

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2553

Married at First Sight Chapter 2553-Camryn said, "Before my father died, he made a will. His personal property before marriage was all left to me. It was your mother who bullied me because I was young and took over my family property. As for your mother and my father's joint property, your mother has already taken away the other half."

Camryn was only two years old when her father died, but when he made his will, many people were present. Many people could not understand her father's decision to make a will at such a young age. Her aunt said that it was because her biological father loved her as a daughter so much that he made a will in advance at a young age.

He left all his personal property before marriage and half of the joint property after marriage to her.

Her grandparents bought this villa to serve as a wedding venue for her father. Naturally, it was his personal premarital property and was left to her.

There were also Newman's shares, which were also her father's personal property before marriage and were also given to her.

Although the Newman family did not have as much money as they did later, they were not poor either.

The value of her father's personal property had increased countless times.

Camryn's response left Carrie with a look of disbelief on her face.

The house they had been living in belongs to Camryn?

She hadn't heard her parents mention it.

Such a large villa actually belonged to Camryn personally?

After a long while, Carrie regained her senses. She said in disbelief, "How is it possible? I was born here and grew up here. This is my home. When did it become your home? You lied to me. You are occupying my house and making up random things."

Camryn said, "Can you open the password door in your parents' room? I dare say the real estate deed is locked in the safe in your parents' room. Go open the safe and take it out. You'll know just by looking at it."

Camryn knew that her father had a will, but the property certificate for her house was not in her hands.

She heard from her aunt that because she was only two years old, even though her father had transferred the house to her name when he was still alive, because she was too young, her mother should hold the property certificate.

She had never seen the real estate certificate. She was blind and couldn't see it.

Her vision had returned to normal now, but her stepfather and mother's room had a password lock, and she didn't know the password and couldn't get in.

Callum said to ask someone to come and tear down the door.

Camryn thought about waiting for her brother to come back and ask him if he knew the password; she would open the door.

Carrie came out early, so she could use Carrie to go in and open the door, and then ask Carrie to clear out all their things. From now on, this home would only be her and Trenton's home.

Of course, if Trenton didn't want to live in the same family as her eldest sister, it didn't matter to her.

When Trenton graduated, Camryn would give him her brother's share of the property, and he would make his own arrangements. If he wanted to buy a house or car and reinvest, he could do whatever he wanted without her interfering.

"Of course I know. After you let me in, I opened the door to my parents' room. I want to take out the real estate certificate and see whose name is on it."

Carrie thought that Camryn was blind, even if she opened the door to her parents' room and got the real estate certificate. Camryn couldn't see whose name it belonged to. She said it belonged to her parents. What could Camryn do?

If Camryn's biological father had been so smart and had foresight, he would not have been killed by her parents.

Camryn's biological father was not prescient. He knew that he and his wife belonged to him, and she didn't want to. He probably only had one child in his life, his daughter. Out of love for her, he would give up all the names in his name early. The property was left to his only child.

It's just that he didn't expect that his love for his daughter would actually reserve a share of the family property for her. When his daughter became an adult, she would become strong and be able to take back everything that belonged to her.

Camryn said calmly, "Carrie, I will make you convinced."

Married at First Sight Chapter 2554-Camryn turned around, touched the car body, then opened the car door, got back in the car, and ordered the driver: "Send me back to the door of the house."

Then she said to the butler, "Ask her to follow me in. "

Carrie saw that she was still touching the car body when she returned to the car, so she shook off her suspicions and thought that Camryn was still blind.

No more worries.

She went in first to get her mobile phone and bank card.

A few minutes later,

The two sisters went upstairs one after another.

Carrie walked in front. She was afraid that Camryn would change her mind again and ordered someone to take her out. Now everyone in this family had been replaced by Camryn, and these people would not listen to her.

She had to get her things quickly.

Camryn walked leisurely.

She also received a call from Callum on the way. She stopped on the stairs and talked on the phone with Callum.

After talking on the phone for a while, Camryn went upstairs.

She went up to the second floor and saw Carrie coming out of the room. Carrie was holding the new Hermès bag she bought before going in. Without asking, she knew that she was going back to the room to pick up her things. Thinking about it, it's been hard to live without a mobile phone and money these past two days.

