

The Wolf's Bride by Coffee's Tea Novel

Chap 1001

Chapter 1001

In the Central Warzone headquarters...

“Wolf King!”

“Wolf King!”

When Gerard and the other wounded soldiers saw Andrius' impressive victory over the Hardys, they were moved to tears and struggled to stand up, showing their gratitude and respect toward Andrius.

Seeing this, Andrius immediately stopped them and said, “You’re injured. There’s no need for all this. All of you, sit down. I’ll perform acupuncture for you.”

The Wolf King’s medical skills were unparalleled. It was a fact known to every one. The injured soldiers were even more touched and all sat down obediently

After half an hour, Andrius finished treating all the soldiers and prescribed different medications based on each person’s condition.

“Keep these prescriptions. If you follow the formulas and dosages, you’ll be much better in less than half a month.”

Although severed limbs could not be regrown, this approach would significantly alleviate the pain and suffering of the soldiers.

“Thank you, Wolf King!”

“Thank you, Wolf King!”

The soldiers choked with emotions as they expressed their gratitude. For the first time, they understood why the Lycantroops saw Andrius as a god and were willing to risk their lives for him.

Who would not love a leader like this?

Just as Andrius was about to leave, Gerard called out, "Wolf King, I'd like to take you to see the captain and inform him about today's event so they can rest in peace."

"Sure," Andrius agreed.

Then, Gerard took Andrius, Terry, and the others to a small hill in the wilderness. There were several new graves here where the captain and the others were buried.

Andrius frowned. How could the mighty soldiers of Florence be buried in a desolate wilderness?

Terry explained with a bitter smile, "Wolf King, back then, the Hardys relied on their power and openly threatened that if anyone dared to bury them in a hero's grave or a public cemetery, they would suffer retaliation from the Hardys. Thus, I had no choice but to bury them in the wilderness."

Andrius fell silent.

"Captain, we've come to see you."

With Noir's assistance, Gerard started to pay his respects. He choked up and said, "With the help of the Wolf King, all the Hardys have been captured and will be tried fairly. You can now rest in peace."

Andrius also paid his respects. "Soldiers, you're the pillars of Florence. The Hardy family committed heinous crimes and took many innocent lives, but I will seek justice for you. I'll take care of your families as well, so rest assured."

Andrius bowed his head.

Chapter 1001

2/2

Then, he turned around and ordered, "Terry, have all the Hardys tried according to the laws of Florence. Do what must be done without any discounts. I'll deal with the ancient martial family."

“Yes, sir!” Terry immediately responded, “When I go back, I’ll immediately initiate the trial process and ensure justice for the soldiers.

“I’ll personally visit their families one by one and provide them with the most reasonable and appropriate care after dealing with the Hardys.”

Andrius nodded.

The group then made their way back

In the imperial palace in Kiyoto, Registus heard the report from an informant and suddenly stood up, saying gravely, “You’re saying that Andrius took down the Hardy family in the Jade Estate and even crippled Osian Swallow from the Swallows?”

The Hardys!

They were the henchmen of the Swallows. Furthermore, Osian was a core member of the Swallow family.

This was seriously offending the Swallow family!

The informant replied, “Yes, Your Majesty.”

“I understand. You may go.”

After the informant left, Registus walked toward the forbidden area deep within the palace while muttering with a wry smile, “Oh, Andrius, you’re so...”

Chapter 1002

Chapter 1002

After several twists and turns, Registus arrived at a secret chamber.

“Master, I have something to report.”

“Come in.”

Registus pushed open the door and entered.

Inside the chamber was an elderly man. He looked kind and benevolent as he meditated. It was none other than Old Hagstorm, who everyone believed to have fallen off a cliff.

“Speak up. What’s the matter?”

Old Hagstorm slowly opened his eyes and looked at Registus in front of him.

Registus immediately said, “Just a moment ago, Andrius took the Central Warzone forces and destroyed the henchmen of the Swallows, the Hardy family of the Jade Estate.”

