

Married At First Sight

Married At First Sight Chapter 3110-Kathryn returned to her office and walked to the window to look down.

When she saw her adoptive mother and two adoptive brothers leaving, she turned around and returned to her desk to sit down.

First, she sent a message to Mr. Fraser, telling him not to take any action after his mother left home.

Liberty's reminder made her realize that she had nearly fallen into the deep hole her mother had dug. Usually, when her mother goes on a long trip, she never tells her where she is going or what she is going to do.

When Matriarch Farrell went to Wiltspoon last time, she told Kathryn to take care of the company. They all recognized and observed the invitation from the York family.

Mother was going to Wiltspoon to attend Mr. York's wedding. It was open and transparent. Mother didn't have to hide it, so she would explain some things to her.

This time, her mother told her that she was traveling far away and revealed that when she went to see an old friend, she only thought of her mother's recognition and trust in her.

The mother also said that with so many things happening in the family and they were biological mother and daughter, the mother could only believe her.

Let her think that her mother really believes in her.

Ignoring her mother's suspicion and scheming nature, how could she trust her 100% so easily?

Mother and daughter also shared unspoken secrets.

After sending the message to Mr. Fraser, Kathryn put down her phone, picked up the coffee cup, stood up, and walked to the small tea room to make coffee for herself.

She didn't sleep well last night.

She invited Liberty to drink coffee just now. She drank a cup of coffee, but she felt it was not enough.

She had to drink another cup of coffee to have the energy to deal with business.

She had to go to a meeting later.

There was a dinner party at noon.

Her schedule was also tightly packed.

Only when her mother returned to work could she take a breather; otherwise, many things would be pressing on her.

Some veterans in the company were still dissatisfied with her and would stumble and dig holes for her from time to time. When she came back to the company every day, it was like she was in a war, and she had to be careful of overt and covert attacks at every step she took.

"Ring ring ring..."

The intercom rang.

Kathryn came out of the small tea room, walked to the desk, and pressed the speakerphone.

"Vice President Farrell, President Janzen wants to see you."

Mr. Janzen referred to Kathryn's eldest brother, Marco Janzen.

Kathryn's beautiful eyes twinkled.

Shiloh died, and the eldest sister-in-law proposed divorce again. The eldest brother was still in the mood to return to the company.

"Let him in."

Kathryn said something, then ended the call, turned around, and went back to the small tea room.

Soon, Marco opened the door and came in.

His face was still a little bruised.

Even though he was still wearing a suit and leather shoes, the stubble on his face made him appear haggard.

The dark circles under his eyes were also very serious, and it was obvious at a glance that he was seriously sleep-deprived.

Marco came in and didn't see Kathryn, so he shouted, "Kathryn, Kathryn, where are you?"

Kathryn said, "I'm in the tea room, making a cup of coffee. Brother, do you want some coffee?"

"Bring me a drink; I can let the secretary do this kind of thing." Marco walked to the door of the tea room, looked at it, walked away, and walked to the sofa to sit down.
