Chapter 1577

Steven was struck dumb, as if by a bolt from the blue, and it took him a while to regain his composure. He sent a friend request, [Hannah, why did you delete me again?]

[Hannah, add me back on WhatsApp. Can we talk this out?]

[Hannah, you said last night that you would treat me better.]

[Hannah, you can't just go back on your word.]

[Hannah.]

Without any response to his first request, Steven sent two, three, and up to a hundred messages, yet still received no reply from Hannah. He finally realized that when a woman turned cold, she could be even more ruthless than a man.

He felt relieved that he had taken precautions, ensuring that even if they had been intimate during Hannah's ovulation period, she couldn't get pregnant. After a while, once Hannah was sure she wasn't pregnant, she would need him again.e2

But then, a terrifying thought flashed in Steven's mind. What if Hannah didn't conceive a child this time and questioned his fertility, and she went to get another man to have a baby...

The thought sent a chill down his spine. He immediately grabbed his phone and dialed Rick's number, "Rick, listen to me. Tell the guys you've got watching Hannah. They need to report back to me if she's seen with any man. If they miss even one, you're out."

Rick answered, "Yes, Mr. Steven, I'll take care of it."

Thank God, he wasn't being asked to come back to work immediately. He was still at his fiancée's house, trying to win over his future in-laws, who weren't entirely pleased with him so far. He had to keep trying, and he couldn't leave now.

But just as Rick thought this, Steven called again, "Get over to Haines, now."

Rick replied, "President Dixon, I'm still at my future in-laws' place, trying to make a good impression." "My wife doesn't want me anymore, and you want to get married?"

Rick was speechless. What kind of boss was he dealing with here?

He prayed that his boss would win his wife back soon. Otherwise, he too would be destined to remain a bachelor forever.

On New Year's Day.

Hannah flew solo to Riverton. Cornelia personally drove to the airport to pick her up.

Hannah emerged from the VIP exit, heavily disguised, but Cornelia recognized her instantly, "Hi, Hannah, over here."

Hannah looked around to make sure there were no fans waiting to greet her, then smiled and walked towards Cornelia, "I feel very honored that the wife of the CEO, of Artis Group came to pick me up."

Cornelia laughed, "There are many people who would die for the chance to pick you up, Hannah. I'm just the lucky one."

After that, they both burst into laughter.

Hannah opened her arms and hugged Cornelia, "There's no one else here. Who are we trying to impress?"

Cornelia took her small suitcase, "Let's get in the car, I'm taking you out for dinner."
