

The Mans Decree Chapter 2751 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2751-Viola was stunned when she saw Kai bringing Yuven into his room. Why is King Yuven in Emerald Cauldron Sect all of a sudden? Besides, it seems like he knows Kai very well!

Upon hearing Ghaylen's explanation, Viola was flabbergasted. Who would've known a rebellion could happen in a place like Imperial Beast City? I thought only a minor sect like Emerald Cauldron Sect would have their people rebelling!

At that moment, Kai was examining Yuven's body.

As wave after wave of spiritual energy entered Yuven's body, Kai still couldn't find what was wrong with Yuven.

"This is odd! Although you've been poisoned and had your ability suppressed, I still can't detect anything," Kai uttered with a frown.

"This is a special poison from Norwal City that I heard is undetectable as it has no taste or smell. Hence, it can suppress one's ability without them knowing it! Furthermore, this poison also has another characteristic, which is that it cannot be detected by anyone else. The only cure for it is a unique antidote made in Norwal City," Yuven explained.

"I didn't know Norwal City had such an incredible poison. I refuse to believe that I can't get to the bottom of this!" Kai gently pressed his fingers on Yuven's wrist and continued his examination.

While Kai was doing that, Faiyar's voice suddenly rang out in his mind.

"Mr. Chance, I know about this poison from Norwal City. You won't be able to find the poison in the person's body as it attacks one's consciousness field. You might want to enter his consciousness field to check it out," Faiyar revealed.

Upon hearing that, Kai retracted his spiritual energy and unleashed his spiritual sense to envelop Yuven.

As Kai's spiritual sense entered Yuven's consciousness field, Kai discovered that it had been infiltrated, as Faiyar said.

Although Yuven was conscious and retained his logic, he still needed his spiritual sense to unleash his spiritual energy and beast race aura.

In other words, he needed a clear mind to unleash his power.

“How did you know about this poison from Norwal City?” Kai asked curiously.

“To be frank, Mr. Chance, King Lucian killed a lot of my fellow demon spirits back then. Among them were some of the more powerful and older spirits. They, too, suffered from this poison! Back then, King Lucian lied to us. He claimed he would provide us with safe locations to help us escape the pursuit of the human race. A lot of us joined King Lucian when we found out about that. To everyone’s surprise, King Lucian poisoned and killed them all!” Faiyar was clearly infuriated when he told Kai the story.

“Why did he do that?” Kai was confused. If King Lucian wanted to kill Demonic Cultivators, why didn’t he do what the other sects did? He could’ve just hunted them down. Why did he need to lie to them?

“Well, King Lucian wanted to learn the ultimate techniques of the demon spirit race. I don’t even know how many Demonic Cultivators he killed, nor do I know if he succeeded in learning any of my race’s ultimate techniques!” Faiyar explained.

Upon hearing that, Kai couldn’t help but find Lucian’s actions despicable.

The conversation with Faiyar had happened in Kai’s consciousness field, so Yuven couldn’t hear a thing. Seeing that Kai had gone silent and idle, Yuven said, “Mr. Chance, if you can’t find out what’s wrong with me, it’s all right...”

“I’ve already found the poison. It has invaded your consciousness field. It’s so precise that it doesn’t even affect your consciousness and thought process. Hence, no one would suspect that the poison is harming their consciousness field!” Kai answered.

Yuven was thrilled when he heard that. “Since you’ve already found it, Mr. Chance, are you able to cure me?”

The Mans Decree Chapter 2752 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2752-Kai furrowed his brows and shook his head. "I've never seen a poison like this, so I don't know how to get rid of it. I need to gather some medicinal herbs and do some experiments."

Although Kai had found the poison, he didn't know how to create the antidote.

In order to make the antidote, Kai needed to conduct experiments to see what medicinal herbs he could use to achieve results.

Yuven appeared desolate when he realized not even Kai could cure him.

Seeing that, Kai patted Yuven's shoulder and urged, "Don't despair. Give me some time, and I'll surely cure you."

Yuven nodded. "I believe in you, My Lord."

"Since you're here, get some rest. I'll go and prepare the herbs. Let's see if I can make some pills for you to try out!"

With that, Kai left, letting Yuven rest in his room.

"How's everything, Kai?" Viola asked hurriedly the moment she saw Kai walking out of the room.

"The poison in King Yuven's body is unique, and I don't have a method to cure him yet. I'll make a list of herbs that I need Mr. Samoll to gather for me because I would like to make some pills for King Yuven," Kai said. With that, he got ready to write a list for Ghaylen.

