

Read Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands

Chapter 271

Chapter 271

He was so talkative.

“Maybe you can leave your contact with me? If I encounter something, maybe I can ask your family for help. Don't worry, I won't ask for your help for free. I...”

“Watch out!” Just as Fia wanted to tell him to shut up and focus on his driving, she saw a truck driving straight toward them.

The driver would glance at Fia every now and then through the rearview mirror. She was so pretty.

All men enjoyed such a pretty sight, and it was this kind of split-second moment that was the most dangerous.

“Oh hell no! What's wrong with that driver?!” The middle-aged man cursed and steered away from the truck as best as he could.

However, the truck was too fast and too big. It was like a starving great white opening up its bloody jaws at them.

The middle-aged man had already steered as much as he could and there was nothing else he could do.

There was a huge bang as everything froze for two seconds, and all she could hear was the screeching in her ears!

Fia was completely stunned in those few seconds. The car shook uncontrollably and only one thought played in her mind. ‘This is the end.’”

She had rolled inside the car a few times. She didn't know where she was hit. She was in so much pain.

Bang!

The car was knocked over by the truck and it rolled over 360 degrees several times before the car crashed at the flowerbed by the road.

Next to the flowerbed was a walkway, and everyone walking on it screamed uncontrollably.

The windshield was completely shattered as the car was overturned. Fia was lying in the car in a strange manner. The entire world outside was upside down.

Her head was buzzing. She didn't know if it was because of the wound on her head, or because she was just scared.

She wanted to touch her belly, but the moment she tried to move her arm, she felt so much pain. She tried to move her other arm. She didn't feel any pain, so she quickly touched the arm that was in pain. All she could touch was some sticky liquid, and glass that had cut into her flesh.

“Oh g*d! Did that truck lose control?!”

“The people inside must be seriously injured!”

“The car has been completely thrashed. The people inside might be dead already.”

“Next time if we see a truck coming our way, we should move away even if it's from the opposite direction!”

Fia didn't dare to move. She didn't know where her injury was, and she could feel her anxiety overtake her. She sobbed, “Baby... My baby... Are you okay?”

The baby inside of her was only two months old. It could not respond to her.

She nervously asked, “Driver, driver, are you okay?”

The front of the car was completely destroyed after being crushed by the truck. The driver had already fainted from the pain. She didn't even know if he was still alive.

There were more and more voices coming from the outside. Some kind people were shouting to them, to check with them if they were alright.

Fia suddenly couldn't hear their voices anymore as her vision focused on a shopping mall's giant screen not far away.

There was a man and a woman on the screen. The man was wearing a black suit while the woman was wearing a tight, red dress.

She was holding his arm, and a black veil covered her eyes. However, the edges of those red lips of hers were raised.

Despite all the passersby calling out to her, she could hear the voices from the screen.

“Mr. Maxwell and Ms. Manning really suit each other. When are you going to get married?”

The woman in the red dress let out a smile and put her head on his shoulder.

“Well, it should be quite soon. I’ll invite all of you to our wedding.”

Fia blinked, and she could feel a warm, sticky liquid flowing from her neck to her lips, and then to her eyes. She sobbed in pain as she simply closed her eyes.

She remembered how he came and held her in his arms and told her that she would not let her go to prison. That he would take her home.

She was calm and didn’t believe him on the surface. Instead, she even mocked him.

But her heart was beating faster.

It was warm.

Chapter 272

But now, he was busy with the engagement with his first love. They were talking about their wedding date.

She could hear the death throes from her heart. She was dying.

If she died, she no longer had to face anyone or anything.

‘Mom, Grandma, I’m going to meet you now.

‘Can you wait for me a little bit more?’”

“Move! Move, all of you!”

The ambulance and the fire truck finally appeared and the people in the area were evacuated.

Jason put on his mask and looked at the deformed car not realizing who was at the back of it.

As a doctor, he had to be calm.

The front of the car had been damaged, and the driver was stuck inside. His organs could easily be injured from the pressure. It was very dangerous!

He could die at any time! They were fighting Death itself for more time!

That was why he pulled his sleeves up and was prepared to first remove the deformed, front part of the car to save the driver first together with a few firemen,

Meanwhile, two other firemen were going to help from the back. They tried to wake the woman at the back and remove the car door, to save her first.

Jason bent down and caught a glimpse of the bloodied face.

He could feel something explode in him as his eyes turned red and he roared, “The woman at the back is pregnant! Move her out now!”

“Faster! Faster!”

Conrad was expressionless the whole time.

However, Esme didn't care about that at all. She held his arm and smiled at the cameras held by the reporters and replied to all their questions gently.

Suddenly, Conrad felt suffocated and he pulled Esme's hand away.

“Enough!”

“What is it, Conrad? It's going to be over in another thirty minutes. Then, we can pick up Fia together.”

Conrad took a deep breath while Hank and Beth quickly ran over.

“Conrad, it’ll just take a little more. You and...”

“I have something to do in the company!” Conrad said as he felt something was wrong. He couldn’t stay there for even a moment longer.

Esme chased after him in her high heels and held his arm. The gentle smile on her face began to crack as she whispered, “Conrad, if you don’t keep your promise, my parents will never show Fia any mercy.”

“I’ve already shown my face to all the reporters together with you! What else do you want?!”

Esme was stunned, but she knew that she could no longer force him.

“Fine. Go back to the company. Leave everything else to me.” She smiled widely and let go of Conrad.

Conrad didn’t even want to stay there a moment longer and he left.

He suddenly felt very anxious. He had to personally pick Fia up and go home together. He couldn’t leave it to Silas.

She was very emotional at this point. If he told Silas to go, she would become angry at him again..

And then there was this engagement. He had no other choice but to take good care of her.

Conrad got into his car and quickly drove to the police station. He was having such a bad feeling that his heart began to beat uncontrollably.

When he remembered how superstitious Fia would get and how she would start going wild whenever she had a bad feeling, he hit his chest and cursed under his breath. “Darn it!”

Suddenly, the screen on his phone lit up and showed that there was an incoming call.

He glanced at the display and picked up irritably.

“What is it?!”

“Conrad! Why aren’t you dead?!” Eileen’s voice was so full of resentment that it sounded like it was from a ghost.

Conrad frowned and said, “Don’t worry. I’ll go pick Fia up right now. I’ll take care of the Mannings later.”

“Fia was in a car accident! She was sent to the hospital!” Eileen cried out even as she sobbed.

Conrad stepped on the brake suddenly as the car screeched, caring little about all the h*inks coming from behind him.

“What did you say? How could she get into an accident? Isn’t she still at the station? I already told her last night to wait for me and that I’ll take her home!”

“Conrad Maxwell, if something happens to her, I swear I’ll kill you and that w*ore!

Chapter 273

Eileen’s hurt voice echoed in the car even after she hung up.

Conrad’s hands suddenly became numb as they shook.

“Hello? Sir?”

“Silas, where is Fia? Did you pick her up?”

“You told me to pick her up at eight, right? It’s only seven right, but I’ll go now...”

“Find out where she is right now!”

Suddenly, there was a little thumping coming from outside. Conrad looked at the person who was knocking at his car window with angry eyes.

The moment when the car window was lowered and the man encountered the pair of murderous, amber eyes, he couldn’t help but take two steps back.

“Friend, the people at the back can’t drive anymore with you suddenly stopping your car in the middle of the road. Can you move to the side if you need to do something?”

“Scram!” Conrad roared as he opened the door like an angry lion..

He was so scary that the innocent passerby ran back to his car.

Gryphonheart Hospital.

Two surgeries needed to be done at the same time. Jason removed his bloodied clothes and was prepared to change into his hospital scrubs.

A couple of his colleagues ran over from another surgery theater.

“Jason, the driver is heavily wounded. The director asked you to be the leading surgeon.”

“No!” Jason’s normally gentle expression was as cold as an Antarctic glacier.

“Jason, she’s not as heavily injured as the driver. The other doctors can...”

“No!” Jason quickly changed his outfit and pushed his other colleagues who were trying to advise him out of the way so that he could go in.

“What’s wrong with you, doctor? The driver has multiple lacerations in his o*ans and both his legs are shattered. We really need you...”

“I can’t leave Fia’s life to someone else!” Jason’s words were cold as if a shadow had been cast over him.

His colleagues were stunned.

Then they knew what was happening.

She was very important to the doctor. No wonder it was the first time he looked so terrifying.

“Move!” Jason walked into the surgery theater.

Inside the surgery theater, Sally was just about to remove a piece of glass from Fia’s chest.

The position of the glass was very precarious. It pierced into the flesh too deeply and it was in contact with her heart.

“Doctor, the patient is bleeding!”

Sally frowned and looked at the lower half of Fia’s body.

“Blood transfusion now!”

The team that was in perfect sync was stunned for a second. Just as a nurse was about to move, she noticed Jason looking at her with cold eyes and a bag of blood.

“I’ll do it!”

When Sally heard the familiar voice, she gave him a look and quickly allowed him to take over without even wasting time.

She let out a sigh of relief. She believed that with Jason here, Fia would be alright!

“I’ll leave this to you, Jason. I’ll deal with the dead...” Sally didn’t want to complete the sentence.

The expression on Jason’s face became even colder and he didn’t say anything. He didn’t even look at Fia’s bottom half.

He simply took the tools and began to focus on Fia’s injury on her chest.

“Ah... What should we do? How could this have happened?!” Outside the surgery theater, Eileen almost fainted from all the crying as Lyn held her.

Her personal assistant, Lyn, simply looked at the LED display. It showed that Fia was still being operated on.

“Don’t worry, Eileen. The g*ds will protect someone as kind as her.”

Eileen bit her lips and nodded. "She promised to treat me to dinner! And said that once I moved out of the country, she'll visit me together with the baby. She won't break her promise!"

Lyn's heart sank.

They had seen the b*oody scene of Fia's accident when they were stuck in the jam.

When she saw how bad the jam was, she got down to see what was happening. She then saw Fia being moved from the car, covered in blood.

She got back into the car to tell Eileen, and she immediately went to the hospital together in the ambulance.

All she could do was to advise Eileen to stay calm, but she knew something bad had happened with those kinds of injuries she suffered.

Chapter 274

Suddenly, there was a string of footsteps approaching them.

Lyn turned and was shocked to see what was happening.

"Eileen, so many reporters are here. We can't stay here any longer."

Eileen turned and looked, and one of the reporters snapped a picture of her teary face.

She couldn't care less as she tightened her fists.

"I can't leave at a time like this. I want to wait until Fia comes out."

"Eileen, the boss is still discussing you with the media. The reason they're blocking you here is so they could question you."

Eileen shook her head and said coldly, "He already announced his marriage with Sapphire. What right do they have to question me?!"

"But..."

Lyn still wanted to warn her, but several microphones had already been extended toward them, and so she blocked them instinctively.

“I’m sorry, but Eileen is busy right now and doesn’t have the time to answer any questions. Our boss and

Ms. Starling’s wedding date has already been announced. If you have any questions, please go to our company and ask our boss.

“We’re here for Ms. Reid!”

“We don’t believe that you have no relationship with Mr. Maxwell at all!”

“Someone just leaked that your boss Mr. Maxwell is actually your sugar daddy. Please give us a direct answer, Ms. Reid.”

Eileen gritted her teeth and stood up, and her regal aura that she had developed from being in the entertainment industry for so long instantly enveloped them all.

“You want to know about my relationship with Victor Maxwell? Fine. I’ll explain everything to you. Other than him being my boss and me being his employee, we don’t have any other relationships.

“I never loved him in the past, don’t love him in the present, and never will in the future!

“Of course,” she said with a sneer. “How can someone as lowly as us celebrities in the entertainment industry amount to anything in the eyes of the rich and powerful? How can I be a match for him? That’s why I have never thought of being anything to him!”

The reporters were all stunned. They thought that Eileen wanted to argue with them. They didn’t realize. that she would demean herself instead.

“Is there anything else you want to ask? Ms. Sapphire Starling had already clarified that the woman in the video was her. Do you still want to add on additional storylines for me and my boss?” Seeing that the reporters were still stunned, a plan formed in her mind. “I’ll be upfront with all of you. My contract with my boss is nearing the end. I won’t extend the contract anymore!”

