

Chapter 918 What Credit Have You Made

Julie's brow creased slightly, a sign of her growing suspicion.

She felt uneasy under Baxter and Lenny's probing stares.

Deep down, she doubted Lenny's claim of helping her.

The idea of him having contacts at Joy International Media seemed far-fetched, probably just another of his tall tales.

Skeptically, Julie asked Lenny, "So, who exactly did you talk to at Joy International Media this time?"

Lenny, eager to convince Julie, replied, "Oh, it's the same guy my dad knew. He's been the one helping us all along!"

Julie couldn't help but hide a sarcastic smile.

A high-ranking official was helping them? That was ridiculous!

Lenny's blatant lie was clear as day.

Patty, noticing Julie's disbelief, chimed in, "Come on, Julie. My brother's been there for you time and again. Don't you trust him? Who else could have your back like he does? Your useless husband, Liam, can't do much, can he?"

Patty's words, belittling Liam, only soured Julie's

She had already known that it was Liam, not Lenny, who had been her true supporter.

Patty, pretending to be a friend, had been covering for Lenny's deceit all this time and disrespecting her husband as well.

Julie felt a surge of anger. Just as she was about to intervene, a commanding voice echoed through the office.

"Who else but me helped out here? Think about it. Could your incompetent brother even get a meeting with the big shots at Joy International Media? He's been taking credit for my hard work! Lenny, Edward exposed you once. How many more times are you going to try to fool us with these weak excuses?"

Everyone's attention shifted to the source of the voice.

It was Liam.

Lenny, caught off guard, scrambled to defend himself. "What are you talking about? I put in the effort, not you. Liam, you're always accusing me of stealing your thunder, but what have you actually done?"

Liam gave a dismissive smirk and shot back, "Oh, so you're playing the confusion game now, right? Alright then! If you're so confident about your achievements, why don't you call that top executive from Joy International Media you claim to know?"

Lenny's face showed a sudden shift in emotion. He panicked and didn't know what to do.

He had fabricated everything. How could he call a top executive now?

Filled with bitterness, Lenny muttered to himself, "Liam!
This is all because of you! You've ruined everything!"

Liam's words had left Lenny without a response, and only Patty continued to resist.

With anger in her eyes, she turned to Julie and said,
"Julie, you've really let me down! My brother has always been there for you, with nothing but good intentions! I can't believe you would doubt him like this!"
