Chapter 821

Today, Cornelia was playing the role of the adult. Even in the face of enemies, even with fear filling her heart, she didn't let it show

She gritted her teeth, swallowed her fear, and told herself she couldn't show weakness, couldn't back down, and certainly couldn't let anyone know she was scared, because she had to protect Briana standing behind her.

Not until she saw Marcus, who, at that moment, became her rock, did she let down all her pretenses and show her true self

Looking up at him, Cornelia had so much to say, but before she could open her mouth, he asked, "What happened to your face?"

Cornelia didn't want him to worry, so she tried to brush it off with a joke. "I lost a fight and bit myself."

But Marcus didn't buy it, "Ayden!"

Ayden lowered his head "I failed to protect Mrs Hartley. President Hartley, I'm willing to accept any punishment!"

Marcus' face darkened, his eyes cold "You think a punishment would solve everything? She got hurt, and you didn't tell me?"

If he knew Cornelia was hurt, he wouldn't have spent so much time watching her from the second floor...

Cornelia didn't want Ayden to be punished because of her, so she quickly defended him, "If it weren't for Ayden arriving in time, Bri and I might have been taken away. Don't blame him, okay?"

Ayden, as always, was expressionless, "Protecting Mrs. Hartley is my duty. I failed, I should be punished"

Cornelia was speechless.

Marcus said, "Go and accept your punishment."

“Bro, can you pay attention to me for once?” Briana felt her brother was becoming more and more strange. Clearly, she was the one who first saw him blocking the car that kidnapped them, but after he glanced at her to make sure she was alright, he walked straight towards Cornelia, completely ignoring her.

Marcus reached out and patted Briana’s head. ‘I will handle your things. You and Cornelia rest at home for a few days, don’t worry about anything else.’

Briana bit her lip and whispered,

“Bro, I’m scared. I’m scared that my missing exhibit is just a warning from them, and they will do something worse. It’s been so many years, but every time I think of that person, I feel afraid. I hate this feeling of helplessness...”

Marcus interrupted her, “Briana, you need to understand that you’re an adult now. You’re not that little girl who was bullied anymore. You should learn to forget the things that happened to you when you were young.

“If

you keep dwelling on it, those people and things that hurt you will haunt you like a nightmare and you won’t be able to get rid of them.

“You need to understand that you have the whole Hartley Group behind you, your grandma, your brother, and Cornelia. So many people are supporting you, what do you have to be afraid of?”

Briana understood all of this, but forgetting the past, overcoming all that lingered in her heart, was too difficult.

She had tried. She had tried many times, but failed each time. Especially when she heard anything related to Brennen, she couldn’t control her fear.

She cried out in despair, “I’ve tried countless times to forget the past, but every time I dream of those times in the middle of the night, the past events play like a movie in my mind. The more I try to forget, the more dreams I have, and I can’t find a moment of peace...”

Chapter 822

“Briana, just try your best to break free from your fear Your strength is enough to release yourself, and you’ll see that fear won’t be able to tie you down the future.” Marcus knew exactly what Briana was scared of That incident was also the main reason Marcus wanted to put Brennen behind bars years ago

Everyone said Marcus was cold blooded, and that he had no compassion Briana used to think that way too, because she felt her brother treated her just like any other person. She thought he didn’t care about her, she felt that even if he died, he wouldn’t give a damn.

Until one day, she got hurt. When she woke up in the middle of the night in pain, she saw him sitting by her bed, applying ointment to her wounds with concern in his eyes.

That’s when she realized, she wasn’t the kid everyone despised. The ones who hated her were just her mom and dad. Her brother and grandma loved her very, very much.

Her grandma had taken her in when she was little, and she wouldn’t be locked in the punishment room for talking too much anymore. She could also eat whatever she liked Her brother, he was always silently caring for her.

Thinking about this, Briana felt much better. Til try to let go of my fear I can’t allow it control me anymore.”

Marcus nodded “Good. Get in the car, let’s go home.”

Briana, “Mhm”

Marcus drove, leaving the passenger seat for Cornelia. Briana took her place in the backseat without being told. He was focused on driving, and didn’t say a word. Neither did Cornelia nor Briana. The three of them arrived at the Hartley Mansion in silence

By the time they got home, Briana was too tired, mostly mentally. She didn't even eat dinner and went straight to bed

Cornelia had a lot of questions. So she pulled Marcus into a room, "President Hartley, can you tell me how Brennen hurt Bri? I want to help her, but I don't know the whole story, so I don't know how to help her."