The reporter then asked, “Which company are you going to move to next?”

“About that... I haven’t decided yet. I might even retire.”

Eileen spoke with a cold smile. She wanted to see how he was going to chain her up when the reporters questioned him about her contract expiring soon!

Three years... She had endured it for three years because there was still hope in her heart.

But all that hope had become nothing when he announced his wedding with Sapphire.

Just then, the operating theater opened its door.

A nurse ran out. “Who is the family of Fia Lawson?”

“Me! I’m here!” Eileen walked over with red eyes.

“You’re Fia Lawson’s family? We need you to sign the indemnity letter before the doctors can proceed with the emergency surgery!”

“What? Emergency?!” Eileen almost fainted as her vision almost turned black.

Lyn helped her up and asked the nurse, “How did it become an emergency? They didn’t ask us to sign anything when they pushed her in.”

“Her condition is worse than what we initially expected. Doctor Hall said the indemnity letter needs to be signed immediately! Quickly, they’re still waiting inside. If you don’t sign, the doctors can’t proceed...”

“I’ll sign!” Eileen said as her hand shook.

“Who are you to her?”

“Best friend.”

“That won’t work! We need someone from her family!”

Chapter 275

Eileen didn’t know what to do. Fia’s mother had passed away and no one knew who her father was. Family? Which family? The Mannings?

Suddenly, Lyn's brain ticked and asked, "Does her husband count?"

"Of course! Where is he right now? Tell him to come over and sign the form!"

Lyn held Eileen's shaking hand and whispered, "Eileen, give Fia's husband a call."

Eileen's eyes were so red as if they were bleeding with hate pulsing in them.

"He's not worthy!" But even then, she knew it was not the time to make any sort of complaints. And so, she gave Conrad a call.

"Hello?"

"Get to Gryphonheart Hospital right now! The hospital needs someone from her family to sign the paperwork!"

"I'm already in the elevator. I'll be there soon!" Conrad hung up the call. When the elevator door opened, he immediately ran out only to see a group of reporters waiting outside.

"Silas, get rid of all of them!"

"Of course!"

When the reporters saw Conrad, all of them rushed over excitedly.

Silas immediately pushed away the man standing at the front so that Conrad could get through. When he saw that they wanted to give chase, he growled at them, warning and threatening them.

The entire situation was getting a bit chaotic. Luckily, the hospital's security could see what was happening and a group of them came and got rid of all the reporters from the hospital.

"How is she? Where is she?"

"Sign it!" Eileen grabbed the indemnity letter and pen from the nurse's hand and gave them to Conrad. "Quick, the doctor needs it for the surgery!"

"Indemnity letter?" Conrad grabbed the paper tightly. "What do you mean?!"

The nurse had seen plenty of situations like this and quickly explained, “The patient might pass away during the operation because of complications. The patient’s family members need to sign before the doctors can perform the operation.”

In short, the patient’s condition was critical. The patient’s family needed to accept that accidents may happen. Only then would the doctors be brave enough to attempt to save her.

Otherwise, if something happened, the family members could sue the doctors and the hospital.

Inside the surgery theater.

Sweat formed on Jason’s forehead. Despite all the years of being a doctor, he had never been as fearful as today.

However, he couldn’t let his negative emotions take control of him. He suppressed all the negative feelings inside of him and focused on Fia’s injuries.

Sally felt sorry for him when she saw what was happening.

“Jason, without the family member’s authorization, we can’t continue with the operation. If she were to... The hospital would have to...”

“Enough!” Jason cut her off. “No matter what happens, I’ll take full responsibility. Support me!”

Sally held the forceps in her hand tightly. It was not that she lacked compassion, but she really didn’t want Jason to continue.

A glass had pierced through a part of Fia’s heart. It was a very dangerous surgery.

Even after surgery, there was a high probability of infection. They needed a family member’s approval first.

However, Jason was ignoring it and wanting to continue with the surgery. He couldn’t even wait for someone to sign despite the nurse going out and trying to get it done not too long ago.

“We can wait for a few more minutes. As soon as someone signs, we can then...”

“No! She cannot wait!” Jason gritted his teeth as his voice shook. “Her mother passed away because of cancer, and she has no father. Conrad Maxwell was getting engaged with another woman this morning...”

He was worried that Conrad might not make it and Fia would immediately die on the surgery table.

Even he, who was normally calm and collected, didn't collapse as he held on to the last hope with his eyes turning red.

His gloves were stained with blood as he focused his vision on the injuries.

“Fia, don't give up.”

Chapter 276

Sally gulped and wanted to advise Jason to wait when footsteps could be heard.

The nurse who went out just now had come back with hope on her face.

“Doctor Hall, her family has signed the letter!”

Sally let out a sigh of relief and prepared herself. “Everyone, support Doctor Evans!”

“Is... Is she going to be alright?” Conrad stared at the door with his fists tightened.

Eileen looked at him angrily, “You can leave now!”

Conrad frowned. He was not in the mood to fight her.

“Go back to your engagement ceremony! Don't stay here and disgust Fia!”

Silas quietly walked over and said, “Ms. Reid, my boss promised to get engaged with Ms. Manning out of desperation.”

“Liar!” Eileen glared at Conrad with angry eyes. “Ever since Esme came back, all you've wanted to do is divorce Fia! You only made her stay because of the baby! Now that she has been locked up, you can divorce her openly! Everyone out there wouldn't say that you abandoned your original wife for a homewrecker! They would only think that Fia had committed a crime! Conrad Maxwell, you're so heartless!"

"No matter what you say, the engagement is just a strategy for me to slow things down."

"Ha!" Eileen let out a disgusted smile. "You work together with someone else to deal with a woman like her and say that the engagement is for her own good? Who would believe you?!"

Conrad scratched his head and kicked at the wall, irritated.

"I didn't!"

"You didn't believe Fia at all! All you do is protect that homewrecker! Lyn, show him the evidence!"

"Sure!" Lyn removed the backpack from her back only to stare at it with eyes wide. "Eileen..."

Eileen could hear something was wrong in her voice and she turned and looked..

A large opening had been cut from the backpack.

She quickly grabbed it and checked.

"Where're the documents? The evidence?!"

Lyn's face turned pale. She remembered how the media reporters were pushing her. She was worried that they would knock into Eileen, so she was focused on stopping her. She didn't pay attention to her backpack at all.

Conrad looked at how Eileen and her assistant reacted and asked curiously, "What evidence?"

Eileen suddenly raised her head and looked at him like he was some kind of a scoundrel.

"Did you send someone to do it?!"

“Last time when Lola was going to show you the evidence in her phone, everything was deleted! Now that you appeared, all the documents and pieces of evidence are gone!”

They were going to use it as evidence during the court case to prove Fia’s innocence and show what Esme really was like!

Because they had gathered them in a rush, they didn’t have the time to back them up just yet. They only had one, single copy.

“Lola?” There was disgust in his voice. “That woman can’t be counted on. All she did was make them fight! Her words mean nothing!”

“Conrad, are you still a man?!” Eileen’s rage was fully shown on her face. She was sure that Conrad was behind it all!

“What are you all yelling about?”

At this time, a cold voice came from behind her. Eileen looked at the person as she gritted her teeth.

Victor walked over with swag, his hands in his pockets.

He glanced at Eileen before going over to Conrad with a smile, “Congratulations, cousin.”

“Scram!” Conrad’s expression darkened.

“Hey, shouldn’t I congratulate you? You can have one to the left and one to the right! It’s a happy day! But

You haven’t divorce Fia, have you? Why are you getting engaged with another woman already? It’s a crime, you know?”

“Quiet!” After being accused by Eileen like that, his mind was in chaos. The only reason he endured her was because she was Fia’s only good friend.

But he could no longer hold it back when Victor provoked him and he quickly gave Victor a kick.

Chapter 277

“Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

“You have a death wish!” Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn't have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

“They have the same blood in their veins... They're both garbage.”

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn't dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

“Should we report our loss to the police?”

“After Fia's surgery,” Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn't think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I'm a gentleman. I won't fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I'm trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn't look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn’t move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I’ll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn’t hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. “Beat him, sir! I’ll hold him back!”

“...” In that instant, Conrad didn’t feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor’s chest and said, “Get rid of him!”

“What do you-” Victor couldn’t even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

“Get him out!” Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia's husband. One was Fia's best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same.

person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

"Jason." She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

"She's fine now. You saved her."

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, "Rest for a while. I'll speak with her family."

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn’t allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You’re lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That’s our first baby! The baby can’t just die like that! Where’s Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn’t have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad’s eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby’s life... is no more important than Fia’s life!”

“No... That’s not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn’t accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

“You can’t tell her.’

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn’t understand what he meant by that at that moment.

“Before she fully recovers, you can’t tell her. Otherwise, she won’t be able to bear it.”

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, "You heard me, doctor?"

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia's condition couldn't allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn't believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

"Do as he says, Doctor Hall."

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter's.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

"Jason, you're a doctor. Don't let your emotions get the better of you!"

"Let me go!" Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad's face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

"Which ward is Fia in?"

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, "Go with him, Ms. Reid."

"Sure." Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen's tears couldn't stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

"Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her."

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

"I didn't protect Esme. I didn't want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier."

"You think this is all a coincidence?" Eileen said with hate on her face. "This is all according to Esme's plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!"

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. "Don't make things up if you don't have any evidence."

"You're still protecting her even now?!"

"I'm not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!"

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

"Fia doesn't think about it that way. You think that you're doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character."

Conrad didn't want to continue the fight. "I need to go and do something. I'll send someone to watch over the hospital."

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 272

Chapter 272

But now, he was busy with the engagement with his first love. They were talking about their wedding date.

She could hear the death throes from her heart. She was dying.

If she died, she no longer had to face anyone or anything.

‘Mom, Grandma, I’m going to meet you now.

‘Can you wait for me a little bit more?’”

“Move! Move, all of you!”

The ambulance and the fire truck finally appeared and the people in the area were evacuated.

Jason put on his mask and looked at the deformed car not realizing who was at the back of it.

As a doctor, he had to be calm.

The front of the car had been damaged, and the driver was stuck inside. His organs could easily be injured from the pressure. It was very dangerous!

He could die at any time! They were fighting Death itself for more time!

That was why he pulled his sleeves up and was prepared to first remove the deformed, front part of the car to save the driver first together with a few firemen,

Meanwhile, two other firemen were going to help from the back. They tried to wake the woman at the back and remove the car door, to save her first.

Jason bent down and caught a glimpse of the bloodied face.

He could feel something explode in him as his eyes turned red and he roared, "The woman at the back is pregnant! Move her out now!"

"Faster! Faster!"

Conrad was expressionless the whole time.

However, Esme didn't care about that at all. She held his arm and smiled at the cameras held by the reporters and replied to all their questions gently.

Suddenly, Conrad felt suffocated and he pulled Esme's hand away.

"Enough!"

"What is it, Conrad? It's going to be over in another thirty minutes. Then, we can pick up Fia together."

Conrad took a deep breath while Hank and Beth quickly ran over.

"Conrad, it'll just take a little more. You and..."

"I have something to do in the company!" Conrad said as he felt something was wrong. He couldn't stay there for even a moment longer.

Esme chased after him in her high heels and held his arm. The gentle smile on her face began to crack as she whispered, "Conrad, if you don't keep your promise, my parents will never show Fia any mercy."

"I've already shown my face to all the reporters together with you! What else do you want?!"

Esme was stunned, but she knew that she could no longer force him.

“Fine. Go back to the company. Leave everything else to me.” She smiled widely and let go of Conrad.

Conrad didn't even want to stay there a moment longer and he left.

He suddenly felt very anxious. He had to personally pick Fia up and go home together. He couldn't leave it to Silas.

She was very emotional at this point. If he told Silas to go, she would become angry at him again..

And then there was this engagement. He had no other choice but to take good care of her.

Conrad got into his car and quickly drove to the police station. He was having such a bad feeling that his heart began to beat uncontrollably.

When he remembered how superstitious Fia would get and how she would start going wild whenever she had a bad feeling, he hit his chest and cursed under his breath. “Darn it!”