However, a troubled look flashed across Ghaylen's face before he said, "Mr. Chance, Emerald Cauldron Sect doesn't have many resources left. I'm afraid we can't provide you with the herbs you need."

Those words had embarrassment flooding Kai. I forgot I've already used up most of Emerald Cauldron Sect's resources!

"Mr. Samoll, please do whatever you can to get Kai what he needs. No matter how hefty the price is, you must get it for Kai," Viola instructed Ghaylen.

"Ms. Warwick, you should know there are some medicinal herbs we can't get our hands on, no matter how many spirit coins we have," Ghaylen replied helplessly.

“You—”

Viola wanted to convince Ghaylen further, but Kai interrupted her by saying, “Viola, don’t force Mr. Samoll. He’s right. Some of the herbs I need can’t be bought with spirit coins.”

Viola was taken aback. When she turned to look at Kai in disbelief, her gaze was filled with deep admiration.

Kai noticed the look in her eyes and felt uneasy.

“What’s the matter? Did I make a mistake?” Kai asked when he saw Viola staring at him fixedly.

“What did you call me, Kai?” Viola uttered excitedly.

Kai froze momentarily before realizing he had just called Viola by her first name. Instead of addressing her as Ms. Warwick, I called her by her first name! I made it sound as though we were close!

With that in mind, Kai explained, “I... I didn’t even realize it. If you don’t like it, I can—”

“I like it! In fact, I love it!” Viola exclaimed. “From now on, you should just address me that way because that sounds more intimate! What herbs do you need? Tell me what you need, and I’ll do whatever it takes to purchase them!”

“Um...” Kai was at a loss for words.

“Ms. Warwick, if Mr. Chance isn’t in a rush to get those herbs, we can wait for the Alchemist Fair to be held and buy the herbs there. At that time, not only can we find all sorts of herbs in Jipsdale, but they would also be reasonably priced!” Ghaylen said to Viola.

Hearing that, Viola thought it was a good idea, so she turned to Kai. “Kai, if there’s no hurry, I’ll bring you to the Alchemist Fair. We can find everything we need there.”

“There’s no rush. When will the fair be held?” Kai questioned.

“In three days’ time! However, it’s too far away, so we need to leave in advance. We’ll head there tomorrow.”

The Mans Decree Chapter 2753 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2753-“Do we need to leave so early? If it’s that far, why don’t we just use a Teleportation Array?” Kai knew Teleportation Arrays existed in Ethereal Realm.

As soon as those words fell, Viola and Ghaylen both looked at Kai in bafflement.

“Mr. Chance, don’t you know a Teleportation Array doesn’t teleport you to wherever you want to go? Even if we can use a Teleportation Array to get to Jipsdale, we’ll need a terrifyingly high amount of resources to activate it just once. People only use Teleportation Arrays when they really need to,” Ghaylen clarified.

Kai chuckled awkwardly when he heard that. “So, are we going to walk there?”

Kai and the others were more than capable of flying there, but they would burn too much spiritual energy in the process. If they were to fly just to get to somewhere faster, it wouldn’t be worthwhile.

As one’s cultivation level increased, cultivating would become harder because more resources were needed. If they were to fly for two thousand kilometers, they would most probably use up all their energy.

“There’s no need for that. Stellaris Sect isn’t far away from Emerald Cauldron Sect, and it has quite a few airships available. We can go there by flying in an airship,” Viola revealed.

“An airship?” Kai was bewildered. There’s such a thing in Ethereal Realm? Aren’t airships from the mundane world? Well, the people in the mundane world don’t even use airships anymore. They have airplanes!

Viola went on, “That’s right. Stellaris Sect makes its money by providing airship transport. Once we pay several spirit coins each, we can get on an airship. However, building an airship costs a lot of money, so they don’t fly to nearby places. As a matter of fact, they don’t usually fly to Jipsdale, which is only two thousand kilometers away. Having said that, Stellaris Sect will provide two airships to Jipsdale every time the Alchemist Fair is held.”

“I see. It’s just like an airplane, right?” Understanding finally dawned on Kai. An airship is just like an airplane in the mundane world! Obviously, airplanes don’t fly to nearby places either because they can’t possibly land within minutes of taking off.

“An airplane? What’s that?” Confusion was written all over Viola’s face.

“Oh! It’s nothing. I get it now. Let me get ready for our trip tomorrow!”

With that, Kai returned to the room to tell Yuven to pack up and join them on the trip. Who knows? Maybe we’ll find a way to cure Yuven once we arrive in Jipsdale!

While Kai was preparing for his trip to the Alchemist Fair, Ivasha, under the protection of two of her subordinates, was fleeing from Tigerus' men.