Marcus smiled, but it was a cold smile that couldn't warm anyone's heart. "Before I answer your question, you need to answer me three."

Cornelia, "Ask away. Whether it's three or ten, no problem."

Marcus, "Are you afraid of snakes?"

As soon as she heard the word, Cornelia got goosebumps all over. "I am. And I think most people around me are."

Marcus asked again, "What would you do if you were locked up with a snake?"

Cornelia, "I think I'd freak out"

Marcus. "What if you were locked in a completely dark room with a snake? How long do you think you could last?"

Just the thought of it filled Cornelia with fear. She hesitated for a few seconds before she realized. "You mean..."

Comelia didn't even dare to voice her suspicion, it was such a monstrous thought. If someone had even an ounce of sympathy left in them, they couldn't possibly do such a thing to their own child

Cornelia desperately wanted Marcus to deny it, to tell her that she was mistaken, but instead, he nodded heavily

Comelia's faith crumbled instantly, she could practically hear her heart shattering "So.."

"So I had him thrown in jail Marcus suddenly laughed, a cold, ruthless gleam in his smile. "If he dares to hurt anyone I care about again, I won't hesitate to chuck him back in."

"I'll support you no matter what," Cornelia said

That was all he needed to hear! That was exactly what Marcus wanted.

"He went after Bri when she was just a kid," he continued.

"That little thug locked her up in a cramped, dark room The bastard didn't even stop. Instead, he chucked a bunch of snakes in there with her Left her there for two days..."

These were the things Marcus knew about. There were still things he didn't know, things Briana was too scared to mention even now.

Comelia reached out carefully pressing his large hand against her unswollen cheek. "Can we help Bri get through this nightmare together?"

"Yeah," he replied, the word rough and warm as it rolled off his tongue.

Cornelia turned her head, pressing a light kiss to the back of his hand. Marcus was surprised by her action, but he quickly leaned in, seeking her lips, and kissing her softly.

Just as their lips met, there was a knock at the door. Cornelia tried to pull away in a panic, but Marcus quickly caught her waist, pulling her back into his strong arms.

And the knocking continued. "Marc, Dr. Lester brought some anti-swelling meds. You should apply it on Nelly's face."

The voice made Marcus let go of Cornelia. He gently touched her injured face, hardly daring to apply pressure. "Does it hurt? Let me apply the medicine."

"It doesn't really hurt anymore." Cornelia said

Marcus fetched the medicine from the door. He asked Cornelia to sit on the bed, squeezed some ointment on her face, and gently spread it evenly with his finger. "You can't be reckless like today. If you can't fight, hide. You can't get hurt again."

"I wanted to hide" Cornelia said. "But if I did, he would've hurt Bri. She is your sister, how could I let her get hurt?"

Before, Marcus always felt that Cornelia cared for Briana way more than him. From her words, he realized that part of why she cared for Briana was because Briana was his sister. In other words, if Briana wasn't his sister, she wouldn't be treated as she was now.

Without thinking. Marcus leaned in and kissed Cornelia again. The kiss lasted for a long time, until Cornelia felt a bit dizzy

Their moment was interrupted by a phone call. The caller ID showed Hannah. Cornelia answered at once, "Hannah..."

"Hannah," she said, "Can we go out for a drink? Just the two of us, no one else."

Hannah sounded down, and Cornelia nodded. "Sure, where are you? I'll come find you right now"

Cornelia quickly checked the received address It was near Blueshell Mansion and about a half hour drive from the Hartley Mansion, assuming traffic was clear. Til head out now, I should be there in about half an hour”

Hannah responded, Ill be waiting for you”

After ending the call, Comelia turned to Marcus and asked, “Has Steven returned to Harbor City yet?”

Marcus replied, “Steven is in charge of a major project in Harbor City He will be there today and tomorrow”

Cornelia said, “That’s good Hannah asked me out for a drink. She’s been feeling a bit off lately, so I should probably go keep her company”

Marcus felt a twinge of disappointment hearing she was suddenly called away but didn’t stop Cornelia from meeting her friend. “I can drive you there.”