Suddenly, the screen on his phone lit up and showed that there was an incoming call.

He glanced at the display and picked up irritably.

“What is it?!”

“Conrad! Why aren't you dead?!” Eileen's voice was so full of resentment that it sounded like it was from a ghost.

Conrad frowned and said, “Don't worry. I'll go pick Fia up right now. I'll take care of the Mannings later.”

“Fia was in a car accident! She was sent to the hospital!” Eileen cried out even as she sobbed.

Conrad stepped on the brake suddenly as the car screeched, caring little about all the h*nks coming from behind him.

“What did you say? How could she get into an accident? Isn’t she still at the station? I already told her last night to wait for me and that I’ll take her home!”

“Conrad Maxwell, if something happens to her, I swear I’ll kill you and that w*ore!

Chapter 273

Eileen’s hurt voice echoed in the car even after she hung up.

Conrad’s hands suddenly became numb as they shook.

“Hello? Sir?”

“Silas, where is Fia? Did you pick her up?”

“You told me to pick her up at eight, right? It’s only seven right, but I’ll go now...”

“Find out where she is right now!”

Suddenly, there was a little thumping coming from outside. Conrad looked at the person who was knocking at his car window with angry eyes.

The moment when the car window was lowered and the man encountered the pair of murderous, amber eyes, he couldn’t help but take two steps back.

“Friend, the people at the back can’t drive anymore with you suddenly stopping your car in the middle of the road. Can you move to the side if you need to do something?”

“Scram!” Conrad roared as he opened the door like an angry lion..

He was so scary that the innocent passerby ran back to his car.

Gryphonheart Hospital.

Two surgeries needed to be done at the same time. Jason removed his bloodied clothes and was prepared to change into his hospital scrubs.

A couple of his colleagues ran over from another surgery theater.

“Jason, the driver is heavily wounded. The director asked you to be the leading surgeon.”

“No!” Jason’s normally gentle expression was as cold as an Antarctic glacier.

“Jason, she’s not as heavily injured as the driver. The other doctors can...”

“No!” Jason quickly changed his outfit and pushed his other colleagues who were trying to advise him out of the way so that he could go in.

“What’s wrong with you, doctor? The driver has multiple lacerations in his arms and both his legs are shattered. We really need you...”

“I can’t leave Fia’s life to someone else!” Jason’s words were cold as if a shadow had been cast over him.

His colleagues were stunned.

Then they knew what was happening.

She was very important to the doctor. No wonder it was the first time he looked so terrifying.

“Move!” Jason walked into the surgery theater.

Inside the surgery theater, Sally was just about to remove a piece of glass from Fia’s chest.

The position of the glass was very precarious. It pierced into the flesh too deeply and it was in contact with her heart.

“Doctor, the patient is bleeding!”

Sally frowned and looked at the lower half of Fia’s body.

“Blood transfusion now!”

The team that was in perfect sync was stunned for a second. Just as a nurse was about to move, she noticed Jason looking at her with cold eyes and a bag of blood.

“I’ll do it!”

When Sally heard the familiar voice, she gave him a look and quickly allowed him to take over without even wasting time.

She let out a sigh of relief. She believed that with Jason here, Fia would be alright!

“I’ll leave this to you, Jason. I’ll deal with the dead...” Sally didn’t want to complete the sentence.

The expression on Jason’s face became even colder and he didn’t say anything. He didn’t even look at Fia’s bottom half.

He simply took the tools and began to focus on Fia’s injury on her chest.

“Ah... What should we do? How could this have happened?!” Outside the surgery theater, Eileen almost fainted from all the crying as Lyn held her.

Her personal assistant, Lyn, simply looked at the LED display. It showed that Fia was still being operated on.

“Don’t worry, Eileen. The g*ds will protect someone as kind as her.”

Eileen bit her lips and nodded. “She promised to treat me to dinner! And said that once I moved out of the country, she’ll visit me together with the baby. She won’t break her promise!”

Lyn’s heart sank.

They had seen the b*oody scene of Fia’s accident when they were stuck in the jam.

When she saw how bad the jam was, she got down to see what was happening. She then saw Fia being moved from the car, covered in blood.

She got back into the car to tell Eileen, and she immediately went to the hospital together in the ambulance.

All she could do was to advise Eileen to stay calm, but she knew something bad had happened with those kinds of injuries she suffered.

Chapter 274

Suddenly, there was a string of footsteps approaching them.

Lyn turned and was shocked to see what was happening.

“Eileen, so many reporters are here. We can’t stay here any longer.”

Eileen turned and looked, and one of the reporters snapped a picture of her teary face.

She couldn’t care less as she tightened her fists.

“I can’t leave at a time like this. I want to wait until Fia comes out.”

“Eileen, the boss is still discussing you with the media. The reason they’re blocking you here is so they could question you.”

Eileen shook her head and said coldly, “He already announced his marriage with Sapphire. What right do they have to question me?!”

“But...”

Lyn still wanted to warn her, but several microphones had already been extended toward them, and so she blocked them instinctively.

“I’m sorry, but Eileen is busy right now and doesn’t have the time to answer any questions. Our boss and

Ms. Starling’s wedding date has already been announced. If you have any questions, please go to our company and ask our boss.

“We’re here for Ms. Reid!”

“We don’t believe that you have no relationship with Mr. Maxwell at all!”

“Someone just leaked that your boss Mr. Maxwell is actually your sugar daddy. Please give us a direct answer, Ms. Reid.”

Eileen gritted her teeth and stood up, and her regal aura that she had developed from being in the entertainment industry for so long instantly enveloped them all.

“You want to know about my relationship with Victor Maxwell? Fine. I’ll explain everything to you. Other than him being my boss and me being his employee, we don’t have any other relationships.

“I never loved him in the past, don’t love him in the present, and never will in the future!

“Of course,” she said with a sneer. “How can someone as lowly as us celebrities in the entertainment industry amount to anything in the eyes of the rich and powerful? How can I be a match for him? That’s why I have never thought of being anything to him!”

The reporters were all stunned. They thought that Eileen wanted to argue with them. They didn’t realize. that she would demean herself instead.

“Is there anything else you want to ask? Ms. Sapphire Starling had already clarified that the woman in the video was her. Do you still want to add on additional storylines for me and my boss?” Seeing that the reporters were still stunned, a plan formed in her mind. “I’ll be upfront with all of you. My contract with my boss is nearing the end. I won’t extend the contract anymore!”

The reporter then asked, “Which company are you going to move to next?”

“About that... I haven’t decided yet. I might even retire.”

Eileen spoke with a cold smile. She wanted to see how he was going to chain her up when the reporters questioned him about her contract expiring soon!

Three years... She had endured it for three years because there was still hope in her heart.

But all that hope had become nothing when he announced his wedding with Sapphire.

Just then, the operating theater opened its door.

A nurse ran out. “Who is the family of Fia Lawson?”

“Me! I’m here!” Eileen walked over with red eyes.

“You’re Fia Lawson’s family? We need you to sign the indemnity letter before the doctors can proceed with the emergency surgery!”

“What? Emergency?!” Eileen almost fainted as her vision almost turned black.

Lyn helped her up and asked the nurse, “How did it become an emergency? They didn’t ask us to sign anything when they pushed her in.”

“Her condition is worse than what we initially expected. Doctor Hall said the indemnity letter needs to be signed immediately! Quickly, they’re still waiting inside. If you don’t sign, the doctors can’t proceed...”

“I’ll sign!” Eileen said as her hand shook.

“Who are you to her?”

“Best friend.”

“That won’t work! We need someone from her family!”

Chapter 275

Eileen didn’t know what to do. Fia’s mother had passed away and no one knew who her father was. Family? Which family? The Mannings?

Suddenly, Lyn’s brain ticked and asked, “Does her husband count?”

“Of course! Where is he right now? Tell him to come over and sign the form!”

Lyn held Eileen’s shaking hand and whispered, “Eileen, give Fia’s husband a call.”

Eileen’s eyes were so red as if they were bleeding with hate pulsing in them.

“He’s not worthy!” But even then, she knew it was not the time to make any sort of complaints. And so, she gave Conrad a call.

“Hello?”

“Get to Gryphonheart Hospital right now! The hospital needs someone from her family to sign the paperwork!”

“I’m already in the elevator. I’ll be there soon!” Conrad hung up the call. When the elevator door opened, he immediately ran out only to see a group of reporters waiting outside.

“Silas, get rid of all of them!”

“Of course!”

When the reporters saw Conrad, all of them rushed over excitedly.

Silas immediately pushed away the man standing at the front so that Conrad could get through. When he saw that they wanted to give chase, he growled at them, warning and threatening them.

The entire situation was getting a bit chaotic. Luckily, the hospital’s security could see what was happening and a group of them came and got rid of all the reporters from the hospital.

“How is she? Where is she?”

“Sign it!” Eileen grabbed the indemnity letter and pen from the nurse’s hand and gave them to Conrad.” Quick, the doctor needs it for the surgery!”

“Indemnity letter?” Conrad grabbed the paper tightly. “What do you mean?!”

The nurse had seen plenty of situations like this and quickly explained, “The patient might pass away during the operation because of complications. The patient’s family members need to sign before the doctors can perform the operation.”

In short, the patient’s condition was critical. The patient’s family needed to accept that accidents may happen. Only then would the doctors be brave enough to attempt to save her.

Otherwise, if something happened, the family members could sue the doctors and the hospital.

Inside the surgery theater.

Sweat formed on Jason’s forehead. Despite all the years of being a doctor, he had never been as fearful as today.

However, he couldn't let his negative emotions take control of him. He suppressed all the negative feelings inside of him and focused on Fia's injuries.

Sally felt sorry for him when she saw what was happening.

"Jason, without the family member's authorization, we can't continue with the operation. If she were to... The hospital would have to..."

"Enough!" Jason cut her off. "No matter what happens, I'll take full responsibility. Support me!"

Sally held the forceps in her hand tightly. It was not that she lacked compassion, but she really didn't want Jason to continue.

A glass had pierced through a part of Fia's heart. It was a very dangerous surgery.

Even after surgery, there was a high probability of infection. They needed a family member's approval first.

However, Jason was ignoring it and wanting to continue with the surgery. He couldn't even wait for someone to sign despite the nurse going out and trying to get it done not too long ago.

"We can wait for a few more minutes. As soon as someone signs, we can then..."

"No! She cannot wait!" Jason gritted his teeth as his voice shook. "Her mother passed away because of cancer, and she has no father. Conrad Maxwell was getting engaged with another woman this morning..."

He was worried that Conrad might not make it and Fia would immediately die on the surgery table.

Even he, who was normally calm and collected, didn't collapse as he held on to the last hope with his eyes turning red.

His gloves were stained with blood as he focused his vision on the injuries.

"Fia, don't give up."

Chapter 276

Sally gulped and wanted to advise Jason to wait when footsteps could be heard.

The nurse who went out just now had come back with hope on her face.

“Doctor Hall, her family has signed the letter!”

Sally let out a sigh of relief and prepared herself. “Everyone, support Doctor Evans!”

“Is... Is she going to be alright?” Conrad stared at the door with his fists tightened.

Eileen looked at him angrily, “You can leave now!”

Conrad frowned. He was not in the mood to fight her.

“Go back to your engagement ceremony! Don’t stay here and disgust Fia!”

Silas quietly walked over and said, “Ms. Reid, my boss promised to get engaged with Ms. Manning out of desperation.”

“Liar!” Eileen glared at Conrad with angry eyes. “Ever since Esme came back, all you’ve wanted to do is divorce Fia! You only made her stay because of the baby! Now that she has been locked up, you can divorce her openly! Everyone out there wouldn’t say that you abandoned your original wife for a homewrecker! They would only think that Fia had committed a crime! Conrad Maxwell, you’re so heartless!”

“No matter what you say, the engagement is just a strategy for me to slow things down.”

“Ha!” Eileen let out a disgusted smile. “You work together with someone else to deal with a woman like her and say that the engagement is for her own good? Who would believe you?!”

Conrad scratched his head and kicked at the wall, irritated.

“I didn’t!”

“You didn’t believe Fia at all! All you do is protect that homewrecker! Lyn, show him the evidence!”