"Princess Ivasha, let's run in another direction. I think we've exposed our location," one of the subordinates said.

"I can't do that. I need to go to Emerald Cauldron Sect to find Kai! Even if I die, I want to die in his arms!" Ivasha replied firmly.

As soon as Ivasha finished talking, several auras appeared behind them.

When the trio sensed that, their expressions immediately fell.

"Princess Ivasha, run! We'll buy you some time!"

The two subordinates didn't expect their enemies to catch up to them so quickly, so they told Ivasha to sprint away.

In response, Ivasha glanced at her subordinates, her reluctance evident. I don't want to leave them, but I don't think I have a choice! Neither of them is going to survive this!

Gritting her teeth, Ivasha ran forward as fast as she could. Yet, she was rather slow because her ability had been suppressed.

Not long after she started running, she heard the sound of weapons colliding, followed by agonized screams.

However, Ivasha knew she couldn't afford to stop, so she just kept running without looking back.

The Mans Decree Chapter 2754 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2754-Kai, Yuven, Viola, and Ghaylen got ready to set out for Stellaris Sect the following day.

"Sigurd, take good care of Emerald Cauldron Sect while I'm gone and make sure nothing goes wrong," Viola instructed Sigurd.

Sigurd nodded. "Don't worry, Ms. Warwick. I'll look after Emerald Cauldron Sect."

Viola smiled in satisfaction when she heard that. Following that, the four left for Stellaris Sect.

After half a day of running, they finally arrived at Stellaris Sect.

Kai was in disbelief when he saw the thick city walls and the enormous city before him. Is this really a sect? This looks more like a city! Is this really Stellaris Sect?

However, there was a sign at the entrance that assured Kai they were in the right place. Well, it seems like we've actually arrived at Stellaris Sect!

"Mr. Chance, Stellaris Sect doesn't only provide airship services. They also sell various items here, especially during this period. Since the Alchemist Fair is about to start, many people will come here for the airship services. Hence, this city is the liveliest during this period, with more items for sale. Perhaps you can even find all the medicinal herbs you need from the sellers here!" Ghaylen uttered.

"All right. Let's go in!" With a wave, Viola led everyone into Stellaris Sect.

After they entered the city, they saw all sorts of stalls inside. In the center of it all, an airship more than a hundred meters in length was parked there.

Kai's curiosity was piqued because he had never seen an airship before. When he got closer, he saw three humongous wyverns tied to the airship by thick iron chains. At the same time, there were markings on the wyverns, so it was obvious they were under the control of an arcane array.

Yuven was also stunned when he saw the wyverns. He had heard about the airships the human race had, but he didn't know wyverns drew those airships.

At that moment, the wyverns were sprawled flat on the ground and resting as humans walked past them. Evidently, they were used to the crowd.

When Kai approached the resting wyverns, however, they suddenly opened their eyes. Lifting their heads, they glanced at Kai before resuming their previous position.

"This airship moves because of these three wyverns pulling it?" Kai asked Viola.

"Well, of course! We can't possibly rely on humans to pull the airship, can we? However, the airship has an arcane array on it, so even if it's packed with people, it'll still be as light as a feather and fly as fast as lightning!" Viola explained.

Kai kept mum after he heard that. Well, this is Ethereal Realm. Unlike here, airplanes in the mundane world rely on engines and fuel. I should've known there's no such thing as an engine in Ethereal Realm, but it's still strange to see an airship drawn by three wyverns!

“Yuven, which of the archons of the beast race do these three wyverns belong to?” Kai wanted to know who the wyverns were subservient to.

“Mr. Chance, although these wyverns are considered a part of the beast race, they aren’t under the control of the three kings and four archons. They actually belong to the Draconians. These wyverns aren’t pure Draconians, but they’re still the descendants of the Draconians. Thus, we don’t have the right to control them. Judging by the state of these wyverns, I think they were most probably captured by other archons of the beast race and sold to Stellaris Sect. It’s normal to see the archons capturing and selling demon beasts that aren’t under their jurisdiction to humans,” Yuven whispered to Kai.

The Mans Decree Chapter 2755 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2755-Kai’s brows furrowed slightly at the words. It seems that humans and the beast race are the same. They’re willing to do whatever it takes to achieve their goals and gain benefits for themselves. Unity is something that’s clearly far from their minds.

Jered’s brows furrowed slightly at the words. It seems that humans and the beast race are the same. They’re willing to do whatever it takes to achieve their goals and gain benefits for themselves. Unity is something that’s clearly far from their minds.

Nonetheless, Jered couldn’t bring himself to watch the three wyverns suffer. Even though he had never seen his father before, he knew the blood of Draconians flowed within himself.