Cornelia responded, “You need to get up early tomorrow I can drive myself. If I end up drinking too much, we can stay at a nearby hotel for the night”

She wanted to stay at a hotel alone? Marcus would never agree. Two girls drinking and staying at a hotel afterwards was too risky “I’m driving you”

Marcus insisted on driving her, so Cornelia didn’t refuse anymore. “The address Hannah sent is near Blueshell Mansion. You can drop me off and stay there. This will save you the back and forth and give you more time to rest and prepare for tomorrow morning”

Marcus agreed, “Alright, we’ll stay there tonight”

Granny Luisa, Granny Rebecca, and Patricia were all still up. Hearing they were heading out and would be staying at Blueshell Mansion, the three exchanged glances.

Granny Luisa said, “Marc, come with me to my study”

Marcus asked, “What’s up?”

Granny Luisa headed towards the study and responded, “Just follow me! No need for so many questions.”

Marcus let go of Cornelia's hand. "Wait for me here."

Cornelia nodded, "Okay"

Once they left, Cornelia quickly went to Granny Rebecca and Patricia "Granny, Patricia, what do you think Granny Luisa wants to talk to Marc about?"

Granny Rebecca and Patricia. "We have no clue."

"Really, you have no idea?" Cornelia didn't believe them, her sparkling eyes fixed on them.

They quickly became uncomfortable under Cornelia's gaze. "Why don't you go eavesdrop?"

Hearing this, Cornelia said, "I'll go have a listen then."

She tiptoed to the door of Granny Luisa's study pressed her ear against it, and heard Granny Luisa talking

"Marc. I understand you're young and are quite interested in mental activities. But you have to consider Nelly's health.

She might be pregnant. The fetus is very delicate in the first three months, even the slightest mishap could... So you have to control yourself during this time. Don't always be all over Nelly"

Marcus asked, "Who told you Nelly was pregnant?"

Granny Luisa answered, "Your behaviors have been pretty obvious. Do we need someone else to tell us?"

Marcus asked, "What obvious things have we done?"

Granny Luisa said, "Recently, Nelly's lips have been swollen and haven't recovered... You're not going to tell me that you've only been kissing and haven't done anything else. right?"

Chapter 825

The second she heard that, Cornelia felt so embarrassed she couldn't bear to listen anymore. She blushed and hurriedly left.

Seeing her red-faced exit, Granny Rebecca and Patricia asked with concern. "Nelly, what did you hear? Why's your face so rep

"Just... tell Mare I'm waiting for him outside when he comes out Cornelia quickly walked away after barely finishing her sentence, knowing they'd interrogate her if she had slayed.

Cornelia waited forever in the garage until Marcus finally showed up. She didn't know what he and Granny had chitchatted about and felt too awkward to ask. She kept quiet after getting into the car

"Why aren't you asking about my chat with Granny? Marcus asked first.

Cornelia didn't want to ask. She knew he'd spill the beans if she did, and she wasn't keen on dealing with that kind of awkwardness. "Granny Luisa wanted a private chat with you for a reason. I'm considerate. I don't want to put you in a tight spot

Marcus just chuckled and didn't say more. They arrived safely at the location Hannah had sent

Marcus parked on the side of the road. "We're staying at Blueshell Mansion to night. Give me a ring after your meeting. I'll come pick you up."

Cornelia replied. "The Mansion is just a short walk from here, and it'd be quicker to walk than drive. No need to pick me up. I can walk back. You should get some rest"

Marcus. "Can't I walk over to get you?"

Cornelia. "That works too."

After getting out of the car and closing the door, she headed towards the building. Much to her surprise, she bumped into Leonardo, whom she hadn't seen for a while. "Cornelia, what a coincidence, didn't expect to run into you here."

"Yeah, small world: Cornelia replied, feeling a bit uneasy, and instinctively looking back.

Following her gaze, Leonardo noticed the familiar luxury car. "President Hartley is really good to you, even letting his driver chauffeur you around."

Cornelia relaxed hearing that. "Yes. I gotta go if there's nothing else."

Leonardo, "This place isn't cheap, who are you meeting?"

Cornelia, "A friend."

Leonardo, "Which friend?"

Cornelia, "Are you implying that my friends aren't posh enough to afford this place?"

Leonardo, "Not at all! I just wondered if you were meeting your husband. When we first met, you mentioned you were married. It's been a year and I still haven't met your husband, so I'm curious."

