

Chapter 1031 Refusal

Tyler was already really sensitive, and now, Yolanda's humiliation had him boiling with anger.

His face twitched and darkened. He yelled, "Kick her ass! Beat her till she drops!"

Hearing that, the guards leaped into action, pinning Yolanda down and beating her mercilessly.

Yolanda's cries echoed through the corridor, filling it with her agony.

Before long, Yolanda lay battered on the ground, bruised and broken.

Only when Yolanda lay still did Tyler tell the guards, "Get her to the hospital. Make sure she doesn't die, got it?"

The guards nodded and hauled Yolanda away, taking Asher back at the same time.

As they moved to take Yolanda, Tyler spat, "Damn you! What if you've killed her? Who will I have left to screw?"

The guards exchanged resigned glances, at a loss for words.

They grumbled under their breath, "What the hell! Weren't you the one telling us to beat her to death?"

But then, Tyler's smirk gave them pause. He singled out one guard, the seemingly obedient one.

"I saw you. You really used your strength on her! My girl's messed up because of you. Your missus owes me a few days at my place!" he said.

The guard Tyler pointed to had a sour expression.

Before he could say something, Tyler snorted and warned, "If you even think about refusing, I'll end you. Do you hear me?"

Feeling the weight of Tyler's threat, the guard sighed and gave in.

The other guards nearby didn't take any pleasure in this showdown. This wasn't Tyler's first time to do this.

Meanwhile, in Pleeyson.

Every light blazed in the Hoffman family home tonight.

Liam gazed at the people gathered in the main hall.

They were all members of the Salvation Society.

These people might not be by Liam's side every day, but they sure kept tabs on his troubles.

And now, they offered, "We've heard what happened. Let us help get Asher back! Let's go to Invone together!"

Liam felt a rush of gratitude at their offer.

But he couldn't let them dive into danger like that.

Invone was a perilous place, and he wouldn't risk their lives.

So, with regret, Liam turned down their offer to accompany him to Invone, saying, "No! I won't let you all step into that mess. Invone's crawling with top dogs. If you tag along, you're putting yourselves in harm's way! Head back to Genesis Island. I'll handle this on my own."

Hearing Liam's refusal, everyone was displeased.

But no matter how they tried to sway Liam, Liam stood firm. "That's final! Nobody's tagging along to Invone. I won't budge."

Seeing Liam's stubbornness, the group had no option but to leave.

As they cleared out of the Hoffman family's main hall, Liam's expression turned grave.

Truth be told, he felt the weight of the world on his shoulders.

Invone was a den of heavy hitters. Could he really take on Adamson with his current strength and that red armor?

Liam's face clouded over, a bitter smile playing on his lips.

He knew it would be hard.

After all, Asher was still in the enemy's grip. They would surely use his son as leverage.

In a quiet corner of the main hall, Shayla caught sight of Liam's sorrowful expression.

She bit her lip, determination in her eyes.