The wyverns might not be purebred Draconians, but they were still considered a kind of Draconian. That was the effect that compelled Jered to take action.

“All right, since there’s some time before we leave, let’s shop around,” Viole suggested.

Shopping was the favorite activity of all women, be it in the Etherial Realm or the mundane world. Viole might be the lord of Emerald Cauldron Sect, but she was no exception to it.

With that, Jered and his companions strolled through Stellaris Sect, which was filled with stalls selling pills, beast cores, herbs, and even runes.

As most cultivators didn’t know how to use charm spells, they could buy communication devices, fire charms, and water charms there. After all, such simple charm spells could be easily drawn by any charm master.

“Jered, go ahead and buy any herbs you fancy. I’ll take care of the bill,” Viole offered.

Kai’s brows furrowed slightly at the words. It seems that humans and the beast race are the same. They’re willing to do whatever it takes to achieve their goals and gain benefits for themselves. Unity is something that's clearly far from their minds.

As the lord of Emerald Cauldron Sect, Viola was filthy rich. On top of that, the sect would also receive part of the spirit coins earned by the sect's disciples through medical fees.

"Are you trying to turn me into a kept man?" Kai teased.

"What? Isn't it nice to be a kept man? Do you not want to?" Viola replied with her eyes narrowed.

With a cheeky smile, Kai answered, "I do, but there's still a lot I have to do, so I can't afford to be one yet."

"Mr. Chance, I still have some spirit coins with me. If you need anything, there's no need to hesitate," Yuven whispered.

As king of Imperial Beast City, Yuven possessed immeasurable wealth. He might have fled the city but still had plenty of spirit coins in his pouch.

"I'm just browsing. Nothing has caught my eye anyway."

After sweeping his gaze across the stalls, Kai didn't find anything interesting. However, the same couldn't be said of Viola, who was intrigued by everything she saw. One couldn't blame her, as her exposure was limited by the years she spent unconscious in the secret cave.

As a result, Viola bought a lot of stuff that she had Kai carry for her.

At the same time, in order to give Kai and Viola some privacy, Ghaylen made an excuse to draw Yuven away.

As the lord of Emerald Cauldron Sect, Viola was filthy rich. On top of that, the sect would also receive part of the spirit coins earned by the sect's disciples through medical fees.

Meanwhile, Viola's indiscriminate spending had caught the attention of three men, who began to follow her discreetly.

Even though Viola was oblivious to them, Jered was already aware of what they were doing.

"Are you done yet? We're here to attend the Alchemist Fair, not sightsee. Why did you buy so many things?"

Jered was dumbfounded by Viola's relentless shopping.

If it weren't for his Storage Ring, he wouldn't even know where to put everything she had purchased.

"You men are all the same. You can't stop nagging during shopping trips," Viola complained with a pout, just like an ordinary woman.

Abruptly mesmerized by Viola's submissive reaction, Jered gave his head a quick shake to jolt himself back to his senses.

"We had better go and not waste any more time here."

Truth be told, Jered was thinking of how he could rescue the wyverns before leaving.

Despite his intention, he knew that openly saving them wasn't going to work. The fact that Stelleris Sect had left the wyverns and airship in the middle of the plaza showed that they weren't worried about theft at all.

"Fine, let's go."

Viola could only leave reluctantly with Jered.

Meanwhile, Viola's indiscriminate spending had caught the attention of three men, who began to follow Jered and her discreetly.

Even though Viola was oblivious to them, Jered was already aware of what they were doing.

"Are you done yet? We're here to attend the Alchemist Fair, not sightsee. Why did you buy so many things?"

Jered was dumbfounded by Viola's relentless shopping.

If it weren't for his Storage Ring, he wouldn't even know where to put everything she had purchased.

"You men are all the same. You can't stop noggling during shopping trips," Viola complained with a pout, just like an ordinary woman.

Abruptly mesmerized by Viola's submissive reaction, Jered gave his head a quick shake to jolt himself back to his senses.

"We had better go and not waste any more time here."

Truth be told, Jered was thinking of how he could rescue the wyverns before leaving.

Despite his intention, he knew that openly saving them wasn't going to work. The fact that Stelleris Sect had left the wyverns and airship in the middle of the plaza showed that they weren't worried about theft at all.

"Fine, let's go."

Viola could only leave reluctantly with Jered.

The Mans Decree Chapter 2756 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2756-Once the two of them arrived in a secluded area, the three figures cornered them.

Once the two of them arrived in a secluded area, the three figures cornered them.