“Hm,” Old Hagstorm responded indifferently, not reacting much.

On the other hand, Registus was anxious.

“Master, this is no small matter.” He said urgently, “These years, the ancient martial families appear to be detached from worldly affairs, not participating in controlling Florence. However, each ancient martial family has been supporting some families, turning them into their pawns, scattered throughout Florence

“Some gather information, and some provide resources. All this creates significant value and benefits for the ancient martial families. In return, the ancient martial families provide protection to these families. It’s a mutually beneficial arrangement, and they work closely together.

“Until now, Florence has turned a blind eye to these families as long as they did not go too far. Everyone minded their own business.

“Now, Andrus’ loud and public destruction of the Hardy family has disrupted this status quo. It’s like a butterfly effect. It’s bound to arouse the displeasure of the ancient martial families.

“If the families unite to take action, it’ll surely cause turmoil.”

Registus’ worries were not unreasonable. Furthermore, it was indeed a very possible outcome.

Old Hagstorm glanced at Registus and asked casually, "Turmoil?"

"Is a great battle between the Medicine Sect and the Swallow family not turmoil? Is the Ancient Martial Assembly not turmoil?"

Old Hagstorm's rhetorical questions left Registus speechless.

"It's just removing a pawn." Old Hagstorm snorted, "The martial world won't experience significant or more over this. The masters looking down from above don't care about the life and death of ants. They only care about their own interests.

"Besides, the ancient martial world is currently in a state of chaos. To thoroughly reorganize and establish a new order, we must up and muddy the waters of the martial world! Andrius' actions are merely a catalyst, creating opportunities."

Registus smiled wryly. "Master, that's not what I'm worried about. I'm not afraid of the ancient martial families.

"What I'm worried about is that Andrius acted too conspicuously, which might upset the ancient martial families and cause them to unite and attack him. Take what happened to the Kleins for example."

Chapter 1002

2/2

Old Hagstorm pondered for a moment, then waved his hand, saying, "It's fine. Let Andrius stir up trouble.

"The bigger the mess, the better. Hopefully, he'll thoroughly stir up the waters, and we can get the most substantial benefit during the Ancient Martial Assembly."

The Ancient Martial Assembly...

Registus paused for a moment, deep in thought.

Then, he asked, “Master, what exactly is the Klein family’s treasure? Why don’t you just tell Andrius directly instead of making things so complicated?”

The Klein family’s treasure!

That was the core of the entire situation in the ancient martial world.

Old Hagstorm suddenly laughed. He looked up at the luminescent pearls on the ceiling, and his eyes twinkled with an inexplicable gleam.

“Twenty years ago, during the time the Klein family was exterminated, they already found the treasure. All the secrets and treasures combined to form two words.”

Registus’ expression tensed, and he asked eagerly, “What two words?”

Chapter 1003

1/2

Chapter 1003

Old Hagstorm looked at Registus and said, “Cultivating immortality!”

“Cultivating immortality?”

Registus could not help but be shocked at the words.

Immortality...

It was a mere legend. Flying, possessing overwhelming power, and performing miraculous feats. They were virtually omnipotent.

Even ancient martial practitioners who could defy gravity, scale walls, or split mountains with their martial techniques had already transcended ordinary people.

Did immortals really exist in this world?

Did such a superpower truly exist?

“Yes, cultivating immortality.” Old Hagstorm said confidently, then elaborated, “People have five senses: sight, sound, smell, taste, and touch. By developing these senses to the peak, they can become ordinary martial artists.

“When martial artists reach a certain level, they develop a sixth sense—the so-called spiritual perception. After gaining the sixth sense, one becomes an ancient martial artist.

“However, that’s not the end of cultivation. The sixth sense is not the limit of what the human body is capable of.

“Beyond the sixth sense is a mysterious and profound extraordinary seventh sense.

