

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2717-D-David, w-who are you?" Ambrose asked in a trembling voice.

His reaction shocked everyone present.

Including the Berlin family, the direct descendants of the Loughy family, and Evie, who was standing behind David.

They did not understand.

Ambrose was so confident when he threatened David just now.

Why did he suddenly act like this?

He was so scared that he could not even speak clearly.

David only asked one question.

Could he have guessed David's identity?

However, what kind of identity could scare Ambrose so badly?

David was curious, let alone the others present.

At the same time, the way he looked at David also changed.

If Ambrose was that afraid, what about them?

Lyle naturally understood what David had just said to him.

When he remembered that the other party said he would come to settle accounts with him later, his body shook unconsciously, and he wanted to cut out his tongue.

Why did he open his mouth when he should not have?

Great, he had offended a big shot that even Ambrose could not afford to offend.

Evie felt assured now.

David scared Ambrose so much. This meant that her mother was right, and David was indeed extraordinary.

"Didn't you guess my identity? Why ask?" David played along and replied with a smile.

"You... You... Are you really..."

Ambrose stuttered for a long time but did not dare to finish his sentence.

Since this involved Overlord, he had to treat it with caution.

"If you think that's what I am, then that's what I am." David smiled.

In reality, he had no idea what Ambrose was talking about.

However, it did not matter if he was wrong.

David did not bother to explain anything.

No matter what identity he was, it would be fine as long as he could suppress Ambrose.

It was his first time here. If he did not need to act, then he would not.

The main concern was that if he decided to act, he would not be able to control his strength.

He would either disable or kill the other party.

At the very least, his victims would be seriously injured.

Ambrose looked at David's indifferent expression and had a dilemma in his heart.

After gritting his teeth for the last time, he put his fists together, leaned his upper body forward, and bent down at a ninety degree angle.

He gave a salute to David and said respectfully, "Ambrose Loughy greets you, Master David. I didn't know your identity just now, so I offended you. Please be the bigger person and don't stoop down to my level. In the future, I will take you as my only guide."

Although he still did not know David's identity, Ambrose felt that there was a very high chance that he was right.

Some things could not be faked.

For example, David's indifference.

Even though Ambrose threatened him with dozens of Leila's top forces and the five Leila rulers, nothing changed.

This showed that David was truly unbothered.

Only by having an extraordinary relationship with an Overlord and having frequent contact with them would one not be afraid of the five Leila rulers.

Maybe they were all friends and were very close to each other.

"Take me as your only guide? Haha!" David sneered.

Then he continued, "You want to be my subordinate? You, Ambrose, are not qualified!"

"Yes, yes! Master David, you are right. Countless people want to be your subordinate so of course, I don't have the qualifications for this," Ambrose quickly responded shamelessly.

He was not angry at all when David looked down on him.

As long as he could get David's forgiveness, he would be fine even if David beat him up, let alone looked down on him.
