

The Wolf's Bride by Coffee's Tea Chapter 719 -

Chapter 719

Luna went back and prepared for the birthday charity lunch the next day with her father.

1/2

In the garage, Andrius' expression darkened when he saw the news online. "Damn you, Registus!"

He understood the strength of the Western Nations and the combat prowess of the Lycantroops.

Just as he told Dax, the Lycantroops were more than capable of handling any problems on the western border as long as no one intentionally sabotaged them. Even if all the countries emptied out their resources, they would be no match against the Lycantroops, much less cross the borders!

However, that was exactly what happened.

That could only mean one thing.

Registus deliberately played dirty tricks and caused the Lycantroops to suffer defeat.

He was willing to sacrifice the country's territory and the lives of the soldiers just to force Andrius out of hiding and obstruct his investigation into the Klein massacre.

"Registus Ohger!" An icy glint flickered in Andrius' bright eyes like falling stars and collapsing suns. "Since you've gone this far, don't blame me for being unkind!"

"If you want to use this method to force my hand, I have ways to counter it!"

At most, he would just take up the mantle of the Wolf King again.

Then, he would have the Black Hawk, Elmer, and Fergus continue to investigate secretly.

That way, he could consider both the interests of the country without delaying the investigation into the Klein tragedy. It was a win–win situation!

At that thought, Andrius immediately made a video call to the Black Hawk. “Black Hawk, the situation is urgent now. I need to step forward and take control of the Lycantroops, so the investigation into the Kleins’ treasure and the massacre will be handled by you, Elmer, and Fergus.”

His tone was very serious.

The Black Hawk’s voice was quite relaxed. “No problem, but...”

He chuckled and said, “Andrius, since Registus decided to fall out with you, he must have many tricks planned. You’d best be careful. Don’t die just as I find the treasure, or I’ll take all of it for myself.”

Andrius laughed and said nothing.

Die...

Registus would not be enough to kill him.

They ended the call.

Andrius looked to the west, his gaze turning cold. He did not know who those clowns in the west must have listened to for them to dare try and attack Florence. They must have a death wish!

This time, Andrius wanted to settle things once and for all and eliminate all future problems!

Ring, ring, ring.

Just then, a call from Sonia came. “Mr. Moonshade, tomorrow is Master Crestfall’s 70th birthday. Ms.

Chat

Crestfall just came to Celestial Enterprise to invite you to the charity lunch hosted by the Crestfalls. It’ll be held at the Grand Ocean Hotel in Sumeria. They plan to donate all the proceeds to the Lycantroops.”

Andrius raised his brows. He did not expect Belarus to still care about the war even at 70 and use his position to contribute one last time.

How admirable!

Andrius respected Belarus' approach and agreed decisively, "Tell them that I'll be there tomorrow."

He had already decided.

After dealing with everything in Sumeria, he would head to the western border.

He would raise the Wolf King's banner again!

He would lead the army and fight against those cretins from the Western Nations. This charity lunch would be a final farewell!