

Chapter 969 Leave Salem

Yesenia was taken aback by Liam's words.

His words were undoubtedly significant and good news for her, but she couldn't believe that Liam was entrusting her with such a crucial role and power.

Nonetheless, she dared not defy Liam and hastily agreed to his decision.

She responded, "I will go and fetch Asher immediately."

A few hours later, Yesenia returned with Asher in tow. Additionally, Bowen, Tristan, Watkins, and other trusted individuals in Liam's circle had all received Liam's notification and had come to Sky Orchid Garden.

The most influential figures in Salem were now gathered in one place.

Upon seeing that everyone was present, Liam made a proclamation, "Ladies and gentlemen, I have summoned you here today to inform you that I will be departing from Salem. Furthermore, my wife, Julie, will also be absent for a period. I have convened this meeting to hand over the governance of Salem to all of you. My mother-in-law will also be involved. I want to stress that all decisions, whether major or minor, should be discussed collectively."

As Liam finished speaking, a hushed murmur of surprise and discussions erupted among the assembled individuals.

Liam gestured for silence and turned his attention to Yesenia, introducing her to the assembled individuals.

Yesenia found herself at the center of attention, with these prominent figures nodding their approval. This acknowledgment overwhelmed her, considering these people were high-ranking individuals in Salem. And as Liam had indicated, they would be her subordinates in the future.

Yesenia couldn't help but appear a bit haughty at the prospect of being the most honored person in Salem in the future.

In contrast to Yesenia's elation, Bowen and the others couldn't help but notice something amiss.

They could discern that Liam's recent actions in Salem were aimed at creating opportunities for Julie to eventually take control of the city.

However, with Liam and Julie now planning to leave, suspicions were raised.

They understood that Liam had his own intentions, but they didn't dare to question him. They simply followed his orders.

Bowen, having anticipated Liam's eventual departure, was mentally prepared and demonstrated exceptional composure in this situation.

Bowen hastened to reassure Liam, saying, "General Hoffman, there may not be much we can do, but you can trust us to do our utmost to assist your mother-in-law in managing Salem!"

Liam acknowledged Bowen's words with a nod, his expression resolute.

He then proceeded to divide the responsibilities for managing Salem into various areas, entrusting them to Bowen and the others.

After finalizing the arrangements, he dismissed them.

Once the others had left, Liam turned his attention to Yesenia. After contemplating for a moment, he decided to issue a warning.

"During my absence, do not let your guard down. My departure is temporary, and it doesn't mean I won't return. Use this time to take good care of Asher and efficiently oversee Julie's company. If I come back and find anything amiss, I won't offer a second chance."

Yesenia nodded in agreement, acknowledging Liam's instructions.

Liam then bent down and forced a smile as he spoke to Asher. "Asher, your mom and I will be traveling for a while. During this time, you'll stay with your grandma, okay? Remember not to wander off and to focus on your studies. Do you understand?"

Despite Liam's hidden emotions, Asher blinked his innocent, wide eyes and responded with a bright smile, "Dad, don't worry. Asher will always be good! I won't give you and Mom any reason to worry!"

Touched by his son's words, Liam hugged Asher and planted a loving kiss on his cheek.

Then, with determination in his eyes, Liam turned to the ice coffin containing Julie. He secured it firmly to his back with a strip of cloth.

Liam had resolved that wherever he went, he would carry the ice coffin with him. It would serve as a constant reminder of the urgent need to save Julie Liam's resolve was unwavering. He knew he had many adversaries in Pleeeyson, and this presented an opportunity for him to seek revenge.

Gazing at the distant sky, Liam muttered to himself, "It's time to go."