“However, the seventh sense is not inherent. Only those who cultivate their sixth sense to the pinnacle and break through the limits of humanity are able to develop the seventh sense.

“This process... is difficult. It’s extremely difficult.

“Even now, in the entire ancient martial world, there’s no one known to have reached the level of a Martial Saint, let alone master the sixth sense to the point of developing the seventh sense.”

Old Hagstorm sighed, then added, “However, if one truly cultivates the sixth sense to its pinnacle, breaks through the limits, and attains the seventh strength, it’s like stepping on an entirely new path, opening the door to a new world.

“From then on, they are removed from the cycle of birth, aging, sickness, and death. They transcend the mundane, and their abilities would be extraordinary. They’ll finally embark on the path to cultivating immortality!

“The ultimate secret of the Klein family’s treasure is cultivating immortality!”

Registus’ eyes widened at the words.

Cultivating immortality...

If someone could truly achieve it, it would undoubtedly alter the whole of Florence and potentially change the world and the course of history.

Registus still had many questions. Thus, he asked, “Master, if the Kleins discovered this secret twenty years ago, why didn’t they simply take the treasure with them?”

“With a cultivation technique for immortality, as long as they cultivated it diligently, they’d have left and returned as kings. Wiping out the four families and taking over the ancient martial world would not have been an issue. Why were they still wiped out by the four families?”

Chapter 1003

2/2

Registus was confused.

Old Hagstorm shook his head and sighed. “Back then, when the Klein family finally obtained the treasure, they did not have much time left.

“As for your question, it’s simply impossible to take the treasure and hide away to cultivate. To achieve immortality, one must at least have the strength of a Martial Saint. Otherwise, they can’t even cross the most basic threshold.”

Registus nodded slightly. That was indeed a problem.

“However, the Kleins did not do nothing.” Old Hagstorm continued, “They set a massive trap and did two very important things after obtaining the treasure.”

“What are they?” Registus looked at Old Hagstorm and instinctively asked.

“First, the Kleins divided the jade pendant to open the Immortal’s Lair into seven pieces. Only when all seven pieces of the jade pendant are gathered can the Immortal’s Lair be unlocked.

Seven jade pieces?

Registus frowned and asked in confusion, “Master, my reliable sources informed me that there were only six jade pendants at the Klein family’s treasure location. The Anders, the Fullers, the Sheppards, and the Swallows, as well as the Medicine Sect and Andrius, each had one.

“The Ander family’s pendant was stolen, and Andrius’ pendant was taken.

“Currently, the Medicine Sect, the Sheppards, and the Fullers have one each, the Swallows have two, and the other one is missing.”

Then, he stared intently at Old Hagstorm, hoping for an answer.

Old Hagstorm chuckled and said, “The seventh piece will appear when the time is right.”

Chapter 1004

Chapter 1004

When the time was right?

Registus did not understand what he was hinting at and put those doubts aside. He continued to ask, “Master, what is the second thing that the Kleins did?”

“The second thing...” Old Hagstorm paused and narrowed his eyes slightly. “The Kleins concealed a mysterious mural beneath the magma.”

Magma?

Registus suddenly remembered.

There were rumors that Andrius had been ambushed by Norvin, the head of the Swallows. Not only did Norvin steal the jade pendant, but he also kicked Andrius into the magma.

Now, it seemed like that was a way for Andrius to come into contact with the mural.

Registus asked with curiosity, “Master, what’s so extraordinary about this mural that made the Klein family go to such lengths?”

He had a feeling that the secret hidden within the mural might be even more important than the seven jade pendants.

“This mural...” Old Hagstorm said solemnly, “It hides a cultivation technique for immortality. Whoever comprehends this technique will undoubtedly be able to become immortal.”

A cultivation technique for immortality!

Registus’ eyes widened. It was truly a treasure that anyone would covet.