“Sure!” Lyn removed the backpack from her back only to stare at it with eyes wide. “Eileen…”

Eileen could hear something was wrong in her voice and she turned and looked..

A large opening had been cut from the backpack.

She quickly grabbed it and checked.

“Where’re the documents? The evidence?!”

Lyn’s face turned pale. She remembered how the media reporters were pushing her. She was worried that they would knock into Eileen, so she was focused on stopping her. She didn’t pay attention to her backpack at all.

Conrad looked at how Eileen and her assistant reacted and asked curiously, “What evidence?”

Eileen suddenly raised her head and looked at him like he was some kind of a scoundrel.

“Did you send someone to do it?!”

“Last time when Lola was going to show you the evidence in her phone, everything was deleted! Now that you appeared, all the documents and pieces of evidence are gone!”

They were going to use it as evidence during the court case to prove Fia’s innocence and show what Esme really was like!

Because they had gathered them in a rush, they didn’t have the time to back them up just yet. They only had one, single copy.

“Lola?” There was disgust in his voice. “That woman can’t be counted on. All she did was make them fight! Her words mean nothing!”

“Conrad, are you still a man?!” Eileen’s rage was fully shown on her face. She was sure that Conrad was behind it all!

“What are you all yelling about?”

At this time, a cold voice came from behind her. Eileen looked at the person as she gritted her teeth.

Victor walked over with swag, his hands in his pockets.

He glanced at Eileen before going over to Conrad with a smile, “Congratulations, cousin.”

“Scram!” Conrad’s expression darkened.

“Hey, shouldn’t I congratulate you? You can have one to the left and one to the right! It’s a happy day! But

You haven’t divorce Fia, have you? Why are you getting engaged with another woman already? It’s a crime, you know?”

“Quiet!” After being accused by Eileen like that, his mind was in chaos. The only reason he endured her was because she was Fia’s only good friend.

But he could no longer hold it back when Victor provoked him and he quickly gave Victor a kick.

Chapter 277

“Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

“You have a death wish!” Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn’t have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

“They have the same blood in their veins... They’re both garbage.”

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn’t dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

“Should we report our loss to the police?”

“After Fia’s surgery,” Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn’t think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I’m a gentleman. I won’t fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I’m trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn’t look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn't move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I'll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn't hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. "Beat him, sir! I'll hold him back!"

"..." In that instant, Conrad didn't feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor's chest and said, "Get rid of him!"

"What do you-" Victor couldn't even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

"Get him out!" Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia's husband. One was Fia's best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

“Jason.” She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

“She’s fine now. You saved her.”

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, “Rest for a while. I’ll speak with her family.”

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn't allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You're lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That's our first baby! The baby can't just die like that! Where's Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn't have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad's eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby's life... is no more important than Fia's life!”

“No... That’s not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn’t accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

“You can’t tell her.’

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn’t understand what he meant by that at that moment.

“Before she fully recovers, you can’t tell her. Otherwise, she won’t be able to bear it.”

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, “You heard me, doctor?”

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia’s condition couldn’t allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn’t believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

“Do as he says, Doctor Hall.”

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter’s.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

“Jason, you’re a doctor. Don’t let your emotions get the better of you!”

“Let me go!” Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad’s face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen’s tears couldn’t stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

“Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her.”

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

“I didn’t protect Esme. I didn’t want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier.”

“You think this is all a coincidence?” Eileen said with hate on her face. “This is all according to Esme’s plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!”

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. “Don’t make things up if you don’t have any evidence.”

“You’re still protecting her even now?!”

“I’m not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!”

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn’t matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

“The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn’t want to betray her!”

“You didn’t want to know the truth?” Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

“The truth doesn’t matter anymore as long as this can be solved!”

“Fia doesn’t think about it that way. You think that you’re doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character.”

Conrad didn’t want to continue the fight. “I need to go and do something. I’ll send someone to watch over the hospital.”

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 273

Chapter 273

Eileen's hurt voice echoed in the car even after she hung up.

Conrad's hands suddenly became numb as they shook.

"Hello? Sir?"

"Silas, where is Fia? Did you pick her up?"

"You told me to pick her up at eight, right? It's only seven right, but I'll go now..."

"Find out where she is right now!"

Suddenly, there was a little thumping coming from outside. Conrad looked at the person who was knocking at his car window with angry eyes.

The moment when the car window was lowered and the man encountered the pair of murderous, amber eyes, he couldn't help but take two steps back.

"Friend, the people at the back can't drive anymore with you suddenly stopping your car in the middle of the road. Can you move to the side if you need to do something?"

"Scram!" Conrad roared as he opened the door like an angry lion..

He was so scary that the innocent passerby ran back to his car.

Gryphonheart Hospital.

Two surgeries needed to be done at the same time. Jason removed his bloodied clothes and was prepared to change into his hospital scrubs.

A couple of his colleagues ran over from another surgery theater.

"Jason, the driver is heavily wounded. The director asked you to be the leading surgeon."

"No!" Jason's normally gentle expression was as cold as an Antarctic glacier.

"Jason, she's not as heavily injured as the driver. The other doctors can..."

"No!" Jason quickly changed his outfit and pushed his other colleagues who were trying to advise him out of the way so that he could go in.

“What’s wrong with you, doctor? The driver has multiple lacerations in his o*ans and both his legs are shattered. We really need you...”

“I can’t leave Fia’s life to someone else!” Jason’s words were cold as if a shadow had been cast over him.

His colleagues were stunned.

Then they knew what was happening.

She was very important to the doctor. No wonder it was the first time he looked so terrifying.

“Move!” Jason walked into the surgery theater.

Inside the surgery theater, Sally was just about to remove a piece of glass from Fia’s chest.

The position of the glass was very precarious. It pierced into the flesh too deeply and it was in contact with her heart.

“Doctor, the patient is bleeding!”

Sally frowned and looked at the lower half of Fia’s body.

“Blood transfusion now!”

The team that was in perfect sync was stunned for a second. Just as a nurse was about to move, she noticed Jason looking at her with cold eyes and a bag of blood.

“I’ll do it!”

When Sally heard the familiar voice, she gave him a look and quickly allowed him to take over without even wasting time.

She let out a sigh of relief. She believed that with Jason here, Fia would be alright!

“I’ll leave this to you, Jason. I’ll deal with the dead...” Sally didn’t want to complete the sentence.

The expression on Jason's face became even colder and he didn't say anything. He didn't even look at Fia's bottom half.

He simply took the tools and began to focus on Fia's injury on her chest.

"Ah... What should we do? How could this have happened?!" Outside the surgery theater, Eileen almost fainted from all the crying as Lyn held her.

Her personal assistant, Lyn, simply looked at the LED display. It showed that Fia was still being operated on.

"Don't worry, Eileen. The g*ds will protect someone as kind as her."

Eileen bit her lips and nodded. "She promised to treat me to dinner! And said that once I moved out of the country, she'll visit me together with the baby. She won't break her promise!"

Lyn's heart sank.

They had seen the b*oody scene of Fia's accident when they were stuck in the jam.

When she saw how bad the jam was, she got down to see what was happening. She then saw Fia being moved from the car, covered in blood.

She got back into the car to tell Eileen, and she immediately went to the hospital together in the ambulance.

All she could do was to advise Eileen to stay calm, but she knew something bad had happened with those kinds of injuries she suffered.

Chapter 274

Suddenly, there was a string of footsteps approaching them.

Lyn turned and was shocked to see what was happening.

"Eileen, so many reporters are here. We can't stay here any longer."

Eileen turned and looked, and one of the reporters snapped a picture of her teary face.

She couldn't care less as she tightened her fists.

"I can't leave at a time like this. I want to wait until Fia comes out."

"Eileen, the boss is still discussing you with the media. The reason they're blocking you here is so they could question you."

Eileen shook her head and said coldly, "He already announced his marriage with Sapphire. What right do they have to question me?!"

"But..."

Lyn still wanted to warn her, but several microphones had already been extended toward them, and so she blocked them instinctively.

"I'm sorry, but Eileen is busy right now and doesn't have the time to answer any questions. Our boss and

Ms. Starling's wedding date has already been announced. If you have any questions, please go to our company and ask our boss.

"We're here for Ms. Reid!"

"We don't believe that you have no relationship with Mr. Maxwell at all!"

"Someone just leaked that your boss Mr. Maxwell is actually your sugar daddy. Please give us a direct answer, Ms. Reid."

Eileen gritted her teeth and stood up, and her regal aura that she had developed from being in the entertainment industry for so long instantly enveloped them all.

"You want to know about my relationship with Victor Maxwell? Fine. I'll explain everything to you. Other than him being my boss and me being his employee, we don't have any other relationships.

"I never loved him in the past, don't love him in the present, and never will in the future!"

“Of course,” she said with a sneer. “How can someone as lowly as us celebrities in the entertainment industry amount to anything in the eyes of the rich and powerful? How can I be a match for him? That’s why I have never thought of being anything to him!”

The reporters were all stunned. They thought that Eileen wanted to argue with them. They didn’t realize. that she would demean herself instead.

“Is there anything else you want to ask? Ms. Sapphire Starling had already clarified that the woman in the video was her. Do you still want to add on additional storylines for me and my boss?” Seeing that the reporters were still stunned, a plan formed in her mind. “I’ll be upfront with all of you. My contract with my boss is nearing the end. I won’t extend the contract anymore!”

The reporter then asked, “Which company are you going to move to next?”

“About that... I haven’t decided yet. I might even retire.”

Eileen spoke with a cold smile. She wanted to see how he was going to chain her up when the reporters questioned him about her contract expiring soon!

Three years... She had endured it for three years because there was still hope in her heart.

But all that hope had become nothing when he announced his wedding with Sapphire.

Just then, the operating theater opened its door.

A nurse ran out. “Who is the family of Fia Lawson?”

“Me! I’m here!” Eileen walked over with red eyes.

“You’re Fia Lawson’s family? We need you to sign the indemnity letter before the doctors can proceed with the emergency surgery!”

“What? Emergency?!” Eileen almost fainted as her vision almost turned black.

Lyn helped her up and asked the nurse, “How did it become an emergency? They didn’t ask us to sign anything when they pushed her in.”

“Her condition is worse than what we initially expected. Doctor Hall said the indemnity letter needs to be signed immediately! Quickly, they’re still waiting inside. If you don’t sign, the doctors can’t proceed...”

“I’ll sign!” Eileen said as her hand shook.

“Who are you to her?”

“Best friend.”

“That won’t work! We need someone from her family!”

Chapter 275

Eileen didn’t know what to do. Fia’s mother had passed away and no one knew who her father was. Family? Which family? The Mannings?

Suddenly, Lyn’s brain ticked and asked, “Does her husband count?”

“Of course! Where is he right now? Tell him to come over and sign the form!”

Lyn held Eileen’s shaking hand and whispered, “Eileen, give Fia’s husband a call.”

Eileen’s eyes were so red as if they were bleeding with hate pulsing in them.

“He’s not worthy!” But even then, she knew it was not the time to make any sort of complaints. And so, she gave Conrad a call.

“Hello?”

“Get to Gryphonheart Hospital right now! The hospital needs someone from her family to sign the paperwork!”

“I’m already in the elevator. I’ll be there soon!” Conrad hung up the call. When the elevator door opened, he immediately ran out only to see a group of reporters waiting outside.

“Silas, get rid of all of them!”

“Of course!”

When the reporters saw Conrad, all of them rushed over excitedly.

Silas immediately pushed away the man standing at the front so that Conrad could get through. When he saw that they wanted to give chase, he growled at them, warning and threatening them.

The entire situation was getting a bit chaotic. Luckily, the hospital's security could see what was happening and a group of them came and got rid of all the reporters from the hospital.

"How is she? Where is she?"

"Sign it!" Eileen grabbed the indemnity letter and pen from the nurse's hand and gave them to Conrad." Quick, the doctor needs it for the surgery!"

"Indemnity letter?" Conrad grabbed the paper tightly. "What do you mean?!"

The nurse had seen plenty of situations like this and quickly explained, "The patient might pass away during the operation because of complications. The patient's family members need to sign before the doctors can perform the operation."