Cornelia. "I'll introduce him to you when the time's right."

Leonardo, "Don't trick me I really wanna see the man who won you over."

Cornelia repeated what she had just said, "If there's nothing else, I need to go in."

Leonardo, "Go ahead"

Leonardo watched her go into the building, he turned to leave but the parked car nearby honked. He looked over and saw the car window slowly roll down. Clearly, someone wanted to talk to him Leonardo approached the car, upon closer inspection, he recognized the driver was Marcus, "Marc, didn't expect you here. You're driving for your assistant now?"

Marcus replied. "Is there a problem?"

Leonardo said, "Not at all, if you're okay with it."

Marcus suggested, "Fancy a drink?"

“Sure! Where to?” Leonardo opened the car door and quickly jumped into the passenger seat, “I’m honored to be chauffeured by the big-shot CEO of the Hartley Group”

Marcus retorted, “Am I your chauffeur?”

Leonardo replied. “You can drive your assistant, why can’t you drive me? Is it because I’m not as pretty as Cornelia and don’t deserve it?”

Marcus didn’t say anything more and drove toward Blueshell Mansion

Sitting in the passenger seat, Leonardo suddenly sighed. “I really want to know what kind of man Cornelia’s husband is. She gave up all her suitors for that man”

Marcus responded, “What nonsense are you talking about? She’s busy every day, where would she get suitors?”

Leonardo said, “I’m one”

Marcus cut him off, “You?”

Leonardo explained, “I like Cornelia, and I wanted to pursue her the first time I saw her. You know that. But she’s married, so she rejected me. Now I’ve known her for over a year and I still haven’t met the man who stole her away.”

This guy had the nerve to say he stole her away!

Marcus made a mental note, but showed no reaction, “Who else is pursuing her, besides you?”

Leonardo said, “You, of course. Marc, honestly, I’ve noticed more than once that you like your assistant.”

Marcus asked. “Why would you think that?”

Leonardo explained. "It's past nine in the evening, well past your company's usual end of work time. Yet here you are, still driving your assistant around. That's not something a normal boss does."

Marcus asked, "Have you gotten even dumber recently?"

Leonardo asked, "What are you talking about?"

Soon, Marcus drove Leonardo to the Blueshell Mansion parking garage, "Come to my place, I have something to show you."

Leonardo asked, "What is it?"

Marcus didn't say more, the two went upstairs together.

After entering the house and leaving Leonardo in the living room, Marcus went straight back to his bedroom. When he came out, he was holding a marriage certificate, "Have a look."

"A marriage certificate? Your marriage certificate?" Leonardo took it, feeling a bit nervous. "I didn't expect to see your wife in a photo before meeting her in person."

Why was he nervous about meeting Marcus' wife? He was so nervous he was afraid to open the marriage certificate, worried that the girl in the photo wouldn't be his type.

Marcus said, "Just take a look."

Leonardo slowly opened the marriage certificate, and the girl in the photo was Cornelia! He found it a bit funny. "Marc, are you forging a marriage certificate? You have a wife, and yet you made a fake marriage certificate with Cornelia. Isn't that a bit much?"

"You really have become stupid. Does that stamp look fake?" Marcus took back the marriage certificate and carefully put it away

He handled it as if it were the most precious thing in the world, "Cornelia, is my wife. She is my lawful wife"

After a moment of shock, Leonardo finally digested the news, "Cornelia is your wife? She's the woman your grandmother arranged for you to marry?"

Marcus. "Yes"

After getting this confirmation, Leonardo felt like his world was crumbling. "So you two have been playing me all along?"

Marcus said, "Why would I mess with you?"

Leonardo didn't expect Marcus to outright call him an idiot and got so mad he turned red. "Marcus, I thought we were friends, but in your eyes, I'm just an idiot! I've decided. from now on, that we're no longer friends. I won't listen to you, I won't. In short, do n't expect me to do anything for you ever again."

Marcus said, "Fine, then you can leave."

Leonardo asked, "What did you say?"

Marcus replied, "I said you can leave."

Leonardo asked, "You wanted to have a drink with me, now you want me to leave? Did you just invite me here to flaunt your marriage certificate?"

Marcus said, "Yes"

Leonardo was furious, "Marcus, you are so cruel."

