

An Understated Dominance By Marina Vittori

Chapter 1961

If you are not careful, you may die unexpectedly.

The series of struggles just now are the best example.

"Oh my god! Was the giant python just killed like this?"

"Although the giant python is powerful, it's a pity that it met its natural enemy."

"It's terrible! Even such a powerful giant python was killed in an instant. With an instant kill, wouldn't we be more in danger?!"

Looking at the mess on the ground, everyone was shocked and even more uneasy.

It's so cruel and dangerous here.

There's no telling when they will become the prey of strange beasts.

And there is a high probability that they will die in an unknown manner.

At this moment, they finally understood why Alexis Walter was so frightened that he went insane before.

Facing such a dangerous and terrifying place, even a normal person cannot bear it.

The key is, this is only the first half of the night. No one knows whether more powerful monsters will appear in the second half of the night?

"It seems that this place is more dangerous than we expected." Kevin Snow sighed, his face a little more solemn.

"As the saying goes, wealth can be found in danger. If it is not dangerous, how can we share those rare treasures?" Billy Ruso looked calm.

With his strength, even against the black giant eagle just now, he can still win, so there is nothing to worry about.

"Be afraid, we are destined to hunt for treasures, but not to enjoy them." Kevin Snow shook his head.

Thanks to their large numbers and strength, Billy Ruso, a martial arts master, was in charge.

If a disciple of the Golden Blade Sect went deep alone, he would probably suffer heavy losses if he encountered some terrifying monster.

"Everyone, you should not stay here for a long time. Pack your things and leave here quickly, and then find another hiding place." Margaret issued a warning.

There was a lot of movement just now, and it might attract other monsters. Moreover, the smell of blood here is very strong. The longer you stay, the more dangerous it will be.

For safety reasons, the position must be moved.

"Why are you still standing there? Didn't you hear what Miss Margaret said? Get moving immediately!" Kevin Snow shouted.

He ordered the disciples of the Golden Blade Sect to start packing their luggage.

"Damn it! If I had known it was so dangerous, I should have quit during the day!"

Someone in the team backed down.

"Okay, don't say these depressing words. With Senior Brother here, and so many masters here, we will definitely be able to go back safely!" Another man in yellow comforted him.

However, as soon as he finished speaking, there was only a "pop" sound.

A tree vine as sharp as a sword suddenly sprang out from the ground and pierced his chest with lightning speed.

This tree vine penetrated from the back and passed through the chest very smoothly without any obstruction, as if a knife was cutting through tofu.

"Uh..."

The man in yellow shuddered and froze.

His eyes widened and he looked down at the vines passing through his chest, his face full of disbelief.

What just happened?

Where did this tree vine come from?

The man in yellow turned his head stiffly, trying to see clearly what was attacking him.

As a result, in the next second, there was another series of sounds of flesh breaking, and more vines shot out, pricking it with holes.

The man in yellow tilted his head and died on the spot.

Until his death, he never expected that what he just said would actually become his last words.