In short, the patient's condition was critical. The patient's family needed to accept that accidents may happen. Only then would the doctors be brave enough to attempt to save her.

Otherwise, if something happened, the family members could sue the doctors and the hospital.

Inside the surgery theater.

Sweat formed on Jason's forehead. Despite all the years of being a doctor, he had never been as fearful as today.

However, he couldn't let his negative emotions take control of him. He suppressed all the negative feelings inside of him and focused on Fia's injuries.

Sally felt sorry for him when she saw what was happening.

"Jason, without the family member's authorization, we can't continue with the operation. If she were to... The hospital would have to..."

“Enough!” Jason cut her off. “No matter what happens, I’ll take full responsibility. Support me!”

Sally held the forceps in her hand tightly. It was not that she lacked compassion, but she really didn’t want Jason to continue.

A glass had pierced through a part of Fia’s heart. It was a very dangerous surgery.

Even after surgery, there was a high probability of infection. They needed a family member’s approval first.

However, Jason was ignoring it and wanting to continue with the surgery. He couldn’t even wait for someone to sign despite the nurse going out and trying to get it done not too long ago.

“We can wait for a few more minutes. As soon as someone signs, we can then...”

“No! She cannot wait!” Jason gritted his teeth as his voice shook. “Her mother passed away because of cancer, and she has no father. Conrad Maxwell was getting engaged with another woman this morning...”

He was worried that Conrad might not make it and Fia would immediately die on the surgery table.

Even he, who was normally calm and collected, didn’t collapse as he held on to the last hope with his eyes turning red.

His gloves were stained with blood as he focused his vision on the injuries.

“Fia, don’t give up.”

Chapter 276

Sally gulped and wanted to advise Jason to wait when footsteps could be heard.

The nurse who went out just now had come back with hope on her face.

“Doctor Hall, her family has signed the letter!”

Sally let out a sigh of relief and prepared herself. “Everyone, support Doctor Evans!”

“Is... Is she going to be alright?” Conrad stared at the door with his fists tightened.

Eileen looked at him angrily, “You can leave now!”

Conrad frowned. He was not in the mood to fight her.

“Go back to your engagement ceremony! Don’t stay here and disgust Fia!”

Silas quietly walked over and said, “Ms. Reid, my boss promised to get engaged with Ms. Manning out of desperation.”

“Liar!” Eileen glared at Conrad with angry eyes. “Ever since Esme came back, all you’ve wanted to do is divorce Fia! You only made her stay because of the baby! Now that she has been locked up, you can divorce her openly! Everyone out there wouldn’t say that you abandoned your original wife for a homewrecker! They would only think that Fia had committed a crime! Conrad Maxwell, you’re so heartless!”

“No matter what you say, the engagement is just a strategy for me to slow things down.”

“Ha!” Eileen let out a disgusted smile. “You work together with someone else to deal with a woman like her and say that the engagement is for her own good? Who would believe you?!”

Conrad scratched his head and kicked at the wall, irritated.

“I didn’t!”

“You didn’t believe Fia at all! All you do is protect that homewrecker! Lyn, show him the evidence!”

“Sure!” Lyn removed the backpack from her back only to stare at it with eyes wide. “Eileen...”

Eileen could hear something was wrong in her voice and she turned and looked..

A large opening had been cut from the backpack.

She quickly grabbed it and checked.

“Where’re the documents? The evidence?!”

Lyn’s face turned pale. She remembered how the media reporters were pushing her. She was worried that they would knock into Eileen, so she was focused on stopping her. She didn’t pay attention to her backpack at all.

Conrad looked at how Eileen and her assistant reacted and asked curiously, “What evidence?”

Eileen suddenly raised her head and looked at him like he was some kind of a scoundrel.

“Did you send someone to do it?!”

“Last time when Lola was going to show you the evidence in her phone, everything was deleted! Now that you appeared, all the documents and pieces of evidence are gone!”

They were going to use it as evidence during the court case to prove Fia’s innocence and show what Esme really was like!

Because they had gathered them in a rush, they didn’t have the time to back them up just yet. They only had one, single copy.

“Lola?” There was disgust in his voice. “That woman can’t be counted on. All she did was make them fight! Her words mean nothing!”

“Conrad, are you still a man?!” Eileen’s rage was fully shown on her face. She was sure that Conrad was behind it all!

“What are you all yelling about?”

At this time, a cold voice came from behind her. Eileen looked at the person as she gritted her teeth.

Victor walked over with swag, his hands in his pockets.

He glanced at Eileen before going over to Conrad with a smile, "Congratulations, cousin."

"Scram!" Conrad's expression darkened.

"Hey, shouldn't I congratulate you? You can have one to the left and one to the right! It's a happy day! But

You haven't divorce Fia, have you? Why are you getting engaged with another woman already? It's a crime, you know?"

"Quiet!" After being accused by Eileen like that, his mind was in chaos. The only reason he endured her was because she was Fia's only good friend.

But he could no longer hold it back when Victor provoked him and he quickly gave Victor a kick.

Chapter 277

"Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

"You have a death wish!" Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn't have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

"They have the same blood in their veins... They're both garbage."

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn't dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

"Should we report our loss to the police?"

"After Fia's surgery," Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn't think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I’m a gentleman. I won’t fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I’m trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn’t look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn't move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I'll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn't hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. “Beat him, sir! I'll hold him back!”

“...” In that instant, Conrad didn't feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor's chest and said, “Get rid of him!”

“What do you-” Victor couldn’t even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

“Get him out!” Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia’s husband. One was Fia’s best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

“Jason.” She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

“She’s fine now. You saved her.”

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, “Rest for a while. I’ll speak with her family.”

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn't allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You're lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That's our first baby! The baby can't just die like that! Where's Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn't have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad's eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby's life... is no more important than Fia's life!”

“No... That's not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn't accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

"You can't tell her."

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn't understand what he meant by that at that moment.

"Before she fully recovers, you can't tell her. Otherwise, she won't be able to bear it."

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, "You heard me, doctor?"

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia's condition couldn't allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn't believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

"Do as he says, Doctor Hall."

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter's.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

"Jason, you're a doctor. Don't let your emotions get the better of you!"

“Let me go!” Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad’s face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen’s tears couldn’t stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

“Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her.”

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

“I didn’t protect Esme. I didn’t want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier.”

“You think this is all a coincidence?” Eileen said with hate on her face. “This is all according to Esme’s plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!”

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. “Don’t make things up if you don’t have any evidence.”

“You’re still protecting her even now?!”

“I’m not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!”

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

"Fia doesn't think about it that way. You think that you're doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character."

Conrad didn't want to continue the fight. "I need to go and do something. I'll send someone to watch over the hospital."

"No thanks!" Eileen said with a cool expression. "Without you, we can take better care of her!"

"I'll come later."

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn't injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, "Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!"

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 274

Chapter 274

Suddenly, there was a string of footsteps approaching them.

Lyn turned and was shocked to see what was happening.

“Eileen, so many reporters are here. We can’t stay here any longer.”

Eileen turned and looked, and one of the reporters snapped a picture of her teary face.

She couldn’t care less as she tightened her fists.

“I can’t leave at a time like this. I want to wait until Fia comes out.”

“Eileen, the boss is still discussing you with the media. The reason they’re blocking you here is so they could question you.”

Eileen shook her head and said coldly, “He already announced his marriage with Sapphire. What right do they have to question me?!”

“But...”

Lyn still wanted to warn her, but several microphones had already been extended toward them, and so she blocked them instinctively.

“I’m sorry, but Eileen is busy right now and doesn’t have the time to answer any questions. Our boss and

Ms. Starling’s wedding date has already been announced. If you have any questions, please go to our company and ask our boss.

“We’re here for Ms. Reid!”

“We don’t believe that you have no relationship with Mr. Maxwell at all!”

“Someone just leaked that your boss Mr. Maxwell is actually your sugar daddy. Please give us a direct answer, Ms. Reid.”

Eileen gritted her teeth and stood up, and her regal aura that she had developed from being in the entertainment industry for so long instantly enveloped them all.

“You want to know about my relationship with Victor Maxwell? Fine. I’ll explain everything to you. Other than him being my boss and me being his employee, we don’t have any other relationships.

“I never loved him in the past, don’t love him in the present, and never will in the future!

“Of course,” she said with a sneer. “How can someone as lowly as us celebrities in the entertainment industry amount to anything in the eyes of the rich and powerful? How can I be a match for him? That’s why I have never thought of being anything to him!”

The reporters were all stunned. They thought that Eileen wanted to argue with them. They didn’t realize. that she would demean herself instead.

“Is there anything else you want to ask? Ms. Sapphire Starling had already clarified that the woman in the video was her. Do you still want to add on additional storylines for me and my boss?” Seeing that the reporters were still stunned, a plan formed in her mind. “I’ll be upfront with all of you. My contract with my boss is nearing the end. I won’t extend the contract anymore!”

The reporter then asked, “Which company are you going to move to next?”

“About that... I haven’t decided yet. I might even retire.”

Eileen spoke with a cold smile. She wanted to see how he was going to chain her up when the reporters questioned him about her contract expiring soon!

Three years... She had endured it for three years because there was still hope in her heart.

But all that hope had become nothing when he announced his wedding with Sapphire.

Just then, the operating theater opened its door.

A nurse ran out. “Who is the family of Fia Lawson?”

“Me! I’m here!” Eileen walked over with red eyes.

“You’re Fia Lawson’s family? We need you to sign the indemnity letter before the doctors can proceed with the emergency surgery!”

“What? Emergency?!” Eileen almost fainted as her vision almost turned black.

Lyn helped her up and asked the nurse, “How did it become an emergency? They didn’t ask us to sign anything when they pushed her in.”

“Her condition is worse than what we initially expected. Doctor Hall said the indemnity letter needs to be signed immediately! Quickly, they’re still waiting inside. If you don’t sign, the doctors can’t proceed...”

“I’ll sign!” Eileen said as her hand shook.

“Who are you to her?”

“Best friend.”

“That won’t work! We need someone from her family!”

Chapter 275

Eileen didn’t know what to do. Fia’s mother had passed away and no one knew who her father was. Family? Which family? The Mannings?

Suddenly, Lyn’s brain ticked and asked, “Does her husband count?”

“Of course! Where is he right now? Tell him to come over and sign the form!”

Lyn held Eileen’s shaking hand and whispered, “Eileen, give Fia’s husband a call.”

Eileen’s eyes were so red as if they were bleeding with hate pulsing in them.

“He’s not worthy!” But even then, she knew it was not the time to make any sort of complaints. And so, she gave Conrad a call.

“Hello?”

“Get to Gryphonheart Hospital right now! The hospital needs someone from her family to sign the paperwork!”

“I’m already in the elevator. I’ll be there soon!” Conrad hung up the call. When the elevator door opened, he immediately ran out only to see a group of reporters waiting outside.

“Silas, get rid of all of them!”

“Of course!”

When the reporters saw Conrad, all of them rushed over excitedly.

Silas immediately pushed away the man standing at the front so that Conrad could get through. When he saw that they wanted to give chase, he growled at them, warning and threatening them.

The entire situation was getting a bit chaotic. Luckily, the hospital's security could see what was happening and a group of them came and got rid of all the reporters from the hospital.

"How is she? Where is she?"

"Sign it!" Eileen grabbed the indemnity letter and pen from the nurse's hand and gave them to Conrad." Quick, the doctor needs it for the surgery!"

"Indemnity letter?" Conrad grabbed the paper tightly. "What do you mean?!"

The nurse had seen plenty of situations like this and quickly explained, "The patient might pass away during the operation because of complications. The patient's family members need to sign before the doctors can perform the operation."

In short, the patient's condition was critical. The patient's family needed to accept that accidents may happen. Only then would the doctors be brave enough to attempt to save her.

Otherwise, if something happened, the family members could sue the doctors and the hospital.

Inside the surgery theater.

Sweat formed on Jason's forehead. Despite all the years of being a doctor, he had never been as fearful as today.

However, he couldn't let his negative emotions take control of him. He suppressed all the negative feelings inside of him and focused on Fia's injuries.

Sally felt sorry for him when she saw what was happening.