Marcus said, "I just remembered, Cornelia doesn't let me drink, so I can't."

Leonardo said, "You heartless man! Not only are you flaunting your marriage certificate, but also your wife. Let me tell you, any girl is sweet and kind at the beginning of her marriage. But the long haul of marriage can turn them into shrews. Don't celebrate too soon. One day, you'll regret it, and you'll be envious of my single life."

Marcus said. "Women becoming shrews after marriage is not entirely their fault. Their change has a lot to do with their husbands. It's the man's negligence that makes women become more unlike themselves before marriage. If the husband treats her like he did before marriage, why would she become someone even she dislikes?"

Leonardo asked, "What kind of perspective is that?"

Marcus said, "Just observe the people around you, see if I'm right"

Leonardo said, "I never expected you to be interested in these things. I thought the only things you'd care about would be money-related."

Marcus said, "I didn't pay attention before, but after getting married, I started to. After all, both Cornelia and I are newlyweds. We don't have any experience in managing a marriage. She doesn't understand marriage, but I can't be clueless too, so I need to observe more."

Leonardo was shocked by Marcus' words, 'Is this really what you think?'

Marcus said, "What else could it be? My Cornelia is pure and adorable, I want to keep her that way, so I need to understand marriage more."

In just a few sentences, Marcus was flaunting his wife again, even saying Cornelia was pure and adorable. Cornelia was very cunning, and he never won against her. He didn't understand how Marcus could say something like "Cornelia is pure and adorable."

Leonardo just wanted to plug his ears and didn't want to hear Marcus show off.

Honestly, half an hour ago, Leonardo wouldn't have believed that Marcus would do such a childish thing, he was clearly showing off, showing off that his wife was Cornelia.

Leonardo didn't want to be the only one upset, he wanted someone else to share the blow from Marcus, so he took out his phone and dialed Ryan's number, "Ryan, do you want to know who Marc's wife is?"

Ryan nonchalantly replied, "What did you find out?"

Leonardo said, "I know who Marc's wife is. Wanna hear?"

Ryan replied, "Oh, you finally caught up"

Hearing this, Leonardo was puzzled, "What do you mean? You knew who Marc's wife was all along?"

Ryan responded, "Let's just say I knew a tad earlier than Marc."

Leonardo retorted "Ryan, you're full of it! You're always so busy, how many times do you even see Marc? I spend way more time with Marc than you do. I just found out How could you have known all along? No way, not a chance..."

It wasn't that Leonardo was unwilling to believe Ryan knew who Marcus' wife was, he just couldn't swallow the fact that he was the last one to know.

He believed that as long as Marcus was in Riverton, as long as Marcus wasn't working, as long as Marcus was out having fun, he would be right there with him. All these years, he had always thought he was the closest to Marcus, and he would be the first to know about Marcus' marriage, apart from the Hartley family

He easily assumed he would be the first to know who Marcus' wife was, but it turned out everyone else knew

Except for him!

Although this matter may not have seemed important, it was extremely important to Leonardo. He asked Marcus, "Does Ryan know who your wife is? You have to answer honestly Don't gang up on me. Don't lie to me and say he knew"

Marcus said, "He knew all along"

Leonardo was taken aback for a moment, then yelled out. "No way! No way! You're both liars! You're both playing me!"

To feel better, Leonardo didn't want to compare himself to those close to Marcus anymore. He brought up Cameron, who didn't have a great relationship with Marcus,

"Does Cameron know?"

Marcus just smiled and didn't reply. But Leonardo got the message. "At least he doesn't know. If he found out before me, I wouldn't be able to handle it"

Speaking of Cameron, Leonardo had more to say. The Reese family isn't doing too well lately. If this keeps up, there might not be a Reese Group in Riverton anymore... Marc, Cameron grew up with us, how about going easy on them this time?"

"Go easy on them? If the Reeses had an ounce of decency on Granger's birthday, they wouldn't have hurt Cornelia so ruthlessly." Marcus sneered, "You know why the Wilsons didn't involve you in company matters?"

Leonardo said. "In the Wilson family, it's normal for the eldest son to inherit the company. Besides, he's smarter and more capable of running the company than me. It's only right for the Wilson family to have chosen him over me."

