

Chapter 784 Love Confession

Liam, seething with rage, didn't reply. He resorted to direct physical action, delivering a punch.

At that moment, disdain marked Bryan's expression; he didn't take Liam seriously, attempting to control him with a casual palm strike.

Boom!

A resounding impact occurred when Bryan's palm met Liam's fist, causing sharp pain that contorted Bryan's face, leading to a scream.

An intense wave of force swept through. Bryan staggered backward before regaining stability, only to find his hand displaying signs of broken bones and tendons.

Despite his fear, Bryan, in a fit of rage, stammered out, "You cripple! How... How dare you hit me!"

However, in an instant, Liam swiftly closed in, repeatedly punching Bryan.

Bryan, now wary, attempted to dodge. However, even as he deflected Liam's punches, the force behind them wreaked havoc on his internal organs, threatening to tear them apart.

Filled with fear, Bryan hastily retreated, holding a dagger against Emmeline's throat, and threatened, "You cripple! Try anything, and I'll end this woman's life!"

Halting his assault, Liam nonchalantly presented his identity card, delivering a cold ultimatum. "If you have the courage, do it. I'm now under the president's tutelage. If Emmeline is harmed, your entire family will pay."

Upon seeing the gleaming golden dragon emblem on the card, Bryan trembled, and the dagger slipped from his grasp.

Trembling in fear, Bryan murmured, "How is this possible?"

Indifferently stowing away his identity card, Liam advanced towards Bryan, his eyes radiating an intense intent to kill.

Terrified, Bryan knelt and pleaded, "Please, spare me. I was wrong. I won't do it again..."

Before he could finish, Liam swiftly moved, decisively snapping Bryan's neck without hesitation.

As Bryan's body fell, Liam looked at it with an icy detachment.

Having undergone numerous trials, Liam had grown more resolute and ruthless towards his adversaries, eager to eliminate them.

After killing Bryan, Liam woke up Emmeline and Claudine.

Liam revealed the danger they had narrowly escaped and Bryan's demise.

Showing no sympathy, they rejoiced in Liam's successful admission to the Salvation Society.

True to his word, Liam relocated to the central area with Emmeline and Claudine, using his identity card's points to secure a good rental house for them.

Initially intending to purchase a home outright, Liam discovered that houses in the central area were only available for rent, limited to a hundred years at most—an aspect unique to the operational structure of Genesis Island, aiming to maintain class stability.

Following that, Liam shared a hearty meal with Emmeline and Claudine. Amidst their dining, he said, "I'll be joining the Salvation Society tomorrow. It might be a while before I return. Claudine, Emmeline, take good care of yourselves."

A somber mood enveloped them all of a sudden. Despite their relatively brief time together, they had formed a strong bond of friendship. The prospect of parting ways naturally weighed heavily on their hearts, and none of them wished to bid farewell.

Claudine raised her glass and made a toast. "Liam, thank you for your help. Take care of yourself!"

After she finished speaking, the three glasses clinked.

Late that night, after Liam returned to his room, Emmeline and Claudine remained by the fireplace.

After some hesitation, Claudine asked, "Emmeline, do you have feelings for Liam?"

Blushing, Emmeline nodded in affirmation.

Claudine advised, "If you like him, you must seize the opportunity. We don't know when we'll see him again!"

Encouraged by her mother's words, Emmeline gathered her courage.

She entered Liam's room, finding him packing his belongings.

With determination, Emmeline asked, "Liam, can I accompany you and take care of you in the future?"

Upon hearing Emmeline's words, Liam was taken aback. While her confession was somewhat ambiguous, he comprehended her underlying message clearly.

Nevertheless, Liam's affections were reserved solely for Julie. Throughout their time together, he had always regarded Emmeline as nothing more than a sister figure.

After a prolonged silence, Liam replied, "Emmeline, you know I've always seen you as a sister."

Tears welled up in Emmeline's eyes when she heard this revelation.

"I understand," she replied, a mixture of disappointment and embarrassment evident as she quickly left the room.

Watching her departure, Liam sighed. He didn't want to cause her pain, but he couldn't reciprocate her feelings. He hoped time would heal her sadness.

The next day, to avoid unnecessary discomfort, Liam departed quietly in the early hours.

When he met the president at the Salvation Society, he found the latter's demeanor was notably more serious.

In a flat tone, the president asked, "Did you kill Bryan?"

Frowning slightly, Liam paused before nodding in affirmation.
