

Chapter 627 A Sudden Counterattack

The following day for mining was fast approaching. Although Yusuf was awake, he wasn't fully recovered. Mehdi remained by his side.

Today, still only three members of the resource team would be on patrol duty.

Aaron said in his usual manner, "The plan remains the same as before. Javen, you'll be paired with Fiona, and I'll patrol alone. Any issues?"

Recalling Liam's advice, Fiona immediately voiced her objection. "I disagree! I don't want to be paired with Javen today!"

Noticing Fiona's strong reaction, Aaron gave Liam an awkward smile. He then took Fiona aside and whispered, "Didn't you two work well together last time? What is going on?"

Feigning shyness, Fiona replied, "Mr. Montgomery, I've noticed that Javen has been tailing me lately. I think he might have ulterior motives. I can't stand the sight of him now. I definitely don't want to patrol with him!"

Aaron glanced at Liam in astonishment.

After pondering for a moment and seeing Fiona's persistence, Aaron turned to Liam. "Javen, Fiona has her reasons. Would you be willing to patrol alone today?"

Liam mentally commended Fiona for her act, unaware that he had been made out to be a creep in her description.

With Liam offering no resistance, Aaron promptly declared the start of the mission, and both groups set off separately.

Once out of Aaron's view, Liam abandoned his patrol duties.

Reaching a hillside, he encountered a group of armed men, Mehdi's men. Liam successfully met up with them.

Those who arrived to assist were already under Mehdi's orders and would now follow Liam's lead.

"Stay put and await my signal," Liam commanded.

He then proceeded towards the eastern patrol area, avoiding the main path and opting for the They'd tried to corner him twice before, and Liam knew they were anxious. He was confident they'd make another attempt today.

In recent days, Liam had identified potential ambush points along the eastern path. Now, all he had to do was check them in order.

Finally, lurking in the shadows, Liam spotted some people lying in wait for an ambush.

Their attire was the same as before, unmistakably marking them as members of the Black Spider.

No doubt, their intentions toward Fiona hadn't changed.

Alertness surged through Liam as he moved cautiously closer.

From past skirmishes, Liam knew well that the Black Spider's ambush team wasn't individually strong. They relied on sheer numbers and firepower.

A surprise attack like this might succeed, but if the Dark Night Organization were prepared, Black Spider wouldn't stand a chance.

And this time, they were up against a prepared

Liam.

In a flash, Liam was already behind them.

Suddenly, Liam muffled a man's scream with his hand and swiftly snapped his neck, killing him without raising alarm.

With their large numbers, it should have been obvious if they clustered together. Now that they were dispersed, none detected Liam as he struck down the first man.

Continuing on, Liam silently killed more Black Spider members.

Most of the men in the rear of the formation had fallen to Liam's silent onslaught.

That was when they sensed something amiss.

Liam heard someone yell, "Damn it! We've lost a bunch of our guys!"

Realizing they were now alert, Liam abandoned his stealth. He had already mapped out the enemy's positions during his initial attack, so he swiftly pulled out a silenced pistol.

The suppressed gun spit fire repeatedly, its muted shots echoing softly.

Before any of them could retaliate, they were met with fatal shots to the head from Liam.

A smirk crossed Liam's face. The first phase of his plan was a success.

He had been discreet not just for effect, but to avoid alerting Aaron. Confident that Aaron, patrolling a different hill, remained oblivious, Liam felt a step closer to victory.