Camryn's eyes flickered, and she let Carrie take those things because Carrie's bank card had been frozen by her, and Carrie couldn't spend the money on her bank card when she went out.

Carrie was still young, had no job, and had no source of income. Her parents gave her a bank card in exchange for her pocket money. It was in the name of the company and was paid to her every month from the company's account. A large amount of money was loaded into a bank card for her to spend her days and nights.

As soon as Camryn took over the Newman family, she froze Carrie's bank card.

Carrie glanced at Camryn proudly and said loudly, "Blind Woman, I will convince you later and see who drives whom out."

Camryn said calmly, "Go and get the real estate certificate; take a look, and you'll know."

"Just wait; I'll show it to you now." Carrie strode to her parents' room and entered the password in front of Camryn. Anyway, Camryn was blind. She couldn't see the password she entered.

After entering the password, Carrie opened the door and went in. She was the most beloved child of her parents. She not only knew the password to the password door but also the password to the safe in her parents' room.

Carrie thought Camryn couldn't see it, and she didn't prevent Camryn from seeing the password, so she let Camryn "fumble" to get in.

Carrie entered the password of the safe, opened the door of the safe, and saw several bundles of cash in the safe. One bundle of cash was one hundred thousand, and there were hundreds of thousands.

Without hesitation, Carrie grabbed a bundle of cash and tried to stuff it into her bag, but it was too heavy, so in the end she only took 30,000 cash and stuffed it into her bag.

Then she rummaged through the safe and actually found the real estate deed. Of course, there was more than one real estate deed, and there were other houses in her parents' names.

She picked up the real estate certificates and opened them one by one before she found the real estate certificate for the current Newman family villa. She opened it and found that the name on the real estate certificate was really Camryn's.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2555-Carrie was stunned.

This house was really Camryn's house.

Then her family was indeed occupying Camryn's house.

She remembered that there were other houses in her home, but the square footage was not as big as this villa. A large family was used to living here. In addition, Camryn's presence at home was low, and even the servants could be bullied. She asked, Who would care that this house belongs to Camryn?

Camryn reached out and took the real estate certificate from Carrie's hand.

Then she called the butler and ordered, "Take someone upstairs and clean Carrie out for me."

"Camryn, you...who said this house is in your name?" It's done. I saw the name on the real estate certificate. It's in my mother's name. This is my mother's house. It's my house. You are the one who should get out."

Camryn looked at it with a half-smile. She said, "Carrie, Dr. Carden has treated my eyes, and I can already see. Do you think I can't read? The name on the real estate certificate is clearly my name.

Your family lives in my house and has never paid me a penny in rent. Don't take anything away from my house. It will be considered a mortgage for the twenty years you have lived here."

Carrie's eyes widened. "Camryn, can you see?"

This blind woman, Camryn, could actually see again!

So many doctors couldn't cure her eyes, but Dr. Carden was so powerful that she actually cured her eyes and allowed Camryn to see the light again.

Then Camryn still pretended not to be able to see?

"Camryn, you lied to me!"

No matter how stupid she was, she wanted to understand.

Camryn didn't tell her about regaining sight at first, so she thought Camryn was still blind. Then she let her in, opened the password door of her parents' room, and then opened the door of the safe. Camryn's purpose was to know the passwords for the password doors and safes.

Carrie was unprepared and let Camryn watch from the side as she entered the password. Camryn had probably already memorized the password.

Camryn had a very good memory.

When she was blind, she relied on counting steps when walking. If she had a bad memory and couldn't remember steps, she would easily go the wrong way.

And she lived like a normal person in a familiar place because she had a good memory, hearing, and sense of smell.

Camryn looked at her and asked, "What's wrong with lying to you? You've lied to me before."

Carrie glared at her angrily.

Soon, Carrie reacted and turned around to take the hundreds of thousands of dollars of cash from the safe.

The people in this family were all from Camryn. Now she was alone and couldn't defeat Camryn.

If Camryn were still blind, she would have had some chance of winning, but now she has no chance of winning at all.

Carrie wanted to get her money before she got kicked out.