Jolted by their presence, Viola whipped out her weapon in reflex.

At the same time, the three masked men blocked Jered and her way.

"I own this street. If you want to leave in one piece, leave behind everything you have," one of the masked men shouted.

"A robbery?" Jered remarked with a relaxed expression.

After a moment of staring at the three men, Viola knitted her brows as she asked, "The Three Bendits?"

No sooner had the words escaped her lips than the three masked men were briefly stunned. Nonetheless, they soon burst into hearty laughter. "I didn't expect anyone to recognize us. We must be famous now!"

"That's right. We're the Three Bendits. If you don't want any trouble, give us all your money!"

"Weren't the three of you supposed to have been arrested?" Viola wondered out loud.

"Hmph, no one in this world is capable of capturing us! There's no prison or lock that can ever keep us restrained," Crixus, eldest of the Three Bendits, refuted her.

Nevertheless, he wasn't bragging, for the three of them were pretty competent. Neither enchanted chains nor cages with arcane arrays were too difficult for them to escape from.

Once the two of them arrived in a secluded area, the three figures cornered them.

"We're busy. Get out of our way if you still value your lives," Kai warned the eloquent trio.

"Wow, this kid is a feisty one!" Salazar, youngest of the Three Bandits, scrutinized Kai quickly. "Kid, what you said is going to cost you at least one hundred and fifty spirit coins. If you give us a single coin less, the three of us will beat you to a pulp, do you understand? After that, we'll have some fun with your girlfriend. We have never seen such a pretty lady in our lives before!"

"Insolence! Do you know who I am?" Viola lashed out at the Three Bandits' disrespect.

"I don't care who you are. Just leave your money behind if you want to live," Crixus asserted.

"The three of you do have a death wish. We're on Stellaris Sect's territory. Aren't you worried that you'll be arrested by them?" Viola questioned.

"Hahaha, Stellaris Sect did manage to arrest us a few times, but we have always escaped easily. No dungeon of theirs is capable of holding the three of us. Now, quit stalling and hand over your money!"

Crixus had begun to grow impatient.

"Hmph, come and get it if you can!"

Viola let out a scoff before charging at the three with her sword in hand.

"Hmph, you deluded fool!"

"We're busy. Get out of our way if you still value your lives," Kai warned the eloquent trio.

Crixus, too, snorted in response as the three of them vanished into thin air.

Just as Violo was shocked by their disappearance, the trio reappeared behind her and grabbed her.

"How dare the three of you ignore me!"

Reacting to the trio's attack, Jered shot out rays of blistering light that enveloped them with a wave of his hand.

Within the light, countless runes began to swirl and glow, forming a cage that imprisoned the three men inside.

By then, Violo had turned around. The sight of the Three Bendits behind her caused cold sweat to break out on her.

It never crossed her mind that the trio could move at such speeds.

"Kid, I can't believe you actually think this arcane array can hold us. This is nothing but a joke! Have you forgotten what the Three Bendits are famous for? In this world, there are no arcane arrays that can restrain us, no spiritual energy chains that we can't break!"

Just as Crixus spoke, the trio waved their palms, which began to glow with a purple hue. They then directed the light upon the cage Jered had set up with his arcane array.

As the cage trembled in response, the trio's bodies gradually grew transparent until they vanished completely.

Crixus, too, snorted in response as the three of them vanished into thin air.

Just as Violo was shocked by their disappearance, the trio reappeared behind her and grabbed her.

"How dare the three of you ignore me!"

Reacting to the trio's attack, Jored shot out rays of blistering light that enveloped them with a wave of his hand.

Within the light, countless runes began to swirl and glow, forming a cage that imprisoned the three men inside.

By then, Violo had turned around. The sight of the Three Bendits behind her caused cold sweat to break out on her.

It never crossed her mind that the trio could move at such speeds.

"Kid, I can't believe you actually think this arcane array can hold us. This is nothing but a joke! Have you forgotten what the Three Bendits are famous for? In this world, there are no arcane arrays that can restrain us, no spiritual energy chains that we can't break!"

Just as Crixus spoke, the trio waved their palms, which began to glow with a purple hue. They then directed the light upon the cage Jored had set up with his arcane array.

As the cage trembled in response, the trio's bodies gradually grew transparent until they vanished completely.

The Mans Decree Chapter 2757 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2757-The very next second, the three of them reappeared again outside the cage, which was still intact and showed no signs of damage.

The very next second, the three of them reappeared again outside the cage, which was still intact and showed no signs of damage.

The sudden turn of events caught Jered by surprise. He couldn't figure out how the trio could escape the cage he conjured without breaking it and was inadvertently astonished.

