

An Understated Dominance By Marina Vittori

Chapter 1952

This is undoubtedly bad news from heaven.

"Miss Margaret! How could this happen? Where did these gerbils come from?" Leo Alexander stepped forward and asked.

"Captain Leo, I should ask you this question, right?"

Margaret said in an indifferent tone: "You have been to the Death Desert many times and know the environment here very well. You also chose the camping location last night. Could it be that you don't know, are there gerbils in this place?"

"Miss Margaret, I really didn't expect this to happen."

Leo Alexander quickly explained: "Normally, gerbils only appear on the edge of the death desert, and there will be a fixed activity area, and the location we chose is not within the activity range of the gerbil group at all, so we should not be attacked."

"Miss Margaret, there are always accidents. If you enter the desert of death, we should be prepared to deal with various changes. Our captain has tried his best. No one expected that there would be a group of gerbils here. If you want to blame, you can only blame your own people for not looking at the supplies." The short-haired woman from the Black Scorpion team began to complain. .

"That's right!"

The bald man next to him agreed: "The people guarding the supplies are all your subordinates. If something happens, don't blame us."

"Uncle Wang, who are the people guarding the supplies? Call them all over. ." Margaret said coldly.

"Yes!"

Uncle Wang responded and left quickly.

Not long after, he led a team member, stepped forward again, and reported: "Miss, the five of them are on duty tonight."

"What's going on? Why didn't the problem be discovered in time?" Margaret's tone was very serious. Calm, but also very cold.

This mission was crucial, related to the fate of the Dragonmarsh Kingdom, and she would never allow her subordinates to slack off in the slightest.

"Miss, we... fell asleep." The team leader said with a guilty look on his face.

"Asleep?" Margaret raised an eyebrow: "All five of you are asleep?"

"Yes."

The team leader lowered his head: "I don't know what happened, but not long after dark, we felt very tired, and fell asleep in a daze. The five of us who were attacked by the gerbils this time were negligent in our duties, and we are willing to accept the punishment!"

As he said that, the five of them knelt on the ground, looking like they were waiting to be killed. .

As soldiers, their negligence caused irreparable losses, and they could only apologize with death.

"This matter is weird, and you are not entirely responsible."

Margaret frowned slightly, showing a thoughtful expression.

The people she brought out this time were all well-trained elites who could stay up for three days and three nights without any problem.

If one person falls asleep, it can also be explained by laziness and dereliction of duty.

But it is obviously impossible for five people to be lazy at the same time.

The most important thing is that as soon as the five people fell asleep, the gerbil group started to carry out sneak attacks. The timing before and after was really a coincidence.

It was such a coincidence that she had to wonder if someone was doing something secretly?

"Uncle Wang, take a few teams and check the surroundings carefully to see if there is anything abnormal? Remember, no clues can be missed!" Margaret immediately gave the order.

"Yes!"

Uncle Wang reacted quickly and immediately ordered people to search everywhere.

Judging from the tone of my lady's voice, I knew that this matter should not be simple.

"Miss, I found something!"

After about a stick of incense, Uncle Wang ran over quickly holding a bunch of black objects in his hands.