After being kicked out, she needed to spend money.

Without money, those cousins didn't treat her as well as before.

When she had a meal at her aunt's house, the aunts kept complaining that the food and meat were expensive, saying they had no money and couldn't buy good food to entertain her. They were trying to get money from her in disguise.

Let her get her things back and help them change the situation.

At least buy a big house for each of their two families so that they don't have to rent.

She had a lot of money on her bank card, and it would be better to take the cash away.

Camryn let her take the cash.

When the butler came upstairs with his people, Camryn ordered, "Get all the money in her hand. This is the property of my family. She cannot be allowed to take away the cash. After driving her out, she will not be allowed to take away the cash. She is not allowed to step in again unless she gets my permission."

"Camryn, this money belongs to my parents. How can I say it is your family's property? Do you have any shame? You can make so much money. It belongs to my parents.

Don't take my money; this is my money, my money!"

Married at First Sight Chapter 2556-Carrie desperately wanted to protect the money, but she was no match for the strength of two servants.

She didn't know where Camryn hired a servant with such strength.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars in cash were all taken back.

"This is my home, and what is in my home is my property. Carrie, thank you for opening the door for me. I will give this bag to you for opening the door."

Carrie was so angry that she wanted to strangle Camryn to death.

It was obviously a bag she bought with money, but the shameless Camryn actually said it would be given to her.

“If you stare at me again, I will even take my bag back. Should you get out by yourself, or should I have someone take you out?” Camryn spoke with a chuckle, but her words fell into Carrie’s ears. It was as cold as ice, which made Carrie feel chilled.

Both aunts said that the most ruthless one was Camryn.

Carrie now learned and understood that the most ruthless person was Camryn, who didn’t care about the relationship between sisters at all!

“You don’t need to rush me. I’ll go by myself. Camryn, everything in the Newman family doesn’t belong to you alone. Just wait for me, and I will get back what belongs to me and my parents.” Carrie said. She hugged her bag tightly and walked out angrily.

She wanted to file a lawsuit and divide the family property!

Camryn smiled; she was not afraid that Carrie would file a lawsuit and fight her for the family property.

Everything in the Newman family was already under her control.

Even if Carrie filed a lawsuit to take away the property belonging to her parents, she would tell Carrie that those illegal companies were the property of Carrie’s parents and had been sealed up long ago. Most of the shares of the companies that had not been sealed up belonged to Camryn.

Carrie still wanted to divide the money with Trenton. If it were really divided into Carrie’s hands, it would be much less than she imagined.

Save it as a surprise for Carrie; don’t rush to tell her now.

When Carrie got her share of the property, she wouldn’t be able to hold on to it. After losing all her property, it depended on how much Carrie could do, but she wouldn’t be able to do it anymore because, after the lawsuit, it was clearly divided.

Even if Carrie did not lose the family fortune, Camryn would still take it back from her, and it would still be fair and honest.

Carrie walked out of the Newman family villa under the gaze of two servants, and Camryn let her drive away.

It's easy to drive away, but difficult to keep. It depended on whether Carrie could make enough money to keep her luxury car.

After Carrie drove out of the Newman family villa, she stopped on the side of the road. She first took out her mobile phone. The phone was out of battery. She took out the charger, plugged it into the car to charge, then turned on the phone and called Mrs. Janzen, but who knew the person who answered the phone was a stranger?

Carrie: "Where's Mrs. Janzen? Please put Mrs. Janzen on the phone."

"I don't know who Mrs. Janzen is. You dialed the wrong number. This number is a new one I bought," the person on the other end said.

After the conversation, the person hung up the phone immediately.

Wrong call?

Did she remember it wrong?

She remembered this number.

Carrie was determined to fight again, but she couldn't get through. The other party must have blocked her.

Could it be that Mrs. Janzen canceled the number and someone else then bought it?

But why did Mrs. Janzen cancel this number?

Why didn't Mrs. Janzen notify her before canceling this number?

Could it be that Serenity knew that Mrs. Janzen wanted to join forces with her?

Serenity was clairvoyant and had good ears, so she found out about it so quickly!

Carrie was puzzled.