“However...” Old Hagstorm continued, “That technique isn’t a complete set. It’s only a quarter of the entire method. However, even just a quarter of it promises boundless power.”

It was a quarter!

Registus’ eyes flickered as he asked, “Master, what would happen if someone assembled the whole technique?”

“The complete technique...” Old Hagstorm grinned and replied, “According to legend, the complete technique allows a person to transcend even the realm of immortality.”

Transcend immortality?

Damn.

Registus was utterly speechless.

Immortals were already considered the highest and most elusive beings. They were beyond reach and incomprehensible.

What kind of existence could transcend even immortals?

It was hard to imagine and could not be spoken of carelessly.

Just thinking about it made Registus subconsciously shake his head. It was as if entertaining the thought itself was blasphemy.

Old Hagstorm withdrew his thoughts and looked at Registus. “Now, do you understand why I keep beating around the bush and delaying Andrius’ progress?”

”

1/2

Chapter 1004

2/2

“Yes.” Registus nodded and said, “For one, this matter is too significant. Furthermore, even if Andrius has the strength of a Martial Emperor, he still hasn’t reached the threshold. Even if he understands everything, it’ll only add to his troubles.”

Old Hagstorm nodded in agreement.

“Master, what should we do next?” Registus asked again.

Old Hagstorm said, “I’m a dead man now. There’s nothing particularly urgent to do. You can just make arrangements for the grave two days from now.”

“Yes, Master.”

Meanwhile, in the Central Warzone headquarters, Andrius was just about to leave when he got a call. He took out his phone and saw that it was Kate.

“Andrius, how are things going on your end?”

Andrius came to Kiyoto this time to inform Registus about their Master’s situation and to see if he could gather any clues.

Now, the situation could only be considered just passable.

“It’s fine.” Andrius casually replied, then asked, “Did something happen?”

Kate replied, “Grandpa has already prepared all the materials for the dual cultivation. We can proceed at any time. The Ancient Martial Assembly is approaching, and time is running out. You should come back. as soon as possible!”

Chapter 1005

“Got it. I’ll come back now.”

After arranging the necessary matters, Andrius boarded a private jet and returned to Sumeria.

In the Royal Gardens, everyone was present when Andrius returned. Wade, Kate, and Luna were all there.

When Wade saw Andrius, he immediately stood up and said, “Andrius, everything is ready now. We’re just waiting for you. If you don’t have any other matters, let’s begin now!”

Andrius did not need any special preparations and replied, “In that case, I’ll leave it to you, Sect Master Klein.”

“Very well,” Wade replied, then went into the house with Kate to prepare the medicinal solution.

Only Luna and Andrius remained. They were considered newlyweds.

Although Luna appeared nonchalant and composed when she last talked to Andrius, she still felt uncomfortable about it deep down. No woman would not feel unsettled knowing their husband was going to practice dual cultivation with another woman.

Andrius looked at her gloomy expression and clenched fingers. It was clear she felt far from calm. Thus, he took the initiative to explain, “Luna, dual cultivation is...”

He wanted to tell her that it was not like she imagined.

However, Luna interrupted him before he could finish, “Hubby, you don’t have to explain anything to me at this point. I told you, no matter what decision you make, I’ll support and understand you.

“Just focus on your cultivation. Don’t let other things distract you and leave your cultivation incomplete.

“If there’s anything you want to say, you can tell me later.” Then, Luna got up to leave the Royal Gardens.

Only Andrius remained in the house. He could not help but smile wryly.

Then, he entered the room.

In the center of the room was a large bathtub filled with freshly brewed medicinal solution. It steamed with heat and exuded a rich medicinal fragrance that invigorated the spirit.

Not far from the bathtub was a folding screen.

At that moment, Halle was sitting behind the screen with her eyes closed.

After a day of treatment, her complexion had improved significantly. She still could not perform some basic activities.

When she heard Andrius' movements, she slowly opened her eyes. "Andrius, where's Luna?"