"Jason, without the family member's authorization, we can't continue with the operation. If she were to... The hospital would have to..."

“Enough!” Jason cut her off. “No matter what happens, I’ll take full responsibility. Support me!”

Sally held the forceps in her hand tightly. It was not that she lacked compassion, but she really didn’t want Jason to continue.

A glass had pierced through a part of Fia’s heart. It was a very dangerous surgery.

Even after surgery, there was a high probability of infection. They needed a family member’s approval first.

However, Jason was ignoring it and wanting to continue with the surgery. He couldn’t even wait for someone to sign despite the nurse going out and trying to get it done not too long ago.

“We can wait for a few more minutes. As soon as someone signs, we can then...”

“No! She cannot wait!” Jason gritted his teeth as his voice shook. “Her mother passed away because of cancer, and she has no father. Conrad Maxwell was getting engaged with another woman this morning...”

He was worried that Conrad might not make it and Fia would immediately die on the surgery table.

Even he, who was normally calm and collected, didn’t collapse as he held on to the last hope with his eyes turning red.

His gloves were stained with blood as he focused his vision on the injuries.

“Fia, don’t give up.”

Chapter 276

Sally gulped and wanted to advise Jason to wait when footsteps could be heard.

The nurse who went out just now had come back with hope on her face.

“Doctor Hall, her family has signed the letter!”

Sally let out a sigh of relief and prepared herself. “Everyone, support Doctor Evans!”

“Is... Is she going to be alright?” Conrad stared at the door with his fists tightened.

Eileen looked at him angrily, “You can leave now!”

Conrad frowned. He was not in the mood to fight her.

“Go back to your engagement ceremony! Don’t stay here and disgust Fia!”

Silas quietly walked over and said, “Ms. Reid, my boss promised to get engaged with Ms. Manning out of desperation.”

“Liar!” Eileen glared at Conrad with angry eyes. “Ever since Esme came back, all you’ve wanted to do is divorce Fia! You only made her stay because of the baby! Now that she has been locked up, you can divorce her openly! Everyone out there wouldn’t say that you abandoned your original wife for a homewrecker! They would only think that Fia had committed a crime! Conrad Maxwell, you’re so heartless!”

“No matter what you say, the engagement is just a strategy for me to slow things down.”

“Ha!” Eileen let out a disgusted smile. “You work together with someone else to deal with a woman like her and say that the engagement is for her own good? Who would believe you?!”

Conrad scratched his head and kicked at the wall, irritated.

“I didn’t!”

“You didn’t believe Fia at all! All you do is protect that homewrecker! Lyn, show him the evidence!”

“Sure!” Lyn removed the backpack from her back only to stare at it with eyes wide. “Eileen...”

Eileen could hear something was wrong in her voice and she turned and looked..

A large opening had been cut from the backpack.

She quickly grabbed it and checked.

“Where’re the documents? The evidence?!”

Lyn’s face turned pale. She remembered how the media reporters were pushing her. She was worried that they would knock into Eileen, so she was focused on stopping her. She didn’t pay attention to her backpack at all.

Conrad looked at how Eileen and her assistant reacted and asked curiously, “What evidence?”

Eileen suddenly raised her head and looked at him like he was some kind of a scoundrel.

“Did you send someone to do it?!”

“Last time when Lola was going to show you the evidence in her phone, everything was deleted! Now that you appeared, all the documents and pieces of evidence are gone!”

They were going to use it as evidence during the court case to prove Fia’s innocence and show what Esme really was like!

Because they had gathered them in a rush, they didn’t have the time to back them up just yet. They only had one, single copy.

“Lola?” There was disgust in his voice. “That woman can’t be counted on. All she did was make them fight! Her words mean nothing!”

“Conrad, are you still a man?!” Eileen’s rage was fully shown on her face. She was sure that Conrad was behind it all!

“What are you all yelling about?”

At this time, a cold voice came from behind her. Eileen looked at the person as she gritted her teeth.

Victor walked over with swag, his hands in his pockets.

He glanced at Eileen before going over to Conrad with a smile, "Congratulations, cousin."

"Scram!" Conrad's expression darkened.

"Hey, shouldn't I congratulate you? You can have one to the left and one to the right! It's a happy day! But

You haven't divorce Fia, have you? Why are you getting engaged with another woman already? It's a crime, you know?"

"Quiet!" After being accused by Eileen like that, his mind was in chaos. The only reason he endured her was because she was Fia's only good friend.

But he could no longer hold it back when Victor provoked him and he quickly gave Victor a kick.

Chapter 277

"Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

"You have a death wish!" Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn't have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

"They have the same blood in their veins... They're both garbage."

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn't dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

"Should we report our loss to the police?"

"After Fia's surgery," Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn't think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I’m a gentleman. I won’t fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I’m trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn’t look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn't move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I'll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn't hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. “Beat him, sir! I'll hold him back!”

“...” In that instant, Conrad didn't feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor's chest and said, “Get rid of him!”

“What do you-” Victor couldn’t even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

“Get him out!” Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia’s husband. One was Fia’s best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

“Jason.” She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

“She’s fine now. You saved her.”

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, “Rest for a while. I’ll speak with her family.”

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn't allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You're lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That's our first baby! The baby can't just die like that! Where's Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn't have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad's eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby's life... is no more important than Fia's life!”

“No... That's not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn't accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

"You can't tell her."

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn't understand what he meant by that at that moment.

"Before she fully recovers, you can't tell her. Otherwise, she won't be able to bear it."

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, "You heard me, doctor?"

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia's condition couldn't allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn't believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

"Do as he says, Doctor Hall."

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter's.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

"Jason, you're a doctor. Don't let your emotions get the better of you!"

“Let me go!” Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad’s face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen’s tears couldn’t stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

“Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her.”

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

“I didn’t protect Esme. I didn’t want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier.”

“You think this is all a coincidence?” Eileen said with hate on her face. “This is all according to Esme’s plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!”

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. “Don’t make things up if you don’t have any evidence.”

“You’re still protecting her even now?!”

“I’m not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!”

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

"Fia doesn't think about it that way. You think that you're doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character."

Conrad didn't want to continue the fight. "I need to go and do something. I'll send someone to watch over the hospital."

"No thanks!" Eileen said with a cool expression. "Without you, we can take better care of her!"

"I'll come later."

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn't injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, "Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!"

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 275

Chapter 275

Eileen didn’t know what to do. Fia’s mother had passed away and no one knew who her father was. Family? Which family? The Mannings?

Suddenly, Lyn's brain ticked and asked, "Does her husband count?"

"Of course! Where is he right now? Tell him to come over and sign the form!"

Lyn held Eileen's shaking hand and whispered, "Eileen, give Fia's husband a call."

Eileen's eyes were so red as if they were bleeding with hate pulsing in them.

"He's not worthy!" But even then, she knew it was not the time to make any sort of complaints. And so, she gave Conrad a call.

"Hello?"

"Get to Gryphonheart Hospital right now! The hospital needs someone from her family to sign the paperwork!"

"I'm already in the elevator. I'll be there soon!" Conrad hung up the call. When the elevator door opened, he immediately ran out only to see a group of reporters waiting outside.

"Silas, get rid of all of them!"

"Of course!"

When the reporters saw Conrad, all of them rushed over excitedly.

Silas immediately pushed away the man standing at the front so that Conrad could get through. When he saw that they wanted to give chase, he growled at them, warning and threatening them.

The entire situation was getting a bit chaotic. Luckily, the hospital's security could see what was happening and a group of them came and got rid of all the reporters from the hospital.

"How is she? Where is she?"

"Sign it!" Eileen grabbed the indemnity letter and pen from the nurse's hand and gave them to Conrad. "Quick, the doctor needs it for the surgery!"

"Indemnity letter?" Conrad grabbed the paper tightly. "What do you mean?!"

The nurse had seen plenty of situations like this and quickly explained, “The patient might pass away during the operation because of complications. The patient’s family members need to sign before the doctors can perform the operation.”

In short, the patient’s condition was critical. The patient’s family needed to accept that accidents may happen. Only then would the doctors be brave enough to attempt to save her.

Otherwise, if something happened, the family members could sue the doctors and the hospital.

Inside the surgery theater.

Sweat formed on Jason’s forehead. Despite all the years of being a doctor, he had never been as fearful as today.

However, he couldn’t let his negative emotions take control of him. He suppressed all the negative feelings inside of him and focused on Fia’s injuries.

Sally felt sorry for him when she saw what was happening.

“Jason, without the family member’s authorization, we can’t continue with the operation. If she were to... The hospital would have to...”

“Enough!” Jason cut her off. “No matter what happens, I’ll take full responsibility. Support me!”

Sally held the forceps in her hand tightly. It was not that she lacked compassion, but she really didn’t want Jason to continue.

A glass had pierced through a part of Fia’s heart. It was a very dangerous surgery.

Even after surgery, there was a high probability of infection. They needed a family member’s approval first.

However, Jason was ignoring it and wanting to continue with the surgery. He couldn’t even wait for someone to sign despite the nurse going out and trying to get it done not too long ago.

“We can wait for a few more minutes. As soon as someone signs, we can then...”

“No! She cannot wait!” Jason gritted his teeth as his voice shook. “Her mother passed away because of cancer, and she has no father. Conrad Maxwell was getting engaged with another woman this morning...”

He was worried that Conrad might not make it and Fia would immediately die on the surgery table.

Even he, who was normally calm and collected, didn't collapse as he held on to the last hope with his eyes turning red.

His gloves were stained with blood as he focused his vision on the injuries.

“Fia, don't give up.”

Chapter 276

Sally gulped and wanted to advise Jason to wait when footsteps could be heard.

The nurse who went out just now had come back with hope on her face.

“Doctor Hall, her family has signed the letter!”

Sally let out a sigh of relief and prepared herself. “Everyone, support Doctor Evans!”

“Is... Is she going to be alright?” Conrad stared at the door with his fists tightened.

Eileen looked at him angrily, “You can leave now!”

Conrad frowned. He was not in the mood to fight her.

“Go back to your engagement ceremony! Don't stay here and disgust Fia!”

Silas quietly walked over and said, “Ms. Reid, my boss promised to get engaged with Ms. Manning out of desperation.”

“Liar!” Eileen glared at Conrad with angry eyes. “Ever since Esme came back, all you've wanted to do is divorce Fia! You only made her stay because of the baby! Now that she has been locked up, you can divorce her openly! Everyone out there wouldn't say that you abandoned your original wife for a homewrecker! They would only think that Fia had committed a crime! Conrad Maxwell, you're so heartless!"

"No matter what you say, the engagement is just a strategy for me to slow things down."

"Ha!" Eileen let out a disgusted smile. "You work together with someone else to deal with a woman like her and say that the engagement is for her own good? Who would believe you?!"

Conrad scratched his head and kicked at the wall, irritated.

"I didn't!"

"You didn't believe Fia at all! All you do is protect that homewrecker! Lyn, show him the evidence!"

"Sure!" Lyn removed the backpack from her back only to stare at it with eyes wide. "Eileen..."

Eileen could hear something was wrong in her voice and she turned and looked..

A large opening had been cut from the backpack.

She quickly grabbed it and checked.

"Where're the documents? The evidence?!"

Lyn's face turned pale. She remembered how the media reporters were pushing her. She was worried that they would knock into Eileen, so she was focused on stopping her. She didn't pay attention to her backpack at all.

Conrad looked at how Eileen and her assistant reacted and asked curiously, "What evidence?"

Eileen suddenly raised her head and looked at him like he was some kind of a scoundrel.

"Did you send someone to do it?!"

“Last time when Lola was going to show you the evidence in her phone, everything was deleted! Now that you appeared, all the documents and pieces of evidence are gone!”

They were going to use it as evidence during the court case to prove Fia’s innocence and show what Esme really was like!

Because they had gathered them in a rush, they didn’t have the time to back them up just yet. They only had one, single copy.

“Lola?” There was disgust in his voice. “That woman can’t be counted on. All she did was make them fight! Her words mean nothing!”

“Conrad, are you still a man?!” Eileen’s rage was fully shown on her face. She was sure that Conrad was behind it all!

“What are you all yelling about?”

At this time, a cold voice came from behind her. Eileen looked at the person as she gritted her teeth.

