

Chapter 734 A Crushing Defeat

In a villa in Invone.

All the members of the Dark Night Organization had gathered. Even guards who had been sent on mission were all back.

With his hands clasped behind his back, Sergio ordered his troop, "Listen carefully, everyone. Almost all the forces of the Duncan family have come to Invone. Now, we have a chance to take them all down."

"Yes, sir!"

With that, they all went out and got ready for their attack.

Half an hour later, with wounds all over his body, Liam rushed into the villa with Javier. He stopped in his tracks after he entered and found an empty house. Sergio was nowhere to be found.

Liam's heart raced as he realized with horror that they must have already gone for the attack.

Upon hearing noise downstairs, Theo who had stayed back rushed down and saw Liam.

Seeing him, Liam hurriedly asked, "Where's Grandpa?"

"Has the action begun already?"

Theo nodded, and knew that something was wrong when Liam's face dramatically changed. Liam quickly told Theo about the current strength of the Duncan family.

Theo's face fell as Liam explained what happened. If Liam's report was accurate, then the Hoffman family was going to its own grave.

Unfortunately, it was too late to stop them.

In the Ramirez family's house.

Having finished with his mission for the day, Rohan prepared to leave. Sergio's men showed up out of nowhere and besieged the house.

"Get rid of them!" Sergio ordered in a cold voice.

At his order, the members of the Dark Night Organization rushed in from all directions, firing at their enemies as they did so.

The sound of rifles was deafening and flames soared into the sky.

Being well-trained, Rohan's troops didn't take long to fall back in defence and got ready to fight back.

Fire had just ceased in the ruins of the Ramirez family's house, and now, there was a bigger explosion as the flames went up one after the other.

Like in a typical battlefield, new corpses were piled up on the corpses that were already there. The house smelled like death with dead bodies everywhere. It was like hell on earth.

Rohan's troops were all professional soldiers, but the Dark Night Organization was quite terrifying with all their training over the years.

Till now, the Dark Night Organization had the upper hand, getting rid of Rohan's men one by one and closing in on them.

In a bunker in the ruins, Rohan watched the bloody scene with a serious expression. However, there was no semblance of panic on his face.

He gnashed his teeth and said coldly, "It seems that Hoffman family's strength has grown in recent years. Unfortunately, it hasn't grown enough to defeat me."

That said, Rohan picked up the rifle beside him and strode out of the bunker firing at the men of the Dark Night Organization.

The Four Great Steelmen followed closely behind Rohan. The five of them rampaged through the battlefield as if they were walking through an empty space.

The situation was reversed in the blink of an eye.

Numerically, Rohan's troops and the Dark Night Organization were almost on the same plain.

However, with Rohan and the Four Great Steelmen, the numbers didn't matter as they were much more powerful.

"Damn it! Fire on those five!"

The members of the Dark Night Organization soon understood the power of the five people walking through the battlefield.

Rohan's troops once again got confident. They seized the opportunity to break through the attack of the Dark Night Organization, got out of their covers and began to counterattack.

Half an hour later, the gunshots gradually subsided.

Among the broken walls and ruins, Rohan's army was slowly advancing and closing in on their opposition.

Almost all of Sergio's men were decimated at this point.

The rest of the Dark Night Organization's forces stood firmly and protected Sergio who was behind them.

Sergio's heart was heavy as he watched his men fall one after the other.

After more than 20 years of experience and growth, he had misjudged the Duncan family. He had underestimated them, and that had led to today's failure.

Rohan slowly walked over with a sneer. "Grandpa, I,

Rohan, was born in Invone. My family got destroyed when I was a teenager. I was trapped in Kuba for 20 years and couldn't come back. But now, here I am, finally back."

Sergio replied coldly, "It'd have been better if you stayed where you were and never came back. You'll still end up right where you started, in your old stomping grounds."

Rohan laughed wildly and said mockingly, "You're so funny, Grandpa. Even in your situation, you still think you have the luxury to be stubborn. In that case, I will let you live to see how I bring to dust all the four major clans of Invone. Only one major clan will exist, and that will be the Duncan family."