"Hehehe! Did you think we would dare to commit robbery if we weren't capable enough?" Crixus sneered amidst his hearty laughter.

Staring at the trio, Jered began to be intrigued by them. He was curious as to how they had escaped his arcane array without damaging it.

With a flip of his palm, the ground beneath the trio trembled as rays of light broke out from below, quickly forming a cage that enveloped the three of them within.

Thereafter, Jered filled the arcane array with spiritual energy.

"Hehehe... The same technique again?"

Crixus guffawed when he saw Jered trying to imprison them with yet another arcane array.

Nonetheless, Jered ignored the former's snigger as a dancing flame ignited on the tip of his finger. He then hurled it into the arcane array.

Boom!

The arcane array trembled before a fiery inferno exploded on top of it, surrounding the Three Bandits with raging flames.

"Trying to burn us to death? What a naive plan..." Juen, the second eldest of the Three Bandits, scoffed disdainfully.

The very next second, the three of them reappeared again outside the cage, which was still intact and showed no signs of damage.

Right after that, he gathered spiritual energy in his palm and unleashed a hurricane, hoping to extinguish the inferno with it.

However, the result was not what he expected, as the hurricane ended up increasing the fire's intensity.

Seized by panic, the Three Bandits began to scream in fear.

Despite their frantic attempts with magecraft, nothing they did helped them escape from the arcane array.

"What sort of inferno is this? Why is it so intense?" Crixus exclaimed as his face lost all color.

"It turns out that you guys aren't that big of a deal, after all. You don't even recognize demonic fire.”

Kai smirked as he watched the trio screaming in agony.

“Demonic fire?”

The three of them exclaimed in unison, “Are you a Demonic Cultivator?”

“Do you actually think that only Demonic Cultivators can use demonic fire? I can’t believe how f*cking little exposure you have,” Kai retorted.

The three of them didn’t dare talk back after being cowed by the raging fire that was roasting them alive.

“Mercy... Have mercy on us, sir. We’re willing to do anything you want as long as you spare us!”

“The three of us only take a little money from others and have never killed anyone.”

At last, the Three Bandits dropped to their knees and begged.

Right after that, he gathered spiritual energy in his palm and unleashed a hurricane, hoping to extinguish the inferno with it.

Now that the ercene errey was surrounded by demonic fire, they could not escape. They had no intention of being burned to death by it.

“Are you sincere in your offer to work for me?” Jered asked.

“Yes, we ere... We ere...” the trio frenetically promised.

“Fine, I’ll teke your word for it. If I find out that you have lied to me, I’ll definitely meke you suffer e fete worse then deeth!”

Jered proceeded to extinguish the inferno with e gentle weve of his hend.

The moment the fire was snuffed out, the Three Bendits unleashed e purple beam of light on the ercene errey. Their bodies subsequently diseppeered from within end reeppeered outside.

Their heeds were covered in sweet while shock remained plestered ecross their feces.

“Thank you for showing us mercy, sir!”

When Crixus dropped to his knees to express his gretitude, the other two bendits quickly followed.

“I’ve spered you because you might be of use to me one dey. However, if you don’t prove your worth when the time comes... I’m sure you know whet happens to those who ere useless,” Jered esserted coldly.

“Yes, we understand. The three of us will definitely serve you to the best of our ebilities,” the Three Bendits swiftly promised.

Now that the orcone orroy was surrounded by demonic fire, they could not escape. They had no intention of being burned to death by it.

“Are you sincere in your offer to work for me?” Jored asked.

“Yes, we ore... We ore...” the trio frontically promised.

“Fine, I’ll toke your word for it. If I find out that you have lied to me, I’ll definitely make you suffer a fate worse than death!”

Jered proceeded to extinguish the inferno with a gentle wave of his hand. The moment the fire was snuffed out, the Three Bondits unleashed a purple beam of light on the orcone orroy. Their bodies subsequently disappeared from within and reappeared outside.

Their heads were covered in sweat while shock remained plastered across their faces.

“Thank you for showing us mercy, sir!”

When Crixus dropped to his knees to express his gratitude, the other two bondits quickly followed.

“I’ve spared you because you might be of use to me one day. However, if you don’t prove your worth when the time comes... I’m sure you know what happens to those who are useless,” Jered asserted coldly.

“Yes, we understand. The three of us will definitely serve you to the best of our abilities,” the Three Bondits swiftly promised.

The Mans Decree Chapter 2758 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2758-After chatting with them, Kai learned that they had started their career as robbers after learning how to teleport in an ancient ruin by accident.

