

An Understated Dominance By Marina Vittori

Chapter 1845

If Albert continues to say this, I am afraid it will shake the morale of the army.

"This..."

Generals of the Black Dragon Army, they looked at each others, they seem a little hesitant.

You must know that Albert was also the general of the Black Dragon Army at that time, and his majesty was second only to the prince Rufus Rhys.

Later, after the West was pacified, Albert lived in seclusion behind the scenes.

But some veterans still remember Albert's great achievements and are in awe from the bottom of their hearts.

"What? Are you all deaf? Are you still disobeying orders?!"

Dustin Kate said, suddenly took out the marshal's military talisman, raised it above his head, and shouted: "The military talisman is here, let me see who dares to disobey the order?!"

"Take orders! "

Seeing Dustin Kate take out his military talisman, all the soldiers no longer hesitated, drew their swords and surrounded Albert.

Albert stood with his hands behind his back, his expression indifferent, not afraid at all.

"The prince is here! Who dares to be so arrogant!"

At this moment, a loud shout suddenly exploded out of thin air.

Its momentum was like thunder, rolling away and shocking the entire audience.

The hearts of all the soldiers trembled, and they subconsciously stopped and looked at the sound.

Then, a scene that shocked everyone happened.

At the door of the palace, a middle-aged man wearing a python robe slowly walked out with his hands behind his back.

The middle-aged man was a bit stooped and walked with a limp. He did not have any dignity or strong aura about him.

If the python robe hadn't made him look extraordinary, he would have thought he was just an ordinary farmer.

However, as soon as this middle-aged man who looked like a farmer appeared, everyone fell silent.

Everyone's eyes widened with horror on their faces.

Because the person who appeared was the King of West Lucozia, Rufus Rhys, who had come back from the dead!

"Prince...Prince?"

Looking at that familiar face, Princess Elara couldn't help but be stunned and in disbelief.

She clearly saw that the prince was dead, why was he still standing alive now.

what happened?

Is she... not dreaming?

"Dad?"

Thorian Rhys was also stunned, and the knife in his hand fell to the ground.

In order to confirm the authenticity, he also rubbed his eyes to prevent his eyesight.

"Oh my God! Didn't the prince pass away? Could it be that he saw a ghost?"

Cornelius Ao, Zhou Bo, and Wen Shun looked at each other in shock.

They saw Rufus Rhys's body with their own eyes last night. He was clearly lifeless. How come he was alive again today?

Is it a resurrection of a dead body?

"Brother...brother?"

Dustin Kate stood there as if struck by lightning, sweating on his forehead, and his whole body began to tremble uncontrollably.

He had been suppressed by Rufus Rhys all his life, and there had long been a shadow in his heart.

When he heard the news of Rufus Rhys's death, he was ecstatic.

After so many years, he finally got through it.

It felt like being reborn.

So he immediately launched a plan to seize the throne, preparing to ride on the wind and seize the military power of West Lucozia in one fell swoop.

Because he knew that without Rufus Rhys's suppression, he would be invincible.

Originally, the plan went smoothly.

With the military talisman in hand, the palace was surrounded, and even the princess began to kneel down and beg for mercy.

He is only one step away from sitting on the throne and achieving great glory.

However, he never expected that at this most critical moment, Rufus Rhys would come back from the dead!

Why? Why is this happening?

He was dead, how can they still live? !