

Chapter 1562 Seduction

Audrey was livid at Brandon's indifferent and arrogant attitude, but she had to upkeep her delicacy and innocence. Clenching her fists, she pushed through with her plan.

Looking at Brandon behaving so aloof, she deliberately pushed her laptop towards him and approached him covertly.

As it wasn't enough to attract Brandon's attention, she lifted the corner of her dress and revealed her captivating legs. Slowly stretching towards Brandon, she asked with a charming smile, "Brandon, what do you think?"

Meanwhile, Janet watched in annoyance as Audrey seduced Brandon. She sat next to Brandon and glared at Audrey intently.

Her sixth sense told her that this so-called cousin was suspicious, as she saw a hint of jealousy in Audrey's eyes when she entered the room, an emotion no cousin should have towards their in-laws.

As Janet expected, in just a short while, Audrey had skilfully slid up to Brandon, almost pressing herself against him. Her approach was quiet, and most of her legs were exposed.

This was unbecoming of a cousin and obviously how a woman would behave when she wanted to seduce a man!

Janet felt her temper rising. She stood up and stared down at Audrey.

Startled, Audrey looked up at Janet and quickly pulled her legs away. She smiled sheepishly and asked, "What's... What's wrong?"

Brandon was confused by Janet's sudden outburst. He held her hand and looked at her curiously.

Janet brushed off his hand and walked naturally between Audrey and Brandon, forcefully parting them. "Nothing. I'm just interested in Miss Larson's plan. Let me have a look," she said with a smile.

Purposely pushing Audrey aside, Janet sat down and added, "Let me see how amazing Miss Larson's statement is."

Audrey's smile stiffened when Janet jostled her away. However, she couldn't lose her temper in front of Brandon. Instead, she said sarcastically, "Miss White, aren't you a designer? I don't think PR is your forte, right?"

"Miss Larson, since you are Brandon's cousin, shouldn't you call me Janet or Mrs. Larson? Why are you calling me Miss White? Do you have anything against me?"

It never occurred to Audrey that a gentle woman like Janet would be so brazen. She scoffed and mumbled, "Janet, don't misunderstand..."

Janet smiled in satisfaction, but she didn't say anything.

She realized that this so-called cousin was not only hostile towards her but also refused to acknowledge her as Brandon's wife!

Audrey's heart skipped a beat when she noticed Janet's cold smile and meaningful silence. She looked at Brandon and said pitifully, "Brandon, please help me explain to Janet. I didn't mean to address her wrongly. I just blurted it out subconsciously..."

However, Brandon didn't seem to notice Audrey's words. Instead, he held Janet's waist and pulled her into his arms. "If you want to see what it's about, I'll help you get your reading glass. Don't go so near the screen. It will strain your eyes," he said to Janet gently.

Janet's anger immediately disappeared with Brandon's gentle tone. Suddenly, her face flushed as she was not used to being intimate in front of outsiders. Lowering her eyes, she nodded.