Victor walked over with swag, his hands in his pockets.

He glanced at Eileen before going over to Conrad with a smile, “Congratulations, cousin.”

“Scram!” Conrad’s expression darkened.

“Hey, shouldn’t I congratulate you? You can have one to the left and one to the right! It’s a happy day! But

You haven’t divorce Fia, have you? Why are you getting engaged with another woman already? It’s a crime, you know?”

“Quiet!” After being accused by Eileen like that, his mind was in chaos. The only reason he endured her was because she was Fia’s only good friend.

But he could no longer hold it back when Victor provoked him and he quickly gave Victor a kick.

Chapter 277

“Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

“You have a death wish!” Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn't have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

“They have the same blood in their veins... They're both garbage.”

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn't dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

“Should we report our loss to the police?”

“After Fia's surgery,” Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn't think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I'm a gentleman. I won't fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I'm trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn't look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn’t move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I’ll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn’t hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. “Beat him, sir! I’ll hold him back!”

“...” In that instant, Conrad didn’t feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor’s chest and said, “Get rid of him!”

“What do you-” Victor couldn’t even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

“Get him out!” Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia's husband. One was Fia's best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same.

person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

"Jason." She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

"She's fine now. You saved her."

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, "Rest for a while. I'll speak with her family."

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn’t allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You’re lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That’s our first baby! The baby can’t just die like that! Where’s Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn’t have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad’s eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby’s life... is no more important than Fia’s life!”

“No... That’s not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn’t accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

“You can’t tell her.’

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn’t understand what he meant by that at that moment.

“Before she fully recovers, you can’t tell her. Otherwise, she won’t be able to bear it.”

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, "You heard me, doctor?"

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia's condition couldn't allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn't believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

"Do as he says, Doctor Hall."

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter's.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

"Jason, you're a doctor. Don't let your emotions get the better of you!"

"Let me go!" Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad's face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

"Which ward is Fia in?"

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, "Go with him, Ms. Reid."

"Sure." Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen's tears couldn't stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

"Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her."

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

"I didn't protect Esme. I didn't want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier."

"You think this is all a coincidence?" Eileen said with hate on her face. "This is all according to Esme's plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!"

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. "Don't make things up if you don't have any evidence."

"You're still protecting her even now?!"

"I'm not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!"

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

"Fia doesn't think about it that way. You think that you're doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character."

Conrad didn't want to continue the fight. "I need to go and do something. I'll send someone to watch over the hospital."

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 276

Chapter 276

Sally gulped and wanted to advise Jason to wait when footsteps could be heard.

The nurse who went out just now had come back with hope on her face.

“Doctor Hall, her family has signed the letter!”

Sally let out a sigh of relief and prepared herself. “Everyone, support Doctor Evans!”

“Is... Is she going to be alright?” Conrad stared at the door with his fists tightened.

Eileen looked at him angrily, “You can leave now!”

Conrad frowned. He was not in the mood to fight her.

“Go back to your engagement ceremony! Don’t stay here and disgust Fia!”

Silas quietly walked over and said, “Ms. Reid, my boss promised to get engaged with Ms. Manning out of desperation.”

“Liar!” Eileen glared at Conrad with angry eyes. “Ever since Esme came back, all you’ve wanted to do is divorce Fia! You only made her stay because of the baby! Now that she has been locked up, you can divorce her openly!”

Everyone out there wouldn't say that you abandoned your original wife for a homewrecker! They would only think that Fia had committed a crime! Conrad Maxwell, you're so heartless!"

"No matter what you say, the engagement is just a strategy for me to slow things down."

"Ha!" Eileen let out a disgusted smile. "You work together with someone else to deal with a woman like her and say that the engagement is for her own good? Who would believe you?!"

Conrad scratched his head and kicked at the wall, irritated.

"I didn't!"

"You didn't believe Fia at all! All you do is protect that homewrecker! Lyn, show him the evidence!"

"Sure!" Lyn removed the backpack from her back only to stare at it with eyes wide. "Eileen..."

Eileen could hear something was wrong in her voice and she turned and looked..

A large opening had been cut from the backpack.

She quickly grabbed it and checked.

"Where're the documents? The evidence?!"

Lyn's face turned pale. She remembered how the media reporters were pushing her. She was worried that they would knock into Eileen, so she was focused on stopping her. She didn't pay attention to her backpack at all.

Conrad looked at how Eileen and her assistant reacted and asked curiously, "What evidence?"

Eileen suddenly raised her head and looked at him like he was some kind of a scoundrel.

"Did you send someone to do it?!"

“Last time when Lola was going to show you the evidence in her phone, everything was deleted! Now that you appeared, all the documents and pieces of evidence are gone!”

They were going to use it as evidence during the court case to prove Fia’s innocence and show what Esme really was like!

Because they had gathered them in a rush, they didn’t have the time to back them up just yet. They only had one, single copy.

“Lola?” There was disgust in his voice. “That woman can’t be counted on. All she did was make them fight! Her words mean nothing!”

“Conrad, are you still a man?!” Eileen’s rage was fully shown on her face. She was sure that Conrad was behind it all!

“What are you all yelling about?”

At this time, a cold voice came from behind her. Eileen looked at the person as she gritted her teeth.

Victor walked over with swag, his hands in his pockets.

He glanced at Eileen before going over to Conrad with a smile, “Congratulations, cousin.”

“Scram!” Conrad’s expression darkened.

“Hey, shouldn’t I congratulate you? You can have one to the left and one to the right! It’s a happy day! But

You haven’t divorce Fia, have you? Why are you getting engaged with another woman already? It’s a crime, you know?”

“Quiet!” After being accused by Eileen like that, his mind was in chaos. The only reason he endured her was because she was Fia’s only good friend.

But he could no longer hold it back when Victor provoked him and he quickly gave Victor a kick.

Chapter 277

“Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

“You have a death wish!” Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn't have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

“They have the same blood in their veins... They're both garbage.”

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn't dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

“Should we report our loss to the police?”

“After Fia's surgery,” Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn't think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I'm a gentleman. I won't fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I'm trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn't look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn’t move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I’ll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn’t hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. “Beat him, sir! I’ll hold him back!”

“...” In that instant, Conrad didn’t feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor’s chest and said, “Get rid of him!”

“What do you-” Victor couldn’t even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

“Get him out!” Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia's husband. One was Fia's best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same.

person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

"Jason." She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

"She's fine now. You saved her."

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, "Rest for a while. I'll speak with her family."

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn’t allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You’re lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That’s our first baby! The baby can’t just die like that! Where’s Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn’t have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad’s eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby’s life... is no more important than Fia’s life!”

“No... That’s not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn’t accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

“You can’t tell her.’

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn’t understand what he meant by that at that moment.

“Before she fully recovers, you can’t tell her. Otherwise, she won’t be able to bear it.”

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, "You heard me, doctor?"

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia's condition couldn't allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn't believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

"Do as he says, Doctor Hall."

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter's.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

"Jason, you're a doctor. Don't let your emotions get the better of you!"

"Let me go!" Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad's face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

"Which ward is Fia in?"

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, "Go with him, Ms. Reid."

"Sure." Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen's tears couldn't stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

"Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her."

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

"I didn't protect Esme. I didn't want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier."

"You think this is all a coincidence?" Eileen said with hate on her face. "This is all according to Esme's plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!"

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. "Don't make things up if you don't have any evidence."

"You're still protecting her even now?!"

"I'm not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!"

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

"Fia doesn't think about it that way. You think that you're doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character."

Conrad didn't want to continue the fight. "I need to go and do something. I'll send someone to watch over the hospital."

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 277

Chapter 277

“Oh? Does this count as anger out of embarrassment ? Victor quickly moved away, and the sneer in his eyes became even more apparent.

“You have a death wish!” Conrad became a raging beast and immediately attacked him.

Victor didn’t have too many hobbies, but he liked to box and trained himself physically. The two of them. started fighting right in the corridor.

Eileen frowned but the interest in her eyes became brighter.

“They have the same blood in their veins... They’re both garbage.”

Lyn wanted to say something, but she didn’t dare to say anything. She was very regretful of losing all the documents.

“Should we report our loss to the police?”

“After Fia’s surgery,” Eileen said after she took a deep breath. She was very anxious and she couldn’t think straight.

The most important thing was for Fia to get out of the surgery theater safely. Everything else could wait.

All the two cared about was attacking each other. In the end, it was Silas who pushed them apart despite the risk. He got hit on his face by both of them.

“Whatever!” Victor said as he straightened his collars. “I’m a gentleman. I won’t fight with you anymore.”

“You trash!” Conrad cursed.

“We share the same surname. If I’m trash, you are not that different.” Victor let out a smile before approaching Eileen who was a few meters away.

Eileen saw him from her peripheral vision, but she didn’t look at him.

“Lyn, go back to the company. I need a few minutes with Eileen,” Victor said.

“Boss, she’s not in a good mood right now. I can’t leave her here alone,” Lyn said. She didn’t dare to look at Victor. While he looked like a gentleman, she knew that he was exactly like Fia’s husband. They were not good men.

They were even worse than barbarians.

In the past, she would also be attracted to these young, rich, bluebloods like all those innocent young women. But now, all she wanted to do was to maintain her distance.

What happened to Eileen and Fia was the best warning for her.

“Lyn, you’re the staff from my company. Not her personal staff,” Victor said threateningly as he narrowed his eyes.

Eileen suddenly remembered something and then dragged Lyn to the side.

She then said to her in a volume that only they could hear. “Lyn, go check the hospital’s security room. Tell them that because of a group of reporters here, we lost some valuables. Ask the people that have control over the security camera to show you the footage and see who stole my documents.”

Lyn quickly nodded and said, “Sure, I’ll go there right now.”

She quickly glanced at Victor and then held Eileen’s hand worryingly.

“Then, what about your side...”

“Don’t worry. He can’t do anything in broad daylight.”

“Then I’ll go and check right now. I’ll come back for you as soon as I’m done.”

Eileen shook her head and then whispered something into Lyn’s ears before patting on her shoulder.

“Careful, Lyn.”

“Don’t worry, Eileen. I’ll be fine. The driver’s with me.”

“Sure!”

After seeing her leave, Eileen looked at the door that was shut tightly. She prayed that Fia would be safe.

“What did you ask your assistant to do?” Victor asked in a whisper after he walked over to her.

Eileen pretended not to see him. She didn’t even want to look at him

“Eileen, is what the reporters said true?” His voice became low and angry.

Eileen gulped and said, “Boss, I’m still in my period of rest. I also don’t have time to waste talking with you.”

Victor laughed. “Worried that your best friend will die?”

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn't move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I'll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn't hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. “Beat him, sir! I'll hold him back!”

“...” In that instant, Conrad didn't feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor's chest and said, “Get rid of him!”

“What do you-” Victor couldn’t even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

“Get him out!” Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia’s husband. One was Fia’s best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

“Jason.” She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

“She’s fine now. You saved her.”

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, “Rest for a while. I’ll speak with her family.”

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn't allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You're lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That's our first baby! The baby can't just die like that! Where's Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn't have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad's eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby's life... is no more important than Fia's life!”

“No... That's not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn't accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

"You can't tell her."

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn't understand what he meant by that at that moment.

"Before she fully recovers, you can't tell her. Otherwise, she won't be able to bear it."

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, "You heard me, doctor?"

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia's condition couldn't allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn't believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

"Do as he says, Doctor Hall."

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter's.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

"Jason, you're a doctor. Don't let your emotions get the better of you!"

“Let me go!” Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad’s face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen’s tears couldn’t stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

“Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her.”

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

“I didn’t protect Esme. I didn’t want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier.”

“You think this is all a coincidence?” Eileen said with hate on her face. “This is all according to Esme’s plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!”

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. “Don’t make things up if you don’t have any evidence.”

“You’re still protecting her even now?!”

“I’m not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!”

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

"Fia doesn't think about it that way. You think that you're doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character."

Conrad didn't want to continue the fight. "I need to go and do something. I'll send someone to watch over the hospital."

"No thanks!" Eileen said with a cool expression. "Without you, we can take better care of her!"

"I'll come later."

