not only is your girlfriend beautiful, but there's something about the way she carries herself. You two make the perfect match!"

Rena smiled at Dudley elegantly.

Waylen had once helped Dudley with an important lawsuit, so now was Dudley's chance to pay Waylen back. "If I had known I was going to meet your girlfriend today, I would've prepared a proper gift. But since I have nothing prepared, at least let me treat you tonight. Everything's on the house!"

The food and wine that was served at the reunion amounted to several hundred thousand dollars. How could Dudley offer to waive their bill?

Rena didn't think it was a good idea, especially since she was worried that Waylen would end up owing Dudley a favor.

But to her surprise, Waylen accepted Dudley's offer. He put his arm around her shoulder and said with a smile, "Thank you for your hospitality, Mr. Williams. I'll be sure to treat you to dinner sometime, okay?"

Seeing that Waylen seemed eager to leave, Dudley understood what was going on. Waylen clearly couldn't wait to make out with Rena!

So he personally escorted Waylen and Rena to the elevator.

Meanwhile, in the banquet hall.

Everyone had fallen silent, especially Aline. She felt so embarrassed. She had worked so hard to get that discount, but Rena managed to get everything for free without raising her finger! How humiliating!

Aline grabbed a bottle of wine and poured herself another glass.

Smiling bitterly, she muttered, "This single bottle of wine cost a fortune. Thanks to Rena, I can drink it for free!"

As she spoke, a thought occurred to her and she turned to look at Harold.

However, Harold completely ignored her and walked away.

"You bastard!" she shouted at him angrily, a little tipsy from all the alcohol. "I love you more than Rena ever did!"

Harold stopped in his tracks, only to turn around and sneer at her coldly. "Yeah? Well, your love is too cheap for me!"

Hearing this, Aline burst into tears.

Who would've thought that the reunion she had been looking forward to would end like this?

Rena followed Waylen to the basement parking lot.

She sat in the driver's seat and kicked off her high heels, rubbing her red ankles gently. "I should've brought a pair of flats."

She then rubbed her aching calves and sighed.

Waylen was sitting in the passenger's seat, staring at her beautiful legs. Sensing his gaze, Rena blushed and her heart started to race.

He said in a deep voice, "You can't drive barefoot. How about we go back upstairs and get a room instead?"

Rena was a bit naive when it came to flirting, so she didn't pick up on his implication. She simply smiled at him and suggested, "How about we call a driver?"

Waylen didn't say a word. His eyes were fixed on her, and there was kind of a dangerous light to them.

After a few seconds, he suddenly scooped her up and carried her over to his seat.

Rena gently beat his chest in protest. "What're you doing? This is a parking lot!"

"The last time we kissed in a parking lot, you hugged me for a very long time." His nose was against hers, and she could feel his hot breath.

The next second, he pressed his lips against hers, and she didn't refuse.

The tipsy Waylen was different from his usual sober self. He kissed her like crazy.
