

Chapter 1758 A Meal

The persistent stance of Amelia eventually irked the police.

Wearing these super serious faces, they pried Amelia away from Draco. "Look, we checked the surveillance footage at W Marks, and the staff didn't mess with your gem, okay?"

"I don't give a damn!" Amelia continued making a fuss.

Knowing she was up for causing a scene, the police decided not to get all tough about it.

"Okay, in light of all this, just come with us to the police station. We'll show you the footage there," the police said firmly. They handed the gem to Draco and grabbed Amelia's arms, ready to escort her to the station.

"Why are you arresting me? It's the W Marks staff who wrecked the gem. You should be hauling them in!" Amelia protested and squirmed, but eventually, they led her away.

The disturbance at W Marks concluded with Mandy revealing the authentic Ocean Heart and the purchase receipt.

With the crisis avoided, Draco and all the W Marks employees heaved a sigh of relief.

Elizabeth, who hadn't been fond of Mandy previously, even displayed a rare smile.

"Mandy, you're a lifesaver! Thanks a bunch," Elizabeth said, grinning with gratitude.

Wiping away tears, Tasha added, "Yeah, thanks a million, Miss Hamilton."

Not used to all the niceness, Mandy just waved it off. "It was just a small thing. But seriously, next time, be a bit more careful. Luck might not be on your side."

Elizabeth and Tasha nodded in agreement before going back to their work.

Draco, who had been quiet till then, stepped up to Mandy and handed her the Ocean Heart.

"Thanks a ton for today, Mandy. How about I treat you to a meal sometime as a thank-you?" Draco said, genuinely expressing his gratitude.

Mandy, holding the Ocean Heart, felt delighted. What could be better than having her crush invite her to dinner?

"Absolutely. I'd love that!" Mandy nodded with enthusiasm. But then, her smile turned into a bit of a freeze-frame as she eyed the Ocean Heart in her hand, suddenly remembering Locke, the actual owner of the Ocean Heart.

She furrowed her brows and hesitated, saying, "Well, hold on a sec. This Ocean Heart actually belongs to Locke. If you're feeling thankful, he's your guy. I just called out that lady's lies."

"Oh, for sure!" Draco's eyes lit up a bit, and he flashed a smile. "I'll make sure to catch up with Locke and give him a proper thanks. But for today's craziness, I really gotta say thanks to you."

Blushing, Mandy gradually lowered her head.

The incident where W Marks replaced a customer's valuable gem remained a trending topic on the Internet.

Draco led Mandy to the operations room, where he observed two employees diligently working on public relations. A subtle frown crept onto his handsome face.

The matter from today hadn't been completely resolved, and W Marks still needed to provide the online community with a reasonable explanation.

Contemplating this, Draco couldn't help but feel a headache coming on.

After a bit of thinking, he said to Mandy, "About the whole gem drama, people are going wild online. Do you mind if W Marks puts up today's surveillance video? It could help everyone get the full picture, you know?"

Mandy understood that Draco was alluding to the video of her holding the Ocean Heart in the surveillance footage, revealing Amelia's lies.

Releasing the video could be beneficial for W Marks

Chapter 1758 A Meal

 +120 Points at most

and Draco. Without hesitation, Mandy concurred.

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.

 I want no ads >