It was like touching a sore spot.

"She..." Andrius replied awkwardly, "She probably went back to the office to work."

With those words, the two fell silent. The atmosphere in the room became somewhat strange. It was a little tense and awkward, as well as a little ambiguous.

"All the medicinal solutions are ready. Get ready to start!" Just then, Wade's voice came from behind the folding screen.

Andrius and Halle both jumped and exchanged glances.

How were they supposed to start?

Just as they were confused, Kate walked into the room holding the medicinal solution.

Wade continued, "Andrius and Ms. Fullberry, take off all your clothes and leave nothing behind, then get into the bathtub. Try to let the medicinal solution cover your body as much as possible. Then, press your palms together

"Kate, you'll be responsible for performing the acupuncture on them."

Here it was.

The time had finally come.

Andrius suddenly felt his face grow hot, and he looked at Halle in embarrassment.

Halle's pale, sickly face revealed a hint of a blush as she glanced at Andrius.

Chapply 1905

1/2

Chapter 1005

"Got it. I'll come back now."

After arranging the necessary matters, Andrius boarded a private jet and returned to Sumeria.

In the Royal Gardens, everyone was present when Andrius returned. Wade, Kate, and Luna were all there.

When Wade saw Andrius, he immediately stood up and said, "Andrius, everything is ready now. We're just waiting for you. If you don't have any other matters, let's begin now!"

Andrius did not need any special preparations and replied, "In that case, I'll leave it to you, Sect Master

Klein."

"Very well," Wade replied, then went into the house with Kate to prepare the medicinal solution.

Only Luna and Andrius remained. They were considered newlyweds.

Although Luna appeared nonchalant and composed when she last talked to Andrius, she still felt uncomfortable about it deep down. No woman would not feel unsettled knowing their husband was going to practice dual cultivation with another woman.

Andrius looked at her gloomy expression and clenched fingers. It was clear she felt far from calm. Thus, he took the initiative to explain, "Luna, dual cultivation is..."

He wanted to tell her that it was not like she imagined.

However, Luna interrupted him before he could finish, “Hubby, you don’t have to explain anything to me at this point. I told you, no matter what decision you make, I’ll support and understand you.

“Just focus on your cultivation. Don’t let other things distract you and leave your cultivation incomplete.

“If there’s anything you want to say, you can tell me later.” Then, Luna got up to leave the Royal Gardens.

Only Andrius remained in the house. He could not help but smile wryly.

Then, he entered the room.

In the center of the room was a large bathtub filled with freshly brewed medicinal solution. It steamed with heat and exuded a rich medicinal fragrance that invigorated the spirit.

Not far from the bathtub was a folding screen.

At that moment, Halle was sitting behind the screen with her eyes closed.

After a day of treatment, her complexion had improved significantly. She still could not perform some basic activities.

When she heard Andrius’ movements, she slowly opened her eyes. “Andrius, where’s Luna?”

It was like touching a sore spot.

“She...” Andrius replied awkwardly, “She probably went back to the office to work.”

With those words, the two fell silent. The atmosphere in the room became somewhat strange. It was a little tense and awkward, as well as a little ambiguous.

“All the medicinal solutions are ready. Get ready to start!” Just then, Wade’s voice came from behind the folding screen.

Andrius and Halle both jumped and exchanged glances.

Charger 1205

How were they supposed to start?

Just as they were confused, Kate walked into the room holding the medicinal solution.

2/2

Wade continued, “Andrius and Ms. Fullberry, take off all your clothes and leave nothing behind, then get into the bathtub. Try to let the medicinal solution cover your body as much as possible. Then, press your palms together.

“Kate, you’ll be responsible for performing the acupuncture on them.”

Here it was.

The time had finally come..

Andrius suddenly felt his face grow hot, and he looked at Halle in embarrassment.

Halle’s pale, sickly face revealed a hint of a blush as she glanced at Andrius.