

Chapter 878 Crafty Negotiation Tactics

Upon hearing how Niko and Doyle addressed her, Yesenia stood frozen in disbelief.

It wasn't until Niko and Doyle repeatedly called out to Yesenia that she snapped out of her daze, graciously ushering them into the house.

Following behind Yesenia, Niko and Doyle entered the living room, exchanging greetings with Newell and Baxter.

At the sight of these unexpected guests, Liam subtly curved his lips and murmured under his breath, "It appears Tristan truly has a keen sense. He knows better than to let Niko and Doyle sign the contract."

With a gracious smile directed at Asher nestled in his arms, Liam gently suggested, "Asher, why don't you head back to your room and play for a while? I'll join you shortly."

Asher nodded obediently, allowing Liam to carry him back to his room.

After that, Liam returned to the living room.

Finally snapping out of her daze, Yesenia's demeanor turned contemptuous. "Niko, Doyle, what brings you both here? Have you not humiliated our family enough at work that you now came to insult us in our own home?"

Niko, feeling embarrassed, offered a smile as he spoke. "Yesenia, there's been a misunderstanding."

While talking, Niko silently signaled to Doyle, who promptly presented the gift they had purchased, saying, "This is a gift from my father. The bracelets and ornaments are made of gold and are worth hundreds of thousands of dollars in the market. My father and I are here to extend our sincerest apologies!"

Upon hearing this, astonishment not only swept across Yesenia's face but also caused Newell to widen his eyes in surprise.

Newell knew Niko had never regarded him as the elder brother, let alone anticipated such a positive demeanor from him. The fact that Niko came to apologize with gifts worth hundreds of thousands was shocking.

Yesenia remained incredulous. "Niko, what game are you playing?"

Hearing this, Niko cleared his throat and said, "Yesenia, there's something I'd like to talk about with you. Didn't Derek specifically request that we discuss the contract with the Red Murray Group? After contemplating for some time, I remain convinced that this contract rightfully belongs to you. Consequently, I believe it wouldn't be suitable for us to engage in

He continued, "Hence, it would be more fitting for you to handle discussions regarding the contract with the Red Murray Group. Ideally, having Julie present for these discussions would enhance the situation further. Rest assured, Yesenia. Once everything is sorted, I'll request Derek to reward you rightfully!"

In response to Niko's words, Liam couldn't help but sneer.

He murmured, "Niko, Doyle, you are both quite cunning. You excel at legitimizing your less-than-honorable actions. You're even considering having Julie sign the contract for only hundreds of thousands of dollars? Unbelievable."

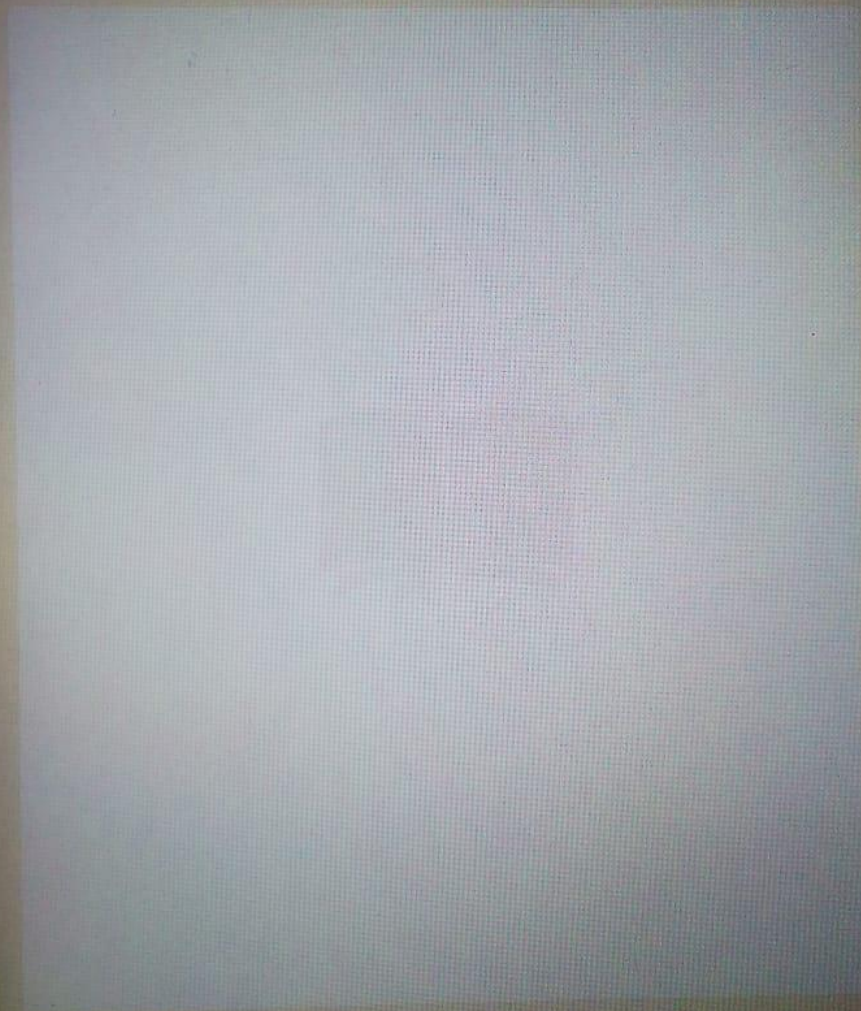

Yesenia wasn't one to be fooled. As soon as Niko finished speaking, she quickly grasped the situation and muttered to herself, "It seems the Red Murray Group doesn't acknowledge them. That's likely why Niko couldn't finalize the contract. Otherwise, why would they come to offer an apology? Surprisingly, Liam was correct."

Yesenia gazed at Liam in astonishment. It was the first time she felt Liam was unfathomable.

Observing the stunned silence, Niko anticipated Yesenia's response. However, it was Liam who broke the silence, saying, "Before proceeding with Julie signing the contract, there are a few conditions we'd
