Married At First Sight Chapter 3429– “Dad, Mom.” Kathryn arrived and called her parents.

Holden felt like he had seen a savior when he saw Kathryn coming back, and he quickly said to Kathryn, “Kathryn, please try to persuade your mother. She refuses to eat anything. No matter how big the problem is, you need to be full to have the energy to solve it.”

Holden looked distressed.

“Yes, Kathryn, please help persuade Mom. Mom won’t eat or drink.”

Marco and his two brothers also echoed their father’s words.

However, Marco felt a little guilty when he saw Kathryn come back. He organized individuals to cause disturbances in Liberty.

He was worried that Kathryn would find out and report him to their mother.

Without waiting for Kathryn to sit down and talk, Clarissa stood up and said seriously, “Kathryn, come upstairs. You cannot go to the study to disturb Kathryn and me while we are talking without my permission.”

Having said that, Clarissa left Holden and sons, who were concerned about her, and went upstairs.

Kathryn followed Clarissa.

Holden looked at them, wanting to say something but hesitant.

Kathryn did not speak, and in the end, her father did not dare to speak either.

Clarissa brought Kathryn into the study. She motioned for her to close the study door, and then instructed, "Turn on the TV and turn up the volume a little bit so that we can hear each other talking."

Kathryn did as she was told. This way, even if her father and brothers wanted to eavesdrop, they would not be able to hear clearly what she was talking about with her mother.

After finishing all this, Kathryn went to pour a cup of warm water for Clarissa, placed it in front of her, and said softly, "Mom, drink a glass of water first. The butler said that you haven't eaten or drunk since you came back. What my dad said just now is right. No matter how big the problem is, you have to eat a full stomach to have the strength to solve it."

Clarissa looked up at Kathryn. Her eyes were unfathomable.

Kathryn met Clarissa's gaze calmly.

After a long while, Clarissa retracted her gaze and said calmly, "Please sit down."

Then she picked up the cup of warm water and took a few sips.

Kathryn sat down and asked directly, "Did you know that your aunt's assistant was found in Wiltspoon?"

Kathryn also answered honestly: "Mr. Fraser said there was some movement in Wiltspoon, and then I asked Liberty indirectly and guessed the general idea. Mom, is it really him? He's almost a hundred years old. Even if he's still alive, he wouldn't have the energy to travel far, right?"

Anyway, she hadn't met her aunt's old assistant, so she was skeptical.

After a moment of silence, Clarissa said, "I haven't seen him in person, so I can't be sure if it's him. The news I received was about him."

Several elderly people reportedly rescued the old assistant back then, and he is still alive today.

Clarissa did not say this. She never admitted in front of Kathryn that she was the one who killed her elder sister and younger sister.

“So what if it’s him? So what if it’s not him? Mom, you don’t need to care too much. As long as you behave properly, I don’t care what they say.”

Kathryn could only comfort her mother this way. Unless her aunt’s assistant has evidence proving that it was her mother who harmed her aunt,.

But even if the assistant doesn’t have evidence, he is a witness, and everyone will believe what he says. He can prove that her mother killed her aunt.

In this case, Kathryn couldn’t say it out loud. After all, she was the biological daughter of the old woman in front of her.

On the surface, they were standing in the same line.

Married At First Sight Chapter 3430-Clarissa looked at Kathryn in silence. This was her biological daughter, born after ten months of pregnancy.

She had four children in her life; the first three were sons. It’s not that she didn’t love her sons. They were all born after she carried them for ten months, so how could she not love them?

It was just that the rules of the Farrell family were there, which made her like and love her daughter more.

When she was pregnant with Kathryn, she knew she was carrying a girl, and her reaction during pregnancy was different from that of the three boys. Later, the family doctor took her pulse and stated that it was a girl.

She had been looking forward to having a daughter for a long time, but when she gave birth, she was already an advanced-age mother. She thought that after birthing her daughter, she would stop having children.

One daughter was sufficient to prevent the conflicts between her sisters.

If her parents had only given birth to a daughter, her eldest sister, so many things would not have happened later.

Clarissa was very clear about the beneficial things she had done, so she didn't want to have two daughters. However, she never imagined that the former butler would be so bold and ambitious as to actually find an opportunity to swap her newborn daughter without her knowledge.

Even if he found out later and got his biological daughter back, he had already missed the stage of her growth.

The mother and daughter had been together for two or three years. Although they shared affection, their relationship was not as deep as the one they had cultivated from childhood.

So Clarissa didn't dare to trust Kathryn 100%.

Similarly, Kathryn did not trust Clarissa 100%.

Kathryn even believed what others said—that the previous head of the family died at her hands. Even though it was true, Clarissa was very upset that Kathryn, as her biological daughter, believed what others said.

When Shiloh was still her daughter, she would not believe what others said. Shiloh was determined to become the head of the family. That was her attitude.

Kathryn was different. She was more likely to force someone to do something unnecessarily. If someone can reasonably replace her, Kathryn will give up the position of family head as soon as possible.

She did not have the ambition to dominate the Farrell family or Jensburg.

Kathryn touched her face and said, “Mom, you’re looking at me like this. Did I do something wrong? Or have I become ugly now? I’ve been too busy lately, always working overtime until late at night. For an extended period, I have been staying up late, and as a result, I no longer appear as attractive.”

Clarissa said. “No, my daughter is the most beautiful at all times. However, since you have been staying up late so much, you should also pay attention to your health, take care of yourself, use more skin care products, and take some beauty supplements. We women must learn to take care of ourselves and maintain our image. Even when we get old, we must not mistreat ourselves and must age gracefully.”

Kathryn smiled and said, “Mom, I will. I will take care of myself.”

The skin care products she used were all very good.

Clarissa asked, “That’s good. Take excellent care of yourself. As for your lifelong event, do you have someone you like?”

Kathryn: “Yes, I do, but I’m not in the mood to think about getting married right now. When I said I’d rather get rid of the father and keep the son, Mom, you glared at me again.”

Clarissa: “Kathryn, do you believe in mom?”

Kathryn looked straight at Clarissa and said, “Mom, we are mother and daughter. Although we may not agree, others see us as one because I’m your biological daughter.”

Just like how Liberty and the others saw her.

Liberty and the others knew exactly what kind of person she was.

so what?

Be on guard against her when she needs to.

Because no matter how exemplary she was, she couldn't escape the fact that she was Clarissa's biological daughter.
