Chapter 1395

Chapter 1395

After completing all the procedures, Kate and Andrius walked straight toward the slums.

As for Jasper's plot...

He did not know about it at all. Even if he did, he would not care. He had gone to Mount Valdez and ventured into Obaro.

Why would he be concerned about a puny young master from Jurith?

In the slums, after Kate and Andrius left, Scott and Liliana finished eating and were waiting at the door.

Although Liliana wanted to find out the truth about their parents, she did not want to involve Kate and Andrius, who were innocent.

Worry was written all over her delicate face. "Scott, do you think we should inform Andrius? That way, he can be prepared for anything that happens."

"Sure." Scott thought about it and nodded in agreement. "We'll tell them when they come back."

As the siblings discussed, two figures walked into the courtyard. They were none other than Andrius and Kate.

"Andrius!"

The siblings immediately came out to greet them.

"Scott, Liliana..."

Andrius looked at the two and smiled, then took out the contract for Horizon Moon that he had just won and handed it over. "This is the first gift I'm giving you."

Gift?

The first?

The siblings exchanged glances, somewhat surprised.

"Thank you, Andrius!" Scott expressed his gratitude and took the folder.

Andrius smiled. "Open it and see. I think you'll like it."

"Of course!"

Scott carefully opened the bag. Liliana also approached.

As soon as they saw it, they were stunned.

Scott's hand froze, and he subconsciously raised his head to look at Andrius. "Andrius, i—is this real? You got Horizon Moon back?"

Liliana was frozen in her spot, completely forgetting herself. All that remained was her alluring little mouth opening wide along with a face full of shock.

Horizon Moon...

It was the lifelong effort of their parents, the iconic building of Jones Enterprise, and the witness to their family's once beautiful life!

The siblings wanted to reclaim this building more than anyone else. Alas, they both knew better than anyone else that it was an impossible task.

However, now...

Andrius only took an afternoon to deliver the contract into their hands.

"Of course, it's real," Andrius said casually. "This is just the first gift. Scott, Liliana, don't worry. I'll help you restore the former glory and brilliance of Jones Enterprise step by step!"

With Andrius' current power and status, dealing with such a trivial matter was really not difficult. It could even be accomplished with just a word to Noir.

However, he came here to fulfill his promise, so he naturally had to personally take care of things.

"T—this is..."

Scott was shocked by Andrius' generous gesture and swallowed a mouthful of saliva. Then, he thought of the power behind the Conways.

He could not help but worry. "Andrius, the Conways are deeply rooted in Jurith. They've been arrogant and domineering for many years and never suffered any losses.

"Taking the building back from them is like snatching food from the tiger's mouth. I'm afraid that they won't let it go so easily..."

The light in Liliana's eyes also dimmed. The longer she investigated, the more she realized the vast power of the Conway family, and the more she became worried for Andrius.

However, Andrius simply laughed.

What could a measly family like the Conways do?

"Don't worry, you two." Kate also chuckled casually. "With Andrius' status and means, even if a hundred or a thousand Conway families joined forces, they still wouldn't be able to stir up any waves."