After chatting with them, Jered learned that they had started their career as robbers after learning how to teleport in an ancient ruin by accident.

However, that particular teleportation technique had a limited range of tens of meters, which was how they escaped Jered’s arcane array earlier. They started by using their energy to open a small hole in the arcane array. Once the space inside and outside of it were connected, they could then escape via teleportation.

Jered had an epiphany upon hearing their story. He had thought that the Three Bondits were formidable opponents, not expecting them to be using teleportation instead.

Nevertheless, he admitted that it was a good technique, albeit with limited range. The technique was similar to Skyler’s Necro Ring, which was a magical item that allowed its user to teleport hundreds of meters away. Unfortunately, it had broken after several uses after it was damaged.

“Since you agreed to obey me, hand over your bodily spirit to prove your loyalty!” Jered ordered the trio.

“Um...”

The mere mention of handing over their bodily spirits triggered a sense of hesitation among the three brothers. After all, doing so was the equivalent of handing their lives over to Jered.

However, their pause triggered a snort from Jered. "If you refuse to do so, I'll take your lives instead. But don't you worry, I'll only kill you and not destroy your soul remnants. Who knows, you might get lucky and be resurrected sometime in the future."

After chatting with them, Kai learned that they had started their career as robbers after learning how to teleport in an ancient ruin by accident.

Just as he was about to take action, the Three Bandits were cowed into submission by his words.

"Sir, spare us... We'll do as you say... We'll hand them over."

With that, the trio forced out their bodily spirits from within their bodies.

After storing their bodily spirits, Kai tore off the trio's masks with another wave of his hand.

"Now that you're serving me, you have to stop committing petty crimes. Just let me know if there's anything you need," Kai said to them.

"All right. You're the boss going forward. We'll listen to everything you say," Crixus answered quickly.

No sooner had he spoken than a rumbling sound echoed from their stomachs. It was obvious that the three of them hadn't eaten yet.

Therefore, Kai took them to a luxurious hotel and treated them to a feast.

Upon further interaction, the Three Bandits learned of Viola's identity. Emerald Cauldron Sect was famous in the area, and they were surprised that she was actually the lord of the sect. The trio immediately felt as if they had struck the lottery in being able to secure such a powerful patron.

After the meal, Kai and his companions walked toward the square where the airship was parked, as it was time for it to leave.

Now that the Three Bandits were serving Kai, they naturally joined him on his journey to Jipsdale. After all, getting a few more tickets for them didn't cost much at all.

Just as he was about to take action, the Three Bandits were cowed into submission by his words.

In fact, it was peanuts to someone as rich as Viola.

Gheylan and Yuven were already waiting on the airship. When they came forward to greet Jered and Viola, they were stunned by the sight of the Three Bandits.

After Jered introduced everyone, Gheylan got three more tickets for the trio before all of them boarded the airship.

The airship was massive and measured over a hundred meters in length. It also had an expensive cabin with a comfortable interior.

Furthermore, the airship was filled with members of Stelleris Sect working as service staff. As the sect depended on airships for their income, they naturally tried to provide the best experience possible.

The Three Bendits were visibly excited as this was their first time flying in an airship. In contrast to them, Jered wore a grim look on his face as he formulated a plan to rescue the three wyverns.

Taking in Jered's expression and cognizant of what was on his mind, Yuven suggested, "Mr. Chance, now that we're within Stelleris Sect, it would be extremely difficult to save the three wyverns. A better option would be to rescue them halfway through the journey. However, there's the risk that the airship's passengers might object to your actions and potentially attack you." In fact, it was peanuts to someone as rich as Violo.

Ghoylen and Yuven were already waiting on the airship. When they came forward to greet Jered and Violo, they were stunned by the sight of the Three Bendits.

After Jered introduced everyone, Ghoylen got three more tickets for the trio before all of them boarded the airship.

The airship was massive and measured over a hundred meters in length. It also had an expensive cabin with a comfortable interior.

Furthermore, the airship was filled with members of Stelleris Sect working as service staff. As the sect depended on airships for their income, they naturally tried to provide the best experience possible.

The Three Bendits were visibly excited as this was their first time flying in an airship. In contrast to them, Jered wore a grim look on his face as he formulated a plan to rescue the three wyverns.

Taking in Jered's expression and cognizant of what was on his mind, Yuven suggested, "Mr. Chance, now that we're within Stelleris Sect, it would be extremely difficult to save the three wyverns. A better option would be to rescue them halfway through the journey. However, there's the risk that the airship's passengers might object to your actions and potentially attack you."

The Mans Decree Chapter 2759 -

The Mans Decree Chapter 2759-Yuven analyzed. After all, those who could ride the airship to Jipsdale were no ordinary people.