Marcus saw Leonardo's strengths and weaknesses clearly. "It's not that you're not smart enough, it's just that you're too kind"

Leonardo said. "I just think we shouldn't be too extreme when dealing with people. We should leave some room for ourselves, in case we cross paths again in the future."

Marcus was laughing at Leonardo's innocence and his own habit of dealing with issues in an extreme way Yet, he didn't voice his thoughts. Over the years, wasn't it Leonardo's innocence that he admired most? If Leonardo became cunning, he wouldn't be the Leonardo he knew anymore He would lose his unique simplicity and cuteness

Often, Marcus didn't want to talk about business with Leonardo. He wanted Leonardo to keep his innocence. But now it seemed he had to tell him some things.

Leonardo was only a few months younger than him. This year he was twenty-eight, and he should understand the cruelty of society.

Marcus said, "The business world is like a battlefield without gunpowder, even more brutal than a real one. Now you want me to spare the Reese family to give them a chance to live

"But if we give them a chance to recover, the first ones they will retaliate against will be me.

"I'm not a philanthropist or a fool, I will never let myself and the whole Hartley Group fall into such a predicament."

Leonardo still held a glimmer of hope. "Marc, I've always had a good relationship with Cameron. I can talk to him and get him to promise that if the Reese family recovers, they won't be enemies with the Hartley Group."

"Leonardo, haven't you seen Cameron's true colors yet? You consider him a friend, but does he think the same of you?" Marcus said remorsefully. He should have told this innocent guy about the cruelty of society earlier, so he wouldn't easily trust someone who was not trustworthy.

"Marc, I really know nothing about the business world. I just thought that Cameron and I were good friends, and I hoped you could spare him, hoped that we could all do business well and avoid fights as much as possible. But I also trust you, you must have your reasons. On this issue, Leonardo chose to stand on the side of Marcus, whom he trusted more

"There's still hope for you." Marcus turned around and poured two glasses of wine. "Come on, have a drink with me."

"Why do you want to drink now when Cornelia forbade you to drink?" Leonardo asked

"Just drink if I say so, no more bullshit," Marcus replied.

Leonardo sat down and downed his glass in one gulp. "I never thought Cornelia's husband would be you. If I lost to someone else, I wouldn't accept it, but losing to you, I can only accept my fate."

Marcus replied, "Even without me, Cornelia wouldn't like you."

"Why?" Leonardo asked.

"Because you're not Cornelia's type." Marcus replied.

"Do you think Cornelia likes you for your looks?" Leonardo asked

On this topic, Marcus also raised his glass and downed the wine. He soon felt a hot sensation in his stomach, but he didn't care, "I think my looks may not be Cornelia's type. If it wasn't for my grandmother's introduction, Cornelia wouldn't have married me, and also would not have given me a second glance."

“Marc, do you have some misconceptions about your appearance? Your looks have attracted so many women, and Cornelia is also a woman,” Leonardo said.

Tears streamed down Leonardo’s face from laughing so hard.

Marcus asked, ‘Is it really that funny?’

Marcus shook his head. I’m not sure. It might not just be about my looks, but also about some things I kept from her”

Leonardo asked, "What did you keep from her? You didn't have a girlfriend before. You were single until you met her. What could you possibly hide?"

Marcus said, "Don't worry about what I hid. Just help me figure out a solution."

Leonardo said, "I need to understand the situation first. I might not be as good as you in business, but when it comes to love, I've got more experience"

He continued. "I've dated at least fifty women over the years. After each break-up, I'd figure out why it didn't work. Avoid those problems and your next relationship will go smoother, it may even last"

Marcus found Leonardo's words absurd, but he had no other options so he decided to listen, "Go on"

Leonardo said. "The most common issue was that I'd lose my spark for them. The novelty of the relationship would wear off, and I'd get distracted."

Marcus glared at him, "You really just said that?*

Leonardo said, "My point is, what women need most is a sense of security. Cornelia might not want to go public because she's scared or worried."

Marcus was even more confused. "Cornelia is my wife, and I genuinely want to spend my life with her, why would she be scared or worried?"

Leonardo asked, "Have you told her that?"

Marcus answered, "I have."

Leonardo asked again, 'Are you sure you've made it clear?"

Marcus said, "I'm sure."

Leonardo replied. "If she's still worried or scared, it might be because you're not giving her a sense of security."

Marcus asked, "Why is that?"