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn't injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, "Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!"

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 278

Chapter 278

“Are you sick in the head?!” Eileen glared at him. How could he be so insolent?!

“Everyone has to die eventually. There’s nothing to it.” Victor let out a smile.

“You trash!” Conrad could feel the fire that had already extinguished in his heart begin to burn again when he heard what Victor said. “How dare you curse my wife?!”

He shouted and rushed over toward him.

Victor frowned when he saw how he rushed over. If he were to move away, he would ram into Eileen.

Eileen had accumulated quite a number of sicknesses during the past few years of acting. She would feel pain in her bones if she were hit even a little with how frail she was.

That was why he didn’t move away.

Bang!

The fist hit Victor in the face. Conrad held his collar and pressed him against the

“Why do you have to curse others to die?!”

“Ha, did I say a name?” Victor laughed despite being hit.

wall.

Eileen could only feel herself getting a headache when she saw how carefree he was.

“Silas!”

“Yes, Ms. Reid?” Silas said as he massaged his face. It was so painful that he could feel his teeth when he spoke.

“Help your boss and hold him against the wall. Teach him a lesson. Help him clean his mouth too!”

“Help me clean my mouth?” Victor let out a laugh as if he had heard a joke. “I’ll free you if you can help me clean my mouth in a very intimate manner!”

“Beat him!” Eileen said angrily.

Silas remembered how he got hit twice just now. He couldn't hit his own boss, but he could always hit the other person.

He quickly rushed over and pressed Victor against the wall before saying to his boss excitedly. "Beat him, sir! I'll hold him back!"

"..." In that instant, Conrad didn't feel like beating him anymore.

He hurled a fist at Victor's chest and said, "Get rid of him!"

"What do you-" Victor couldn't even finish his words when something was stuffed into his mouth.

He stared at Eileen with eyes so white that his eyes almost fell off.

"Get him out!" Eileen said to Silas.

Silas quickly used the opportunity while Victor was feeling disgusted with the thing in his mouth and twisted his arms behind him. He tied his hands using his necktie after he removed it and then escorted him away.

After Victor was gone, the place became much quieter.

Conrad looked at Eileen strangely while Eileen simply gave him a glance.

One was Fia's husband. One was Fia's best friend.

They would always fight with each other whenever they met. It was the first time they targeted the same person.

Three hours later, Jason left the operating table. When he reached the door, his legs gave way.

He grabbed at the sterile setup table before suddenly collapsing to the ground.

After Sally was done with all the follow-ups, she removed her scrubs as she walked toward the door.

She saw Jason gasping for air with his back against the table. He was like a fish out of water.

“Jason.” She walked over and got something out of her pocket. It was a glucose drink.

Jason raised his head, his face pale. He raised his hand to take the glucose drink from Sally, his hand still shaking.

There was pain in his eyes. He had just wanted to put down his hand when Sally stuffed the drink into his hand.

“She’s fine now. You saved her.”

Jason nodded with his eyes wet, holding the drink tightly.

No one knew how he was able to hold on through the entire surgery.

He had never been this afraid even during his residency.

Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, “Rest for a while. I’ll speak with her family.”

“Sure,” Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater’s door opened.

“Doctor Hall!” Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

“The patient has been saved, but she’ll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward.”

Eileen was stunned and asked, “Then, the baby...”

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

“I’m sorry.”

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

“Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

“With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak.”

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn't allow him to get into further trouble.

“You lie!” Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. “You're lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That's our first baby! The baby can't just die like that! Where's Jason

Evans? I want to see him!”

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn't have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad's eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby's life... is no more important than Fia's life!”

“No... That’s not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn’t accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

“You can’t tell her.’

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn’t understand what he meant by that at that moment.

“Before she fully recovers, you can’t tell her. Otherwise, she won’t be able to bear it.”

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, “You heard me, doctor?”

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia’s condition couldn’t allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn’t believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

“Do as he says, Doctor Hall.”

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter’s.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

“Jason, you’re a doctor. Don’t let your emotions get the better of you!”

“Let me go!” Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad’s face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen’s tears couldn’t stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

“Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her.”

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

“I didn’t protect Esme. I didn’t want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier.”

“You think this is all a coincidence?” Eileen said with hate on her face. “This is all according to Esme’s plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!”

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. “Don’t make things up if you don’t have any evidence.”

“You’re still protecting her even now?!”

“I’m not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!”

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn’t matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

“The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn’t want to betray her!”

“You didn’t want to know the truth?” Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

“The truth doesn’t matter anymore as long as this can be solved!”

“Fia doesn’t think about it that way. You think that you’re doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character.”

Conrad didn’t want to continue the fight. “I need to go and do something. I’ll send someone to watch over the hospital.”

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 279

Sally could see the fear in his eyes and she said to him gently, "Rest for a while. I'll speak with her family."

"Sure," Jason said as he gritted his teeth. He hated Conrad even more than ever.

The surgery theater's door opened.

"Doctor Hall!" Both Conrad and Eileen walked to her.

Sally gave Conrad a glance and then focused her eyes on Eileen.

"The patient has been saved, but she'll need to stay in the ICU for the time being. Once her condition stabilizes, we can then move her to a normal ward."

Eileen was stunned and asked, "Then, the baby..."

That was also what Conrad wanted to ask about.

"I'm sorry."

Sally took in a deep breath and remembered the pressure Jason was under during the entire surgery.

"Ms. Reid, since you came to the hospital, you know what was happening at the time..

"With an accident like that, no pregnant woman would be able to protect the baby inside of her. Not to mention that Fia had had multiple signs of placental abruption before this. She was already quite weak."

She knew that some things could be very cruel, but she had to say it.

Jason started the operation before her family had signed the letter. If the director knew about this, he would be in a lot of trouble. She couldn't allow him to get into further trouble.

"You lie!" Conrad was stunned for several seconds before grabbing Sally by the collar. "You're lying! Did Jason Evans ask you to say that?! That's our first baby! The baby can't just die like that! Where's Jason Evans? I want to see him!"

“What are you doing?!” Eileen screamed as she almost collapsed, her tears streaming down her face.

She lifted her hand and gave Conrad a slap.

“This is all your fault! If you protected her, she wouldn’t have to suffer through all this!”

“I want to see Jason Evans!” Conrad’s eyes were red and so was his face. He looked a lot like an angry lion.

Sally was almost out of breath, but she was not afraid. Instead, she continued in an even more judgmental tone. “Fia was severely injured from the accident. A piece of glass had plunged itself into her heart. It was Doctor Evans that stole her life back from Death!

“If all you want is a child, you can just find some random woman to give you one! The baby’s life... is no more important than Fia’s life!”

“No... That’s not what I mean.” Conrad instantly fell into confusion. It was not that he only cared about the baby and not about Fia.

He suddenly realized something. Fia had asked him a lot of times if he wanted a baby. She must have wanted a child a lot.

But the baby was gone. He couldn’t accept it. Not to mention she was the mother.

The baby was inside of her for two months, and she accompanied the baby all this while...

He let go of Sally and tears began to roll down his face.

“You can’t tell her.’

Both Sally and Eileen looked at Conrad in shock. They didn’t understand what he meant by that at that moment.

“Before she fully recovers, you can’t tell her. Otherwise, she won’t be able to bear it.”

Conrad wiped his tears away and returned to his calm and terrifying self.

He glared at Sally like the Reaper himself and said, “You heard me, doctor?”

Sally frowned. She had seen plenty of mothers who had lost their children. They would all be saddened by the news, but Fia’s condition couldn’t allow her to become so emotional.

But she didn’t believe that they could deceive Fia for long.

“Do as he says, Doctor Hall.”

At this time, Jason walked out of the operation theater. After drinking some glucose drinks, he looked much better.

He glared at Conrad with a terrifying aura that was not any lesser than the latter’s.

He walked over to him with his fist tightened.

-Sally turned around and saw something in his eyes. She then quickly pulled him away.

“Jason, you’re a doctor. Don’t let your emotions get the better of you!”

“Let me go!” Jason said coldly as he glared at Conrad’s face.

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen's tears couldn't stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

"Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her."

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

"I didn't protect Esme. I didn't want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier."

"You think this is all a coincidence?" Eileen said with hate on her face. "This is all according to Esme's plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!"

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. "Don't make things up if you don't have any evidence."

"You're still protecting her even now?!"

"I'm not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!"

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn't matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

"The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn't want to betray her!"

"You didn't want to know the truth?" Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

"The truth doesn't matter anymore as long as this can be solved!"

“Fia doesn’t think about it that way. You think that you’re doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character.”

Conrad didn’t want to continue the fight. “I need to go and do something. I’ll send someone to watch over the hospital.”

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad’s baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

“If you don’t want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!”

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 280

Chapter 280

Conrad knew what Jason wanted to do. Normally, he would be more than happy to oblige.

But there was nothing more important to him now than to visit Fia.

“Which ward is Fia in?”

Sally quickly told them and said to Eileen, “Go with him, Ms. Reid.”

“Sure.” Eileen thankfully looked at Jason and Sally before chasing after Conrad to visit Fia.

Outside the ICU ward, they could see Fia lying inside behind a heavy glass window pane, wearing an oxygen mask with tube after tube connected to her body.

Eileen’s tears couldn’t stop as she placed both her hands on the window, as if she could touch her and console her.

“Conrad Maxwell... That is how the person that you protected harmed her.”

Conrad tightened his fists as his veins popped. She was still alright yesterday, but she was lying in the ICU ward today.

“I didn’t protect Esme. I didn’t want Fia to go through all of this too. If I had known something like this would happen, I would have picked her up earlier.”

“You think this is all a coincidence?” Eileen said with hate on her face. “This is all according to Esme’s plans. She would hurt herself first, send Fia into the station, and then... The car accident!”

Conrad frowned and looked at Eileen coldly. “Don’t make things up if you don’t have any evidence.”

“You’re still protecting her even now?!”

“I’m not protecting her! When I got there, I saw how they were beating Esme up! If I was one step late, no one would know what happened next!”

When Conrad remembered how Fia acknowledged that she gave them the money, it didn’t matter why she did that. It was already enough for her to bear a portion of that responsibility.

Not to mention that they testified that Fia gave them the money to beat Esme to death.

“The reason I got engaged with Esme was so that the Mannings would stop pursuing this! I didn’t want to betray her!”

“You didn’t want to know the truth?” Eileen looked at Conrad, disappointed.

“The truth doesn’t matter anymore as long as this can be solved!”

“Fia doesn’t think about it that way. You think that you’re doing everything for her own good. But what you did was simply hurt her and tarnish her character.”

Conrad didn’t want to continue the fight. “I need to go and do something. I’ll send someone to watch over the hospital.”

“No thanks!” Eileen said with a cool expression. “Without you, we can take better care of her!”

“I’ll come later.”

After Conrad left the hospital, he went to the traffic department to find the footage of when the accident happened.

When he saw the truck ram into the car Fia was in, he left in fury.

He would not simply let this be!

The truck driver wasn’t injured that heavily. He suffered some injury on the head and had a shock. He would think of things as he lay in the hospital bed.

Bang!

The door was kicked open.

He was so shocked that he cried out, “Who is it? Who wants to kill me?!”

The man was wearing a black suit and a darkness covered his handsome face. He walked over without saying a word and placed the tip of the baseball bat in his hand under his chin.

“Who... Who are you? What do you want?”

“Be honest with me. Why did your truck crash into that car!”

There was nervousness in the old driver’s eyes.

“I don’t know what happened! My truck suddenly lost control.”

When he heard the approaching footsteps behind him, Conrad said coldly, “Check if his truck lost control.”

Silas quietly nodded and said, “We did the investigation. It didn’t go through its yearly check, so it did have some problems.”

However, sensing the terror from Conrad’s eyes, he didn’t believe him at all.

He raised his baseball bat and then swung it down with power.

“Ah! Don’t kill me...!” The old driver screamed. He could hear a giant thump from the spot just next to his

ear. He almost fainted.

He blinked and realized that he felt no pain. He was somewhat confused.

Conrad's baseball hit the wall right next to his bed. A large spot had a huge dent.

"If you don't want your family to get hurt, you better explain everything!"