Yuven analyzed. After all, those who could ride the airship to Jipsdale were no ordinary people.

"Jered, you went to save the wyverns that were pulling the airship?"

Although Yuven had spoken in a low voice, Violo still heard him.

Jered nodded. He saw no reason to hide anything from Violo.

"Don't be ridiculous. These wyverns are extremely important to Stelleris Sect."

It's impossible for you to save them here. If you save them, we might not be able to get out of Stellaris Sect. Although Stellaris Sect mainly focuses on business, they have numerous elite fighters in their ranks. Otherwise, outsiders would have schemed to obtain Stellaris Sect's assets a long time ago," Violet warned Jered.

"If we can't make a move here, then let's do it on our way. I have to save these wyverns!" Jered insisted.

Violet gazed at his determined expression for a moment. Although she did not know why Jered insisted on saving the wyverns, she decided to show him her support since he was adamant about it.

After all, a wife would go along with what the husband said. Now that Violet saw herself as Jered's woman, she was certainly going to support him in anything he wanted to do.

"In that case, we'll find a way to save them midway. We mustn't let these passengers find out about our plan to release the wyverns, or else they'll target us," Violet said.

Yuvon analyzed. After all, those who could ride the airship to Jipsdale were no ordinary people.

"Are these people all heading toward Jipsdale to attend the Alchemist Fair? They're not all alchemists, are they?"

Kai was perplexed. He thought that sects that focused on alchemy were a rare sight here, and yet, there were so many from this region heading toward Jipsdale.

"Not all of them are alchemists. Many are only heading there for entertainment and to find out if they can get their hands on some divine pills and miracle medicine. Some will even discuss collaborations with certain alchemical sects at the Alchemist Fair," Violet explained.

Kai finally realized that not only was the Alchemist Fair a chance for alchemists to compare against each other, but it was also a way for the alchemists to market their products.

"Then do you know how many wyverns Stellaris Sect has?" Kai asked.

"I don't."

Violet shook her head. After all, she had been in a coma for years, and there were many things she was not aware of.

"Sir, Stellaris Sect only has these three wyverns. It's hard to capture this kind of wyvern, so the tickets to ride an airship drawn by wyverns are sold at an exorbitant price. But they'll only let the wyverns pull an airship when it's a short course. After all, the wyverns won't be able to withstand pulling the airship on long-distance trips. Many airships use arcane arrays powered by crystals. The tall mountain at the southwest of Stellaris Sect has crystals, and the people from Stellaris Sect have been mining it,” Crixus, the eldest of the Three Bandits, explained.

“Are these people all heading toward Jipsdale to attend the Alchemist Fair? They’re not all alchemists, are they?”

When Jered learned that Stellaris Sect only had three wyverns, he felt much more relieved. All he needed to do was save these three wyverns.

If there were more, Jered might not have the capability to save them all.

“Ladies and gentlemen, please be seated. The airship is about to take off,” said one of Stellaris Sect’s staff.

Soon, the airship started moving. Jered could see one of Stellaris Sect’s members whipping the wyverns with much force.

The second the whip struck the three resting wyverns, they let out howls of agony. Then, they slowly rose and flapped their wings.

The three wyverns flapped their wings as vigorously as they could, and the airship of over a hundred meters in length started moving.

It was apparent that the three wyverns were having a hard time lifting the airship, but the members of Stellaris Sect did not care at all. They continued whipping the wyverns.

Jered could not stop the murderous look creeping into his eyes. He desperately wished to dart over to the men and kill him.

After a few minutes of struggling, the wyverns finally lifted the airship off the ground and slowly brought it into the sky.

When Jored learned that Stellaris Sect only had three wyverns, he felt much more relieved. All he needed to do was save these three wyverns.

If there were more, Jored might not have the capability to save them all.

“Ladies and gentlemen, please be seated. The airship is about to take off,” said one of Stellaris Sect’s staff.

Soon, the airship started moving. Jored could see one of Stellaris Sect’s members whipping the wyverns with much force.

The second the whip struck the three resting wyverns, they let out howls of agony. Then, they slowly rose and flopped their wings.

The three wyverns flopped their wings as vigorously as they could, and the airship of over a hundred meters in length started moving.

It was apparent that the three wyverns were having a hard time lifting the airship, but the members of Stellaris Sect did not care at all. They continued whipping the wyverns.

Jored could not stop the murderous look creeping into his eyes. He desperately wished to dart over to the man and kill him.

After a few minutes of struggling, the wyverns finally lifted the airship off the ground and slowly brought it into the sky.

